COALITION GOVERNMENT IN BRITAIN INEVITABLE

Premier Baldwin's Conservative Government Was Definitely Defeated in Elections Thursday—Labor Party Achieved Its Greatest Victory in the History of Its Electoral Campaigns—Liberals Increased Their Representation in Commons—With Only 31 Districts Still to Be Heard From, Labor Has 287 Seats, Conservatives 246, Liberals 51.

LONDON, May 31—(AP)—As the sun set over the towers of parliament tonight the labor party completed the greatest and most powerful drive in the history of its electoral campaigns and stood barely short of an absolute majority in the British house of common, through the general election returns.

Premier Stanley Baldwin's government, based on a triumphant conservative majority of 185 in the dissolved parliament, stood definitely defeated, with the majorities of its strongest candidates cut by thousands of votes.

The liberals, under the leadership of David Lloyd George, increased their representation by victories chiefly over the conservatives and seemed to hold the balance of power as they did when labor took over its first government in 1923.

Either a coalition government, or a tacit coalition as in the liberal support of labor in 1923, appeared inevitable for Great Britain, with the difference that this time, for the first time in history, labor is the strongest party in the house.

Mr. Lloyd George, on whose decision will depend the liberal choice, refused to comment on the general situation. It was significant, however, that the combined conservative and liberal seats, not counting independents, totalled only a little more than the labor strength.

Although many conservatives and liberals spoke of a conservative-liberal reaction against labor during the campaign, it seemed more probable that the liberals would incline to the labor party, perhaps on the same terms as in 1923.

Several liberals on the "left-wing" of the party went over to labor during the years since the 1924 general election. Commander J. M. Kenworthy is a prominent example. Labor might draw enough support from this element in the liberal party to govern with stability.

Labor's gains far exceeded the pre-election betting on the stock exchange, and the conservative returns were far below. The liberals did not reach the 90-100 seats they had hoped for.

All three party chieftains were returned.

Ramsay MacDonald's victory in Seaham, Durham, was a landslide. The former labor premier crushed his conservative, liberal and communist opponents under an avalanche of 25,615 votes, a clean majority of more than 22,000. Durham miners gave him a tremendous demonstration.

The communists lost their only seat in the house and their bitter campaign against the labor party came to nothing at all.

Enough returns were known by 8 p. m., (2 p. m., E. S. T.) to show that labor could not reach an absolute majority of 308 seats, out of a total of 615 in the house, over the combined votes of conservatives, liberals and independents.

With only 31 districts unreported tonight, the labor party maintained its lead but without an absolute majority.

The vote was:

Labor 287. Conservative 246. Liberal 51.

The remaining results will not be known for a few days but will hardly affect the standing.

In any case, Premier Baldwin, whose party and policies have ruled England since the autumn of 1924, must take the resignation of his cabinet to his majesty at Windsor Castle.

ARGEEMBENT ON FARM RELIEF BILL EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, May 31—(AP)—Agreement upon the report to be made to the senate and house on farm relief legislation, including a recommendation for the elimination of the export debenture plan, is expected to be reached tomorrow by the farm relief conference committee.

The report would have to be approved by both branches of congress before the legislation could be sent to President Hoover and today chief interest was manifested on how the proposal to eliminate the debenture section would be received by the senate.

The most recent checks of the senate membership have been held to indicate little change in sentiment among those favoring the debenture plan. Administration leaders, however, were hopeful the opinion would prevail that speedy enactment of a farm law, considered to be possible only if debentures are eliminated, was the paramount duty of congress, and that debenture advocates would decide to tack their proposal onto the tariff bill instead of insisting on its embodiment in farm legislation.

Senator M. L. Norry of Oregon, chairman of the conference committee, has called a meeting for tomorrow. The conferees expect to continue their negotiations all day if necessary to complete a report before nightfall.

APPOINTED APOSTOLIC DELEGATE IN MEXICO

WASHINGTON, May 31—(AP)—Early negotiations for settlement of the differences between the Mexican government and the Roman Catholic church were presaged tonight by the announcement by Archbishop Ruiz, president of the Mexican bishops conference, that he had been appointed by the holy see to be apostolic delegate in Mexico.

President Portes Gil is understood to be ready to receive overtures from the church looking toward re-establishment of the Roman Catholic ecclesiastical organization in Mexico. He took a step in that direction recently with an address to the archbishop here of an invitation for negotiations.

How soon the Mexican archbishop will confer with President Gil has not been decided. He has applied for a passport but has made no plans for departure. It is considered likely, however, that he will go to Mexico City within two weeks.

PROVIDENCE WOMAN RELEASED FROM TOMBS

NEW YORK, May 31—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Timphony, 21 years old, of 187 Roosevelt street, Providence, R. I., was freed today in Tombs court of the charge of being a fugitive from justice in Providence. She had been arrested yesterday at the request of Providence police as she alighted from a Providence steamer at an East river pier in the company of another woman and two men.

Her mother, Mrs. Donato De Rosa, told the court through an interpreter that Mrs. Timphony had run away from her home in Providence. She said she would take her back with her. Mrs. Timphony told the court that she was married but that her husband was in Italy.

22,000 AUTOS CROSSED BRIDGE IN 14 HOURS

WESTPORT, Conn., May 31—(AP)—To the oft repeated question: "Who stays at home nowadays?" the answer here yesterday was "Not every one" after George Whitlock, bridge superintendent, had finished counting automobiles which crossed his bridge, the total being about 20,000 for a fourteen hour period. From 7 a. m. till 2 p. m. the average was about 1,000 an hour; then it rose to 2,000 and the peak was reached between 5 and 6 p. m.

The bridge over the Saugatuck river carries the traffic over the Boston post road.

SETBACK FOR TRUSTEES OF DES MOINES UNIVERSITY

DES MOINES, Ia., May 31—(AP)—Des Moines university trustees today lost the first step in a court battle to obtain control of the Baptist fundamentalist institution. Judge Frank S. Shankland overruled their motion to dismiss a temporary injunction under which the school has been operating since May 13.

He announced, however, that the writ would not be made permanent until after another hearing date for which has not been set. Students obtained the injunction May 13 after Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the board of trustees, ordered the school closed because of student riots.

Although they had won temporary victory today, the undergraduates were still uncertain as to whether the trustees would recognize their credits for work done while the school has been open in violation of the board's mandate. Seniors especially were wondering whether they will receive diplomas of graduation next Tuesday.

Judge Shankland refused a request of Dr. Shields' attorneys that he modify his decree to show that it is not intended to interfere with the trustees' legal rights. They asserted the board could delay granting of diplomas and credits until it completes investigation of the student riots.

"If this board of trustees" the judge said, "is competent to determine who shall be issued diplomas and who shall have credits, it ought to be competent to know what is meant by the terms of the temporary injunction granted.

"Let us wait until somebody tries to interfere with its terms then we will see what is meant in the wording of the writ."

BRITISH ANXIOUS OVER CONDITION OF KING GEORGE

WINDSOR, England, May 31—(AP)—British attention, divided between anxiety over the condition of King George and interest in the results of the general election, could be devoted to the latter to an increasing extent tonight by reason of improvement by his majesty.

His physicians, Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Stanley Hewett, returned to London after lunch at the castle and will not revisit their royal patient until tomorrow morning. The king had had a fair night and a restful day. He was visited by the Prince of Wales this afternoon.

The nation was somewhat reassured by an official bulletin today which said, "An abcess has formed under the site of an old scar on the right side of his chest and is now draining. His general condition remains good. Though the king will need to remain in bed, his majesty will be able to transact public business."

CANOE UPSET, BROTHER AND SISTER DROWNED

LAWRENCE, Mass., May 31—(AP)—Brother and sister, Mrs. Mary Sullivan, and William McDonald, 23, were drowned in a canoe accident in the Merrimack river here today. Harold McDonald, 15, another brother, clung to the overturned craft and was rescued.

The upset occurred when William, who was swimming, tried to climb into the canoe about 15 or 20 feet from shore. Mrs. Sullivan could not swim but William attempted to save her and both went down.

A FATAL EXPLOSION IN FIREWORKS PLANT

ELKTON, Md., May 31—(AP)—One man was killed and three probably fatally injured this afternoon by an explosion in the mixing room of a fireworks company near here.

A number of other workers including several women, apparently escaped uninjured.

Harrow Brown, truck driver, was the man killed while three others are in the hospital not expected to live.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

TOKYO, May 31—(AP)—Early reports today from the forest fires in the southern part of Saghalien Island added to the fears of a major disaster.

LONDON, May 31—(AP)—Trading on the stock exchange was exceedingly dull today from the combined effects of the king's illness and the labor gains in the general elections.

WINDSOR, England, May 31—(AP)—King George was stated in an official bulletin issued at Windsor castle this evening to have had a quiet day with some sleep, his majesty's condition remaining satisfactory.

TRIPOLI, May 31—(AP)—Italian authorities believe they have crushed the rebellion of tribesmen under Mohammed Beb Hag Hassen by a major engagement in which 454 were killed on both sides. The battle was fought in the Tripolitan desert on May 26 and was described in a bulletin issued tonight.

ORDERLY STRIKE OF MEXICAN RAILWAY MEN

MEXICO CITY, May 31. —(AP)—The 200 or more Mexican railway men who had remained in the supreme court building since last night without food left at 3:30 this afternoon. President Emilio Portes Gil had sent an emissary to them with whom they left the building presumably to confer with the president.

The strike was in protest against a judgment adverse to their interests. The court had upheld a declaration of an arbitration committee holding a railroad strike in 1926 illegal and depriving the railway men of their status as union employes.

The strike was orderly although the men took possession of rooms where business was going on. No effort was made to oust them from the building. The strikers, who are members of the federation of transport and communication workers, had said they would not taste food until the court reconsidered its decision.

The president told the men that he could not reverse the decision in as much as it came from the highest tribunal of the nation but promised them that if they broke their hunger strike they would be allowed to resume their jobs as vacancies occurred and would retain their seniority and other rights.

The president apparently had obtained the cooperation of the railroads in settling the dispute. The strikers claimed a moral victory and decided to eat.

REUNION SECOND DIVISION EXPEDITIONARY FORCES

BOSTON, May 31.—(AP) — Eleven years ago today, doughboys and marines of the second division, one of the premier fighting outfits of the American expeditionary forces, were wending a weary way toward Chateau Thierry to halt the advance of the German army on Paris. Today, from all parts of the United States, survivors of the division's hard-fought engagements in the greatest of all worldly conflicts, were here for their annual reunion and to commemorate the start of their first participation in a major encounter.

About 1,000 veterans were here for the reunion, many of them maimed and bearing the scars of conflict.

The second division was unique among the American divisions in that it was the only one organized in France. It captured 12,062 prisoners, more than any of the 29 American divisions that went into action. It suffered 4,478 battle deaths and 17,752 of its men were wounded. About 60,000 men served with the division during its overseas service.

$5,000 WORTH FIREWORKS DESTROYED BY FIRE

WALLINGFORD, May 31.— (AP) — Fireworks worth about $5,000 were destroyed and a watchman, Kowstanty Krajewski, was burned about the hands when fire gutted part of the plant of M. Backes Sons Fireworks company, here tonight. The fireworks lost were ruined by water, the blaze, the origin of which was undetermined, being checked before reaching the main stock of explosive materials

PROVIDENCE BOY DROWNED WHILE BATHING IN RIVER

PROVIDENCE, May 31.—(AP)— The heat wave which has gripped the state for the past two days took its second toll in deaths late this afternoon, when 12-year-old Frank Fiello was drowned while bathing in the Woonasquatucket river in this city. A 74-year-old Providence man collapsed late yesterday and died before medical aid could reach him.

PLANE OWNER KILLED, PILOT BADLY INJURED

WARREN, Ohio, May 31—(AP)—Robert Luton, an airplane owner, was killed and John Stafford, the pilot, was injured badly today, when their plane crashed at Hall's field, east of here.

Luton's home was in Leavittsburg, Ohio. Stafford is from Youngstown.

The crash came while the plane was taking off. It had climbed to about 75 feet when suddenly it nose dived.

MRS. HERBERT HOOVER ELUDED REPORTERS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 31—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the president, eluded reporters and the crowd shortly after a reception at the Longfellow home today and went away, presumably to take a train to return to Washington. She had attended exercises at the Radcliffe college semi-centennial here today.

HOOVER SEES HOPE IN REPARATION SETTLEMENT

WASHINGTON, May 31—(AP)—President Hoover said today that he considered the settlement of the reparations problem by the experts conference which has been meeting in Paris as a notable contribution to stability and progress.

DECREASE IN LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS

WASHINGTON, May 31—(AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve members banks for the week ending May 29, were announced by the Federal Reserve board today as $5,388,000,000, representing a decrease of $232,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

Warships Great Economic P[illegible]en

Authorized and [illegible]mplated Naval Program [illegible]f the U. S. Calls for $1,170,800,000.

WASHINGTON, May 31—(AP)—The economic "unproductive" burden placed upon the world by the cost of modern warships was declared by Secretary Stimson today to be illustrated by the "authorized and contemplated naval program" of $1,170,800,000 for new ships of the American navy.

In a statement commenting upon President Hoover's speech on Memorial day, the secretary of state said he had in his possession a memorandum from the director of the budget showing the cost of this program recommended by the navy department in case the policy of naval disarmament advocated by the United States is not adopted by the other powers.

"When it is borne in mind that the figures involve the construction program of only one nation (the United States)," Mr. Stimson declared, "and that if it proceeds other nations will be impelled to follow suit, the burden of unproductive expenditures which will be imposed upon the economic world during the next 15 years can be to a certain extent realized".

Mr. Stimson did not give a reason for the issuance of his statement nor was there any comment forthcoming from the white house in connection with it. In official circles, however, there was some speculation that the secretary of state desired the other naval powers of the world to be acquainted fully with the American position of naval disarmament.

"With every fresh discovery in warfare," Mr. Stimson declared, "the cost of the modern ship of war is mounting." He asserted that a modern capital ship costs between 35 and 40 millions of dollars and "ever a modern 10,000 ton cruiser costs more than double the original cost of the library of congress."

In some governmental circles the statement of the secretary was believed to reflect a willingness on the part of the administration to abandon the 16 warship building program if a world naval reduction program were put into effect, but there was no confirmation forthcoming from officials on this view. There is a provision in the warship authorization law which would permit the president to abandon it if a naval disarmament treaty negotiated Mr. Stimson when questioned on this matter, would not say whether any such action was contemplated.

MEDALS AWARDED BY BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM

NEW YORK, May 31—(AP)—Three women and one man today were announced as the 1928 winners of the Vail silver medals and $250 each awarded annually by the Bell Telephone System to those of its employes who during the year have performed the most "noteworthy public service."

The four are Mrs. Mabel Hite, Potter, Neb., Olin E. Perdue, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Athea P. Marks, Saticoy, Cal., and Miss Anna C. Yurecsko, Rockaway, N. J.

The awards commemorate the long service to the organization of the late Theodore N. Vail, for many years president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Mrs. Hite, a telephone operator was cited for "alertness and responsiveness in sensing an emergency under unusual circumstances." Through her efforts a mail plane pilot made a safe landing during a blizzard in a field which was marked by flares held by men summoned by the operator. She had heard the plane circling over the town and realized the pilot was in trouble. Perdu, a line measurer, saved a fellow employe from drowning.

Mrs. Marks was cited for "courage and devotion to the public service" during the St. Francis dam disaster when she remained at her post to warn residents of the Santa Clara, Cal. river valley that the dam had gone out although aware at the time that the flood waters might reach her.

Miss Yurecsko, hearing that an automobile had plunged over an embankment onto railroad tracks near Rockaway warned train dispatchers and summoned police and hospital aid for the injured, thus averting the probable wrecking of a passenger train.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Archbishop Ruiz, president of the Mexican bishops conference, announced his appointment by the Holy See to negotiate with the Mexican government.

Secretary Stimson pointed to the contemplated U. S. naval expenditures of $1,170,800,000 as an "unproductive" economic burden.

The result of the British election was viewed in official circles as a stimulant to naval armament reduction.

2 Chicago Detectives Killed By Insane Man

Two Other Detectives and Another Person Wounded—Man Had Been Arguing With His Wife.

CHICAGO, May 31—(AP)—Two detectives and one other person were shot and killed on the north side today by Fred Preuss, who was believed to have become suddenly insane while arguing with his wife. Two other detectives and another person were wounded.

The dead are: Sergeant John Conley, leader of the detective squad which went to arrest Preuss; Policeman Herbert Hegberg; and John Chorazek, a bystander.

The wounded are: Gus Karos, a bystander, who is expected to die; Frank Vodicka also a bystander; and Policeman Joseph Murphy.

The officers went to the Preuss flat on a call from a neighbor that "a drunk man is beating up his wife." Sergeant Conley and Policeman Bergbeg went to the rear door and knocked.

A shot crashed through a window on the porch behind Conley and he fell. Hegberg stepped back to return the fire and a second charge caught him full in the chest and head, both died almost instantly.

Attracted by the shooting, Chorazek had just stepped into the front yard when Preuss, apparently having hurried through the house, fired again from a front window. Chorazek fell dead in sight of his 11-year-old son, Edward. Murphy had just jumped from the squad car to aid his fellow officers and Vodicka had gone to Chorazek's assistance. Preuss' next shot wounded both.

The madman fled down a street, eluding other detective squads who arrived with tear bombs. A deputy bailiff, James Stickel fired at the slayer and said tonight he thought he had wounded him.

Preuss' wife, taken into custody for questioning, said that her husband had been drinking heavily for three weeks and was particularly abusive this morning. When she threatened to leave him, she said, he got his automatic shotgun out of a trunk.

"I pleaded with him not to use it, but he fired several shots at me as I ran out the back door," she told police. "I ran to a neighbor's flat and she telephoned officers."

FLOODS ARE CAUSING HEAVY DAMAGE IN TEXAS

HOUSTON, Texas, May 31. —(AP)—Houston felt the brunt of swirling flood waters tonight that for days had gathered momentum in their sweep toward the sea after torrential rains along the upper reaches of streams in eastern Texas. Destruction was being spread throughout the gulf area of the eastern half of the state.

In this city, Buffalo Bayou and its tributaries already had caused damage amounting to millions of dollars and the crest was not expected to be reached until late tonight. Official weather forecast was for additional rains.

While dirty, swirling water covered almost every bridge in the city, surrounded hundreds of homes and stood many feet deep in business buildings, Houston experienced a scarcity of drinking water. The central pumping plant was rendered useless by the raging Bayou.

The six water substations still were functioning, although under a heavy strain, and business houses with private wells had volunteered to turn water into the city mains. A serious fire menace existed due to the low water pressure.

Several houses were swept away.

The Neches river rose rapidly in Orange county and was flowing today over the old Spanish trail between Orange and Beaumont.

The Colorado river was seven miles wide at Columbus. State prison farms in Fort Bend and Brazoria counties, especially those in the deep Brazos bottoms, were menaced, and at least one transferred all its prisoners to a safety home ten miles away.

URGE RESTRICTION OF OUTDOOR ADVERTISING

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., May 31—(AP)—The 13th biennial council of the General Federation of Womens clubs finished its business sessions here tonight, after passing a resolution protesting against the use of landscapes for advertising and urging the restriction of all outdoor advertising to commercial districts.

TWO LAW PARTNERS SHOT DEAD AT EL PASO, TEX.

EL PASO, Tex., May 31—(AP)—H. D. Oppenheimer and Frank Lyons, law partners were shot and killed today in their offices on the fifth floor of the First National bank building. A man giving the name of Jose Marin, was taken into custody. Police said he admitted the slayings.

MANY HEAT PROSTRATIONS IN MID. ATLANTIC STATES

Yesterday Was the Hottest Day of the Year in New York, 90 Degrees—Boston Experienced a Drop of 19 Degrees Around Noon—Springfield Reported 94 Degrees, Practically No Breeze and a High Humidity—Relief Reported to Be on the Way.

(Special to The Bulletin)

Still sweltering in heat that was all the harder to bear because it was so unseasonable, the population of the greater part of the United States turned expectant faces to the north last night.

On northerly breezes that started blowing across the eastern states at noon yesterday relief was reported to be on its way.

Boston, one of the hottest places in the whole country at 8 a. m. yesterday, with a temperature of 84, experienced the highly pleasing sensation of a 19 degree drop in temperature about noon. However before it got cooler in Boston, it got hotter. The temperature had gone up to 90 at 11.30 then a breeze off the Atlantic came to the aid of the northerly wind and by 12.45 p. m. the mercury had dropped down to 71.

By the middle of the afternoon it was 90 in New York and in Philadelphia. And in both cities the humidity was high.

The end was apparently in sight in New York, however, after the 90-degree temperature had been recorded at 3 p. m. making the day the hottest day of the year in New York, there was a drop to 83 by 4 o'clock.

While it was cooler in Boston, the same could not be said of all parts of New England—nor even Massachusetts. Springfield reported 94 degrees, practically no breeze and a high humidity.

In many parts of the country, particularly in the middle Atlantic states, there were numerous prostrations.

GERMAN MARKS IN BELGIUM NEW HITCH IN REPARATIONS

PARIS, May 31—(AP)—The barometer of the reparations conference rose steadily today with agreements on some of the German conditions, but dropped a bit tonight when it was learned that the German government had not, as expected, named a plenipotentiary to negotiate with the Belgians on the redemption of German paper marks imposed on that country during the war.

In keeping with the accelerated pace of the conference during the last few days, the experts had worked until midnight last night and this morning disposed of several of the minor German conditions. Later they consented to lifting the lien on German railways, which under the Dawes plan had served as a guarantee for interest payments on the Dawes loan. They also came to an agreement with the Germans as to a modified form of eventual moratorium for the two years on internal payments of Germany on part of the protected annuities.

The experts had supposed that they were rid of the question of German marks in Belgium by inducing the two interested governments to negotiate for a direct settlement. This evening, however, in the absence of any word that the German had named a delegate for that purpose, the Belgians reiterated their determination not to sign any reparations agreement unless the mark question is settled at this time either by the experts or by the governments.

The Belgians demand 25,000,000 gold marks annually for 37 years to cover their claims and say they will wait no longer for settlement.

DINNER TO FLYERS WHO HOPE TO SPAN ATLANTIC

OLD ORCHARD, Me., May 31—(AP)—Four flyers, who hope soon to span the Atlantic with the Yellow Bird and the Green Flash, tonight turned from business to pleasure and were guests at a dinner at the local country club.

Rene Lefevre and Jean Assolant, pilot and navigator, respectively, of the yellow French plane, will represent the overseas republic. Their comrade, Armeno Lotti, sponsor and co-pilot of the Yellow Bird, is in New York, the better to be advised concerning weather conditions over the Atlantic.

A heavy fog which brought with it cooler weather kept the Yellow Bird, which was scheduled for a test flight, on the ground today.

An unofficial weather report this afternoon was said to show adverse winds and general storms over mid-ocean which would prevent a hopoff for at least 24 hours.

Filling of the main fuel tank on the Yellow Bird today caused a break in a copper vent on top of the tank. The Frenchmen said that it could be easily repaired. A leaking tank was given as the reason for the return of the French plane a few minutes after it hopped off Wednesday morning.

WOULD HAVE CONVENTION OF ANTI-SMITH DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, May 31— (AP) — Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church south, today called upon the anti-Smith democrats of his native state of Virginia to carry forward a determined opposition to the state party leaders who supported Alfred E. Smith in the last presidential campaign.

Announcing that he would refrain from participation in the democratic primary next August for the nomination of candidates for state offices, Bishop Cannon, who stumped the south for President Hoover, expressed the "hope that other anti-Smith democrats will abstain from such participation."

The church leader, in a letter to members of the Virginia executive committee of the anti-Smith democrats at Roanoke on June 18.

ACCUSED STOCK SALESMAN COMMITTED SUICIDE BY GAS

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 31.—(AP)—Paul P. Schauble, stock salesman, was found dead today in his home, a suicide by gas.

Schauble was to have been taken to Connecticut today to face a charge of embezzlement brought against him at Bridgeport. He was arrested May 20 on a warrant charging him with being a fugitive from justice. It was alleged he misappropriated $5,000 in securities and a police judge fixed his bail at $5,000, pending extradition proceedings.

He was said to be suffering from a mental illness induced by injuries in an automobile accident two years ago.

Mrs. Shauble was attracted by the odor of gas in an unused room on the third floor of their home, where she found her husband's body.

AWARDS TO STUDENTS IN YALE SCHOOL OF MUSIC

NEW HAVEN, May 31—(AP)—Award of 13 prizes to students in the Yale school of music at the annual commencement concert here tonight, was made by President James Rowland Angell.

The Louis Felsburg memorial scholarship to pay the tuition of the student of violin playing who shows the most progress during the year, who gives evidence of promise as a violinist and who is in good standing in his studies in the theory of music, was awarded to Romeo Tatg, of Waterbury, a senior.

The Frances E. Osborne Kellogg prize of $100 for the best examination in theory of music during the third year course was won by Edwin O. C. Gerschefski, '31, of Meriden. Alvan A. Wooster, of Naugatuck was given second prize in piano playing.

Among those who received certificates, given at the end of the third year, were Maybelle E. Backus, Waterbury; Elizabeth C. Beadle, West Hartford; Julius H. Chernoff, Bridgeport; Katherine J. INT'AL LABOR OFFICE TO ACCEPT $25,000 GIFT

GENEVA, May 31—(AP)—The International Labor office decided today to accept a gift of $25,000 from E. A. Filene, of Boston, in behalf of the twentieth century fund of Boston.

It would be devoted to an exhaustive inquiry into the comparative cost of living in various countries to determine fair universal wages of all employes, including the salaried employes.

This is an outgrowth of the request of Henry Ford to the labor office to fix a fair comparative wage scale for all workmen in his European factories. Inclusion of "white collar workers" in this and other activities of the labor office immensely widens the scope of that organization.

Filene cabled that if the twentieth century fund did not authorize the subsidy he would contribute the sum personally.

ARTIFICIAL COTTON FROM A NEWLY FOUND FIBRE

NEW YORK, May 31—(AP)—Dr. C. J. Hedley-Thornton, British analytical and research chemist, who last December announced the discovery of an artificial cotton made from a newly found fibre, today said he has concluded negotiations for the growth and marketing of the fibre in the United States.

The announcement was made before he sailed for England tonight on the Majestic after a two weeks' visit during which he conferred with financiers and leaders of the cotton industry and visited southern cotton centers.

He said that between 60,000 and 70,000 acres of land, chiefly in Florida, will be sown with the fibre plant originally found in a bird's nest in British Guinea and developed by crossing and re-crossing with chemical treatment of no fewer than 35 different species.

COP PUZZLED BY GIRLS IN ONE-PIECE BATHING SUITS

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 31—(AP)—"If it is a part of the college educational activities for students to appear in public in one-piece bathing suits, then I have no objections," declared Police Chief Bartholomew Bresnahan today, when three Smith college girls appeared in Main street in bathing suits. The girls, on their way to a beach in an auto, stopped at a drug store to partake of cooling drinks.

A large crowd gathered when the girls left the auto and a patrolman on the beat scratched his head. He phoned the chief for orders and the latter told him he had no objections.

CORONER RESERVES DECISION IN FATAL ACCIDENT CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 31—Five witnesses were heard at an inquest conducted this forenoon at police headquarters by County Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson into the death of Louis Lachappelle, aged seven. The boy was killed Wednesday afternoon on Main street, about opposite the foot of Windham street, when run over by a truck operated by Frederic C. Burnham of Hampton. Burnham is at liberty under bonds of $3,000 on a technical charge of manslaughter pending the coroner's finding

At the close of the inquest Coroner Bill stated that he was reserving his decision for a few days. The witnesses included Henry Blanchette of 946 Main street, Arthur Connors and George Freeman, a Mrs. Boucher and Dora Miles. The testimony of all tended to show that Burnham was not at fault as his attention was directed to two other children who had crossed from the north to the south sidewalk. Burnham was watching these children when he suddenly noticed the Lachappelle boy directly in front of the left front fender of the truck Burnham applied his brakes, bringing the truck to a quick stop, and turned the steering wheel, but the child was evidently struck by the left rear wheel. The accident was the third automobile fatality in this immediate vicinity within ten days and was the second fatal mishap involving a truck and a child in that section of Main street within a few months.

Probably too modest to ask for fire department aid, two young men came to the central fire station on Bank street about 2 o'clock this afternoon and asked for a little water. A brief conversation brought out the fact that the water was wanted to extinguish a blaze that had broken out in a Dodge sedan which was parked near the fire station. Members of the department quickly ran a small hose to the car and extinguished the fire which damaged a rear cushion. The fire, which started from a cigarette, was in a car owned by Thomas Kelly of South Coventry and was being driven by his son, William Kelly.

JEWETT CITY

FRANK RUSZNAS DROWNED TWO HOURS BEFORE MISSED

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, May 31—Frank Ruszaas, 11, was drowned this evening at the Ashland bathing beach. With a large crowd of boys he was jumping from the float. When he failed to come up after a jump there being so many boys in the water none of the others missed him. Over an hour later his mother came to look for him and at nearly the same time one of the boys felt him with his feet on the bottom, as he made a jump. P. W. Chase, welfare superintendent for the Ashland Cotton Co., was notified and with a boat and grappling hooks recovered the body within a few minutes in six feet of water. Medical Examiner Dr. George H. Jennings was called and said that the boy must have been drowned over two hours before he was missed and his body was recovered. His father's name is John Rusznas and the family lives on the Hill street extension. There are two other boys, and a sister.

MONSTERS OF THE DEEP BROUGHT HOME BY FISHERMEN

Bean Gagnon, Terry McGovern, Allen Sweet, Bill Ambot, John Bush and Ed Murphy all sober men and true, went down to the sea, Memorial day, to fish. At Noank, the services of a skipper were engaged at a fabulous price. He said his name was "Fo'castle Pete". A favorable gasoline breeze soon chugged the party to the somewhat choppy waters of Fishers Island sound.

Without delay lines were gotten out and halted hooks heaved over. They caught 22 (covers) flatfish, 3 bass and an eel. Then came a weary wait and delay. Ed Murphy is in charge of the borough street cleaning department, and he keeps things moving. So he did with his hook, then it brought up all of a sudden. Ed announced to the skipper that his line had fouled the anchor chain. But no! there appeared to be a tug. Ed pulled, but nothing moved. Bean Gagnon then laid hold. A great head appeared, mostly mouth. Terry, boss butcher for Warden Jodoin, grabbed an oar and John Bush wielded a martin spike. It is a fact, accompanied with sworn affidavits, that but for the belaboring administered with Terry's oar, the boat would have been sunk and the fishermen would have found a watery grave.

Soon Bill Ambot hooked a herring shark. To have no doubt in the premises, the men brought both monsters of the deep home to Jewett City. In front of the Rioux block, a great crowd gathered to see the catch. Ed Murphy's fish, as yet unnamed by local anglers, weighed 46 pounds, while the sand shark measured 4 feet 2 inches in length. Some said the big fish was a squid, others said sculpin, with more opinions that it was a mallycot.

Reuben H. Austin returned on Thursday to his duties as day ticket clerk at the Westerly station of the New Haven road after two weeks' vacation, part of the time being passed in New York state.

COLUMBIA

Memorial day was clear and hot, in fact hot enough for any Fourth of July. There were hundreds of cars passing through the center en route to the lake, and many took their first swim of the season and reported the water very warm. Early vegetables which have been backward on account of so much cold, rainy weather, are taking a sudden start and coming along steadily now.

Mrs. Alice Turner and Miss May Turner of Willimantic spent Memorial day in Columbia at the home of Mrs. Turner's sister, Mrs. Jennie Hunt.

Mrs. Newton Fallor of Montclair, N. J., is visiting for a few days with her sister, Miss Anne Dix.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lyman and family spent Thursday in Wethersfield, at the home of Mr. Lyman's mother.

Cleveland Collins and Miss Laura Collins of East Hartford spent Memorial day with their sisters, Misses Eva and Myrtle Collins.

Hebron chapter of the American Legion held Memorial day exercises at the town cemeteries Thursday noon. Music was furnished by the Marlboro Boys' band.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skelleton and family and William Kneeland of Hartford were in Columbia Thursday afternoon, calling at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Rice.

PLAINFIELD

MISS LOUISE JEROME HAS NEW APPOINTMENT

Miss Louise Jerome attended a luncheon in the Bellevue hotel in Boston in honor of the teachers of the new high school just built in Groton. Miss Jerome has been appointed head of the home economics department. She has been teaching in Lasell seminary, Auburndale, Mass.

The Jolly Eight met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Everett Dawley. Whist was in played and the prizes were won by Mrs. Robert Generous and Mrs. John C. Kingsley. Dainty refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kingsley and Walter Kingsley spent Thursday in Cranston.

Clarence Jeppers, who was taken suddenly ill Friday is somewhat improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marsland are visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Arthur Burton, in Cranston, R. I.

The W. C. T. U. is to meet with Anna Wilcox in Central Village June 4. This is flower mission day and each one is to bring flowers. The roll call word will be flower.

Joanna Dorance of Norwich was a caller in town Memorial day.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Pellett and son, of Washington, D. C., were in Plainfield Thursday.

M. M. Club Entertained

When Miss Lloyd Phillips entertained the M. M. club this week three tables of bridge were played, the prizes being won by Mrs. Augusta Nolan, Mrs. John Bradford and Mrs. John C. Kingsley.

Miss Sylvina Allard spent several days in Baltic early in the week.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mason have been Earl Bramble and family of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. John Steves of Boston, Mrs. Clark Conley and son, and daughter of Providence, Mr. and Mrs. George Mason and son of East Killingly.

B. R. Briggs, a long-time resident of Plainfield now making his home with his daughter in Norwich, was a caller in town Thursday.

Won First Prize

Pearl Gorenski was the winner of the first prize in the annual essay contest held by the State Society of Colonial Dames for high school pupils. Second prize went to Bulkeley high, New London.

Mrs. William Bartholic, who went to the Hartford hospital recently, in a state of total blindness, has undergone an operation and is slowly recovering her sight.

Following a custom of years a committee from the First Congregational church, consisting of Deacon Walter Kingsley, Deacon Jason Lathrop, William Barstow and Cecil Butler, decorated the graves of ministers in the Plainfield cemetery Memorial day.

AUSTRALIAN MOUNTAIN BURNS FOR CENTURIES

SYDNEY, Australia, (AP)—A unique Australian phenomenon is the "Burning mountain" at Wingen in northern New South Wales, which scientists say has been on fire 1,000 years.

According to a party of geologists, who just have returned from an exploration of the mountain, there lies below the surface a burning coal seam. Long before European settlement in Australia "Burning mountain" was known to the aborigines, and to them it owes its name, Wingen, signifying "fire."

The geologists report that the summit presents the appearance of the fabric of a vast block of buildings consumed by fire with an explosion or two thrown in. Smoke and steam continuously are issuing from different points, and there are numerous deposits of alum and sulphur.

The burning seam probably is 30 feet or more in thickness, say the geologists, and is being consumed at the rate of from 120 yards each sentry. The warmth of the mountain in the winter time attracts cattle, horses and wild animals.

Eighty-five per cent of the rubber imported into this country is used by the automobile industry.

Delicious flavor for vegetable foods

Any woman interested in appetite appeal can use it

COOKING history was made recently when four famous cooking experts met in a kitchen high up in a New York skyscraper. The question before the house was what could be done to make vegetable dishes as delicious as they could be. The result of the experiments, which were carried on for several days, was the far-reaching new discovery of an old secret. The best way to cook vegetables is in a small amount of water, and with the addition of sugar. In every case vegetables so prepared received the unanimous vote of the experts.

For luncheon or dinner cook 6 medium carrots with a level tablespoon of sugar in the least boiling water possible. Slice, reheat and let simmer 10 minutes in 2 teaspoons of butter, pinch of salt, and 1 level tablespoon of sugar.

For delicious stewed tomatoes, peel, slice and stew 6 ripe ones, then add a lump of butter, 3 teaspoons of salt, 2 level tablespoons of sugar, and 1 tablespoon of bread crumbs. Cook 10 minutes longer and serve.

Just try sugar with vegetables in your own kitchen and notice how much better it makes these healthful foods. Try a dash of sugar with lima beans, string beans, corn, peas, parsnips, squash, onions and tomatoes. It makes children and adults like them. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. "I Never Worry when they're in the Whippet"

This low-priced car has every modern feature for driving safety and dependable performance

ADVANCED, modern engineering throughout the entire chassis of the new Superior Whippet is responsible for smoothness and reliability of performance, consummate ease of handling, and maximum driving safety.

Whippet's big four-wheel brakes are of the positive, mechanical type—acting quickly and surely. Both the Whippet Four and Whippet Six have considerably greater braking area than any of their competitors.

Other important Whippet advantages include extra long wheelbase, oversize balloon tires, full force-feed lubrication, silent timing chain, "Finger-Tip Control," higher compression engine, invar-strut pistons, and, in the Six, a heavy seven-bearing crankshaft.

DANIELSON

LARGE NUMBER ATTEND FUNERAL OF H. S. FRANKLIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 31.—This afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home on the Green Hollow road funeral services for Hiram S. Franklin, a former first selectman of the town of Killingly, were conducted by Rev. Harding W Gaylord, pastor of the Westfield Congregational church. There were many relatives and friends in attendance, including a large delegation of members of Moriah lodge, A. F. and A. M., of which Mr. Franklin had been a member for many years. Burial was in Westfield cemetery, where the Masonic committal service was conducted by W. M. Walter Anderson and Chaplain Harry Brearley. There were many beautiful floral pieces. The bearers—all members of Moriah lodge—were Representative Arthur W. Williams, John B. Bassett, L. E. Young, Charles B. Hutchins, Charles S. Francis and Frank Gilbert. A. F. Wood was the funeral director.

This afternoon at one o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett S. Pellett on North street a funeral service for their infant daughter, Nola Sharon Pellett was conducted by Rev. Harding W. Gaylord of the Westfield Congregational church. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Jason Cutler, an uncle of the child, and Shirley Greene, a cousin. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements. There were numbers of floral rememberances.

Relatives and friends from Moosup and Central Village and other communities in this section were in Norwich this afternoon to attend funeral services for E. M. Kennedy, formerly a resident of Moosup, at the home of his father, Edgar Kennedy, on Boswell avenue. Rev. Charles H. Ricketts conducted the service. Burial was in Union cemetery at Moosup. The bearers were Roger Salisbury and Clarence Salisbury of Moosup, Waldo Tillinghast of Central Village, John Smith, Henry West and William Coughlin, all of Moosup. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

In the interest of the Killingly high school band, which made such a surprisingly good showing on its first public appearance in the Memorial day procession, a tag day is to be held here Saturday. In explanation of this it should be said that this band, of nearly 90 members, including both boys and girls, no financial help has been received for its support from the town or through the town school committee. It also should be made a part of the record that the organization and development of the band to its present promising state has been largely possible through the personal interest and guarantees of Supt. W. E. Parker of Killingly's schools, and Principal Ernest R. Warren of the high school.

Three cases were disposed of at a session of the town court this afternoon, Judge W. Fenner Woodward presiding. Edith Jacques of Warren, R. I., came in to plead to a charge of reckless driving. It appeared that she had been involved in a minor accident with her car, had adjusted the damage done with the owner of the other machine, but nevertheless was at fault as to method of operation. Judge Woodward fined her $25 and costs, remitting $24 of the fine, in view of the circumstances in the case.

Sheldon Caouette of Danielson was presented to plead to a charge of failing to grant the right of way. He was represented by Attorney L. A. Wolsard. A small fine was imposed by the court.

The third case of the afternoon was that in which Frank A. French of Holbrook, Mass., appeared to face a charge of parking on the wrong side of the highway at Dayville yesterday, a fault that resulted in a minor accident. The court imposed a fine of a dollar and costs. A brother of Congressman Freeman of this congressional district was in company with Mr. French at the time the accident occurred.

Beginning Saturday of this week city carriers working out of the Danielson postoffice will begin to enjoy their weekly half-holidays. There will be only one delivery of mail on Saturdays hereafter, beginning this week, until the end of the summer season. That delivery will be in the morning. The arrangement is the same as that in effect here last year.

The 100,000 gallon tank being erected in the rear of the Main street plant of Powdrell and Alexander is arising to near its ultimate height. The construction work has been underway for a fortnight and has steadily advanced during the present week as the construction crew has worked diligently, despite the unusual heat of the late May days. In another week or ten days, with continued good weather, the tank will have been closed in. Its top will be 147 feet above the ground, and the water it will hold will be connected up with the fire sprinkler system of the mill.

Information pertaining to the hospitilization services that World war veterans are entitled to is being given out on behalf of Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion, of Danielson. Veterans are entitled to this service, either for treatment or observation, provided facilities are available. Transportation to and from a government hospital, with attendant, if required, is provided. In this area application should be made to the United States Veterans' bureau at 982 Main street, Hartford, or the doctor representing the Veterans' bureau locally.

Also it is of interest that adjusted compensation can be applied for up to Jan. 2, 1930. A wife and children under 18 years of age, do not have to prove dependency. Remarriage bars the wife. Father or mother reaching the age of 60 on or before January 1, 1930, are presumed to be dependent and do not have to prove dependency in applying for benefits of adjusted compensation.

Again this afternoon the temperature ran up into the 90's in Danielson, and distress from the excessive heat continued to be general.

A number of the Danielson members of the Putnam county club were at the club this evening, the first of a series to be given during the season.

Earl C. Hopkins of Worcester was in Danielson today on a business trip.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill was in Willimantic this morning conducting an inquest into the death of Louis LaChappelle, seven-year-old orphan, killed by a truck Wednesday afternoon.

Chief John McFarland said this morning that numbers of car operators are parking their machines contrary to regulations in the business section. Cars must be parked parallel with the curb and within 12 inches of it. The chief objects that diagonal parking is becoming too general.

The new flag pole now in place at Davis park is of a variety and type that should stand for years. It is in two sections, the top section arranged for lowering.

Indicative of the fact that the touring season is getting under way is the fact that cars bearing registrations of twelve distant states were observed passing through Danielson today, all of them bound into New England.

Reports came in today of several persons being indisposed as the result of marching in the extreme heat in the Memorial day procession. However, none of these cases appeared to be of a serious nature.

State officers made a hurried exit from Danielson, going west this morning, seeking the recovery of a stolen automobile believed to have been temporarily in nearby territory. The quest proved unsuccessful.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Woodworth are spending the week end at their summer cottage at Pleasure Beach.

Dominic A. DelPesco of L'Homme street, a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, has undergone a blood tranfusion. Mr. DelPesco was hurried to the hospital yesterday after he had been losing blood for several days.

As useless as it is reprehensible is the stunt of taking perpetual care markers from cemetery lots of graves and transferring them to lots not in perpetual care, yet one hears that thing has been done this spring.

Miss Rose Leavitt of New London was a visitor today with friends in Danielson.

CHAPLIN

ELLSWORTH M. RUSSELL, 83, COMES BACK FOR THURSDAY

Memorial day morning, the line was formed in front of the church about 9:30, headed by three Spanish war veterans, B. M. Welch, Samuel A. Chappell, standard bearer and Merritt Welch. A detachment of nine members of Company C, 169th infantry, Willimantic, acted as a firing squad. School children of the Center and South Chaplin schools followed, bearing wreaths and flowers. The line, under the direction of Millard Galloway, marched to the Center cemetery where the graves of the soldiers dead were decorated. Three volleys were given by the firing squad and a bugler sounded taps. The line again formed and returned to the church. The exercises opened by the children marching in singing Onward Christian Soldiers. Prayer was offered by Rev. W B. Sandford, of Laudsdown, Pa.; recitations and songs were given by the children, in a pleasing way. Rev. W. B. Sanford gave an inspiring address. The Battle Hymn of the Republic and benediction closed the interesting exercises. Ellsworth M. Russell, 83, of Noroton, a veteran, and former resident for many years, attended the Memorial day doings and was given a leading place in the line to and from the cemetery. At the close of the program in the church the children and all were provided ice cream on the church lawn.

Rev. Paul B. Sanger gave the Memorial day address in the Congregational church at Hampton.

Burton M. Welch, student at Bay Path institute, Springfield, and Ellen Welch of Hartford, were at the home of their father, B. M. Welch, Memorial day.

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Bowen of Hartford were visitors Memorial day with Mr. and Mrs. George E. Snow.

Florence I. Hunt of Hartford was home over Memorial day.

At Charles Perry's over the holiday were Alfred Jacobson and son Erick, of Worcester, and Joseph Jacobson, of New York.

Rev. P. B. Sanger is receiving a visit from his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Sanger, and brother, Isaac Sanger, of New York.

PUTNAM

YOUTHFUL BANDITS ARRESTED BY WEBSTER POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 31. — A trio of youthful gangsters of Worcester were taken into custody by Webster police this morning within 20 minutes after they had robbed the Texas Oil company's filling station on School street. The arrest of the three youths was made by Deputy Chief John Templeman and Officers Martin and McIntosh of the Webster police department.

The three youths drove into the yard of the oil station at about 10:30 o'clock this morning in a large car registered in Massachusetts. Charles Comeau, 17, of Worthington street, Worcester, former Putnam boy, and self styled, "brains of the bunch" asked Clarence Shaw, manager of the station, to examine his oil supply. Shaw informed the driver that the oil needed replenishing and while engaged in this task, Comeau and his cohorts entered the rest room of the station and removed $12 from the cash drawer. When Shaw opened the drawer to deposit the amount of his sale he discovered the act of the trio.

The filling station manager reported the incident to the police, furnishing them with a description of the car. Captain of Police William Jarvis immediately dispatched alarms to the state police barracks in Checpatchet and to the Webster authorities. The Webster officers maintained a vigilance upon the Webster-Putnam highway and within twenty minutes after the escapade had taken place the youths were apprehended. Comeau's confederates were identified as Anthony Welcome and Williarm Ward, both of the Grafton section of Worcester, and are alleged to be "bad boys."

Roy F. Shippee, owner of the filling station, identified Comeau as a former employee of his, whom he had discharged several months ago for alleged unfaithfulness. They will be arraigned in city court Saturday morning, where it was said this afternoon, stiff penalties will be given them for the act of this morning.

Captain of Police Jarvis in commenting on the catch of the thieves told The Bulletin of his appreciation for the prompt and efficient cooperation rendered him by the Webster authorities.

Jackie Kennette, aged four, of Railroad street, was reported missing by his parents this morning. Police were called to assist in locating the lost boy and within an hour Jackie was picked up a short distance from his home by Alderman Frank Vadnais. He was returned to his home much to the relief of his parents.

At a meeting of the directors of the Cargill Trust company held this week it was announced that six months of successful earnings in the savings department have enabled the banking house to declare in favor of their depositors a 4 1-2 per cent dividend. Announcement of this fact was made this morning by J. Dyer Potter, treasurer of the organization.

The exterior appearances of the City hotel, gutted and ruined by fire in March will remain intact for the present, according to Zepherin Harquoil, owner of the property. About a month ago workmen commenced to remove the topping third story which was in danger of collapsing and endangering public life. When the uppermost part of the structure had been razed work ceased and now the building is one of the worst menaces to the appearance of the business section.

The Crickern hotel block on the opposite side of the railroad tracks from the City hotel, destroyed by fire 10 years ago is soon to become an addition to the civic appearance of the business district. This old holstery remained an eyesore for the past decade. During the month carpenters and other workers has been busy transforming the ruins into a modern office building. An entrance from Front street has been made rendering a most brightening effect from this angle, but the Union street side still gives an ugly and unimpressive picture to a visitor in the city.

The first of the razing operations that will take place on present blocks on Main street will begin on Saturday morning when a firm of building wreckers start work on the O'Leary building, south of the Congregational church. The wrecking of this block will mark the passing out of existence of the Atlantic and Pacific tea company's store located in this structure for the past fifteen years. At first it was stated that the concern would remove to new quarters, but since no suitable location could be obtained it was decided to remove the stock to another city. Business operations by the organization in this spot will be suspended on Saturday evening. This store is the first of any national chain retail grocery concern to invade Putnam.

Walter A. Wheaton, Jr., of Bradley street who for the past five months has been in Monument, Colorado, where he has been in the employ of the forestry planting department of the United States Forest service, returned to his home in this city Thursday.

A Providence man arrested by Putnam police Thursday evening following a drunken escapade in the North end failed to appear in city court this morning. He was booked on charges of intoxication and breach of peace. Bonds were furnished by a friend late Thursday evening and the man was released pending his appearance to appear for a hearing this morning. When he failed to appear the bond of fifty dollars was forfeited to the coffers of the city treasury.

The new ambulance of the Day Kimball hospital was given several test calls during the traffic rushes on the state arteries Thursday afternoon but in each event its presence was not required. In two accidents which occurred in the vicinity of the city yesterday afternoon, the ambulance was summoned to carry victims to the hospital for medical attention, but upon the arrival of the emergency vehicle attendants were informed that the injuries had been somewhat exaggerated.

Sessions in all the schools in the city were resumed today following a recess on Thursday afforded the students by Thursday's holiday.

Pomfret school's annual regetta with Exeter academy of Middlebury, Mass., will take place Saturday morning on the half mile course at Roseland lake. A large gathering of shell racing enthusiasts are expected to take their places along the shore to watch the outcome of the race. Pomfret has experienced a most successful season this year having won victories over crafts of the leading prep schools in New England.

The fireworks display, a feature of commencement at Pomfret school, will take place this year on Thursday evening, June 13. The fixtures will occupy their regular berths on the lower campus behind the main dormitories and will be fired at eight o'clock it was said today. Each year this event attracts hundreds of people from miles around to view the elaborate display of powdered pieces.

NEW CHARTER ORDERED, OLD ONE OFFERED.

In connection with the proposed charter revision upon which the voters are asked to express themselves next Monday, city election day, it might be well to understard the circumstances leading up to this revision.

It was at a special city meeting held April 26, 1928, that Judge John H. Barnes introduced and urged a resolution providing "that the city of Norwich take all necessary legal steps for the enactment of a new city charter for said city by the next general assembly."

It will be noted that this calls for "a new city charter".

It also provided that the mayor, senior alderman and corporation counsel of city and their successors in said office shall appoint four other electors of the city and hold public hearings "on provisions to be embodied in a new charter for this city and present same to the general assembly for consideration and enactment."

Thus another reference was made to a "new charter for this city."

At that same special city meeting, Judge Barnes declared this city "should have a proper charter. The charter we have was printed 40 or 50 years ago. If you want to find the amendments you've got to look all through the council journals. It is a disgrace for a city of this size not to have a proper charter."

It was upon this resolution and after the advocacy by Judge Barnes that the special city meeting voted and voted for "a new city charter".

The committee was named and did its work and obtained the approval of the legislature in the belief that the document submitted represented the desire of the people of Norwich. As a matter of fact the committee has not carried out the wish of the city meeting. There is no new charter. It is the same old charter with a few minor changes. The committee declares over the signature of the respective members that "no attempt was made to create a new charter, or an improved form of government."

The city meeting asked for a new charter but the committee has produced something else. It has not done what the citizens instructed it to do. It is not what they asked for. It isn't even an apology for a new charter for "no attempt was made to create a new charter."

The committee has incorporated many amendments into the charter. That is a good thing and that work is accomplished regardless of what action is taken upon the revision next Monday.

As for the changes recommended by the committee they are admitted by the committee to be "minor". They do not constitute a "new charter" such as the citizens asked for and as the city needs. We must still struggle along under an antiquated instrument and it is for the interests of the city that the voters should decline to accept what is confessedly "not a new charter", and not what the citizens ordered. What benefits would accrue to the city under the "minor" changes are offset by the imposition of requirements which the city doesn't need and doesn't want.

Norwich needs A NEW CHARTER.

It voted for the production of A NEW CITY CHARTER.

It has not been offered A NEW CHARTER, and it should withhold its approval of the very weak substitute that is offered.

The citizens have asked for food and been offered a stone.

Turn it down.

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS.

Thoroughly optimistic has been the convention of the National Tuberculosis association this week at Atlantic City. Reports have been presented showing the excellent progress made in fighting this disease and particularly encouraging have been the statements concerning the new discoveries and new methods of prevention and detection which promise so much for the future.

These tell the story of what is constantly going on in the study of this disease and the success being attained in developing new plans of attack.

It is easy to understand the enthusiasm of those who are heart and soul in this work and to appreciate the gratification over their ability to make steady headway. It is this constant advancement that means so much to those afflicted and to those who may be threatened. It is a source of great satisfaction to the well to know that while much is being done for the checking of tuberculosis we have not reached the end of the road and that the outlook for the future is more hopeful than in the past.

The National Tuberculosis association has been waging its fight for years. It has awakened much interest in its endeavors, obtained increasing support and seen the activity of states in conducting the same fight grow from nothing until they are today powerful agencies for the treatment and eradication of this disease.

Thus while the association has been learning of the things accomplished during the past year, the public in general cannot fail to appreciate the meaning of the gains and the value of the research work. Let the good work go on and may it become more and more effective with each passing year. Tuberculosis doesn't hold the terrors it did once but there is still much to be done to eliminate it.

THE CITY ADMINISTRATION.

Next Monday the voters of Norwich will go to the polls for the purpose of electing those of the city officials who are to be chosen this year. It is an off year, a year when the choice of a mayor is not involved, but when there should be no lagging in interest on that score. The need for the continuance of sound city government exists.

The republicans in presenting their ticket, as printed in another column, believe that they have given to Norwich a year of good government during the past 12 months. They point with pride to the effect that they have met the responsibilities entrusted to them and have come through the year with an actual balance.

This means, according to their statement, that all the bills have been paid, that the loans made in anticipation of taxes during the year have been paid off, that there has been a successful effort made to keep from spending more money than the citizens in city meeting had authorized them to spend. It means in other words an adherence to good business practice and as the result of the record that has been made they feel justified in seeking endorsement at the polls.

It is an old story for an administration to pile up huge overdrafts, that is, spend more money than it was entitled to spend and force the taxpayers to make up for it another year, or to turn it into what has so frequently become a surprisingly large floating indebtedness. The present administration has not sought to do business in this manner. It has met its obligations as far as the means for doing so were provided and it now rests with the people to say whether it has been satisfactory. That will be one of the questions confronting the voters next Monday. The pulling of the top lever will mean a vote for the entire republican ticket.

THE REPARATION AGREEMENT.

It is sometimes darkest just before dawn. Such seems to have been the case in regard to the effort to settle the reparations problem. Last week the impression was gained that an impasse had been reached, that each side had taken such a stand that there was slight chance of a compromise, that everything was ready to adjourn.

There had been dubious outlooks before and this time, even as on previous occasions there were offers made which met requirements Both sides were adamant on some points but neither side was adamant when it came to necessary compromises The result is that an agreement has been reached which shows the amount that Germany is to pay, the time in which it must be paid and the amount that it is expected to pay each year This gives both sides something definite to work upon.

The new agreement will replace the Dawes plan provided the additional details are worked out satisfactorily by the commission and the work of the commission is approved by the respective governments.

By this arrangement Germany gets some advantages and the allies get the satisfaction of knowing what can be relied upon. It serves to remove some of the uncertainty that has prevailed in the past. The Dawes plan was an admirable arrangement when it was adopted. The new plan comes about as the result of the conditions which prevail today and as the result of the study that has been given to the situation by the masters of finance of the respective nations. What seemed like a simple problem has not been as easy to solve as it looked. Getting down to realities has been different than talk. It has been about as near a failure and yet succeeded as could be imagined and from all accounts there is none too much credit that can be given to Owen D Young, who headed the commission. From this distance it would appear that his leadership was a vital factor in saving the conference. It has been even more conspicuous than as a member of the Dawes commission.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

To the writer's mind many of the things suggested as a menace to the welfare of America are mere phantasies. Some assert that certain religious views and modes of administration will be forced upon us that will blot out our civil liberties This is all moonshine for, if the American people should permit this it would show clearly that we deserve such a fate. Others see a terrible danger in foreignism. The old American stock is not holding its own. If so does it ever occur to the pessimist just where the blame lies? May it not be that by the transfusion of the world's best blood that the Almighty is going to work out his final designs for humanity right here on the American continent? May it not be that the larger interest of mankind will be better conserved by the amalgamation of the leading nationalists than by the hegemeny of a single race however enlightened?

I will frankly admit that the above sentence sounds a bit lordly and heavy, but it means just exactly what I had in mind to say. Now to the writer's mind the greatest danger that faces the American people today—or any other people, for that matter—is the fecundity of the unfit The American people today stand in greater danger from internal decay than from external attack. Why was it so easy for the hardy Norsemen to break down the supposedly invincible Roman empire? Simply because the Colossus was rotten within. One historian tells us that when the ancient city of Syracuse was attacked not one man could be found physically fit to defend his country. What kind of a generation would one expect from such physical derelicts? Wealth and luxury divorced from all moral principle had led to vice, and vice had done its "perfect work."

No one can deny the obvious fact that many men and women—and the number is vastly greater than we think—have no moral right to become parents, because it is true that "like produces like." The children of such parentage are doomed from infancy to physical, and possibly to mental and moral, inferiority. Did you ever drive by a house where there were playing five or six tow-headed, wall-eyed, narrow-chested, bent-over human beings, who for the lack of a suitable name are called children? These precious little ones, frail, under-nourished, with no training whatever will be seriously handicapped in the battles of life. Every human being that comes into this world has a right to live as such, but what a mighty army there is that is doomed from the start! Is it impiety to say: fewer children and better children? At least no more children in a family than can be decently fed, clothed, and educated.

The writer is aware that the foregoing involves one of the burning questions of the day, and that is birth control. I know that at the sound of these words some people stand aghast. To them the mere suggestion is an unpardonable sin. I would ask the objector if there is one great force in nature that is not subject to the principle of birth control? What a blessed thing is fire when controlled in the parlor grate, making the room warm and comfortable, but how is it when it bursts through the arms of law and burns up your house, and in a few hours your home is a blackened, tangled mass of ruins, absolutely worthless? is birth control a sin? Is it a sin to control an angry passion? If any of these impulses, perfectly natural in themselves, are allowed to run riot, we shall soon find ourselves in jail. Eating is a natural passion, but we must not dig our graves with our knives and forks.

Now the summation of what has been said thus far in this article is. Let the children when of suitable age become acquainted with the principles of physiology as it applies to human beings. They have a perfect right to know all the laws that govern their being. Let them read a scientific treatise put in language which they can understand. It is a duty they owe to themselves and to society. They have a perfect right to understand the crowning act of Divine Providence in regard to the perpetuation of the race. To understand this functioning is nothing to be ashamed of. It is not the knowledge but rather the ignorance of these things that one needs to be ashamed of. Remember, parents, that if this knowledge does not come through standard works, it is likely to come through very undesirable channels. There is no glory incident to parenthood greater than the consciousness of having children who are real images of their Maker!

The trend of the foregoing puts emphasis on the supreme value of the little child. This world has numberless things that are highly important, but not one of them for a single moment is to be compared to a little child in value. It is therefore clear that he should have every opportunity to develop as God and nature have indicated. But this is something that too many do not have the chance of doing, because from the very moment of birth they are doomed to an imperfectly developed life, and to a miserable existence—they will be mentally and perhaps morally blighted. If any one doubts this statement let him examine the vital statistics of any state or county in this nation. It is for this reason that parents, school teachers, and others who deal with the young have a right to insist upon a larger knowledge of eugenics.

Was it merely haphazard that redemption and immortality should come to humanity in the form of a little child? Was it inconsistent that the two forces that have done more to revolutionize mankind than any others should have come through the weakest form of life? The little human babe is about the weakest thing imaginable. But we cannot think that infinite Wisdom made any mistake No form of life can compare with a little child in the interest of God. Suppose on an ocean liner a camp stool should fall or be washed overboard, it would cause little if any attention whatever. Or if a lady's fine wrap should meet a similar fate the excitement would be only momentary. But let the child of the poorest immigrant fall into the ocean and instantly it would spread like wild fire throughout the ship, and at once every appliance for rescue would be put into action. Why? because God has stamped his value on the child!

It is a long time since John A. Logan took those steps back in the sixties to have a day set apart known as "Decoration" or "Memorial" day. If there was a good reason 60 odd years ago why such a day should be instituted, those reason still remain why the day should be perpetuated. Even if the great majority of the Grand Army of the Republic has crossed the Great Divide, the political principles which underlie that organization will function as long as our government exists. Our forefathers came for liberty; the right to worship God according to the dictates of their own consciences and to establish a state through which they could rule by representation. The Civil war was a reassertion of that principle. Because a man was black was no good reason why he should be disbarred from political privileges white men enjoyed.

HISTORY AS A NEW ENGLAND ASSET.

Lawrence W. Chidester, Baker fellow in commerce and finance at Tufts college, did useful service in his recent effort to ascertain why visitors come to New England Under his direction as has been reported in the news columns a survey was conducted in co-operation with the state of Maine publicity bureau In answering the question, "What draws people to New England?" replies to Mr. Chidester's questionaire indicated that natural surroundings were the most potent influence. Excellent food was in second place. Good direction waits on air and scenery. And pleasant surroundings in a prosperous present appear to exercise an appeal many times that of the storied past. It pays to advertise, but broiled lobster and fried clams may be said, on the face of the returns, to have the edge on historic places. In regard to them, the report says:

Evidently historic places are not such a great attraction as many persons believe. . . . The question arises as to how much emphasis should be placed on historic places in New England. Probably the best course to follow is to advertise such attractions concurrently with natural resources. If used alone it is doubtful whether this appeal would have much pulling power, but combined with the appeal of New England's natural recreational resources it probably would have some weight.

To check the replies as they concerned the influence of the storied past in bringing visitors to New England, records kept at the Bunker Hill monument were examined It was found that "while there has been a large increase in the number of persons coming to New England for vacations during the last five years there has been practically no increase in the number of persons who visited Bunker Hill?"

What of Other Places?

This latest appearance of Bunker Hill in the news of the day suggests further interesting inquiry. If we are to know whether or not the appeal of the historic places in New England is drawing increasing numbers of the summer visitors it is evident that we must look farther afield The drawing power of any one place will not tell the tale.

Such a survey would reveal more than general appeal of history as reflected in the places where great deeds were done. It would be linked with the question of the value as community assets of New England antiquities which are of interest primarily as revealing the manner of life in the early days. It would be a reflection, also of the extent to which the homes of men famous in their day and generation in letters or public affairs appeal to the people of the present.

It may be as Mr. Chidester's investigations indicate that the appeal of historic places and associations is relatively small as a New England attraction But that by no means indicates that it is not worth while to make the maximum use of this asset. If it is to be advertised in connection with the advertising of those things which appear to make the stronger appeal certainly it should be advertised in the light of an understanding of the forms in which its own appeal may be the most compelling.

From Bunker Hill and Plymouth.

It may be suggested also that were a single place to be taken as indicating the drawing power of historical association Bunker Hill is not the best. It is not easily accessible. The great army of visitors who each year use their motor cars in their journeyings are not likely to regard the trip to Charlestown and up the hillside as a pleasant drive. It takes them through crowded and tortuous street, certainly not attractive in themselves. And there are few among the summer visitors who regard a ride on an elevated railroad as a joy and a delight. More than that if the visitor makes inquiry concerning what he is to see after he has reached the monument, he finds that to gain the top thereof he must walk up hundreds of stairs. Even with the instruction of the voice over the radio, he is likely to quail at the prospect of such a climb. And he may discover that when it comes to looking down on Boston, he may ride nearly to the top of the Custom House tower in an elevator.

That Bunker Hill is not making greater appeal is thus not to be regarded as surprising. What of Plymouth? What light would records of the number of visitors there throw on the appeal of history? Without resort to figures, it would seem that here was a spot high in favor with the visitors. A summer's day sees cars from many states parked near the Rock. Groups follow one another through the burying ground on the hill. Pilgrim Hall receives its hundreds. Perhaps few among the visitors would say that they came to New England to see Plymouth Rock, but they are mightily interested in the ancient town after they get here, and appearances do not give the impression that the interest is not relatively as large now as in past years, saving perhaps the year of the tercentenary. What the figures might show is another question.

History as Local Attraction.

When it comes to this question of advertising New England's historic places, perhaps distinction should be made between the advertising done outside New England and that done at home. Take, for example, a city like Portland. In its advertising beyond the borders of Maine it might properly throw the emphasis on its general attractions and the attraction of its surroundings both on land and on island-dotted bay. But an opportunity would be missed were the visitors as they arrived not reminded that the Wadsworth-Longfellow house was open to visitors. They are so reminded, and the attendance at this home of the poet reveals the extent of the interest which his name still arouses.

Such a case raises question whether or not sufficient eort is made in New England towns and cities to direct the stranger to the places of historic interest. It is easy to take too much for granted. Old houses which have been transformed into museums, such as the House of Seven Gables at Salem, are often persistently and intelligently advertised, but that cannot be said of many other places in which there are collections of rare historical interest. One wonders what might be done, for example, too make better known the reminders of the past in the Old State House right here in Boston. How many Bostonians, outside a limited circle, have any idea what it contains?

The Few and the Multitude.

To return to Mr. Chidester's survey. The relation of the past to the present in drawing power is, after all, not surprising. The people who rush into New England in the good old summer time include all sorts and conditions. It goes without the saying that climate and scenery, not to mention green corn and fish chowder, will make wider appeal than the places where embattled farmers fought and great men lived and died. But the few to whom historical associations do make strong appeal may be counted as a favored few. They are capable of understanding the New England of the past as well as the New England of the present. It is well worth while to see to it that every reasonable effort is made to give them the full measure of assistance in finding the objects of their quest.

It may be said, with show of reason that the people who flock to New England with appreciation of reminders of the early days are in general sufficiently familiar with it to make it unnecessary to advertise to reach them. They do not have to be guided here, but they are the people who might well be supplied with guidance after they arrive. They are not asking what they shall see but how best to find it.

As Communities Advertise.

The Chidester survey goes far to reveal the fact that within the scope of scientific advertising there is scientific advertising of the community as well as of the business enterprise. He has shown that this inquiry may well be supplemented by others. And there is also to be considered the question of the ethics of community advertising. It is another case in which what constitutes truth in advertising is a question that arises. But that is not germane to the recent inquiry. It is another story.—F. G. Fassett in Boston Transcript.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Proposed Charter of the City of Norwich

Mr. Editor: The undersigned being the members of the charter revision committee which drafted the proposed charter to be voted on at the next city meeting, wish to explain to the public a few matters concerning the proposed charter, in answer to inquiries, so that no person in voting on the adoption of said charter will vote under any misapprehension as to what the charter will, or will not do.

No attempt was made to create a new charter or an improved form of government but there are a few minor changes in the proposed charter.

FIRST: There will be if the charter is adopted an election of mayor, council and other officers every two years, instead of half the council being elected every year.

SECOND The annual city meeting will be changed from June to May.

THIRD: The mayor will be a member of every city board and committee.

FOURTH: The city clerk will be appointed instead of elected

FIFTH: The board of compensation will be eliminated.

The first change, in the opinion of the committee, will save the city money, help do away with the labor and inconvenience of frequent elections and is a change which has worked well with the town of Norwich. The committee feels that the advantages to be gained by this change more than out-weigh the objection that a mayor and court of common council without experience might be elected. This matter is within the control of the political parties and the legal voters of the city and it is improbable that either of them would place the management of the city affairs in the hands of men without experience. This change is in line with the present system of electing the general assembly and town officers which has never resulted in the election of state or town governments wholly without experience

The second change is made in order that appropriations may be authorized for the fiscal year of the city before they are spent Under the present charter it has been the custom to spend money after May 15 each year without authorization, or it has been necessary to hold special city meetings in April or early in May, as was done this year and last It will also prevent an administration which is going out, from spending the money which should be spent by the incoming administration.

The third change was made in order that the mayor might, to some extent, co-ordinate the activities of the various departments of the city and at least be familiar with the activities of the various departments.

The fourth change was made in order that the city might have the services of an experienced clerk who would not be seeking re-election every two years. This provision does not require a full time city clerk any more than the provisions of the present charter. The duties the clerk will have under the new charter depend upon the will of the mayor and council, as is practicably the case under the present charter. The clerk under the present charter, may be required to devote all his time to the office and the council can now, under the present charter, raise the salary of the clerk, in their discretion.

The fifth change simply does away with the board of compensation which has not been appointed and which has not functioned for many years and is unnecessary.

The section in the proposed charter which provides that benefits may be assessed for the improvement of highways, streets, walks, avenues and landings is not a new section or change from the present charter, as this same section is a part of the present charter. The amendment to the old charter which provided that assessments should not be limited to abutting owners was left out in the revision as unnecessary and superfluous, as the legal effect of the language does not limit such assessments to abutting owners Even if the new charter is not approved, the power of the court of common council in relation to such assessments, will remain the same. The policy of not assessing for such benefits was adopted by the court of common council in 1874.

Copies of the proposed charter, as printed in the Norwich Bulletin, of December 13, 1928, may be procured at the office of the city treasurer.

Keep West Side Station Where It Is

Mr. Editor: Reading the Norwich evening Record of Friday I noticed an article that intimated that the West Side section of Norwich was soon to be without a fire station. It also stated that central station apparatus could make the trip over there as quickly as the West Side company could do it.

This last statement is pure bunk and hundreds in town could relate stories of how the West Side boys have been central to fires as far into the city as Water street. They state that the building on West Main street is old and in need of repairs. This may be so, but it should never be abandoned. Box 14 at Thames square goes in more often than any other box in the city. The West Side boys are right on the job. Thamesville has to make a long run up through Thames street, a narrow road many times blocked with traffic. Central companies have to fight their way through the heavy traffic of the city. The West Side station is about where it belongs and is close by factories, big buildings and can trim any other company in the city for getting to Washington Square, the Richmond plant or any West Side section. And then they would do away with this station entirely!

I wonder if this is not another of the "woodpile" stunts that is to be pulled off to jack up the two platoon system by shifting the West Side men to Central station. Next it will be double the salary because of the two shifts.

Thousands of dollars have been spent to give the city a "playground." Hollyhock is still a playground for rats and with sewerage being carried on either side of the "playground" it is a wonderful place for developing disease along with developing muscle. If that money has been well spent then why say at spending enough to either repair the present West Side station, or find some station location in that immediate vicinity. Wake up West End Community association before your insurance rates are boosted. The West Side station must not go—instead let's give the go-by to the men planning to leave that big section without decent fire protection. Think it over and if this story is true use your West Side votes Monday to teach these persons responsible that your homes and property and the lives of your loved ones are worth the dollars necessary to keep the West Side company in existence and standing by to protect you and yours.

Another thing which has been talked of but has never been pushed is that the town of Norwich furnish the East Great Plain section fire protection. Taftville and Yantic have protection. East Great Plain, the fastest growing part of the town, has no fire protection within five miles to Yantic and nearly eight miles to Taftville. A volunteer department in that section with a small fire truck would serve that section for many years. East Great Plain today has to depend on the city department for protection, for were it necessary to wait for Yantic or Taftville almost any fire would get beyond control before the firemen could arrive.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 31—The farm relief extra session of congress must be rather a monotonous business for the vast majority of house members. Only 65 out of the 435 have any committee assignments. The only activity of the other 370 is to sit on the house floor during the noon-to-5 p m. sessions and vote when required. Which accounts for the unusually large house attendance during the farm bill and tariff debates

For purposes of the special session—and by dictum of administration leadership aimed at shortening proceedings and confining congressional action to the specific matters set out in President Hoover's extra session call—only five house committees of the seventy-first congress were organized

They are the agriculture, enrolled bills, printing, rules, and ways and means committee, and their membership aggregates 65 Representative Fort of New Jersey is the only double duty man, sitting on both agriculture and rules.

Some 60 house members are members also of various joint congressional commissions or committees that meet now and then; but many of the new house assignments to these still are to be made

Plenty of Committees

In a normal session the house has 20 standing committees that meet regularly once or twice a week. The house of the seventieth congress had 25 other committees in addition to these, making 45 active committees at work with from three to 35 members of each.

As a result there never was a day when a member of the house did not have committee work to fill in his mornings and frequently his evenings, aside from attendance at sessions of the house itself in the afternoons.

Many of them normally are on as many as five important committees, so time never hung on their hands They could not possibly be present at all sessions of all their committees, the same being true of senators.

An Easy Time

So, with only a special purpose committee skeleton of the house at work as yet, there are a lot of house members with very little to do

They are not even called on to vote often, and, since most times there are less than 200 members on the house floor in the debaig sessions, it would seem as if quite a substantial number of members find it possible to take things easy

They have, of course, lots of correspondence with constituents to deal with They have also departmental chores to perform; but still non-members of the organized committees have an unusual amount of time at their disposal.

In a way this should prove helpful for the business of the regular session when it meets in December. The new members of congress will have had opportunity to get thoroughly settled in Washington life and familiar with congressional ways before they are faced with the duties of full time legislative activity

And plenty of work awaits them Around 4,000 house bills had been introduced before June 1 nearly all of which merely went into cold storage to await the regular session

YOUR HEALTH

Early Precautions Advised for Safeguarding Blood Pressure.

By Joseph P. Kane M. D., Washington, D. C

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

What are the conditions that will increase or decrease blood pressure from what it should be?

First there may be something wrong with the heart; it may be weak, and not exert force enough to carry on a competent circulation of the blood Or the capillaries may have increased tension in their walls so that it takes very vigorous heart beats to force the blood through them. In that case we have high blood pressure. Or, the blood vessels themselves may not be of the best material; they may not have much life or resiliency in them, and this may be interfering with the pressure. The blood flowing through them may be contaminated with poisonous matter as from abscessed teeth or some other reservoir of foul material in the body, and the walls of the blood vessels may therefore have become thickened or worn out Some of the very important organs of the body such as the kidneys, if diseased, may prove to be obstructions to the natural ebb and flow of the blood And there are many other things, such as the abuse of tobacco and alcohol, or over-eating, lack of exercise and over weight that may produce unnatural blood pressure.

So far, most of the reasons for, or guesses at, the cause of abnormal pressure are based on what we would expect from the laws of physics applied to a large rubber tube with a pump applied to one end and several thousand little tubes branching out from the other. But in studying the human body under conditions either of health or disease we come always to the place where our knowledge fades out like the end of a road At this point a bewildering array of little understood or wholly unknown and often very mysterious influences affect the circulation from possibly hundreds of approaches, and as yet we are ignorant as to how they act

We know that heredity has something to do with it. Physically all men are not born equal. A certain number are given hearts and blood vessels that will stand wear, tear and abuse for a hundred years. Others carry no guarantee; they are "seconds," or worse. Through the conditions of life, poverty, ignorance, worry and anxiety, fear, discontent, anger, home-sickness, unhappiness in domestic or business life—all of these with their effect on the emotions and the nervous system have a deadly effect on the normal functions of the body, possibly greater than anything we know of The nervous system, enormously intricate and complicated controls all the glands of the body. A fit of anger may pour as much poison into the blood stream as eating a pound of rotten meat. A spell of the blues may affect our health as much as a siege of typhoid fever.

Now realizing the many things that can throw the blood pressure off the straight and narrow path of health isn't it best to find out early in life how it is going and take every precaution to keep it normal? As an eminent authority, Dr Normal B. Cole says, "The way you live and think now is going to have far more to do with your blood pressure fifty years from now than any amount of medicine you can take then if your blood pressure is just beginning to go above normal don't be afraid, but adopt earnestly the hygienic measures your doctor advises looking toward prevention of a further rise. And if you are older and already possess a bothersomely high pressure remember that a quiet life and a contented mind will do more to drop your pressure to lower levels than all the medicine in the world."

Former Norwich Leaders

Dennis Walker.

(From the Norwich Bulletin, Nov. 4, 1890.)

Dennis Walker, for years the colored porter at the pharmacy of Lee & Osgood, died Monday afternoon after a long illness. He was a man whose good nature and faithfulness to his employers commended him to all whom he met or served He always displayed sound judgment and good sense, and commanded the esteem and confidence of the colored people of Norwich, among whom he stood high.

He was a member of Eureka lodge, A. F. M., in which he held several offices and of which for many years he was treasurer. He was a good citizen, a staunch republican, and "white" in every quality which makes for manliness. He will be missed from the walks of life in which he has always been a useful and honored member.

The large attendance at the funeral of Dennis T. Walker, for twenty-four years a faithful porter at the pharmacy of Lee & Osgood, from his residence on Fountain street at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, evidenced the regard in which he was held by his own race and by the whites. The Rev. Dr. Bacon of the Second Congregational church officiated at the house. The floral tributes were many and appropriate.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Thomas Spivery, Edmund Robinson, William Saudder, George Monroe, Walter H. Burr and William Taylor. The bearers were Andrew Marshall, Daniel Randall, Albert Marshall, Charles Briggs and Washington Kenyon. The bearers were all members of the Eureka lodge, A. F. M.

The burial services in Yantic cemetery were impressively performed by the Rev. J. E. Waters of the A. M. E. Zion church of this city.

Mr. Walker was born a slave at Warrington Springs, Va., and after making his way into the union lines, he cast his lot with the Eleventh Connecticut Volunteers, Col. Stedman commanding. He remained with the regiment through the war and came to this state where he was mustered out of service; and began life in the north as a servant for Gen. Stedman's mother in New London, with whom he remained about two years.

He then came to Norwich and was given employment in the wholesale drug house of Lee & Osgood. Although 34 years of age at that time he could not read or write. The clerks taught him, and he made himself one of the most useful men to the firm.

When it came to the location of goods, he knew readily where to find anything that was kept in stock. He never thought of hours, but was prompt on call for long hours or short. He was prudent and at the time of his death owned two houses on Fountain street.

Stories That Recall Others

Admonition

An old-stager was taking a youth to task for betting all he had on a horse race. He pointed out the many mishaps that may occur between post and finish and called a long roll of sure things that had gone wrong.

"Now think, son," he wound up "how long does it take to run the average horse race?"

"Less than two minutes."

"There's the point. It may be all right to try to get rich quick, but that's too quick."

Practical Reply

A primary teacher having a lesson on sanitation inquired: "Why must we keep our homes neat and clean?" An eager little miss had the opportunity to reply, and said:

"Because company might walk in at any minute."

The easiest way to kill moths

Expello in the closet . . . moths die!

EXPELLO kills moths—not only the flying moths, but the worms that really do the damage. Spraying seldom reaches these worms which are destructive in both summer and winter. They hide in folds and paddings, deep in furs and woolens. Just hang a can of Expello in your closet. Easier than setting an alarm clock. Close the door. Your clothing is safe. The heavier-than-air vapor works downward—through all fabrics—kills the worm.

Special container with ten handy bags for cedar chests, trunks, etc. Easiest, safest, surest moth-insurance ever sold. That's guaranteed. The Expello Corporation, Dover, N. H.

OBITUARY

William Henry Mowry

The death of William Henry Mowry, well known resident of Leffingwell, occurred at 6:15 o'clock Friday evening at his home. He was in failing health for a number of years, but was only seriously ill and confined to his bed for the past year.

Mr. Mowry was born in Plattsburgh, N. Y., June 7, 1863, and was the son of Samuel and Matilda Taylor Mowry. He came to Norwich from Westerly and resided here and in Leffingwell for the past 15 years, at the latter place conducting a large farm. He was united in marriage with Rebecca Paquette on April 5, 1894, in Greeneville, N. H.

Besides his wife Mr. Mowry is survived by two daughters, Mrs. William Herzog and Mrs. Jerome Norton, both of Hartford, three sons, Albert Mowry and Russell Mowry, both of Leffingwell, and Gilbert Mowry of Hartford, four sisters, Mrs. George Fournier of Three Rivers, Mass., Miss Tilda Mowry of Deering, N. H., Mrs. Henry LeMay of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. Amelia Dupont of Manchester, N. H., and two brothers, Samuel Mowry of Providence and Fred Mowry of Peterboro, N. H.

Mr. Mowry, for a number of years, had been a member of the Holy Name society of St. Patrick's church.

John Hallisey

Following a long illness John Hallisey of Hartford, formerly of Norwich, died at the Hartford hospital on Thursday evening. Born in Ireland, the son of John and Mary Hallisey, he came to this country as a youth and resided in Norwich for a number of years. For the past 35 years he has lived in Hartford, where he was employed in a plumbing supply house. Mr. Hallisey was not married. Surviving him are two brothers, Michael and William Hallisey, both of New London and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Kelly of Newark, N. J., and Mrs. Margaret Setchell of Rochester, N. Y.

James B. Steer

A resident of this city for a number of years, James B. Steer, 77, died here Thursday at Riverside home. He was born in England and came to Norwich from Worcester. A daughter, living in Meriden, survives him.

Miss Carolena W. Stetson

The death of Miss Carolena W. Stetson, who for many years was a school teacher in Greeneville, occurred Friday in Providence where her home had been for about twenty-five years past. She had been engaged more recently in nursing in Providence but had been in failing health for several months.

She was born in Greeneville and was the daughter of George and Harriet Stetson, her mother also having been a school teacher and principal of one of the Greeneville schools.

Miss Stetson is survived by a number of nephews and nieces, including Lester Gardner of Deckelson, Dorothea Gardner of Middletown, Kenneth Stetson of Brooklyn, this state, Russell Stetson of Massachusetts, Clinton Stetson of Providence, and Mrs. John L. Chapman of Central Village.

NEW LONDON GLOBE HAS 30-PAGE ISSUE

The New London Globe's issue of May 29 was a 30 page paper, which might have been denominated a "progress edition" as it was devoted to the development of the idea that New London is on the threshhold of a new era that shall bring about a greater New London.

The resources of the city in a great variety of lines and the advantages it enjoys in numerous ways are set out in detail and the prominent merchants and business men have cooperated to show the enterprise and magnitude of mercantile life in the city.

The Globe has handled an ambitious programme in a very creditable way.

SECURES PERMISSION TO ERECT FILLING STATION

Permission for the Standard Oil company to erect a gasoline filling station on the Bailey premises at Burnham square has been granted after a hearing held in the mayor's office.

The Standard Oil company has taken a lease of the premises through George E. Pitcher, as agent for his son-in-law Howell S. Bailey of New York. The building now standing on the property is to be torn down to allow the placing of the gasoline station.

NEW FIRE EXTINGUISHER FAILED ON X-RAY FILMS

MERIDEN, May 31—(AP)—Tests of a new fire extinguisher, made here today in the presence of fire and Meriden hospital officials, failed to prove wholly satisfactory as an agent for combatting a fire of x-ray films.

The tests were made as part of a survey which the Meriden hospital is conducting of its x-ray facilities in an effort to prevent a recurrence of a disaster similar to the recent Cleveland clinic fire and explosion.

SEEKS DIVORCE AND CUSTODY OF CHILD

August Braun of Carlton Hill, N. J., is made the defendant in a divorce suit brought by Antoinnette Hartkopf Braun of Stonington in the superior court for this county. She also asks custody of a minor child. She alleges her husband deserted her May 10, 1921. They were married Feb. 5, 1914.

TWENTY COUNTRIES SUPPLY APPLICANTS FOR AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP HERE

Great Britain and Poland are running a close race in furnishing prospective citizens in this country, according to the docket that has been prepared by Clerk John H. Walker for the superior court naturalization days that are to be Tuesday and Wednesday of next week in this city. The honors for numbers in this docket are with Poland, of which country 59 of those to apply for naturalization are natives, while 51 are from Great Britain.

The entire number to apply for naturalization is 236, coming from 20 different countries. Clerk Walker has effected a considerable improvement in the printed docket of names by arranging all names by nationalities instead of the indiscriminate way on which they were arranged in previous docket. He has also arranged the assignment for the days on which the applicants are to appear in court so that all those whose present nationality is of Great Britain, Italy, Germany, Greece and Russia will appear on Tuesday and all others on Wednesday. This will give 139 applicants to appear on Tuesday and 97 on Wednesday. The court session opens at 9 o'clock standard time.

The naturalization docket shows the following by nationalities: Poland 59, Great Britain 51, Italy 46; Russia 20, Germany and Greece each 11, Portugal 8, Sweden 7, Turkey and Albania 4 each, Lithuania 3, Jugoslavia, France and Syria 2 each, Norway, Netherlands, Filipino, Czechoslovakia, Spain and Latvia.

SUGGEST HEALTH MOVE AT NORWICH TOWN

The annual meeting of the Norwich Rural association was held Friday evening at 7:30 in the chapel on the green at Norwich Town, with a goodly number in attendance. Much interest was evinced in things pertaining to the community life of Norwich Town. Through the efforts of the association a considerable amount of shrubbery has been planted on the green and the association has assumed the care of this project. One of the projects, upon which the committee has spent considerable time and effort, is the matter of the disposal of sewage and garbage. That this is a vital question cannot be denied, and the fact that a number of open drains are situated in the closely settled sections, constitute nothing less than a public menace, it is claimed. It is the desire of the Rural association that those who have not given this subject serious consideration, will do so in the near future, and will give such aid as is possible to correct this trouble and so render to the community a real service. The incoming officials were authorized to name a committee to prepare a record of the planting of the Christmas tree on the green as a memorial to the late Ozias Dodge, who was chairman of the tree committee for a number of years, and who personally superintended the planting of the Christmas tree. The various committees reported interestingly of work performed. Norwich Town boasts of one of the finest greens or parks, which for size and setting can hardly be duplicated. It was the sense of the meeting that the town fathers be approached, to the end that the grass on the green be cut every two or three weeks instead of twice a year as heretofore. The report of the nominating committee disclosed the following list of names:

Willard Haugh, president; B. Sullivan, vice president; Donald Brigham, secretary and treasurer; John Mullen, sidewalk committee; Chas. Learned, health and sanitation; Mrs. Chas. Lamb, publicity; C. M. Beebe, tree committee; James Moran, secretary and treasurer, Christmas tree fund; picnic committee, Dr. and Mrs. Chas. Lamb.

The secretary was instructed to cast one ballot for the names as submitted and they were elected.

President Haugh then took the chair and after routine work the meeting adjourned.

JUDGMENT FOR DEFENDANT IN COLCHESTER ICE CASE

In a suit brought in the superior court by Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Zaworkin of Colchester against Tony Rutka of Colchester for $1,000 damages to restrain Rutka from cutting ice on a pond and for the value of ice already cut, Judge Allyn L. Brown has handed down judgment in favor of Rutka.

Without discussing the evidence in detail, it is sufficient to point out that from at least as early as 1880, the Colchester Rubber Co., was not only drawing water from this pond for use in connection with the carrying on of its manufacturing, but that it further exclusively attended to the maintenance and repairing of the dam, controlled the flash boards thereon, and in fact exercised full control over the dam and the water impounded thereby; and further that from that date until the time of this suit brought, either this company, its successors or those claiming under them, harvested ice from the pond each year without interruption. Such conduct without payment of rent or recognition of title in another, or disavowal of title in it or in those claiming under it, is sufficient to raise a presumption of its entry and holding as absolute owner, and standing unrebutted establishes the fact of a claim or right.

These rights thus exercised which had been ripened at least into an easement, to which legal title was so vested in the Colchester Rubber Co., if not to the fee of the pond itself and the land covered thereby passed by deed Oct. 9, 1908 to Thomas P. Kinney and from him by deed Nov. 23, 1921 to the defendant.

I further find that the easement which the defendant has now acquired includes the right to exercise his right to harvest ice by access over the dam between the pond and the ice house on his land.

Judgment may be entered for the defendant to recover his costs.

BAPTIST PASTORS AND CHOIRS WILL EXCHANGE

Sunday evening the pastor and the choir of the Central Baptist church will exchange with Rev. Chester H. Howe and his chorus choir of New London. The following are among the selections the chorus choir will sing: "I Will Sing of Thy Power", by Binns, "From the Land of the Sky Blue Waters," by Cadman-Eddy; "Praise the Name of the Lord," by H. W. Pecri, a soprano solo by Mrs. Lenore Elwood Tayor; "Repent Ye," by John Scott. Professor Bush will preside at the organ and will render "In Summer," by Stebbins and "Allegro Maestro" by Petrali. Rev. Mr. Howe will soon leave Connecticut for his new parish in Lynn, Mass. This will probably be his last appearance in Norwich for some time.

"These Eight Years" will be Dr. Pitt's theme at the morning service. Tomorrow will be the beginning of his ninth year in Norwich and that is why he is taking this particular topic. The Lord's supper will be observed and new members will receive the hand of fellowship. Announcement will be made of the eighth anniversary social which will occur next Friday evening.

BOY SCOUTS TO MAKE DRIVE AGAINST CATERPILLARS

A number of Scouts from Troop 6, in charge of Senior Patrol Leader Edward Lichenstein, plan to go to Gardner lake this (Saturday) morning and eradicate as many caterpillar nests as they will have time for. About eight Scouts are expected to take part in the drive against the caterpillars and look forward to the cooperation of the landowners in the vicinity.

Training up a child in the way he should go is going some nowadays.

NO PRIVILEGES ON BAGGAGE INSPECTION

NEW YORK, May 30—(AP)— Passengers arriving today on the liner Berengaria were the first to feel the effect of a new order abolishing "I. A." privileges, or immediate inspection of baggage.

Consequently about 50 persons who might otherwise have speedily gone through customs awaited their turn on the pier for inspection of their baggage.

Among those who waited in the long double line of passengers were Miss Mary M. McClung, a nice of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon; Brigadier General William Barclay Parsons, and Mrs. William Collins Herron, widow of a former assistant United States attorney general, who took her turn although she had a personal letter from Chief Justice William Taft.

The only persons granted special privileges were about 13 who had a departmental "I. A. S." from Washington, these included Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson and their daughter Helen; Mrs. Flora A Fuller, mother of former Governor Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts, who met her at quarantine; her daughter, Mrs. Fuller Halsey, and her granddaughter, Hope.

MISS BOOTH'S CONDITION IS STEADILY IMPROVING

HARSDALE, N. Y. May 31—(AP)—Preliminary study of X-ray photographs taken today disclosed that Miss Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in America did not suffer a fracture of the skull when she wa sthrown against the top of her automobile a week ago, her physician said tonight. Miss Booth's general condition is steadily improving, Dr. Tilden added.

Alleges Husband Cruel.

Intolerable cruelty and habitual intemperance are the allegations on which divorce is asked from James J. Shreenan of Newport, R. I., in a suit brought in the superior court by Fannie Mitchell Shreenan of New London. They were married in that city July 26, 1923.

Suffers Concussion Of Brain.

James Mahoney, 29, a carpenter living on Woodmansee avenue, fell from a staging while working on Scotland road this week. He fell about 25 feet and suffered concussion of the brain, cuts and bruises on the face. He was taken to the Backus hospital after being treated by Dr. J. J. Donohue.

Settlement Before Trial

The superior court suit of Joseph S. Sanchez of New London against Fannie Braxton of Cambridge, Mass., over property in Bayonet street, New London, which was to be tried Friday before Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court here was settled out of court.

GIGANTIC CELEBRATION IN ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 31.—(AP)—Amid a land and sea spectacle such as this city of festivities has seldom seen before, the inauguration of the golden jubilee of light marking the fiftieth anniversary of the invention of the incandescent lamp by Thomas A. Edison was held today. A million electric lights blazed from end to end of this island.

The festivities likewise mark the seventy fifth anniversary of the founding of Atlantic City and rededication of the Atlantic City convention hall.

Addressing 42,000 persons in the hall, Vice President Curtis said: "Year in and year out people from all parts of the United States, even from the four corners of the earth, by the millions, are attracted to this city. It is hard to conceive of a better place for a national auditorium, for a permanent exposition of the many and diverse interests of our country."

Sir Esme Howard, ambassador from Great Britain, speaking as dean of the diplomatic corps in Washington said: "I hope that in the days to come this auditorium may be the scene of many useful international conferences over which friendship and good will may preside, so that all knotty problems here discussed may be happily solved and this hall may thus serve the purpose of its founders and become famous in history as the home of peace."

EVICTION NOTICES SERVED ON 49 STRIKING EMPLOYES

NEWMARKET, N. H. May 31.—(AP)—Second eviction notices were served on 49 striking employes of the Newmarket Mfg. company today. First notices were served a month ago on 145 strikers, who left their work Feb. 20 and who occupied company flats. Under the state law the first notice is for 30 days and the second for a week. The 49 who received them today must appear in court June 7 to show cause why they should not be evicted.

The strikers have made plans for a tented city and a score of tents are housing those who have left their homes. Other tents are being set up each day.

FATALLY INJURED WHILE WORKING IN LAUNDRY

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 31—(AP)—George A. Ryan, 26, a former councilman, was fatally injured this morning while working in the laundry of Dickinson hospital. It is believed that Ryan came in contact with an electric wire of high voltage and was thrown against a dry tumbler.

ACQUITTED ON CHARGE OF ACCEPTING BRIBE

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 31. —(AP)— Charles W. Mason, chief justice of the Oklahoma supreme court, tonight was acquitted by a senate court of impeachment of a charge of accepting as a bribe a motor car valued at $4,000 from Willis G. Sautbine and Charles D. Sautbine, at a time when they had litigation pending before the supreme court.

A man may do the best he can and still get the worst of it.

RAILROADS DISCLOSE GAIN IN EFFICIENCY

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An analysis of the earning power of the country's 59 leading railroads, prepared by the Standard Statistics company of New York, shows the results of a year of intense effort by railroad authorities to increase operating efficiency.

Fifty of the companies report new high records for the number of cars hauled per trian last year; 44 of them increased their gross train loads, and 36 made new high scores in the net load per train.

Twenty roads made new highs in density of traffic. Most of these gains were recorded in the west and middle west. Comparing one road with another, the analysis puts Texas and Pacific at the top of the list with new high records in nine of the 10 items studied.

Nine of the roads made new highs in eight of the 10 items. They were the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, Chicago Great Western, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, Rock Island and Pacific, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha, Hocking Valley, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, New York, New Haven and Hartford, and Wheeling and Lake Erie.

MODERN TURKS DEMAND UP-TO-DATE RADIO TUNES

ANGORA, Turkey (AP)—The effect of radio on Turkey's reputation is getting much space in the newspapers here. Modern Turks are demanding that Turkish music, which forms the major part of the Turkish radio company's programs, be replaced with jazz and European music.

The plaintive, primitive native airs are all right, it is argued, when kept at home. But it is contended that a foreign listener, tuning in on Stamboul or Angora and hearing nothing but weird sobbing sounds, gets a wrong impression.

URGES THAT SHOPS BE SCIENTIFIC SCHOOLS

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Recruiting more of the nation's higher technical personnel from among workers in industry is urged in a report to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers by W. E. Wickenden, of New York.

He says the American system of technical education has developed in a one-sided manner. There should be schools parallel to the university system, to which students are admitted primarily on evidence of their capacity and interest, rather than formal scholastic credentials. The teaching should be based on direct instruction and experience.

Ex-Governor Moore's new organization, the Investment Fund of New Jersey, plans to carry into effect a program resembling the one recently introduced to banking circles by Mr. Raskob. Subscribers to the fund will be encouraged to buy its shares on an easy payment system.

Some banking authorities profess to see in the "poor man's investment trust" merely a return to the original idea of trusts, which was to make possible diversification and expert leadership for small investors.

Cow Breaks State Mark.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Mercedes Douglas Pieterje, 7-year-old purebred Holstein, at the Southern Colony and Training school at Union Grove, has established a new Wisconsin record for alltime all breeds and all ages, by producing 882.8 pounds of milk in a seven-day test. There were 39 pounds of butter.

INTERCOLLEGIATE BASEBALL LEAGUE IS ORGANIZED

NEW YORK, May 31—(AP)—The organization of the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball league was completed at Princeton on Thursday night, when the executive committee ratified a constitution and by-laws, Ellwood W. Kemp, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the league, announced tonight.

Operating informally this season under a schedule one game short of a round robin of home-and-home engagements for the six members, the league will begin to function officially next season.

Members of the organization, an expansion of the former quadrangle cup league are: Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Cornell and Dartmouth. The executive committee drafted a tentative schedule for 1930 at the Princeton meeting. It will be announced after another meeting in September.

Shields Wins Tourney.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 31—(AP)— Frank Shields, of Roxbury school, eighth ranking player in the United States, won the 35th annual Harvard interscholastic tennis tournament today by defeating Arthur Noble, of Newton, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1, in the final match. Noble was last year's champion.

Dartmouth Golf

HANOVER, N. H., May 31—(AP)— John R. A. Shields, Seattle, Wash., freshman, today won the Dartmouth college championship golf tournament by defeating John G. Cheney, '30, of Buffalo, N. Y., 5 and 4, in the final round. Cheney is a member of the varsity golf team and won the Buffalo open tournament last year.

The committee in charge of the sale all belonging to auxiliary to the Legion, were Mrs. John Tourjee, Mrs. Howard Palmer, Mrs. John Jenssen and Mrs. Fred Rafuse.

Mrs. Maud Lonsberry of Middletown is visiting at the home of her father, Joel Singer of Spring street.

Daniel Robertson was in Westerly Thursday.

Miss Thelma Meister has completed her studies at Norwich Art school and will spend her vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Almon J. Meister.

Holiday Events

Memorial day at 10:30 there was a parade in which the Noank band played for the marchers. In line were the Civil war veterans, Sons of Veterans, Spanish war veterans, American Legion and auxiliary, American Mechanics, Daughters of America, Boy Scouts and school children. Dr. E. P. Fitch was marshal. It was one of the largest parades held in the village in a number of years. The school and mill were closed all day and the post office observed holiday hours. A few of the stores closed for all day, while the rest closed at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Soutrel and family of Newark, N. J., are spending a few days at their summer home on Mason's Island.

Frank Trahan of East Greenwich is making a brief visit at his home on Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Judd of Holyoke, Mass., are at their summer home on Groton Long Point for several days.

L. L. Smith is building a small store and gasoline stand on Elm street near the railroad. The store will be used as a waiting room for the bus line passengers.

Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald and family have returned to Newport, R. I., after visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Robertson.

Rev. and Mrs. L. H. Dorchester of Hartford are spending a few days at their cottage at Groton Long Point.

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Williams of Hartford are at their cottage at the Point.

Miss Rosalie Thorsen of Thompsonville is spending a short time at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lars Thorsen.

Reconditioning Boats

Work on the pleasure boats which have been stored at Rogers boatshop for the winter is being rushed now that the season has opened. The Francis, owned by John Noyes, is being hauled out on the ways for overhauling and repairs. The Sea-Wolf and the Betty Marie II which have been hauled out on the ways for repairs and painting were launched recently. Work on the yacht Osprey has been completed and will soon be put in commission for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Woodward of Springfield are at their cottage at the Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hewitt of New York are spending the week end at their summer home at Lighthouse Point.

SOMERS

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. Gager have returned to their Somers' home after spending the winter in Orlando, Fla., as is their custom.

Mrs. Arthur Ward of Chicopee is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Demock.

Pupils in Mrs. Ray Ladd's room, the intermediate room, were recently given the pleasure of being allowed to go to the window in school hours to view a scarlet tanager hopping about nearby trees.

ATHLETIC BUILDING TO BE DEDICATED AT HOLY CROSS-ACADEMY GAME TODAY

PROBABLE LINEUPS TODAY

N. F. A.	Holy Cross Frosh
Arico, 1b	c, Gibson
Gibbs, ss	p, Jarvis, Mahoney, Klarman
Cummings, 2b	1b, O'Connell
LaCroix, cf	2b, Carroll
Fagan, p	ss, Marshall
Tombari, lf	3b, Calugopi
Fontaine, c	lf, Jarvis
Marks, rf	cf, Farrell
Sherry, 3b	rf Friel, Nolan

Today is Lloyd Jarvis day at the campus when the Holy Cross Freshmen team, of which the former Academy star is a member, meets the Academy at the campus. The game will start at 3 o'clock and previous to the clash the new athletic building will be dedicated, making June 1 a red letter date in the local school's history.

Lloyd Jarvis Opposes Old Team

This is one of the major games of the year and a record-breaking crowd is expected. Jarvis is coming back to the campus today to battle his own teammates for the first time. Lloyd, the hero of many diamond conflicts during his four years as a member of the Red and White team, will play just as hard today to send his alma mater down to defeat. Lloyd may pitch against the Wildcats, he being one of the three hurlers on the team but if he is not in the box, he will surely be stationed in left field. Many there will be who will be expecting a home run from the star southpaw today. Last year while a member of the Academy he led the state in circuit clouts, hitting seven.

LLOYD JARVIS

The dedication ceremonies will be brief and will probably start about 2:30. Edward J. Crawford of New York, a personal representative of Charles F. Noyes, prominent Academy alumnus who has been especially generous to the Academy, having the state championship team of 1928 as his guests in New York city, will throw out the first ball for the game and will also inspect the athletic house.

Crusaders At Top of Game

The Holy Cross team, which got a bad start, has come along like a house afire in the past month, scoring victories over such teams as the Boston college frosh, Brown frosh, the latter by a 22 to 2 score, St. Anselm's college and many others. Right now they are rated as one of the leading college yearling teams in these parts. Included in the lineup besides Lloyd, is Farrell, former Bulkeley high of Hartford star, Klarman, of New Haven Hillhouse, Mahoney, former Taunton, Mass., star and others.

In a game against the Holy Cross varsity, leading college team in the east, Mahoney and Klarman, probably one of whom will twirl today, only lost out to their big brothers by 1 to 0 after a gruelling struggle.

Fagan To Pitch

Red Fagan, who beat Jarvis in a Dusty leage game last summer, will attempt to pitch the Academy back into a winning stride this afternoon after the disastrous performance against Harding Thursday. The team is not undefeated now and is just aching to get out this afternoon and convince their many supporters that Thursday was just the off-day that comes even to the best of teams. All the errors are out of the system now, is the way they figure and they are just raring to go today. Their record, despite Thursday's loss, still stands out as one of the best in the state—16 victories and one defeat. The crowd is still with the boys and will back them to the limit today if the team plays the fine ball it is capable of playing. With Fagan in the box, Sherry will go to second and Buck LaCroix to center the rest of the lineup remaining intact.

First-Class Building

The new $12,000 athletic building is of a modern design, 25 feet wide and 52 feet long, two stories in height and of brick construction. In contrast to the two showers available in the old wooden clubhouse, there are 18 showers, which will provide hot and cold water. There are two shower rooms, one for the Academy athletes and the other for visiting players. They are situated on the ground floor along with locker rooms and dressing rooms. Each room is fitted to accommodate 20 persons.

Another improvement in the new building is a hot air furnace. The old clubhouse was never heated. A 500 gallon hot water heater has been installed. There is a special room for the coach, 10x12, and connected with that is a shower room for each coach. The main floor also contains an assembly room, about 25 feet square. Two drying rooms are on the left of the entrance, one for the home team and the other for the visitors. Stairs lead from both of these rooms to the shower and locker rooms downstairs. On the main floor is also a storage room, 7x12. Peck-McWilliams Co. of this city had the general contract and Harold C. Dahl the contract for plumbing and heating.

Charles F. Noyes, of New York, prominent Academy alumnus, made the real initial move which resulted in the erection of the building, when he wrote trustees of the Academy, that he would contribute $5,000 toward an athletic building if the alumni and friends of the alumni association would raise $5,000. Shortly after this announcement, over $6,000 was raised by pledges from the board of corporators and other N. F. A. graduates the building became a reality.

Plans for the building were prepared by Chandler and Palmer.

PHILLIES JOLT PIRATES OUT OF FIRST PLACE

PITTSBURGH, May 31—(AP)—The Philadelphia Nationals jolted the Pittsburgh Pirates in the opening game of a series here today, 10 to 7. The defeat dislodged the Buccaneers from the league leadership.

The punch of the visitors was much in evidence, Klein and O'Doul leading the attack with home run smashes into the right field stands. Each club used three hurlers.

The Quakers amassed a five run lead only to have the Pirates deadlock the tally in the fifth. The Phillies forged ahead again in the 8th when Thompson sent two runners across with a double and O'Doul hammered out a home run. The score:

ATHLETICS CONTINUE TO MOW DOWN OPPOSITION

PHILADELPHIA, May 31—(AP)—The Athletics clubbed the Tigers into submission today to win the opening game of the east-west series by 9 to 6, the fourth successive Philadelphia victory.

Jimmy Foxx hit safely in his fifteenth consecutive engagement. His total for the day was a homer, a triple and a single, which drove in four runs. His homer was his ninth of the season.

Howard Ehmke made his first start of the season, and left the game after holding his former mates to two runs in seven innings. Eddie Rommel permitted the Detroit batters to rough him for five hits and four runs in the ninth, and this onslaught gave the Tigers a margin of 15 to 14 hits.

Neither Owen Carroll nor Emil Yde proved particularly difficult for Athletic batsmen, who themselves got fourteen hits. The A's increased their lead over the Browns to four and one-half games and over the Yankees to eight. The score:

Jones Arrives at Boston

BOSTON, May 31—(AP)—Stiff punching "Gorilla" Jones, the Akron welterweight, arrived here today to complete his training for his return bout with Al Mello, of Lowell at the Boston Garden on Monday night. This show will close the indoor boxing season hereabouts.

Jones decisively defeated Mello when they clashed last month in a New York ring. Eddie Mack, the Boston Garden promoter, has promised to match the victor with Jackie Thompson in an outdoor show.

Schoaff, Williams Tennis Capt.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., May 31—(AP)—Thomas R. Schoaff, of Fort Wayne, Ind., today was elected captain of the Williams college tennis team for next season.

Ingraham Tennis Leader

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 31—(AP)—Arthur Ingraham, Jr., of Oakland, R. I., has been chosen captain of the Harvard varsity tennis team for next season it was announced here today.

NEW ATHLETIC BUILDING DEDICATED TODAY

Where's those buzzards that were hollering about the cold weather?

That's easy, they're the same ones you hear telling you how hot it is now.

And now speaking of the hot weather, isn't it funny how different people greet you on the street?

You meet John Jones down town and he looks at you, smiles and says "Ain't it hot?" You meet Joe Brown and he says "Ain't it hot?" And all the time you are sweating your head off and trying to forget about the heat and somebody keeps reminding you of it.

Mrs. Jones comes along and says "Isn't this warm weather we are having?" Just as if you didn't know it was hot and as if she was trying to find out if it really was warm.

Can you imagine what a setback it would give the old lady if you should say "Why, no, this weather isn't warm it's really cool." I'll bet a thin dime that she would look at you kind of queer and think you was coo-coo.

Another favorite and nonsensical greeting is "Is it hot enough for you today?" Now everybody expects you to say "yes" and furthermore they know darned well that it's hot enough and then some.

But you pull a fast one some boiling hot day and say "No, I feel a trifle cool and I hope it gets warmer soon," and they'll say it's too bad you drink such poor liquor and that you'd better change your bootlegger.

People ask such foolish questions in the way of greetings and if you don't answer them the way they expect they put you down as a sap

But if people are so afflicted with the hot weather why don't they stay home and try to keep cool. Can you imagine anybody playing golf on a day like yesterday? Well, I saw quite a bunch down at the golf club lugging the clubs around the course like they liked it.

Ask some of those fellers to take a chair up to the second floor at home and you'd think you'd asked 'em to drink carbolic acid. Ask wifie she knows.

UZCUDUN STARTS TRAINING FOR SCHMELING BOUT

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., May 31—(AP)—Although Paulino Uzcudun had planned to start his training grind for his battle June 27 with Max Schmeling tomorrow, the Basque woodchopper surprised camp followers by donning his togs and going through a brisk work-out today.

He went two rounds with the heavy bag, two more with the light bag, shadow boxed two rounds and then went through 12 minutes of brisk calisthenics.

The Spaniard spent most of the morning strolling through the woods on the Hans Ehlmer estate, familiarizing himself with the paths over which he will do most of his road work.

HYDE WELL ON WAY TO ANOTHER STATE TITLE

NEW HAVEN, May 31.—(AP)—Hobey Hyde, of Hartford, seemed on his way to another state tennis title today if he can continue his stellar play which has marked the annual tournament in progress at the New Haven Lawn club, in the only singles match of the day, Hyde was opposed to R. Ryan, Yale luminary and won in straight sets although given a stiff tussle before winning, 7-5, 6-3.

To win the title again, however, Hyde will have to be at his best when he encounters either Frank Shields, of New York, seeded number one and tenth ranking player in the country, or Frank Luce, who has brought much honor to Yale as a tennis player.

Middlebury Downs Tufts

MIDDLEBURY, Vt., May 31—(AP)—The Middlebury college nine defeated Tufts, 4 to 2 here today by staging rallies in the first, fifth and eighth innings. The Jumbos scored both of its runs in the fourth. The home team hit Parkhurst, the Tufts pitcher, hard and gave Spooner, its own hurler, splendid support.

VELVETMEN AND UNIVERSAL CLUB TO BATTLE AT TAFTVILLE ON SUNDAY

J. B. Martin meets one of the strongest opponents yet to appear on the schedule Sunday afternoon when the fast Universal Winding A. C. of Providence will oppose the locals at the J. B. Martin grounds. The Universal A. C. is one of the fastest semi-pro teams in the state and the lineup includes some of the most prominent players in organized ball.

Manager Jordan of the Rhode Island club will bring his strongest team to the local field tomorrow afternoon in an effort to defeat the Velvetmen as they did in the past season. This club is now leading in the Providence Twilight league, winning five encounters out of six starts. Manager Jordan has on his pitching staff Quirk and Brown. Quirk needs no introduction to the fans in this territory as he defeated the Velvetmen twice out of three starts in the past season. Cappalli has been assigned for the backstop duty with Hansen covering first. The remainder of the team is made up of college stars and players who have seen service in the Eastern league at various times, which is enough to say that they are top-notch ball players for the Providence league was one of the fastest semi-pro circuits operating in Rhode Island.

Manager Erlbeck is relying on his same team that he used in the opening attraction. West will do the twirling with "Rus" Fisher in reserve. Eccleston or Murphy will be seen on the receiving end, Lamory or Murphy will cover first, Normandin at second, "Nap" Liberty will take care of third, with Krauss in the shortfield, making one of the fastest infields in Eastern Connecticut. Taft and Simcox will officiate. Game called at 3:15 p. m. (d. s. t.) The lineups:

PAPERMAKERS TAKE LOOSE GAME FROM VELVEMEN

The Robertson Paper Box Co. defeated the J. B. Martin team in a losely played game in a Montville Industrial league game 9 to 1 on the Skelton field in Uncasville Friday evening.

McKinney pitched superb ball for the winners allowing only three hits all of which were made in the sixth when he weakened a bit; he also connected for a circuit clout in the second.

N. Rioux deserved a better fate holding Robertson's to six scattered hits, but errors caused his downfall. Koninski on second being the biggest offender with four.

Sarayusa played a good game in the field for the Boxmakers and Jacobs performed well for the Martins with two nice winning catches. The score:

RACE FOR SECOND PLACE DEVELOPES IN E. C. W. R. I. LOOP

While the Academy has clinched the league title there is a stiff race on for second place between Chapman Tech and Stonington that may not be decided until the final game. Stonington has spurted considerably of late, winning the last six of its seven games. They play the Academy here next week. Chapman Tech, on the other hand, has slipped somewhat during the past week and stands a good chance of being nosed out by Stonington. Westerly and Bulkeley are fighting it out for the leadership of the second division and Windham seems slated to occupy last place.

	W	L	Pct.
N. F. A.	9	0	1000
Stonington	5	3	.625
Chapman Tech	4	3	.571
Bulkeley	2	5	.286
Westerly	2	6	.250
Windham	1	6	.143

H. N. S. Challenge

The Holy Name society baseball team of Jewett City are desirous of boking games with any fast team under 20 years of age. They would especially like to hear from the Hermes club, the Lutherans, Baltic Social club, Plainfield Red Stars, Wauregan Grays or any other team desiring games. They would also like to arrange for a twilight game with any of the members of the Norwich Junior Twilight league. Games may be obtained by writing Capt. Francis Liberty, Jewett City, or phone 176 Jewett City.

CURRIE NAMED LEADER OF YALE FROSH CREW

GALES FERRY, Conn., May 31—(AP)—Etheridge Currie, of Detroit, was elected captain of the Yale freshman crew today. He prepared for college at Phillips Exeter academy where he captained the crew in his second year. He was halfback on the freshman football eleven last fall. He rows in number seven position.

The varsity eight showed apparent need of practice after today's workout which was sluggish. The crew rowed downstream late this afternoon for four miles stroking leisurely. On the return trip starts were practiced but the checking was off form and lack of co-ordination was noticeable. Although the beat was raised to 40 on the last stretch the stroke was choppy and the men were missing water.

The showing of the junior varsity boat was considered poor in the afternoon workout of 5 1-2 miles. The stroking of the eight gave the coaches much consternation as the boat see-sawed under a heavy pull and the men continually missed water. After several starts the beat was raised from 22 to 36 but it dropped off and later rose to 40 which is not considered good rowing. Indications today pointed to changes being made from the combination crew if the "jayvee" showing fails to improve.

Coach Don Grant supervised the four mile paddle of the combination eight and tried out various combinations. The freshmen also rowed for four miles led by Conger who replaced Gillespie as coxswain.

CARDS REGAIN LEAD IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 31—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals regained leadership of the National league by taking five victories in three days over the Cincinnati Reds, winning today 8 to 1, while the Pittsburgh Pirates were losing to the Philadelphia Nationals.

The Cards bunched hits off May in the first three innings and knocked him out. Kemner, who relieved him, allowed only one hit and struck out six men. Chick Hafey hit his eleventh homer of the season in the first inning, scoring behind High, and Frisch. Frankhouse allowed the visitors 10 hits but was effective in the pinches. The score:

U. S. PLAYERS ELIMINATE CUBANS IN DAVIS CUP

DETROIT, Mich., May 31—(AP)—With a relentless rush that blasted feeble Cuban opposition to shreds, Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison today clinched victory for the United States Davis cup tennis team in the American Zone finals.

Paired in the doubles event, the third of the final series with the Cubans, Van Ryn and his blonde partner breezed through a straight set triumph over Captain Ricardo Morales and Herman Upman 6-2, 6-0, 6-1. The victory gave the United States three straight over its less experienced rivals as Van Ryn and Johnny Hennessey started the match by winging the two opening singles matches in straight set fashion yesterday.

Two more singles events will be played tomorrow, but they will be mere formalities and Captain Fitz-Eugene Dixon, non-playing captain of the United States team, said he would let Van Ryn and possibly Hennessey rest and prepare for the team's sailing June 5 for Europe where it will meet the European inter-zone finalist for the right to challenge France for the prized Davis trophy.

PAIRINGS IN MEMORIAL DAY TOURNEY MADE

The pairings in the Memorial day tournament at the Norwich Golf club were made yesterday and play in the first round will start today. The tournament committee has ruled that all first round matches must be completed by a week from tonight or all unplayed matches will be defaulted. In other years the Memorial day tourney has hung on until the Fourth of July tourney. As there are to be several other club tournaments this season it is desirable to get the Memorial day tournament over as soon as possible.

The qualifiers have been divided into sixteens and prizes will be awarded for the winners and runners-up in each sixteen. D. W. Morton, medalist is slated to play W. G. Park in his first round match. Cy Jenks, youthful golf star, is in the bottom half of the bracket and meets A. H. Chase as his first opponent. Jenks had a 78 while Morton had a 77 in the qualifying round which would indicate that Morton and Jenks may meet in the finals.

The pairings follow:

First Sixteen.

D. W. Morton vs. W. G. Park.
Dr. V. D. Eldred vs. W. E. Turner.
E. G. McKay vs. E. Learned, Jr
P. A. Johnson vs. B. F. Rogers.
J. C. Sayles vs. H. P. Prentice.
J. C. Rogers vs. W. L. Chaffin
J. T. Moulton vs. S. E. Smiley.
A. H. Chase vs. Cy Jenks

Second Sixteen.

H. S. Ford vs. E. D. Ballou
C. A. Gager vs. Frank Lathrop.
C. D. Foster vs. R. B. Sherman.
L. G. Briggs vs. E. W. Perkins.
J. B. Dick vs. Dr. E. C. Kirby.
E. Learned Sr. vs. W. S. Mitchell.
H. A. Tirrell vs. J. T. Hunter.
B. M. Gaines vs. James Morton.

Third Sixteen

James Purdon vs. Bye.
C. M. Patrick vs. Bye.
Louis Quinson vs. William Shields.
H. C. Dahl vs. W. M. Eastwood.
Tom Washburn vs. Harold Robinson.
Howarth Collins vs. Russell Baird
E. L. Duff vs. Bye.
C. W. Nay vs. Bye.

MOOSUP CLASHES WITH SOCONY TEAM SUNDAY

The Moosup baseball team plays the second game of the season Sunday at the Carpet Grounds in Moosup with the fast Socony team of New London as the opponents. The Socony team needs little introduction to Eastern-Conecticut fans as they have been playing the best clubs in this part of the state. It was this same club, with Taylor in the box, that held the fast J. B. Martin club to an 18-inning tie besides taking two games from them.

The Socony team will have Coullard at first, Burns at second, Barry at short, Foote at third, Feeney in left field, Walsh in center and Harron in right. Cragan will do the catching for Socony while either Taylor, Chappell or Daniels will be on the mound.

The Moosup team will be the same as last Sunday when they swamped the Cleveland Colored Giants. Frechette is slated for first, Hardie or French for second, "Big" Potter of Fall River at short, "Hal" Chapman at third, Agnew in left field, Dissinger in center, and Lefty Dugas in right. Allard is booked for the receiving end while "Buss" Gardner will be on the mound. Gardner was formerly with New Bedford in the New England league. Roy Rock will direct the team from the bench. Ferrick and Agnew will umpire. The game is slated for 3:15.

STANFORD ATHLETES LEAD IN TRIALS OF I. C. A. A. A. A.

FRANKLIN FIELD, Philadelphia, May 31—(AP)—Stanford university's brawny band of athletes, coached by "Dink" Templeton, dominated the qualifying trials of the inter-collegiate A. A. A. A. track and field championships today.

By capturing 14 places in the preliminaries, four more than Pennsylvania, eastern "dark horse", the Cardinals from Palo Alto demonstrated that there was no ballyhoo about the advance notices of their prowess. As a result they are overwhelming favorites to comp off with their third successive team championship in the finals tomorrow and thereby give the Far West its eighth triumph over the eastern talent in a period of nine years.

So sensationally did Stanford's stars perform in the field events, their specialties, that it seemed they are almost assured of sufficient points to clinch the title without lifting an implement tomorrow, since this afternoon's achievements all stand.

Harlow Rothert, Cardinal all around star, turned in the day's only record performance when he hurled the 16 pound shot 50 feet, 3 inches, eclipsing by two inches the mark of his team mate, Eric Krenz, who did no better than fourth in today's tests in defense of his title. Krenz, however, set the pace in the discus while another Cardinal, Leo Kibby, topped the field in the javelin with a fine heave of 204 feet, 7 inches.

The complete list of qualifying places scored: Stanford 14; Pennsylvania 10; Southern California 9; Yale and New York university 8 each; Harvard 6; Georgetown and Syracuse five each; Cornell, Colgate and Pittsburgh 4 each; Dartmouth and California 3 each; Holy Cross, Bates, Brown, Penn State, Michigan State, Princeton, Boston College, Haverford, Swarthmore and Maine one each.

TILDEN AND MISS WILLS REACH SEMI-FINAL ROUND

PARIS, May 31—(AP)—Three American tennis stars joined in a determined effort today to shatter the myth of European supremacy on the courts in the quarter final round of the French championships. When the smoke of the day's battles had cleared away, two clean-cup victories had been chalked up for the United States while the third invader from over-seas seemed well on his way to triumph.

Big Bill Tilden and Helen Wills, America's first ranking stars, went into the semi-finals by defeating a pair of Europe's leaders, Baron Humbert De Morpurgo of Italy and Helene La Faurie of France. The tide of the third match seemed to be turning strongly toward a victory for Frank Hunter over Jean Borotra when darkness put an end to the day's play.

After a very shaky start which cost him the first two sets, Tilden, once the greatest exponent of the tennis comeback, brought off one of the most brilliant rallies of his career to down the Italian ace by scores of 9-11, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2, 8-6.

Miss Wills scored her usual easy victory in the meeting of Helen and Helene, defeating Mme. Lafaurie with the loss of only five games. The scores were 6-4, 6-1. The victory put her in the semi-finals where she will meet her opponent of last year's final match, Eileen Bennett of England.

Hunter captured the first and third sets of his battle with Jean Borotra of France to hold the lead by scores of 8-6, 8-10, 6-4, when play was halted. The match will be completed tomorrow before the semi-finals start.

Greeneville vs. Fitchville

Greeneville A. C. will play the Fitchville A. C. Sunday afternoon at the Fitchville grounds. The locals have signed up Ski, who last year pitched for Voluntown A. C. Greeneville will lineup as follows: Quinn, c; Ski, p; Couture or Young, 1b; Nevins, 2b; Breen, 3b; Navick, ss; Fitzgerald, lf; Snow, cf; S. Finn, rf.

COMPSTON HANDS HAGEN AN 8 AND 7 DEFEAT

MOOR PARK, England, May 31—(AP)—Archie Compston, Great Britain's best match play golfer, took a bit of the shine from Walter Hagen's 1929 triumph in the British open championship by drubbing him, 8 up and 7 to play, in a 36 hole match here today. It was the first of two contests between the two star professionals, the second to be run off at Birmingham tomorrow.

The open champion's defeat today was by no such margin as his 18 and 17 reverse at Compston's hands last year. But that match was at 72 holes. If this had gone another 36 holes, probably he might have been just as soundly trounced. He lost six holes in a row from the 24th through the 29th.

The only sparkle to Hagen's play for the day came at the 30th hole, after the match was over. He garnered a birdie two at the 200 yards one shotter when they were playing only for fun. The gallery of 2,500 following the match gave the American a big round of applause for the feat. It was the first putt longer than his driver had holed all day.

SIMPSON WINS 62D LAP OF BUNION DERBY

DUNCAN, Ariz., May 31—(AP)—Paul Simpson, Burlington, N. C., college youth, forced to the front today in the sixty-second lap of the trans-continental footrace, running the 38 miles from Lordsburg, N. M., to Duncan in 4 hours 57 minutes and 50 seconds.

Simpson, fifth in elapsed time, two days ago finished next to last when he was troubled by his stomach. Today, he averaged 7.6 miles an hour over the dirt roads and desert country, despite a broiling Arizona sun. Giusto Umek, Italy, was second, in 5:10:40, strengthening his hold on third place.

The first five leaders in elapsed time: Pete Gavussi, England, 404.23.47.
John Salo, Passaic, N. J., 418.48.58.
Giusto Umek, Italy, 428.48.58.
Sam Richman, New York, 440.02.22.
Paul Simpson, Burlington, N. C., 447.10.43.

YALE NOT IN ANY COLLEGIATE LEAGUE

NEW HAVEN, May 31—(AP)—Denial of published reports that the Yale baseball team is a member of a college league, was made tonight by Yale Athletic association officials. It was stated that Yale was asked to join an existing league and that the athletic board of control voted several weeks ago to accept the invitation next year on a trial basis.

The league now consists of Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth and Pennsylvania and it is believed that Princeton has also accepted an invitation to join next year which will make the league consist of six teams.

MYSTIC

VACCINATION START OF MISS MORGAN'S ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

MYSTIC, May 31—Martha Allen Morgan, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Morgan, of Pequotsepos, Mystic, died at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, New London at 5:50 Friday afternoon, May 17, she was vaccinated and apparently was getting along well until Tuesday afternoon when her mother carried her to Stonington to take her violin lesson. While there she became ill, was removed to her home and a doctor called. She grew worse and a doctor from New London was called Thursday and he ordered her removed to the hospital. Two nurses were in attendance and four doctors were called in consultation. In spite of all efforts she died from spinal meningitis. She was born Aug. 11, 1918, and was an exceptionally bright and beautiful girl. She played the violin with skill, also gave recitations in public. In the fifth grade at Broadway school, she was noted for her sunny disposition and pleasing personality. Besides her parents she is survived by a brother, Walter C. Morgan, Jr.

EXAGGERATING CASES OF SMALLPOX HURTS TOWN

Various radio stations have been broadcasting about the smallpox in Mystic and as this has hurt Mystic a great deal, the Mystic chamber of commerce decided to do something about it, so at 1.30 Thursday afternoon, the radio announcer at Station WEAN, Providence, stated that he had a letter signed by L. E. Valet, secretary of the chamber of commerce and countersigned by the president, Roscoe Burrows, which read "The reports of the recent smallpox epidemic in Mystic have been greatly exaggerated. Only four or five cases all very mild, have occurred in the village. All have been quarantined, and every possible precaution used. Authority of these statements has been obtained from Dr. D. E. G. Taylor, health officer of the town of Stonington. All places of amusement, churches lodges, schools, etc., are functioning in the regular manner."

New Paper Appears

The first issue of the Mystic Standard was given out Friday. Thursday is to be their regular day but on account of the holiday this week it was one day later.

Burial of Mrs. Moon

The body of Mrs. Sarah Louise Moon, widow of George T. Moon, was sent from Brooklyn, N. Y. this (Friday) morning to arrive here on the noon train for burial in Elm Grove cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Goss and three children were at Watch Hill Thursday.

To Name Delegates to Gales Ferry.

The Master's Helpers class of Old Mystic Methodist church is to meet this evening in the Parish house. The members of the class who are taking part in the World Service financial campaign are to give a report. They are also to rehearse for an entertainment to be given in the Parish house next week. The Woman's Home Missionary society is planning to send delegates to the 10.30 and 12 o'clock services at the district meeting, to be held at Gales Ferry Tuesday. Miss Clementina Butler will be the principal speaker. Wednesday evening the mid-week service will be given over to hearing reports from the Gales Ferry meeting.

Freak Blooming

The big horse chestnut tree at the head of Bank street has blossomed in its usual manner this year, one side being full of blossoms and the other side with no blossoms at all. Next year, if it goes according to schedule the other side will blossom

Clifford Meyers of New London was in Mystic Thursday.

All the streets on the west side have been oiled and sanded and are ready for another season.

Group Improves Cattle

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP)—Numbering 1,184 cows, the Bennington and Rutland County association is the largest dairy herd improvement association in New England and the northeastern states. Last year the 39 herds of the association averaged 6,424 pounds of milk per cow, as against the state average of 6,345. Returns above the cost of feed averaged $111 per cow, while the state average was $104.

STONINGTON

NEW YORK DRIVER WILL APPEAR IN COURT TODAY

Julius Dumont of 52 East 127th St., New York, was arrested by State Policeman Joseph King Thursday afternoon on a charge of reckless driving as the result of an accident at Wilcox curve. He was operating a Velie sedan which he claims was forced off the road by a Ford. The Velie was turned upside down. Dumont and five other passengers escaped injury. He was taken before Deputy Judge Billings B. Fairbrother and furnished a bond for appearance in Stonington town court Saturday morning.

CONTACT WITH SILVER KILLS TYPHOID BACILLI

PARIS (AP)—A spiral tube of silver in a beaker of water containing typhoid bacilli is reported by Professor Lakhovsky to kill the germs in 24 hours.

His theory is that the silver sets up an electrical circuit and that this kills the bacilli in contact.

If there are impurities in the silver, he says, the action is hindered or stopped. The experiments are performed at the Pasteur institute.

ALASKAN SCIENTISTS STUDY NORTHERN LIGHTS

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Scientific study of the aurora borealis and associated phenomena will be made this year from a station to be established here at the Alaska Agricultural College and School of Mines.

The work will be under the direction of the American Geophysical union in amplification of a similar study being made at the University of Oslo, Norway, by Dr. Carl Stroemer for the Rockefeller international education board.

Presence of Mind

Hank Hunt was standing
In front of the Vanderlip House.
From time to time he listened,
Turning his good ear to the south.
Getting tired, he sat down on the piazza,
Leaning his back against a fluted pillar.

After a while a south breeze
Brought a rattling noise to his ear.
Hank stood up and stretched and yawned.
The Bennington stage
With its heavy-tired wheels
Was coming down Cemetery Hill.
The sound died away.
Then it sounded faintly.
It grew louder.
There was the wracking sound
Of the wheels on the axles.
The metallic rattle of a loose brace;
And then, as it came in sight,
The clanking of harness.
The driver swung his four horses
Up the drive in front of the hotel
And jammed on the rasping brakes.

Hank strolled out to the stage driver
Who handed him a package
Which Hank slipped into his pocket.
There was a hole where the pocket should have been
And the precious package
Landed with a crash on the marble sidewalk.

Hank stopped.
Without a glance downward
He turned his eyes toward an upper window.
Then he called in a hurt tone:

"Hey, there!
Who's a-throwin' glass?"

A Parable

Said Christ our Lord, "I will go and see How the men, My brethren, believe in Me."
He passed not again through the gate of birth,
But made Himself known to the children of earth.
Then said the chief priests, and rulers, and kings:
"Behold, now, the Giver of all good things;
Go to; let us welcome with pomp and state
His, alone who is mighty and great."
With carpets of gold the ground they spread,
Wherever the Son of Man should tread,
And in palace chambers, lofty and rare,
They served Him and served Him with kingly fare.
Great hymns surged through arches dim
Their jubilant floods in praise of Him.
And in church, and palace, and judgment hall
He saw His image high over all.
But still, wherever His steps they led,
The Lord in sorrow bent down His head,
And from under the heavy foundation stones
The Son of Mary heard bitter groans.
And in church and palace and judgment hall
He marked great fissures that rent the wall
And opened wider and yet more wide
As the living foundations heaved and sighed.
"Have ye founded your thrones and altars, then,
On the bodies and souls of living men?
And think ye that building shall endure
Which shelters the noble and crushes the poor?
With scales of silver and bars of gold
Ye have fenced My sheep from their Father's fold;
I have heard the dropping of their tears
In heaven these eighteen hundred years."
"O Lord and Master, not ours the guilt;
We build as but our fathers built.
Behold Thine images, how they stand,
Sovereign and sole, through all our land.
Our trust is hard—with sword and flame
To hold Thy earth forever the same,
And with sharp crooks of steel to keep Still, as Thou leftest them, Thy sheep."
Then Christ sought out an artizan,
A low-browed, stunted, haggard man,
And a mother girl, whose fingers thin
Pushed from her faintly want and sin.
These set He in the midst of them.
And as they drew back their garments' hem,
For fear of defilement, "Lo, here," said He,
"The images ye have made of Me!"

A Tribute to Mother!

You may write a thousand letters
To the girlie you adore;
And declare in every letter
That you love her more and more

You may praise her grace and beauty
In a thousand glowing lines,
And compare her eyes of azure
With the brightest star that shines.

If you had the pen of Shakespeare,
You would use it every day
In composing written worship
To that sweetheart far away.

But a letter far more welcome
To an older, gentler breast,
Is a letter to a mother
From the boy she loves the best.

Youthful blood is fierce and flaming,
And when writing to your love
You will rave about devotion,
Swearing by the stars above.

Bowing by the moon's white splendor
That the girlie you adore
Is the one you'll ever cherish,
As no maid was loved before.

You will pen full many a promise
On those pages white and dumb,
That you can never live up to
In the married years to come.

But a letter far more welcome,
Bringing more and sweeter bliss,
Is the one that's penned to mother
From the lad she yearns to kiss.

She is the best friend that you have,
No matter what you say;
She'll always heed your calling,
Be it either night or day.

Your dad may turn against you,

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

CLARISSA LYLE: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

Your brother, sister, too;
But not mother—she'll stand by you,
No matter what you do.

Her dear old heart is aching,
Each night she breathes a prayer
That God will bless her darling
And be with him everywhere.

Her heart grows much more tender
As her hair shows streaks of gray;
So sit down and send her
A line or two today.

Regardless of its dictation,
Its spelling or its style;
Although its composition
Might provoke a critic's smile.

She will read it very often,
When the lights are dim and low,
Seated in the same old corner
Where she nursed you years ago.

In her old trembling fingers
It becomes a work of art;
Stained with tears of joy and gladness
As she breathes "God bless his heart."

Yes, the letter of all letters,
Look wherever you may roam,
Is a letter to a mother
From her son away from home.

ENCOURAGEMENT FOR THE ROADMAN

Dear Editor and Hello, Friends: Some fineweather we are having. Now they say it is too hot. Well, I say we wanted it and now we have got it I think it is just fine. There isn't anything that suits everybody Even our good roads man is in for it because he can't be on all the roads at once. But never mind, boy, keep right on as you are. You are doing fine and you are getting the roads in condition as fast as you can. So don't worry about what anyone says. You are getting them in as good order as you can. That is all you can do. You are like your uncle. He was one of the best roadmen in his town ever had. That I can say for a fact. He was always ready to go and fix a bad place any time. Another thing, if he was rough, there never lived a better-hearted man or a better neighbor. He would do anything for a neighbor, day or night. He was a diamond in the rough and he was greatly missed, as well as his son. I surely knew them well. The son was a playmate and schoolmate of mine. Never mind, boy, keep right on. You are all right, and if I was a voter I sure would vote for you.

Keziah Doolittle: Many thanks for the invitation. When the next rain comes I sure will be there. We will put on an old dress and take off our shoes and stockings. Won't that be just fine, paddling in that nice water! it will be like old times, now, won't it? But I bet you will back out. Say, if we had the Last Rose of Summer with 1492 and Caro it would be just as if we were back in childhood days. I would like to get Kocha out there. Wouldn't there be some fun! Well, I guess so.

Butterfly: That rat took his friends a visiting last night. He said: "I will just fool that old hen and roster for once. Just let them watch for me."

Jim Crow was swearing mad this morning. He went to hubby's cornfield and there was no corn for him to pull.

Aries: Your card received. Will answer soon. Are you frozen up? Why don't you write? This weather will make you think of being in Mr. Rose's ice cart.

Kocha: Poor boy, I hope they don't keep you on the go this hot weather. Be sure you set that lily in a nice pot, in rich dirt and in a sunny place. Mine is doing fine. I have a pretty salmon pink and a white geranium one of the Corner sisters gave me.

Ann Tenna: Glad you are home. It seems so nice to get home after being a way.

Last Rose of Summer: Say, just let us look back and see the old times when we used to hear "All ready, Mr. Cady!" Weren't those the happy days? None of them now.

My love and best wishes to all in sickness and sorrow and trouble. God bless and be with you is the wish of NONESOPRETTY (Club 4).

PRESERVING TRADITIONS

Dear Corner Friends: At this season of our Memorial day it is natural that our thoughts should turn back to some of those hardy men and women who once lived and labored in the vicinity of our own homes and who have left us. In the old stone walls so numerous hereabouts, the buildings with handmade nails still holding firmly, the barberry bushes, lilacs and fragrant white roses blooming faithfully beside crumbling cellar walls, is evidence that the toil of their hands is not yet altogether obliterated.

Perhaps these things are called to my mind more strongly because I have just finished reading "The Battle of Groton Heights." I feel that somehow most of us do not pay enough attention to the local history of our own neighborhood. As young people we hear old men and women talking of bygone events and we think "Oh, that's all dead and gone; let's have something real." The old folks pass on, some celebration or anniversary comes up or we wish to join some organization requiring historical antecedents and suddenly we say: "Why didn't someone write down or preserve in some way those stories they told, those stirring scenes they described."

Wouldn't history be a lot more interesting to our young folks if such records were preserved and made more available for our schools? The Revolutionary war used to seem like a pretty dry old subject when I studied history. But now when I picture the incidents as occurring at places I have seen with my own eyes, how different the whole thing does seem.

For instance, in the volume to which we have just referred we read of two boys, cousins, who stop in to see the sister of one who is teaching school near Gales Ferry When they tell her they are on the way to answer the signal guns she bursts into tears. And well she might, for she sees neither one again alive.

And here is a boy sent out by a distracted mother to find his brothers, ages 5 and 7. As he rides through New London directly after the burning he sees not a single living thing but a singed cat.

Many read in their histories the story of Molly Pitcher, of Mrs. Steele and the bags of money Do they read of Mrs. John Hemsted, whose husband wrote years later, "After I got under way my wife called to me pretty loud. I stopped my horse and ased her what she wanted. Her answer was 'Not to let me hear that you are shot in the back'."

To how many young people of Connecticut outside the D. A. R. is the story of Mother Bailey familiar?

And with no reference to wars and battles, which we do not like to dwell on unduly, have our children been told the interesting histories of old houses in their own neighborhoods, houses in which "used to be free hearted hospitality," and where "groups of merry children played. There youths and maidens, dreaming, strayed." Are they taken to historical museums nearest their homes and shown the collections there displayed?

Perhaps we are like the folks of which we hear the story that though they live in New York city they have never visited the Metropolitan Museum and the Woolworth building.

Shall we do our share to preserve traditions which otherwise will be lost in the shadowy past of old forgotten things? BO-PEEP.

STARTS HOUSECLEANING EARLY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: First I want to thank the editor for my yellow slip, and I will tell how I spent it, as it may help some other Sunday school class to raise money for church work. The class we belong to here in New York state has a birthday social every month, and each member who has a birthday in that month has to pay a cent for each year of his age, though nearly all give a dollar. A table is set for the birthdayites, with the birthday cake and candles and flowers, and refreshments passed around to the others, in that way they raise quite a bit of money each year.

By the Social Corner page I know the sisters have been busy housecleaning for the past few weeks. I began early this year, as there was so much to do. I papered six rooms, also ceilings, three of the rooms 15 feet square, and as the rooms are very high you may know I was very tired when it was finished. The men painted eight rooms and four floors. I have still three more to do when the spirit moves, but just now it's chickens—500 of them—and they keeep us busy. And with seven in the family, and making flower beds, raising tomato plants, making butter, etc., I manage to keep out of mischief.

I wish more of the sisters would write about their flowers, as that is my hobby. I haven't much of a showing here yet, but hope to by another year, as I have quite a few perennials started, but it has been such a cold, rainy, backward spring have not sown any annuals yet. Apple trees not in bloom yet, except wild ones.

I wish the sisters who love nature might see the lovely old hill back of us. It would look like a mountain to you New Englanders. I climbed it one day, and it is almost as steep as the side of a house; we had to pull ourselves up by bushes and trees But from the top one can almost look over the world! We could see East Syracuse, over 30 miles away. And such wild flowers as grow in these woods of ours, and so many of them! And I never saw such soil. There were quantities of trilliums, both white and red; the largest addertongues I ever saw, such large spotted leaves and yellow flowers, the Dutchman's breeches, or boys and girls we used to call them, little white wax "dolls" and lacy green leaves. One could hardly step without walking on hepaticas. I have transplanted all of these and they seem to be doing nicely.

I get so many good ideas from the sisters' letters that I wish I might be able to help someone.

I have found that nearly all silk dresses can be laundered at home instead of sending to the cleaners. In fact, I had practically a new one almost ruined by sending it to be cleaned. Use just warm water, not hot, and Ivory soap or flakes, do not rub soap on silk, but make a good suds, then rinse in two waters. Do not wring; put on coat hanger and when partly dry iron with a moderately hot flat. If you do not dare risk water, get one gallon gasoline, put dress in foot tub, pour on three quarts gasoline, squeeze and rub gently, squeeze out as dry as possible, then rinse in the other quart; do not wring. Hang out doors and treat the same.

Vegetable Pudding: One cup each of raw potato and carrot grated, one cup sugar, butter size of small egg (I use substitute), one cup each raisins and flour, one teaspoon each soda, cinnamon, nutmeg, 1-2 each salt and cloves. Steam three hours in tight can. Eat with whipped cream or pudding sauce. Will keep a month.

Have been much interested in the discussion of present day styles, and in my mind could see Tish amputating that train of hers. Here is something I came across the other day:

1909—Sweeping the street.
1919—Sweeping the ankle.
1929—Sweeping the knees.
And maybe in 1939—? ? ?

Milky Way: Thanks so much for the lovely birthday card. It's so nice to be remembered. I know you must be busy, too, as you are a farmer's wife as well as I.

Speaking of the grange, hubby and I joined 39 years ago in DeRuyter, N Y. Since then have joined two others where we lived.

Best wishes to all.
COMMUTER (Club No. 6).

HAD FAMILY REUNION

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to thank you all that sent me birthday cards. They were wonderful, so many of them. I am having a fine time here. My sister and her two girls and their husbands were here for last week. There were four of us sisters together. It has been a long time since we were all together. There are five of us girls and I am the only old maid, but I like it. I expect to leave here for Keene, N. H., in two weeks or so, then to Rye Beach. I shall write to some of you from there. Here's a piece of poetry for you:

Forget It

Forget the slander you have heard,
Forget the hasty, unkind word,
Forget the quarrel and the cause,
Forget the whole affair, because
Forgetting is the only way.
Forget the folks whose sour face
Forget to smile in any place,
Forget the knockers, they are freaks.
Forget them seven days a week;
Forget to even to get the blues.
MELISSA.

CLUB NO. 5 MEETS JUNE 5

Dear Editor and Social Cornerites: Hope all will come to our next meeting, as it is the last one before the summer picnics. We hope it won't be as hot as it is today, for the corn chowder will be pretty warm for us. We will do the best we can to make it as successful as we can. Please, all come that possibly can and help make the meeting a big time. The meeting is June 5th, in Buckingham Memorial.

THE MIGHTY PACIFIC

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner and Editor: To those who have seen the Pacific, to those, and to those only, does it belong. The Pacific stretches out and is mighty! It occupies a large part of our globe; and when we think of that huge body of water, reaching north and south, and east and west, we do not wonder we are thought to shine to those who dwell on other planets. Certainly, if our light is sent afar, the fact must be because of the Pacific; if not, what other argument is there? The Pacific is the biggest thing in the world, and yet its name means "peaceful!" In spite of this last fact, I very much question if the sailors in the arctic regions do not know what it is to wrestle with her wrath! And yet, we know there is peace on many shores of the Pacific; and in our quiet hours we like to think of its smooth and shining waters, and this thought brings the desired rest.

Years ago Marigold and I spent a whole morning climbing a mountain on an island in the Pacific. The slant is one of the steepest, and had we fallen backward we would have gone into the sea. The only path we had, had been destroyed by the heavy tropical rains, so it was rough and ragged with holes one or two feet deep every few yards, and, between these, rocks so large we were compelled to climb over them. On either side of the path the grass was parched from the heat of the sun and slippery as grass always is near the salt water—so to walk on it was impossible. I suffered intensely for over a week with pain in my limbs after this climb; but, for what I received, I consider the price small. Nature usually makes us pay well for what we get; she is, in most cases, a very good salesman, but in this one there is no question but what she gave one of life's pearls at a bargain. O, the memory of that day!

When we reached the top of the mountain the city of Panama slumbered in the faint distance back of us; on the other three sides the water stretched out as if it went on forever. That was a glassy sea, and lay peaceful in a holy silence! Far, far away toward the western horizon a huge steamer was making its way toward the Orient. A faint line of smoke trailed behind her, and rose until it crossed the almost invisible line where sea and sky seemed to meet.

Ah me! the stretch of sea and sky
That then lay out before the eye
Must be the scene there was given
That God might show part of heaven!

I wonder what John Ruskin would have done with that ship and sea had they been his instead of mine? Especially do I wonder if that ship and sky could have been put on canvas, put there by the hand of Turner. He would have told what he saw in the beautiful language that could fall from his pen, and his pen alone. Ruskin was a poet who wrote in prose. He probably would have taken both sea and sky and put them in a fitting setting of their own; the former he would have peopled with passengers and a crew of his own creation; and laden it with a treasured cargo which he would have scattered over many lands Ruskin raised Turner from the depth of obscurity to one of the highest exponent of fame. If one man could do this for another, the fact gives rise to the question, at least in my mind, which of the two me was the greater. Some years ago, in a discussion of Ruskin, I asked why he was not given in a classical course, and the answer was "He was not musty enough!" The world, then, must wait for the dust of time to cover Ruskin before much of the beauty of his pages will be revealed to the young people! I wish we might look forward 200 years and see Ruskin, among the men of letters, through the light of history In that day, speaking of our time, will the pupil say 'They did not appreciate Ruskin at that time. Why?" And will the teacher answer with that time-worn argument "a man's lifetime is not long enough for him to be appreciated by his contemporaries, and his early successor." Or will he answer as did William Prescott when he apologizes for Cortez's method of the conquest of Mexico and say "We must allow for the age in which" they lived. Which will be the teacher's answer? I wonder! The language which falls from Ruskin's pen is soothing to us; such as the title of one of his writings, "Ethics of the Dust." "Ethics of the Dust." "Mother." "Pacific" and "peaceful" can well be put in a class by themselves, and rightly be compared to notes of exquisite harmony coming from underneath the musician's fingers, or to perfected phrases falling from a poet's pen In the great world of literature, will Ruskin ever be compared to "it's Pacific?" Again, I wonder.
BETSY BRAY.

LESSONS IN ECONOMY

Dear Social Corner Members: May I also offer a few suggestions? I make kitchen table cloths of unbleached cotton for just a few cents I cut the cloth the size of the table and trim with corners of scraps of gingham (checked) that I may have. I make the corners any size desired but always triangular, and then bind the cloth in tape the color of the gingham. For instance, if you have red and white gingham, bind it red tape.

I find it very difficult to keep the arms and backs of overstuffed furniture clean and doilies wrinkle so easily. I bought a yard of velour of the outstanding color of my suite, taupe (my suite is taupe with a rose background) and split it into nine pieces. Six pieces measuring 12 in. by 12 in. for the arms, two pieces 12 in. by 18 in. for the backs of the club and wing chairs and what was left 18 in. by 24 in., for the back of the large sofa. All of these I bound in gold braid. Velour scarfs are very expensive when made up and by buying just a yard and using the tape measure a little, one can have very good looking scarfs, which do not have to be cleaned very often, for about $2.50. Best wishes to all.

A LETTER OF THANKS

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: If not to late, I want to thank all those who helped with the dinner of Club No. ; also Bonie Belle for the nice program that she put on. Sorry that E. L. M. was not there. We certainly had a good crowd, if it was a stormy day. I hope that it will be nice in June, as it is to be held in the Road district, on the Pequot trail. I have been busy housecleaning and gardening.
BEERS.

ALSO RIDES MANY HOBBIES

Dear Social Corner: I have often read the Social Corner but never felt that I wanted to join until very recently I met a dear friend when she was on the way to one of the Corner gatherings. Her eager anticipation and enthusiastic description of the happy hours spent in Social Corner reading and meeting made me want to joint. I wonder if I will be welcome? I haven't a very definite idea what is required to attain membership, so will be glad if someone will inform me.

I read with interest Elm Tree Bobbie's letter on hobbies, for I ride so many myself, although plants are not among them. Mostly I am interested in all lines of handicraft work, quilts, rugs, crochet—especially the mosaic or needle painting crochet—and almost every kind of fancywork. Then, too, I am much interested in lodge work and always wear the recognition pins of several fraternal orders to which I belong. I presume I have met several of the Corner sisters in Windham and New London counties, where I have been doing field work for two years. If they recognize me, I wish they'd write and give me a glad hand.

I'll use a pen name which I think will be different, as I have never seen it since I used it in literary work some years ago.
CLARISSA LYLE.

A CHATTY LETTER FROM ARIES

Dear Editor Social Corner: June first, am happy to greet you. This is called the "smiling month of June," and we hope everyone will have a very happy month.

I think Georgette's letter was very clever. She certainly wove a fabric of pen names, and then some!

I agree with Black-eyed Susie concerning the ability of "Dad" Shaw. His letters are most worth while. We certainly miss the letters from our regular old-timers and also letters from our more-recently-joined members. Let's all get busy and write one letter to the Corner page this lovely month of roses. Glad to see Ann Tenna is settled in her bower. And I hear that Ma of Greene Gables has moved to a dream of a house not far from the home of Rural Aunty. Do write and tell us all about it. And L. T. H. has settled down so "comfy" among her lovely "jump-up-Johnnies" and other beautiful growing things.

And I am wondering who will be first to suggest a meeting place for Club No. 4 this lovely month of smiles and roses? Seems a long time between drinks (of coffee). What about it?

Bee True: Several of the slips are growing. So glad you got the prize.

Primrose: Thank you for the charming verse. Pasted it in my book called "What is Life?"

Nonesopretty: Planted the roots today. So glad to have them, as my dahlia roots all froze this winter.

Butterfly: June is a butterfly month too, so get your pen out and write. Never mind if the typesetter spells the word "bloat" instead of "goat." Don't let him get yours.

Catnip and Canterbury Bell: Thank you for the lovely cards.

Pisces and Capricorn: Hope you are well.

Guess I better sign off with a "smilefied" poem:

The world sure has its grouches
As well as happy folk.
And each sad one avouches
His plight to be no joke.
So if we turn their thoughts away
To see the cheerful side,
We'll prove to them that day by day
It's easy to be smilefied.

VIEWS FROM WINDOWS

Dear Social Corner Members and Editor: As I sit here in my north window and look across the state road, I see the old huckleberry lot has recently been cleared of all its bushes, and now I can count a dozen or more speckled cows, a most lovely view for the camera. In a south window where I stand to work there are two more speckled animals, also in a lot beyond are sheep and lambs; birds are plentiful and sing their sweetest songs for me. A little bird has built her nest in a raspberry bush. I am going to start the garden today, and hope it will be good weather now.

I haven't seen one red clover yet which signifies industry and hope. There is still another meaning to red clover: The Druids held it in great repute, deeming it a charm against evil spirits. Its use in the cure of diseases makes it stand ahead of all alternatives. It is a positive cure for scrofula, and to that dread form of cancer.

'Cut the flowers when in full bloom and make a strong decoction by steeping, and you need no other remedy."

Hastily — Busy time — Beautiful weather.
ANN TENNA.

FLOWERS AND PICNIC WEATHER

Dear Social Corner Members: This has been a day to make one think of picnics, and it will also make the gardens grow. I had some tulips this year for the first time. I enjoyed them so much I hope to put in more this fall. A few days ago I was at Roger Williams park and I had not realized there were so many early blooming flowers. It certainly is a lovely place to go.

Cosmos: I suppose your garden is flourishing. While I was unable to attend the last meeting of Club 6, I hear they had a very nice time. The number present was not as large as usual, owing to the bad day, and I presume the smallpox scare.

Beers, I know, was right in her element in serving a dinner, and, Bonny Belle had a fine program.

May B.: I was sorry to miss seeing you and the other Grotonites.

Bay State: Good for you We are all sorry to hear that B Natural is shut in at present. Hope she will be able to meet with us next month, when Neried will be hostess

HEALTH BETTER THAN WEALTH

Dear Cornerites: Here we are at another summer and we do not realize it as the spring weather has been so funny. So much rain. This is a sad time of year for many as well as myself. I am very busy all the time, but there are times when one does get time to think, and so many memories flash over the mind. I don't know how we could stand our very sad moments if we could not rise up and dig into work again. Those that have good health are more blessed than if they had wealth. We should be very grateful if we have such a gift. Some have health but abuse it by carelessness. I am wondering where Crimson Rambler is? Haven't seen her in a long time. Where is Lucy Acorn? Went by her home this spring. Wonder if Adam is home yet? That trip to California must have been wonderful. My people had a wonderful experience a few years ago traveling to and from California. As none of us are good at writing, we did not write much about it. Hoping everyone can enjoy the good old summertime, I will stop this time to give room for more interesting letters. DEARIE.

SCIENCE MAKING NEW WEAPONS FOR POLICE

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Use of science as a weapon against criminals has only begun, according to Dr. J. H. Mathews, University of Wisconsin chemist, whose skill is frequently employed by police.

"New methods continually are being devised and used," Dr Mathews points out, "and many of these methods are so new that they are not generally known even to those who have responsibility for investigation of crime.

"This is particularly true of identification of criminals who use firearms. There are only two or three experts in the United States who are familiar with this special technique—a technique which gives very positive identification.

"The chemist, pharmacologist, botanist, bacteriologist, pathologist, psychiatrist, psychologist, metallurgist, gun expert, textile expert and finger print expert all are making modern detective methods scientific."

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week announcement was made that the gasoline lamps in the city would come under the management of a new company, at a saving to the city. The same week St. Patrick's parish was holding a fair at the church on Broadway.

Monday, May 26, 1879—The gasoline lamps of the city are to come under the management of a new company the ensuing year, the change making a reduction in the cost and giving lights more nights in the year.

The grand annual picnic of the Germans, for the benefit of the Lutheran society, takes place this afternoon and evening at Billings' garden.

The Rev. Hugh Montgomery performed the rite of immersion at Fantic cove yesterday morning, baptized a candidate at the Central M. E. church by sprinkling and extended the right hand of fellowship to six candidates.

The rats are troubling chicken breeders on Laurel Hill. Yesterday one marksman brought one down that weighed five pounds.

Tuesday, May 27, 1879—The 16-inch main asked for by the water commissioners to extend from the reservoir to the north end of Williams park is not to supersede the other main but to establish a double connection with the reservoir for fire and business purposes. This new main is to extend security to the property and to insure to the people water at all times and under all circumstances, if it is in the reservoir.

Fire alarm box No. 13 did its duty again yesterday, about 12 o'clock. It is pleasant to think the Geer shop on Thames street is useful, if not ornamental. It has been on fire four times within two months.

The seiners on the Thames take little stock in the constant talk of prospective harvest, as they have been looking for something known by that name all the spring, without finding it.

Peas were in blossom the 18th of May last year. No one has seen a blossom yet this year.

The officers of the law made a raid yesterday on a Commerce street liquor store, to see if the firm was abiding by the law, and were surprised to find that they were. Subsequently they seized an opportunity and departed.

Wednesday, May 28, 1879—The W. C. Coup United Shows are to pitch their tents in this city on Wednesday next. The Japanese circus is a new thing and is a perfect entertainment in itself; and yet this is but one of the many attractions noted on the program. The menagerie includes many rare and interesting animals. Two exhibitions will be given.

The flower committee of Sedgwick post, D. A. R., request donations of flowers for Decoration day. The former generosity of our citizens, we hope, will be more than equalled this year.

Crystal lodge of G. T. hold an apron and necktie festival in Reform club hall on Thursday evening for the sale of fancy articles, strawberries and cream, etc., with readings and tableaux.

The Norwich and Worcester Railroad Co. have a gang of men at work on the new road to their dock and will soon lay the iron bridge across the tunnel, when their part of the work will be completed.

Thursday, May 29, 1879—Miss Mary A. McQuirk, daughter of M. McQuirk, Esq., of this city, was united in marriage to Mr. James Duggan yesterday at St. Mary's church, Greeneville, before a large assemblage of people. John and Edward Burke acted as ushers, Mr. Thomas Leahy of this city acted as groomsman and Miss Julia Desmond as bridesmaid. Impressive service was conducted by Rev. P. P. Shahan, assisted by the Rev. G. J. O'Farrell.

The remains of Mrs. M. Angelo Fanning were brought to this city from Rhode Island yesterday, where she died suddenly, and were buried from the Universalist church with appropriate services. Mr. and Mrs. Fanning were former residents of this city.

The bluefish have entered the mouth of the Thames river and several catches are reported.

Friday, May 30, 1879—The Catholic fair at St. Patrick's church, Broadway, has had a very successful season of nearly two weeks, and we understand will be continued into next week.

Mr. George A. Klee is said to be contemplating another series of organ recitals at the Park church which will probably commence next week.

The shad fishing privileges have been so poor in the Shetucket this spring that suspicions were aroused in the minds of owners of fish rights that the river was being seined by parties by night who had no business there. A watch was set and a gang of seiners were seen to gather and fish. The watchman left without identifying any of the party, claiming he was fired upon.

Saturday, May 31, 1879—The venerable senior pastor of the First church, the Rev. H. P. Arms, reaches the age of four score years tomorrow, June 1st.

The street commissioner will send the city ash carts to the Greeneville district today and Saturday of each week hereafter.

Charles A. Earle, a compositor in this office, left last night to attend the annual sessions of the International Typographical union which convenes in Washington Monday next.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Academy Orchestra.

The Academy orchestra will give its twenty-fourth annual concert in Slater hall on Wednesday evening, June 5th, at 8.30.

Numerically, not quite so large as it has been some years, the orchestra will give just as good a concert, and do the numbers on the program just as well, and some folks will think even better.

Reginald and Gladys Laubin will present two Indian dances during the intermission, and Miss ENeen Krause will be heard at the piano between the dances.

Christian Science Services.

Wednesday evening meeting 7.45. The reading room, 40 Main street, is open every day except Sundays and legal holidays from 3 to 4.30 p. m.

PECOS DAM TO ENRICH 100,000 ACRES IN TEXAS

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A giant $2,000,000 dam harnessing waters of the slow Pecos river may turn 100,000 acres of West Texas waste land into fertile farming country.

The Texas legislature has appropriated $25,000 to match the same amount granted by congress for a survey to determine the most suitable site for the dam.

A continuous supply of fresh water, it is believed, would enable farmers in several counties to grow cotton and fruit. Now only alfalfa is raised successfully. Two years ago congress appropriated funds to construct the dam.

SAVE 140,000 LIVES FROM TUBERCULOSIS

ATLANTIC CITY, May 29 (AP)—The lowest death rate on record from tuberculosis was in the year 1928, said Dr. Lulu I. Dublin, statistician of the American Life Insurance company, today to the National Tuberculosis association.

"In a single year," he said, $140,000 persons will survive who would have died from tuberculosis had the rates of 1900 prevailed. This rapid decline has resulted largely from the direct intervention of all the agencies of government and of social service interested in the health and well being of the people. Improved industrial and economic conditions likewise have played an important part."

Cuts Corn and Oats Area.

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—Reports to the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois from 50,000 Illinois farmers indicate a 5 per cent reduction in corn acreage and a 7 per cent cut in oats acreage for 1929. An increased acreage of wheat and hay is expected because those two crops came through the winter better than they did last year.

Of all the bees that live in the hive in summer, only the young queens survive through the winter.

GAINS OUTWEIGHED LOSSES IN THE CLOSING QUOTATIONS OF STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP)—Stocks prices were sent skidding today by another break in wheat in the Chicago pit, but an unexpectedly plentiful supply of call money prompted bullish operations in the utilities and rails and short covering, which caused a rebound from the days lowest levels. Closing quotations were highly irregular, with gains outweighing the losses.

The break of about 3 cents a bushel in wheat to the lowest levels in years had an immediate effect upon stock prices, with farm implement and mail order shares developing acute weakness, in addition to this nerve-wracking development, unsettling rumors were heard to the effect that one of the most aggressive bull operators had suffered severely in the collapse of several pools in the sharp declines since May 1. These rumors appeared to be born out by a report that a large block of International Combustion which had been hanging over the market had been taken over privately.

Call money again held officially at 6 per cent but was available in the outside market at 5 1-2, and time money eased further, with all maturities loaning at 6 1-2 per cent, in contrasted to 6 1-4 to 6 1-2 for the shorter maturities of late. The ease in money was largely attributed to the piling up of funds in New York banks against the month-end interest and dividend checks which are being mailed out tonight. Other important factors in the situation were the reduced requirements with the slackening of trading, and the release of funds by the thorough shaking out which the market has undergone in recent sessions.

An indication of the extent to which funds have been freed during the heavy liquidation of late was provided by the federal reserve brokerage loan figures, published after the close, showing a reduction of $232,000,000 in the week ended Wednesday. This is one of the largest weekly reductions ever recorded, comparing with a drop of only $144,000,000 in the week of the break in late March, and $219,000,000 in the week of the collapse of early December.

Aside from the break in wheat, there was little in the days news of influence on the market. The British general election caused scarcely a ripple in the New York securities markets. The growing conviction that an agreement will be reached at the reparations conference caused some buying of the copper shares, but they quickly ran into profit taking. The Weekly Business Reviews indicated that high interest rates and the break in wheat prices have caused some hesitancy in wholesale buying but pointed to sustained activity of the steel and other metal trades.

The pace of trading was comparatively slack, as many traders extended the Memorial day holiday to include the week-end. Total sales were less than 3,000,000 shares. The Associated Press index of 50 industrials held steady, and the indices of 20 rails and 20 utilities showed substantial gains, the latter mounting more than 8 points to within less than a point of its record high level.

American Water Works, concerning which vague merger rumors have been circulated of late, was rushed up 17 1-2 points to a record price at 118 1-2 and closed at 115. North American Co. was sent up about 9 points to 224 1-2, another new peak, in response to bullish earnings estimates, indicating that 1929 net will equal more than $20 a share, and prospects of a stock dividend or pilitup. New York Central sold up about 8 points.

Scores of issues were carried to new low levels for the year in the morning break. Case Threshing dropped 14 points 293, in contrast to the year's high of 509; Advance Rumely common dropped 4 points to 27, in contrast to its recent peak of 104 7-8. International Harvester, and Montgomery Ward reached new 1929 bottoms, and Sears Roebuck broke more than 7 points.

Federal Mining and Smelting broke 13 points, Johns Manville dropped about 5 points to a new low, then, rallied for a net gain of 4 points. United Aircraft dropped 7 points, then retraced its steps to close steady. Wright Aero lost about 8 points, and closed off 4. Several motor shares dropped 1 to 4 points to new lows for the year, including Chrysler, General Motors, Hudson, Studebaker and Nash, but regained some of their losses before the close. U. S. Steel and Radio both recovered from early heaviness and closed more than a point higher.

Commodities were generally heavy. The drop in wheat carried the May delivery to a low of 93 1-4 and July to 96 cents, but, closing quotations were about 1 cent above the bottom. The drop was in response to the break of nearly 3 cents in Winnipeg yesterday, when American markets were closed. Other grains were heavy, and cotton eased in sympathy.

Foreign exchanges developed rather puzzling heaviness, in view of the favorable reparations progress and the easing money rates at New York. Sterling Cables again fell to $4.84 7-8, which, theoretically, would make gold imports profitable.

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP)—Business failures for the five business days ending last Wednesday, according to R. G. Dun & Co., totaled 374, compared with 410 for the preceding six business days, and 344 defaults for five days a year ago.

Two additional plots of land in Hollywood and a plot in Boston will be acquired by Technicolor, Inc., to enlarge its present capacity more than six times. The additions are necessary, it is announced, to handle the business now being contracted for.

Figures from the 48 states show that for the quarter ending March 31, there were 839,095, new passenger automobiles registered, against 555,822 cars in the 1928 period.

Business in the automotive parts, accessories and repair equipment industries has been at such a high level this year that, despite the seasonal recession usual at this time, records for the first half period will be well in excess of previous years, the Motor and Equipment association reports.

The average call loan renewal rate during May was approximately 8.7 per cent, compared with 8.78 per cent in April and 5.68 per cent in May 1928.

The Crucible Steel Co., of America has been awarded a contract to furnish the navy department with about 17,000 5-inch shells. The shells will be manufactured at the company's ordinance plant at Harrison, N. J., which has been idle for some time.

J. Fletcher Farrell, vice president and treasurer of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corps., has been elected a director of the Real Silk Hosiery Mills, Inc., of Indianapolis.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 31.—(AP) — Tomahawking of grain values took a fresh start today, and wheat, corn, oats and rye all suffered infliction of worse and worse low-priced records.

New selling tension which brought about this result had its origin in Winnipeg, where quotations on wheat were cut right and left yesterday during the time United States grain exchanges were closed in observance of Memorial day.

A reason given for the Canadian price slashing was that the German wheat tariff is likely to be raised after jumps the last few days in the French duty and in the Italian import rate as well.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat today were unsettled, 2 3-8 to 2 3-4c net lower, with rye 2 1-2 to 6 1-4c down, corn 1 1-8 to 3 1-8c off, oats at 1 to 3 1-8c drop, and provisions varying from 34c setback to a rise of 10c.

Adding to the violence of today's breaks in grain prices was the fact that month-end settlement of accounts was in progress. Besides, a leading crop authority here estimated that the United States winter wheat yield this season will be 40,000,000 bu. in excess of last month's official forecast. Relatively little notice was taken that he also figured the condition of domestic spring wheat to be 85.3 per cent with a 5 per cent reduction of acreage, whereas the 10-year average condition is 88.4 per cent. Meanwhile, rains beneficial to Canadian crops counted as a further influence toward lower prices.

Notwithstanding that Chicago wheat values gave way sharply under the weight of increased selling today, the market here held up better than was the case either at Winnipeg or Liverpool. Part of the buying which checked downturns in Chicago and which induced late rallies was ascribed to reports of excessive rains over domestic winter wheat territory southwest. Talk was also current that there had been export purchases of North American wheat today totaling 2,000,000 bu., about half of which was said to be United States hard winter wheat and durums.

Despite assertions which were circulated that Argentine shippers were urgent sellers at Liverpool and were apparently determined to unload Argentine wheat ahead of the movement of new wheat from the United States, Argentine shipments for the last week were only 3,624,000 bu., compared with 6,572,000 bu. the week previous. Australian wheat exports were also the smallest in a long time, 496,000 bu.

At one time today, rye showed a collapse of nearly 8c a bushel in the price of the May delivery. The extreme weakness of rye appeared to be due chiefly to the drop in wheat prices and to unexpected selling of rye into store here.

In the corn market, larger receipts of corn here increased the depressing effect of wheat action. Furthermore, corn planting conditions today were auspicious, and corn that is up was reported to be showing a good stand.

Provisions averaged lower, sympathizing with grain although hogs were 10 to 15c higher.

SHEEP OUT-THRIVE AUSTRALIAN DROUGHT

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The most severe drought in the history of central Australia is disproving the theory that goats will survive where other animals starve.

Where sheep and goats are running together in the same pasture the goats are poor and many are dying but the sheep are well and many of them fat. The lambing percentage is low, but it appears the herbage is excellent for sheep and that they will withstand a severe drought of long duration while other stock perish.

As a result of drought last year many settlers sold their cattle and are restocking the country with sheep. Satisfactory wool prices are obtained in Adelaide.

Burgess Bedtime Story

The Grebes Leave The Smiling Pool.

The Great World calls; the young must heed;
Prepare them for their every need.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit arrived at the Smiling Pool very early one morning to pay his respect to the Grebes. He found Dipper and Mrs. Grebe and the six young Grebes looking as if something important were going on. Dipper's bright eyes spied Peter at once.

"Oh, there you are!" cried Dipper. "I was afraid we were not going to see you again."

"Why not?" cried Peter, looking very much surprised.

"Because," replied Dipper, "we are leaving today."

"Leaving!" cried Peter. "Where are you leaving for? And what are you leaving for?"

"We are leaving for the Big River, and we are leaving because the Smiling Pool is too small a place for us now," replied Dipper. "It is time the children became acquainted with big water. Besides, it will be safer for them."

"Are you going to stay on the Big River?" Peter asked.

"We shall probably stay there until it is time to move along in the fall," replied Dipper. "You see, the youngsters have got to have a chance to try their wings and they cannot do it here. Besides there are not fish enough here for a big family. Six growing children require a lot of food. On the Big River, if we do not find it in one place, we can move along to another. Good by, Peter."

"Good by," called Mrs. Grebe.

"Good by," replied Peter. "I hope nothing will happen to your children."

"Good by," called the six little Grebes.

"Good by, good by," called Peter.

With Mr. Grebe in the lead, they swam across the Smiling Pool and entered the Laughing Brook on their way to the Big River. Peter had a lonely feeling as he saw them disappear. He was sorry to see them go. Yes, sir, he was sorry to see them go. He had enjoyed the Grebe family. He felt that now the Smiling Pool would not be nearly as interesting as it had been.

"Well," said a harsh voice, "I'm glad to see them go. I hope they'll never come back again." It was Rattles the Kingfisher.

"Why?" demanded Peter.

"They ate too many fish," replied Rattles grumpily. "It was getting so nobody else could get any over here."

Longlegs the Heron alighted on the edge of the Smiling Pool. He stood with his long neck stretched up to its full height, looking this way and that way. "Where are those Grebes?" he demanded.

"Gone," replied Rattles the Kingfisher. "They've gone down to the Big River and they won't be back."

"That's the best news I've heard for some time," declared Longlegs. "Now some of the rest of us may be able to get a few fishes once in a while. I hope they'll never come back."

"I don't!" spoke up Peter Rabbit.

"You don't have to catch fish for a living," replied Longlegs dryly.

EARTHQUAKES FOUND IN ESKIMO HOMELAND

At any rate, the Seismological Society of America, eastern section, reports that the Arctic regions have them now.

"Noel Ogilvie, head of the Canadian geodetic survey," says a report of the society, "revealed the long nights is not free from tremors and showed locations of several earthquakes within the Arctic circle."

Contest Draws 400 Boys.

LINCOLN, (AP)—Four hundred boys from 40 different schools entered the 15th annual high school agriculture judging contest here this year.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

WOMEN'S BENEFIT ASSOCIATION.

The Women's Benefit association held its regular meeting Monday night in Eagles' hall with President Eckstein in the chair. Memorial services were held for three departed members of the order, Mrs. Grace Morrell, who died Aug. 13, 1922, Mrs. Madeline Harris, who died June 15, 1924, and Mrs. Margaret Riley, who died Aug. 13, 1925. All were charter members of the review. Three little girls, Mary Louise Mancheater, Gertie Eckstein and Antionette Dicarlo, dressed in white, carried flowers which were placed on the altar as each name was called and a lighted candle for each was blown out. All the members of the review were dressed in white, wearing red ties and a red rose, the flower of the Women's Benefit association. After the exercises the guard team put on a fancy drill, all members forming a Roman cross. Plans were made for the trip this summer. Each member brought a package which was auctioned off by Mrs. Mary Kinney, bringing the review quite a good sum, also causing much merriment.

MASONIC

Connecticut Consistory, Scottish Rite Masonry, re-elected Charles L. Stewart commander-in-chief at the biennial rendezvous held this week at the Masonic temple.

Other officers elected were: Arthur M. Brown, 33d, first lieut. com.; Norman C. Stevens, 33d, second lieut. com.; George A. Keppler, 33d, orator; Alexander H. Abbott, chancellor; Albert S. Comstock, 33d, treasurer; J. Frank Corey, secretary; Herbert E. Lawrence, m. of ceremonies; W. Manley Eastwood, Jr., hospitaler; William A. Wells, Eng. and Sen.; W. Avery Gallup, standard bearer; C. Hadial Hull, guard; James C. Fitzpatrick, sentinel.

Committees appointed were as follows: Finance committee: Albert S. Comstock, 33d, E. Allen Bidwell, 33d, Howard L. Stanton, 33d; committee on dues, Charles L. Stewart, 33d, Albert S. Comstock, 33d, J. Frank Corey.

GROTTO

Nemrod Grotto is to make plans for the fall ceremonial at its meeting next Monday evening and has a ladies night on the month's programme for Friday evening. The last meeting in the month has been changed to the last Monday so that reports may be received from the meeting of the supreme council at Moline, Ill.

SHEPHERDS OF BETHLEHEM

At the meeting of Rose of New England lodge, No. 62, Shepherds of Bethlehem, held Monday evening in Buckingham Memorial, with Commander Charlotte M. Denison presiding, three applications for membership were presented. A feature of the meeting was an apron and necktie party given by the ladies, followed by the refreshments. Election of officers will be held at the next meeting.

V. F. W. AUXILIARY

The regular semi-monthly business meeting of R. B. Hourigan auxiliary No. 534 was held at the post rooms Olympic building on Monday evening, with the president, Mrs. Agnes Poliquin presiding. One petition for membership was acted upon. The buddy poppy committee, Mrs. Bertha Piper, chairlady, reported excellent progress made by the auxiliary in helping the post to dispose of the poppies.

All of the members were urged to parade and to attend the exercises in honor of the heroic dead on Memorial day.

The sisters were also reminded of the shower for the V. F. W. National Home for widows and orphans of veterans which will be held in every auxiliary in the department, on the first meeting night in June, June 10th. All are asked to contribute sheets, pillow cases, towels of all kinds and childrens clothing, all sizes.

Delegates and alternates for the department encampment at Winsted, June 21st to 23rd were elected.

A large delegation of sisters attended the memorial service at St. Andrews' church, on Sunday, May 26th, and received a very fine service, and an inspiring address by Rev. Mr. Norris.

VERMONT 4-H CLUB OCCUPYING OLD JAIL

DANBY, Vt., (AP)—Of their own free will, 15 members of the Danby 4-H club are lodged in jail.

The building was abandoned as a jail and the club is tearing down partitions and removing bars to make its members a new headquarters. The cement walls are being decorated, curtains hung at the windows, and comfortable furniture used to replace iron bunks.

Several members of the club are high school students. They are taking up a variety of projects such as clothing, food, calf and garden production.

MICHIGAN FARMERS PLANNING HIGHER PICKLE PRODUCTION

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Michigan, the nation's leading producer of pickles, is planning to grow more cucumbers this year.

Many farmers who lost heavily on potatoes last year intend to plant part of their tuber acreage to cucumbers. With the price guaranteed in advance of planting, pickle producing appears to farmers who fear to try potatoes again.

Approximately 50 per cent of the country's pickle crop in 1928 was produced in Michigan. Growers received a total of $1,156,000 from packers. Returns per acre varied from $100 to $300.

Canada to Be Wealthy

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—James E. Boyle, professor of agricultural economics at Cornell university, says Canada is destined to become the wealthiest country in the world. It is larger in area and of far greater natural resources per capita than the United States. Canadian exports, he says, figured on a per capita basis have a value four times those of this country.

RICHARD C. SHEA, NEW LONDON, DIES-- GASHED THROAT WITH RAZOR BLADE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 31—Richard C. Shea, about 50, a butcher, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital where he may die from self-inflicted razor wounds on the throat. Wednesday night Shea attempted suicide at his home, 42 Williams street. In his attempt to end his life, Shea made several deep lacerations of the throat, one of which nearly severed the jugular vein. At the hospital this afternoon it was stated that the man's condition was critical. Shea, despondent because of having been partially deprived of the use of his legs recently, took a safety razor blade and went to a retired part of the house and slashed his throat several times. A member of the family found him lying in a pool of blood and semi-conscious. A physician was summoned and after administering emergency treatment to Shea had him taken to the hospital.

Mr. Shea, died this evening at 7 o'clock. He was a member of Seaside council, Knights of Columbus. He is survived by two sisters.

LATTER DAY SAINTS WOULD HOLD SERVICES

The Church of Jesus and Latter Day Saints, a Boston religious organization, has made application to City Manager William A. Holt for permission to hold services on State street, corner of North Bank street. When the request was originally made it was at police headquarters, but the permission was denied by Captain Charles A. Pinney.

BANK EMPLOYE HURT IN A PECULIAR MANNER

Miss Elizabeth Hewitt, of Poquonoc bridge, clerk at the National Bank of Commerce, who had been a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital since last Tuesday, suffering from concussion of the brain, returned to her home today. Miss Hewitt sustained the injury in a strange manner. She was standing at one of the entrances to the banking rooms and as she turned to walk away, she unconsciously walked against the side of the door. Her head struck the heavy wood with sufficient force to render the young woman unconscious. When an effort to revive her was not successful, a physician was summoned and after prescribing for Miss Hewitt, he ordered her to the hospital.

BLUEJACKET PAYS SAWHORSE BECAUSE HE GOT FRESH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 31—George Parker, U. S. Coast Guard, was in the police court today charged with breach of the peace and was fined $10 and costs and all because the blue-jacket believed that he could belittle a police officer earlier in the week. When Parker was fined he gave notice of an appeal, but vacated that action before court adjourned. Parker was one of several sailors, who were riding on a naval truck last Tuesday. At the corner of State and Main streets where Traffic Officer Edward Riordan was performing duty, Parker deliberately thumbed his nose at the officer. Riordan commandeered another motor vehicle and pursued the truck, overtaking it on Main street and arresting the offender. He was allowed his liberty until today in the custody of Ensign Burke as Parker's boat, the Cassin was going to sea that night and would not return to port until a day or two later.

Gust Sanderquist, 416 Noyt avenue, West New Brighton, N. Y., charged with reckless driving, was fined $25 and costs Sanderquist was driving a pleasure auto at the function of Manwaring and Hempstead streets yesterday and narrowly avoided crashing against a car driven by State Police Officer Peter Busch.

Harold D. Burnstein, 73 Montauk avenue, was charged with speeding and was fined $10 and costs. He was arrested at 2:30 o'clock this morning on Ocean avenue by Sergeant John Courtney and Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell.

NELS COCH SUNSTROKE— DIES ABOARD TRAWLER

Nels Coch, 31, a member of the crew of the trawler Kingfisher, died at sea Wednesday, from sunstroke. The boat put back into port yesterday with the body and it was claimed by relatives. The fisherman is survived by two brothers, Thomas and Hans Coch, both of Groton. The trawler went to sea Wednesday and when the boat had been out of port only about seven hours, Coch, who had been in the beating sun practically all that time, was stricken and died a short time later.

JOHN O'NEILL, NORWICH, DRIVES OFF MONTVILLE BANK

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 31—John O'Neill, 246 West Main street, Norwich, was in the justice court at Montville this morning charged with reckless driving and was fined $25 and costs. O'Neill was arrested early this morning by state police after the auto he had been driving went off the highway at Montville and over an embankment. The car overturned, but O'Neill escaped with minor bruises. Other cars did not figure in the mishap for O'Neill simply permitted his machine to leave the macadam and topple down the embankment.

Two Pay Fines

Raymond J. Thibeault, 218 Grove street, Auburndale, Mass., was charged in the Groton town court this morning with driving while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs. His companion, Wilfred Maillette, 19 Tilley street, this city, was charged with intoxication and breach of the peace and was fined $10 and costs.

Thibeault was driving on the highway at Fishtown Hill, Groton last night when arrested by State Officer Joseph King. When Thibeault was arrested, Maillette interfered and his act also resulted in his arrest.

James F. Marshall, submarine base, was presented on a charge of intoxication and was fined $10 and costs. Marshall was in the vicinity of the Norwich State hospital, last night and was drunk, so much so, that complaint was made at the state police barracks. Officers Smith and Dygert went to Preston and finding Marshall beside the highway, arrested him.

Carmine Armatto, 134 Wooster street, New Haven, was arrested at Oswegatchie, Waterford, yesterday by State Police Officer Busch, charged with speeding and will be in the Waterford town court Monday next. When arrested Armatto was driving at a speed of 44 miles an hour.

Merrick A. Monroe, 849 Sterling place, Brooklyn, N. Y., was arrested by State Police Officer John Smith charged with reckless driving. He furnished a bond of $50 to assure his presence in the East Lyme justice court June 5. Monroe was arrested when he drove in such a manner as to compel other autoists to guide their machines off the highway in order to avoid an accident.

Joseph McNamara, 33 Truman street, was arrested in East Lyme charged with failing to have a driver's license and will be in court June 5.

Reynolds E. Demers, Phillipsdale, Mass., was charged with reckless driving, furnished a bond of $50 for his appearance in the East Lyme justice court June 5.

Members of local No. 807, Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators held a turkey supper and smoker at O'Leary's this week. Arrangements for the affair were in charge of Harry C. Butcher.

Miss Rose Franks of Groton was given a miscellaneous shower recently at the home of Miss Marie Christina. Next month Miss Franks is to marry Benjamin Artino of Shaw street. During the evening games and dancing were enjoyed and supper was served.

Members of the Hebrew Ladies' Aid society, at a meeting held recently in the institute building in Blackhall street, made plans for holding a party in June. The affair will be arranged by Mrs. Jacob Solomon and Mrs. Louis Ellonsky.

Resignation Accepted

At a business meeting of the board of the First Baptist church held this week, the resignation of the Rev. Chester H. Howe, effective September 1 was accepted.

When members of the Martha Winthrop club held open house this week at a bridge party, winners of prizes were: Mrs. I. N. Bragaw and Mrs. Irin Mitchell.

Herman Siff, North Bank street second-hand dealer, reported to the police this forenoon that his Ford truck had been stolen. The truck, in reality, was taken through mischief by one of Siff's friends. The truck was found abandoned on State street a short time after it was reported stolen.

GOLDEN WEDDING OF MR. AND MRS. LINICUS

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Linicus of 61 Mott avenue observed their golden wedding anniversary yesterday and received the felicitations of a wide circle of friends. In the afternoon an informal reception was held. Many gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Linicus.

With Mr. and Mrs. Linicus Thursday were Mrs. Cornelius Holmes of this city and Noyes H. Bailey of Milford, who were the attendants at the wedding in this city 50 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Linicus were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in Huntington street by Rev. William Buckingham, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. Mrs. Linicus was Miss Mary Elizabeth Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lee. Her only bridal attendant was Miss Martha Booth of this city, who is now Mrs. Cornelius Holmes. Mr. Linicus had as his best man Noyes R. Bailey, now tax collector in Milford. Mr. and Mrs. Linicus have two children, a daughter, Anetta Lee Linicus, now Mrs. Harold R. Peyear of Weston, Mass., and Jacob M. Linicus, employed in New York as a salesman for the Landers, Frary & Clark Manufacturing Co. of New Britain. They have three grandchildren, Lee R. Peyear and Stephen and Ellen Linicus. The children and grandchildren were present to join with Mr. and Mrs. Linicus in the celebration of Thursday.

At the time of their wedding Mrs. Linicus was less than 20 and Mr. Linicus had just passed his 20th birthday. Two years ago Mr. Linicus celebrated his 50th anniversary as a member of the Ponomoc Hose Co., of which he is the oldest member. He is a baseball enthusiast and was formerly president of the New London Baseball club. When Morton F. Plant purchased the team about 20 years ago he remained with it as secretary, traveling with the team and taking charge of the arrangements of games outside New London.

NORTH WOODSTOCK DRIVER LEAVES $200 IN COLCHESTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 31—Freeman Racine, North Woodstock, driver of an automobile owned by Agnes Whitman, of Mansfield Center, was in the justice court at Colchester last night charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and evasion of responsibility. He was fined $100 and costs on the former charge and $25 and costs on the latter complaint. Racine was driving along the Hartford turnpike when his machine crashed against a car driven by W. H. Farhinger, of Hartford. Although the latter's auto was damaged, Racine speeded away. State Officer William MacKenzie, who came along shortly after the crash, gave chase to Racine and did not overtake the fleeing autoist until East Haddam was reached. He was brought back to Colchester and demanded immediate trial, which was given him. By accommodating Racine, the driver was relieved of about $200 of his wealth.

DANIELSON CAR FIGURES IN NO. STONINGTON BUMP

NEW LONDON, May 31—An automobile owned by Jennie R. Hibbard, and driven by Mabel Chapman, both of 8 Reynolds street, Danielson, and a car owned by Mildred Jonquist and driven by Augusta Jonquist, Dorchester, Mass., collided yesterday in North Stonington. Neither car was badly damaged. On the accident being investigated by State Police Officer Dygert, it was determined that neither driver had been guilty of recklessness, so no arrest was made.

WALLACE RALPH, IN ANGER, INJURES MAN ON LIGHTER

Wallace Ralph, a carpenter, employed by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking company, was arrested today by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith, charged with breach of the peace and is being held in bail of $500 for trial in the police court tomorrow morning. Ralph was aboard one of the lighters of the company, moored at the Pequot avenue pier and engaged in a quarrel with another employe. During the altercation, Ralph rushed at the other employe and shoving more than hitting him, caused the man to fall. In falling he struck his head on a nail, causing an ugly laceration of the scalp which required surgical treatment. It is not believed, however, that the head injury is serious.

Girl's Leg Fractured

Florence Cone, 9, who is visiting relatives in Waterford, was struck by a youth on a bicycle in that township late this afternoon, the child sustaining a fractured leg. She was taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital where she will be a patient indefinitely.

An automobile truck, owned by Lena's market and driven by Emilio Mazzerca, 120 Riverview avenue, struck a truck driven by W. H. Tooker, 136 Crystal avenue, this afternoon at the corner of Crystal avenue and Main street. Both trucks were damaged.

Patrolman Louis Wheeler reported this afternoon that a boy had been struck by an automobile truck, but he had been unable to ascertain either the identity of the driver, or of the boy. The officer had been informed that the boy had been taken to the office of a physician.

The license of Gerald Desantes, 12 Woodbridge street was suspended also. Commissioner Stoeckel ordered the return of the licenses of H. Rees Mitchell, 5 Granite street Edgar Sandro, 174 Jefferson avenue and Max Roethlisberger, U. S. Coast Guard academy.

Two windows were discovered broken over the holiday in the Odd Fellows' building, Bank street. The damage, it is believed, was perpetrated by boys and has been reported at police headquarters.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Marquette, A New Six By Buick.

Buick dealers throughout the country today are displaying the Marquette a new six, produced and distributed by the Buick Motor Co. This car which is the ninth in the General Motors line, and which will sell in the medium price field, is offered in six models—a two-door sedan, four-door sedan, business coupe, sport coupe, a roadster and a touring car.

The six cylinder L-head motor and the crank case are cast in one integral unit. The engine has a bore and stroke of 3 1-8 inches by 4 5-8 inches and develops 67.5 maximum brake horsepower. Buick officials say the Marquette has remarkably quick acceleration and a maximum speed up in the seventies.

All models are designed along low swung rakish lines. The bodies are built by Fisher and finished in Duco color combinations that follow the present fashion trends. The radiator which is covered with a metal grille is deep with a narrow chromium plated rim that balances with the chromium hub caps. The wheels are sturdy and carry large section 28x5.25 balloon tires.

The Marquette has a new non-glare Fisher VV type windshield which sets at an angle of seven degrees from the perpendicular and reflects all glare, whether from rear, front or sides, below the driver's line of vision.

Other features embodied in the Marquette include large internal expanding Duo-servo four wheel brakes, an adjustable steering wheel, adjustable driver's seat, built-in bumper mountings and all chromium plated outside hardware. The soft, but durable, mohair upholstery is waterproof, impregnated under a new process with a rubber solution.

A full pressure lubricating system is used on the new car insuring a constant flow of oil to main bearings, connecting rod bearings, cylinder walls, camshaft bearings and the timing chain. The water cooling system is thermostatically controlled and has amble capacity to keep the engine at normal temperature under all driving conditions.

The tapered chassis is exceptionally sturdy, and together with the long semi-elliptic springs, gives the Marquette new qualities of restful, smooth riding at all road speeds.

Broadway Theatre.

"He can play them tough and he can play them refined." That's the way John Meehan sees Walter Huston, famous stage star whose latest moving picture production, "Gentlemen of the Press," a Paramount all-talking picture, will show at the Broadway theatre starting Sunday, for four days.

"Huston knows the stage and he knows vaudeville," says Meehan, a veteran stage director and actor who has known Huston for years. Meehan directed the dialog for "Gentlemen of the Press," the picture made from Ward Morehouse's successful Broadway stage play. "Huston began to look, for a time, like a specialist in old men's parts and then he changed to young men. He can sing as well as act and he composes his own songs. Furthermore, he has a grown-up son who sells stories to the magazines.

Huston is known on Broadway primarily, as a great character star. His performance of the hard old New Englander, Ephraim Cabot, in Eugene O'Neil's play, "Desire Under the Elms," is still talked about. His roles in "The Barker," "Kongo," Elmer the Great" and other hits of the legitimate stage have given him a rating in the exclusive front rank.

"Frequently," says Meehan, "I have talked with vaudeville theatre managers in small towns throughout the country who spoke like this: 'One of the best acts we ever had was a guy, a few years ago, who came through with a song, called 'I Haven't Got the Do, Re, Mi.' Did you ever hear him? Whatever was his name, anyhow?' His name, of course, is Walter Huston."

Breed Theatre

It is not very often that theatre goers are given the opportunity of seeing a better cast than that in "Hit of the Show," an FBO drama which opens tomorrow night at the Breed theatre.

The drama was directed by Ralph Ince, last of the great show family of that name, and is a different kind of a story about the life of the "world backstage."

Gertrude Olmstead has the part of the dainty little heroine, while Joe E. Brown, late of Broadway and musical comedy, is co-starred with her in the role of "Twisty," a hard working little hoofer.

Other members are Gertrude Astor, Lee Shumway, Ole M. Ness, Frank Mills and LeRoy Mason. Last but far from least, Daphne Pollard, late of the Follies Bergere.

Next Week At United Church.

Members of the Charitable circle of King's Daughters are asked to visit the Johnson home on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Philathea class will meet on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas Smith, Harland road. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. C. A. Spear acting as hostesses.

THE Marquette IS HERE

BUILT BY BUICK

A great new achievement in the automotive world—Marquette, built by Buick! Marquette is the smartest of the smart. Low-swung, rakish, hug-the-road lines. Beautiful color harmonies. Tailored and fitted to perfection.

And what a performer this remarkable car is! Imagine flashing from 10 to 60 miles an hour in 31 seconds! Think of accelerating from 5 to 25 miles an hour in high gear up a long 11.6% grade! (The average road grade is 7%). Think of riding at 68 to 70 honest miles an hour with complete safety and comfort. That's the kind of pick-up and power and speed you need in a car nowadays—and that's what you get in the Marquette.

THE MOST COMPLETE CAR EVER OFFERED IN THE $1000 FIELD

Body by Fisher. All closed bodies are the latest product of the world's finest closed body craftsmen.

Non-glare Fisher VV type ventilating windshield—a brand new feature. With the tilted windshield the driver is not annoyed by headlights in back of his car or coming toward him—there are no distracting reflections

New type mohair upholstery—has rubberized back—is waterproof and dustproof—a new development by Fisher, first shown on the Marquette—a great improvement.

Ample leg room in front and rear compartment—interiors are spacious and comfortable, no feeling of being cramped in this car.

Automatic windshield wiper.

Rear vision mirror—all models.

Remarkable power plant—motor develops 67.5 brake horsepower and provides the most brilliant performance ever achieved in this price field.

Piston displacement 212.8 cubic inches—a bigger displacement than in any other car in the $1000 field, indicating power to meet every demand.

Rubber engine mountings—at all four suspension points—shocks and jars to chassis frame are absorbed before they reach the engine.

Counter-balanced crankshaft—vibration eliminated and power delivered in a smooth, silent flow.

Automatic heat to carburetor—saves fuel and insures quick warm-up and easy starting in all seasons.

Completely sealed engine—oil filter, fuel strainer and air cleaner prevent dust, dirt and water from entering engine. Crankcase ventilator prevents oil dilution.

Forced lubrication—to all main bearings, connecting rod bearings, cylinder walls, camshaft bearings, and chain drive—the best engineering practice.

Crankshaft weighing 75 lbs. is placed in both static and dynamic balance—to assure a smooth, quiet motor at all speeds.

Four-wheel internal-expanding brakes—Duo-Servo type protected from dirt and water.

Brake cross shaft is equipped with three bearings as an added protection—providing useful braking power in every event. Controlled with self-aligning bearings which are not affected by chassis strains and twists.

A host of other extraordinary features that combine to make the Marquette America's most complete car in the $1000 field.

You must see the Marquette to get a true impression of its marvelous value. On display today at Buick and Marquette dealers'.

VOTE ON CHARTER QUESTION WILL BE BY MACHINE AT CITY ELECTION

Registrars Tyler D. Guy and Joseph B. Downes have been engaged for the last three afternoons in demonstrating the voting machines which have been set up in the city court room at the court house which will be the polling place for the voters in the city election next Monday. A comparatively small number of voters have taken the opportunity to become acquainted with the operation of the machines, probably because machines have been used so long that nearly everybody who casts a ballot feels familiar with the method of operation.

At the coming city election, however, there is a little difference from the customary operation of the machine, because approval or rejection of the new city charter is to be voted upon this time.

The vote on the city charter is cast on the machine, but in a different line from where the names of the party candidates are shown. Pulling either party lever does not register a vote on the charter so that if the elector goes into the machine, pulls the party lever and walks out, he has not voted either for or against the charter.

A vote for or against the charter is recorded in the line above the republican party line on the machine by manipulating a pointer which can be turned up to indicate either "Yes" or "No" to express a vote either for or against the charter. Of course a vote "Yes" gives approval to the new charter and a vote "No" is against the new charter.

Merely pulling the party lever does not vote on the charter either one way or the other, but the pointer for "Yes" or "No" has to be manipulated by hand in addition to pulling the party lever.

It is also possible to vote on the charter without voting on either of the party tickets. In that case the voter would not have to touch the party lever, but would merely walk into the machine, look for the place whre a printed card says "NEW CITY CHARTER" and turn the pointer underneath it up towards either "Yes" or "No", according to how he wished to vote.

The elector needs to remember that unless he manipulates one of these pointers by hand he does not vote on the question of the new city charter, even if he has pulled the party lever.

EXHIBITORS TAKE SPACES FOR TEXTILE STYLE SHOW

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, May 31—The following is the list of exhibitors for the textile-product style show at Danielson, June 13, 14 and 15, which has been filed to date with P. W. Chase, secretary and treasurer:

This last exhibit is made possible through the courtesy of the Jewett City Textile Novelty Co., Alex McNichol president, who engaged the space and turned it over to the trade school for display purposes.

Interesting to the mill men will be the demonstration of the Texlescope, in the booth of Allen & Allen Inc. This new device in the industry determines the animal and mineral content of all textile fibres and will be demonstrated by its originator, H. T. Scott Huntington, who comes from New York city for the purpose.

There are very few spaces available now and these will no doubt be taken within a few days as a number of inquiries have been received by Secretary Chase of Jewett City.

An added attraction at the show this year is made possible by the Danielson chamber of commerce which offers prizes to the best and most completely Connecticut dressed boy or girl on the last day of the show which will be children's day. At this time children of school age will be admitted free. This offer is made to stimulate interest in Connecticut-made products.

PAYS FINE ON CHARGE OF RUNNING GAMBLING PLACE

Found guilty of conducting a gambling house, in his laundry on Thames street, Charlie Yip, Chinese, was fined $10 and costs in the city court Friday morning. He arrested Yip, three frequenters and seized a deck of cards and some small change.

BRINGS FORECLOSURE ON BEACH DEVELOPMENT LOTS

A foreclosure suit for $12,000 on "Ridgewood by the Sea" property of Clarence L. Brockett of New London has brought in the superior court by Angelo Siasa, of Hartford. Four lots in the Ocean Beach Park development are specifically named. Jacob R. Slosberg, doing business as the Shetucket Coal and Lumber company of this city, claiming an attachment for $3,500, and the Thames Lumber company of New London claiming a mechanics lien for $385.10 are named as party defendants.

The suit is returnable in June.

Withdraws Petition for Name Change

The matter of the application of the petition of Harry Lebeshevsky of 28 Pearl street, a cattle dealer, for change of name to Libby, over which Judge Arthur F. Libby made a protest in the superior court a week ago, has reached a quiet stage for the time being.

Attorney Lee Roy Robbins, counsel for Lebeshevsky, filed a withdrawal Friday with Clerk John H. Walker, but expects to present another application at a later date. Lebeshevsky had been in the habit of using the name Libby in his business.

Judge Allyn L. Brown reserved decision in the superior court here Friday morning after hearing the testimony in the uncontested divorce suit of Leo Urbanski of Versailles against Mary Magruder Urbanski, formerly of Versailles, but now of parts unknown.

The marriage of the couple took place at Occum on Nov. 11, 1911 and testimony was given to show that Mrs. Urbanski went away with John Kowalchuk, A resident of Occum. Mrs. Annie Mish testified that Kowalchuk and Mrs. Urbanski resided at her place together and went away because they were so much in love with each other.

HARVARD MAN TO GIVE ADDRESS TO GRADUATES

Invitations have just gone out for the 11th annual commencement week program at Connecticut college at New London beginning June 6 and closing with the commencement exercises, Monday, June 10, when the graduating class of 164 will receive their degrees after an address by Dr William Ernest Hocking of Harvard. If the weather permits the exercises will be held, as is the college custom in the Blackstone-Plant quadrangle.

The events preceding the final commentment exercises are the senior banquet, June 6; the annual art exhibit of the department of fine arts which opens the afternoon of June 7 and remains open until June 10; the annual meeting of the alumnae association, class reunions, a baseball game between seniors and fathers, a trustees' luncheon to alumnae, faculty, and seniors, class day exercises followed by a reception at Knowlton house and in the evening a senior sing, all crowded into Saturday, June 8.

The baccalaureate services will be held in St. James' Episcopal church Sunday afternoon at 4. Dr. Arthur H. Bradford, pastor of the Central Congregational church in Providence, will deliver the address. A special musical service will be held in the evening at 8 in the same church.

The graduating class this year ties with the class of 1927 as the second largest ever to have been graduated from Connecticut college. The class of 1929 topped the list, with 130 members. The geographical distribution of the seniors is wide. Connecticut has the largest representation, 46, Massachusetts comes sectond with 12; New Jersey, 11; Ohio, 8; and Pennsylvania, 7. Other states represented are Illinois, Maine, Maryland, Alabama, and Minnesota. Five members of the class are Winthrop Scholars, an honorary guild established by the college "as the recognition of high scholarship, coupled with personal fitness and promise." Among the subjects in which the seniors have majored are English, French, Latin, Greek, history, music, mathematics, art, secretarial studies, and physical education.

WILL APPLY NEW LAW ON AUTO JUNK YARDS

Every person who displays two or more old unregistered motor vehicles which are unfit for reconditioning and highway use is subject to the provisions of the automobile junk yard law adopted by the 1929 legislature, according to interpretation of the bill by the state motor vehicle department. The new statute also states that storage places for used parts or old iron, metal, glass, paper or other discarded material of cars equal in bulk to two or more motor vehicles, shall be regulated under the provisions of the act.

To eliminate inconvenience for persons who, obviously, have no intention of doing an automobile junk yard business, the motor vehicle department, cooperating with state and city police, is seeking a clean up of such places before the law becomes effective July 1. Letters have been sent to all town and city civic and enforcement authorities asking cooperation in listing such storage places for old automobiles which might be included in the definitions of the bill. The department will then ask all persons on the list not doing a junk business to get rid of the old material and avoid the formal inspections, application for licenses and fees which will be necessary as soon as the law becomes operative.

In the letter to the town authorities, the department points out that every business which comes within the scope of the definitions in the law must take out a license. Also, that "many of these places which will apparently need licenses are probably run by people who have no intention whatever of coming under this act. They will be willing, doubtless, to clean up if somebody explains the law to them and tells them how they can escape.

"A strong point in connection with this stand and in favor of making a full explanation, is that anyone who accepts the situation and does clean up will also escape the inspection fee. As soon as inspections are started it is obvious that there will be need to charge for each inspection, whether the affected person takes out a license or not."

Copies of the law will be sent to all persons whose names will appear on the list being compiled by the department. They will also receive a request to cooperate by eliminating the necessity for an inspection if there is no intent of active business.

Under the act, it will be necessary for a prospective applicant for a license to secure first the approval of town officials, the warden, mayor, zoning commission, selectmen or town manager, as the case may be, before a license can be granted by the state. Hearings on the application will be held by both the town officials and the commissioner of motor vehicles. The costs of the hearings, in the form of fees, will be assessed against the applicant. The owners of existing motor vehicle junk yards under the definition in this law will have to comply with the same provisions.

Each applicant will also be required to pay a fee of $25 for the examination of the proposed junk yard or business and the license fee will be $50 if the land used in the business shall be five acres or less, and $100 if more than five acres. All licenses will be effective for one year. Violations of this statute provide for fines up to $100 and jail sentences of not more than ninety days.

FERACOS CAUGHT FOR SECOND TIME WITH LIQUOR

About midnight Friday, state and local police seized 18 dozen quart bottles of beer, two gallons of alleged gin, a bottle of cider, and a pint bottle containing alleged whiskey in a raid at No. 130 Talman St., occupied by Frank and Mary Feraco. The man and woman were arrested on charges of violation of the liquor laws and were held under bonds of $1,000 each. They will be presented in the city court this (Saturday) morning. The raiding squad comprised State Police Officer Arthur Whitmarsh, Sergt. Matthew Delaney of the local police department and Officers Howard Coburn, Michael Dewire, Eugene Caulkins and Patrick Shaban.

Mrs. Feraco was arrested several weeks ago on a similar charge, was fined $200 and costs in the city court with a suspended 30 day jail sentence and appealed the case to the court of common pleas. The police found the liquor concealed beneath the flooring at the foot of a stairway.

RESERVES DECISION IN SUIT AGAINST HUSBAND

Judge Allyn L. Brown heard the claim of Martha W. Bruzzer Thoren of Newburg, N. Y., in the superior court here Friday, to compel her former husband to pay her $3,555 under a judgment secured in a New York court. He reserved decision.

Mrs. Thoren claims that on Sept. 4, 1920 at Newburg the court gave judgment that Thoren was to pay $15 a week for the maintenance and education of two minor children. Thoren claims he paid for both children until they reached the age of 16 years. Mrs Thoren claims that the amount named is due her and she needs the money as both children are suffering from tuberculosis.

POETRY

The Point of View

It's hard sometimes when questions rise
To know just what to think;
There are so many ideas spread
Abroad by printers' ink.
But whether the ideas are old
Or whether they are new,
A question we should always ask
Is: "What's the point of view?"

It makes a difference whether what
We see is near or far,
A candle light nearby may seem
More brilliant than a star.
The things we can see perfectly
Are very, very few,
And most of us don't see things from
The ideal point of view.

So when you hear two orators
Who don't at all agree
And each is an authority,
So far as you can see,
The question is, which one is right,
The answer's up to you—
And don't forget how much depends
Upon the point of view.

The Country Doctor

He does not like sad music,
He shuns a mournful play,
He grumbles, "I see trouble
Where I do not have to pay."

His tastes are so plebeian
That he loves huge, roaring jokes;
He flings aside most novels,
"Mighty thin, I know real folks."

I try to ask no questions
For he makes it very plain
He's anxious to forget things,
Not to live them through again.

Yet I know when in the night-time
He comes in bowed and old
That somewhere, after anguish,
Shrunken hands are growing cold.

But some heart's new joy is throbbing
Where a downy, warm head lies
When the doctor comes home weary
With a glad look in his eyes.

STRUCTURAL IRON WORKERS ARE ON STRIKE IN CHICAGO

The Men Have Asked For $14 a Day, But Were Willing to Compromise on $13—Employers Offered to Increase Scale From $12 a Day to $12.50—Construction Work Valued at About $200,000,000 is Being Held Up—About 30,000 Men in Other Trades Were Unable to Work Because of the Strike—Differences May Be Adjusted Tc

CHICAGO, June [illegible]—A proposed arbitration meeting scheduled for today, of leaders in the building strike, in which more than 3,000 structural and ornamental iron workers stopped work yesterday, was put over until tomorrow. Leaders of both factions expressed the opinion that the differences would be ironed out at the conference.

The strike effectively tied up all steel construction work in Chicago, according to union officials. This was not denied by steel contractors. Union spokesmen said that in event a satisfactory settlement was not reached tomorrow, and that the Iron league or any of its members attempted to resume work with non-union workers, there will be a general strike involving practically all of the building trade.

The value of the construction work held up by the strike was estimated at approximately $200,000,000. About 30,000 men in other trades were unable to continue work because of the strike.

The strike was called because the union arbitration board and the Iron league could not agree on a new wage scale. The union asked for $14 a day, but was willing to compromise on $13. The employers offered an increase from the old scale of $12 a day to $12.50.

WEATHER UNFAVORABLE FOR ATLANTIC FLIGHTS

OLD ORCHARD, Me., June 2—(AP)—Wearied by weather conditions over the Atlantic, which prevented the Green Flash from hopping off for Rome and the Yellow Bird for Paris, Lewis A. Yancey and Roger Q. Williams, of the American plane, went cloud hopping today.

Latest weather advices from Dr. James H. Kimball, of New York, weather bureau, said that storms were prevalent over the North Atlantic with no promise of better weather before Tuesday.

After the flyers attended morning church services here, Williams and Yancey took the Green Flash aloft more as a relief from inactivity than for test purposes. Most of the full load which was put into the plane last Wednesday before a broken wheel prevented a take-off, was drained out and only enough for a short hop was left in the main tanks.

On their return a half hour later, Yancey said they ran into freezing conditions at 5,500 feet, which caused ice to form on the wings.

Jean Assolant and Rene Lefevre of the Yellow Bird also planned to make a short flight for the purpose of testing a gas and benzol mixture, but a cross wind prevented a takeoff of the big French plane.

Arturo Lotto, co-pilot and backer of the flight, remained in New York today to confer with aeronautical experts on the proper mixture for the Yellow Bird motor.

During the day, Assolant and Lefevre took the oath of the Order of Quiet Birdmen, an airmen's organization. Yancey's wife pinned the insignia of the order on the flyers' coats.

A coast guard boat which will follow the planes' course for several miles when they start for Europe arrived early today and anchored off the beach.

DOCTOR SAYS MURDER CHARGE IS A FRAME-UP

LOS ANGELES, June 2—(AP)—Dr. Frank P. Westlake, 57, retired physician, apparently was standing today on the assertion of his attorney that his arraignment on a charge of murdering Mrs. Laura B. Sutton, of Artesia, Calif., divorcee, "was a deliberate frame-up."

The physician would not talk about the matter and did not seem worried in the jail cell where he is being held without bail for preliminary hearing June 5. He sat through the reading of the complaint, filed by Deputy District Attorney Wayne Jordan, without emotion yesterday.

Deputy sheriffs said a torso found in the Los Angeles river bank April 4, was that of Mrs. Sutton, who disappeared March 28. Suspicion first was cast on Dr. Westlake when it was found he had profited financially by the woman's disappearance. Stains found in plumbing of Dr. Westlake's bathroom were identified as human blood by county investigators. A skull found in the Los Angeles river near the spot where the torso was washed ashore was the first clew to identification it was said by autopsy surgeons, to have been the head of the body. A dentist identified the teeth as those of Mrs. Sutton. Hair from the head corresponded with strands found in Mrs. Sutton's effects.

County autopsy surgeons said the head and limbs had been removed from the torso by one "skilled in surgery."

A surgical kit was found in Dr. Westlake's house contained no knives, and officers said they had been removed. No trace of the limbs of the body was found.

MESSAGE URGES SUPPORT OF DRY LAW ENFORCEMENT

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP)—A "message to the American people" signed by twenty-four prominent citizens and urging support of President Hoover in enforcing the prohibition law was made public today.

The message, which bore among others the signatures of Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison, quoted from recent utterances of the president on the subject of law enforcement and said:

"We believe that prohibition should be given an honest trial, that it was enacted for "the protection of the American home," and that the moral force of the country is behind President Hoover in his endeavor to combat those forces which are attempting to frustrate this effort."

The message urged all citizens to "unite to give the eighteenth amendment an honest chance for complete enforcement."

$500,000 FIRE SWEPT SEVEN BUILDINGS IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP)— Fire, fanned by a high wind, today swept seven buildings in Brooklyn, including a storehouse on the Fort Hamilton reservation. The damage was estimated at more than $500,000.

Police reserves were called out to hold back a crowd of 30,000 that gathered to see the fire.

LOS ANGELES, June 2—(AP)—Train after train of singing, carefree Shriners, whose gaity only was outdone by the roaring welcome earlier arrivals gave them, rolled into Los Angeles today bearing the main body of Masonry's fun-makers to the 55th annual convention opening here Tuesday.

One of the most ambitious plans of the convention will be proposed by Freeland Kendrick, former mayor of Philadelphia and vice chairman of the Shrine hospital committee. Kendrick will ask for the expenditure of $500,000 annually for the establishment of hospitals for crippled children at Pittsburgh, Pa., Richmond Va., and another in western New York.

At present the Shrine expends $1,250,000 in the major charity of caring for crippled children in hospitals established throughout the country.

The appearance of the Arabia Temple train from Houston, Texas, carrying Imperial Potentate Frank C. Jones was the signal for a thunderburst and the wondering thousands of sidewalk spectators tasted a bit of the famed Shrine mirth.

The gaity of the visiting thousands was tempered by the Sabbath, however, and 18 churches services were turned over to the Shriners. Fourteen radio stations broadcast the rites.

The principal ceremony was held in the natural amphitheatre in the green Hollywood hills—Hollywood Bowl—where a throng of Shriners and spectators assembled. Massed Shrine bands from Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., Detroit, Mich., Minneapolis, Honolulu, San Diego, and Los Angeles and Oklahoma City, participated.

Meanwhile committees met throughout the day completing the preliminary convention business and arranging for the reception of the last body of Masons arriving here tomorrow. Members of 54 temples arrived today.

MAY ENACT FARM RELIEF LEGISLATION THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, June 2—(AP)—Enactment of farm relief legislation this week is the goal of congressional leaders who believe the controversial export debenture provision of the senate measure can be eliminated on reconsideration.

With wheat selling below the dollar a bushel mark, the lowest in sixteen years, all interest at the capitol is centered on the farm problem. Blame for this condition is being passed freely around. The debenture group, which had a bare majority in the senate, asserts the condition justifies the need for such a provision. The administration supporters opposed to debentures contend the effort for this proposition must be abandoned in the interests of speedy enactment of a farm measure acceptable to the president.

The conferees of the senate and house are expected to reach an agreement during the week on their long-standing controversy over farm relief and there are indications that the senate group will yield on the debenture in the interests of an agreement thus forcing the issue again before the senate.

27,575 PROHIBITION CASES IN LAST SIX MONTHS OF 1928

WASHINGTON, June 2.—(AP)— Prohibition violations brought into federal courts were about 1,000 more in number during the last six months of 1928 than during the corresponding period of 1927.

Statistics made public by the department of justice today showed, however, that individual convictions were about 2,400 fewer and fines assessed about $200,000 less during the latter period.

A total of 27,575 cases were tried during the last half of 1928, the report showed, with 23,633 convictions and $8,222,146 assessed in fines.

A total of 3,205 years' imprisonment was imposed in sentences during the 1928 period, while the total for the months of 1927 was 3,472.

Compared with the same months of 1926, there were about 5,000 more cases instituted and about 9,000 more than in 1925. Fines were about $30,000 less than for the 1925 period and $600,000 more than for the 1926 period.

Steady decreases in cases, fines and assessments during the three years, the report showed, have occurred in southern California districts, western North Carolina, middle Tennessee, and the first and second divisions of Alaska. Consistent increases were made in Connecticut, middle Georgia, northern and eastern Illinois, and Hawaii.

HOPE TO FLY FROM MILAN TO DUBLIN; THEN TO CHICAGO

MILAN, Italy, June 2—(AP)—Final tests to the motors of the Caproni plane in which the Polish aviators, Adamkowalczyk and Kilisz, hope to fly from Milan to Dublin and and thence to Chicago are being made. The four motors were started running yesterday, and will be kept going until Tuesday at 2,000 revolutions per minute. The aviators believe they will be ready to take off at the end of this week.

DEMOCRATS TO DISCUSS ORGANIZATION PLANS

WASHINGTON, June 2—(AP)—National leaders of the democratic party will gather here next Monday to discuss organization plans for "a militant and effective year-by-year and day-by-day" furtherance of party principles.

The occasion will be a dinner honoring Jouett Shouse, new chairman of the executive committee of the national organization, who recently took up his duties.

The dinner, which is being tendered by the Jefferson Democratic association, of the District of Columbia, is expected, it was said, "to prove the initial assertion of an active democrat party offensive of capturing control of congress next year."

John J. Raskob, chairman of the national committee, will head a list of speakers who will address a national audience through a radio broadcast network. Other speakers are to be Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, chairman of the democratic senatorial campaign committee; Representative Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee, chairman of the party congressional campaign committee, and Mr. Shouse.

TO DRILL FOR OIL IN MEX. NATIONAL CATHEDRAL

MEXICO CITY, June 2—(AP)—Announcement that drilling for oil within the national cathedral, one of the oldest shrines in America and best known in Mexico, will start soon was made today by the section of explorations and geological studies of the department of industry, commerce and labor. The drilling will also determine how firm a foundation the cathedral rests on.

The cathedral is probably the largest church in the country and forms one side of the Zocalo, or central square of the city with the national palace occupying another side. This has not only been the seat of government and religious center since the Spanish conquest but had a similar place in Aztec life from the 12th century and from prehistoric times served the Toltec civilization.

PHILADELPHIA GANGSTER TAKEN FOR RIDE AND SLAIN

PHILADELPHIA, June 2—(AP)—Another gangster was "taken for a ride" and shot to death today.

The victim was not taken the usual route, through small streets in a secluded section. Instead they drove him in an automobile to an exclusive residential neighborhood in Germantown, halted the car and fired three bullets into his head.

Police identified the body as that of William "Bill" Scheer. They said his record showed that he had been arrested several times for holdups, as a suspicious character and once on a liquor charge.

After Scheer had been shot his slayer hurled the body into a roadway on a large estate and sped away. Police had found no clue tonight to the identity of the slayer or slayers.

SWEEPING SHAKE-UP OF SOVIET OFFICIALS

MOSCOW, June 2—(AP)—With the higher labor authorities removed who had opposed such a policy, the union central executive committee and legislative power, today authorized a sweeping shakeup of soviet officials to eliminate those showing too great sympathy with the bourgeois.

M. Tomski was relieved from his duties as president of the Central Council of Trades Unions of U. S. S. R., along with Mikhailoff and Uraroff, both members of the praesidium of the soviet labor federation. These officials had championed a policy of wider liberality toward the "fists" or wealthy peasants, greater democracy in the management of the labor federation, stimulation of light industry at the expense of heavy industry, and other views conflicting with the theories of the dominant power in the communist party.

MABEL TALIAFERRO O'BRIEN IS BEING SUED FOR DIVORCE

RENO, Nevada, June 2—(AP)—Mabel Taliaferro O'Brien, noted stage and screen star, may lose her husband tomorrow.

Captain Joseph Patrick O'Brien, World war veteran to whom the actress was married at Darien, Conn., January 11, 1920 Saturday filed suit for divorce in the district court here alleging his wife deserted him in Hollywood on July 10, 1927.

Time for hearing of the case has been set tentatively for tomorrow.

Captain O'Brien has been in Nevada for more than three months. He is interested in mining property near Virginia City on the historic Comstock lode.

TWO DAMS GAVE WAY ON RANCH IN WYOMING

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 2—(AP)—A wall of water released when two large dams at the Hereford ranch, six miles east of Cheyenne gave way early this morning claimed the life of one woman, destroyed bridges in its path and threatened valuable herds of livestock as the flood swept into northern Colorado.

The dam break was caused by the impounding of flood waters following a violent hail and rain storm. The reservoir was filled to overflowing from the sudden torrents that poured in from all sides.

CONDITION OF KING GEORGE IS UNCHANGED

LONDON, June 2—(AP)—Official announcement was made at Windsor Castle today that the condition of King George was unchanged. Lord Dawson and Sir Stanley Hewett, his majesty's physicians motored to Windsor from London this morning and with Dr. Marfyn examined the king during a two hour visit.

Woman And Fiance Found Shot Dead

Both Were Fully Dressed—Woman's Body Was on the Bed, the Man's on the Floor.

MOORESTOWN, N. J., June 2.—(AP)—Miss Ruth Wilson, 25, daughter of a Camden financier and real estate broker, and her fiance, Horace Roberts, also 25, were found fatally shot early today in the young woman's bedroom.

Both died without regaining consciousness. Miss Wilson had been shot three times in the left temple and Roberts had three bullets in the right temple. Miss Wilson was lying on the bed and Roberts on the floor. Both were fully clad.

John C. Wilson, father of the young woman, told the police he was convinced that Roberts had slain the young woman and then ended his own life. The couple had been sweethearts since childhood and had been engaged about a year.

Police said they had learned from friends of the pair that Miss Wilson had broken off their engagement about two months ago, but that they recently had been seen together quite often.

Roberts and Miss Wilson went to Ocean City together yesterday and were not expected back until late today.

They were found, unconscious and bleeding from the bullet wounds, by the young woman's father upon his return with his wife from a visit with friends.

Wilson said he saw a light in his daughter's room and believed that burglars were in the house. Climbing up a pillar onto the roof of the rear porch where he could peer into the girl's room without being seen, Wilson saw the pair lying dead.

"The shock was so great," he declared, "that I almost lost my footing. But I managed to scramble down, rush up the front stairs and break in my daughter's door, which was locked."

Wilson summoned doctors, but his daughter died shortly after their arrival. Roberts was taken to the Cooper hospital in Camden. An emergency operation was performed, but he died a few hours later.

The weapon from which the shots were fired was a .25 calibre automatic pistol. Wilson told the autorities that Roberts still clutched the pistol in his right hand when he and Mrs. Wilson enter the room.

Ellis Quarker, chief of Burlington county detectives, was placed in charge of the investigation.

SUPREME COURT TO RECESS WITH DOCKET ALMOST CLEAR

WASHINGTON, June 2—(AP)—The supreme court of the United States is to recess tomorrow for the summer with its docket almost clear for the first time in recent years.

A winter of hard work for Chief Justice Taft and his eight associates has brought its reward and as the end of the term approaches the nine members of the nation's highest tribunal find that for once they have almost caught up with the steadily increasing volume of cases demanding their attention.

They have heard all cases ready for argument at this term and are carrying over to next term only about 140 or 150 cases, of which approximately 50 are petitions for review which reached the court too late for action at this term, owing to the time allowed the opposition to file briefs. At the conclusion of the last term the number had been reduced to 190.

The court has succeeded in catching up with its work with no material falling off in the number of cases filed. Up to date it has at the present term disposed of 789 cases, with one more opinion day to substantially increase the number, while at the entire last term it disposed of 859 cases.

The court has before it awaiting decision 37 cases, of which 23 can be disposed of by 13 opinions, the remaining being petitions for review.

TWO NEGRO BANDITS SHOT AND KILLED IN CHICAGO

WHEELING, W. Va., June 2.—(AP)—Two members of a negro bandit gang were shot and killed by police and one officer was wounded here early today after the robbers had held up one South Wheeling pool room and were in the act of robbing another when police appeared. A third member of the gang said by police to have come here from Detroit, was captured and a fourth escaped.

One negro was shot down as he started to draw his revolver as police entered the scene of the second holdup. The other three bandits fled toward the business section. One was captured enroute and another shot Officer Otis Galentine in the leg when the policeman caught him at a street corner. The negro then leaped into a parked car in which two white woman were sitting and there Galentine shot him dead.

The man captured gave his name as Ralph Parker of Swissvale, Pa., Jess Williams, 30, and Lee White, 40 both of Detroit were killed and Charles Atchison 24, Detroit, escaped.

A WHISTLER PAINTING FOR SALE FOR $18,000 IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP)—A painting by James MacNeil Whistler which the artist himself once ordered destroyed is for sale here at $18,000.

Leon Dabo, who studied under Whistler in London, disclosed the history of the painting, which is called "Old Brighton." One day in the 80's, Dabo said, Whistler brought it forth from a closet, remarked it reflected too much the influence of Courbet, and told Dabo to smear it with white lead.

Instead, Dabo asked and was granted permission to take it away. Later, being temporarily shy of funds, he sold it for $40. By devious routes it has now found its way to a New York gallery.

OVERTURNING OF ROADSTER MAY RESULT FATALLY

WATERBURY, June 2.—(AP)—Slight hope was being held out tonight for the recovery of Lester A. Wheeler and Miss Martha Yenkien, of this city, two of the occupants of a roadster which overturned on the Waterbury-Middlebury road late last night after the driver had apparently become confused by an abrupt ending of the cement surface on that road. A third occupant of car, Clarence Hallock was almost instantly killed, while the fourth, Joseph Garbukas, will recover, in the opinion of hospital authorities.

Separations Up To Belgians-Germans

Settlement Depends Upon Negotiations For Redemption of German Marks Left in Belgium.

PARIS, June 2.—(AP)—Whether the agreement reached yesterday between the Germans and their creditors for a final settlement of the reparations questions is going to stick or not still depends on the proposed negotiations between the German and Belgians for redemption of German marks left in Belgium by German occupying forces. Thus far no official information has been received at the experts' headquarters of an encouraging nature either from Brussels or Berlin.

Meantime debate goes on in the press and in reparations circles as to whether or not the question of the marks is a proper one for the experts to tackle. Everybody is clear on one point, however, that is if the Belgians and the French who are understood to side with them refuse to sign the experts' report it will be impossible to present it to the various governments as a complete and final accord.

Emil Francqui, the Belgian spokesman at the conference, made a short visit to the experts' headquarters this morning but hurried away without leaving any indication of anything new being in the making.

The drafting sub-committee continued work throughout the day, receiving various suggestions from different experts as to phrasing in order to facilitate translation of the report into three languages—English, French and German—and to clarify special points of view of different delegations.

The complete new text will probably be ready for consideration by the full drafting committee Monday. Suggestions that may arise from this examination, however, cannot take more than a day so the final text will be ready for signatures Wednesday at the latest, providing, of course, that the Belgian marks question has been disposed of in the meantime.

The American delegates count positively on sailing for home during the week which is takep to mean that they will not remain in Paris after completion of the report or wait on the Belgian-German negotiations.

STUDENT AIR PILOT LEAPED TO DEATH

KALAMAZOO, Mich. June 2—(AP)—A student pilot was killed and the lives of hundreds of persons endangered here this afternoon when a plane burst into flame above the municipal airport and fell within a few feet of a crowd witnessing ceremonies attendant upon inauguration of a new air passenger service between here, Detroit and Cleveland.

The pilot, Herman Eaglelon, 23, turned his plane into the wind in an attempt to land but the maneuver threw the flames back into his face and he leaped from a height of 50 feet. He died a few minutes later.

Hundreds of persons in the vicinity of the falling plane scattered in panic as it fell and several minor injuries were reported.

ONCE SENTENCED TO DEATH AGAIN HELD FOR MURDER

CHICAGO, June 2—(AP)—Mrs. Katherine Cassler, 41, once sentenced to death for murder, later freed, was held in connection with a second slaying today, following identification of a girl's body found in a swamp near Hebron, Ind., as that of Miss Cameo Soutor, 24, who acted as housekeeper for Mrs. Cassler's husband, Trueman.

Mrs. Cassler was arrested last night, after Charles Johnson, 24, a professional skater, who described himself as a former sweetheart of the slain girl, told police the latter had been severely beaten recently by Mrs. Cassler for alleged intimacy with Cassler.

AUTO ACCIDENT CAUSED TWO DEATHS IN MERIDEN

MERIDEN, June 2.—(AP)—Claiming its second victim, the automobile accident which occurred near Hanover park, here yesterday afternoon, resulted in the death of Arthur Bell, 63, of this city last night. Bell's son William, 31, was killed almost instantly in the same accident.

Frank C. Rath, 37, also of this city, received a severe injury to his hip and was badly shaken up in the collision. His condition is not considered serious.

TWO STUDENT AVIATORS KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., June 2—(AP)—Myron Robb, Nelson, Neb., and Orville Wittwer, Red Cloud, Neb., aviation students, were killed and their bodies partly cremated and Howard Wilson, Lebanon, Kas., was seriously burned and cut when an airplane piloted by Wilson went into a tail spin and crashed to the ground near the Grand Island airport late today.

RACING MOTORISTS FORCED MOTORCYCLES OFF ROAD

SUFFIELD, Conn., June 2—(AP)—Two racing motorists on the new state highway in Suffield forced four Springfield youths riding motorcycles off the road early today, one of whom was struck and landed in a ditch. Bernard Peterson, the injured youth, received a compound fracture of the leg and multiple cuts and bruises. His companions notified a physician and later in the day he was brought to Springfield hospital.

BISHOP URRANGA Y SAENZ NOW IN MEXILCO CITY

MEXICO CITY, June 2—(AP)—Bishop Francisco Urranga Y Saenz of Cuernavaca arrived here today and notified the government of his presence. He is the first high ranking prelate of the Catholic church to return to Mexico since the possibility of solution of the religious controversy became known. Several others are expected shortly from the United States and Cuba where they have been living.

STEEL HELMETS PROTEST REPARATIONS AGREEMENT

MUNICH, Germany, June 2—(AP)—A meeting of the Steel Helmets today adopted a resolution asking the government to refuse to agree to the proposed payments under the reparations agreement made at Paris. The Young plan was described as "inevitably leading the German masses into misery" and it was further said it was bound to drive Germany toward bolshevism.

EASTERN TEXAS FLOOD IS CAUSING HEAVY DAMAGE

Property Damage at Houston Alone Will Run Into Millions of Dollars—Nearly Every Town on High Ground Along the Brazos River is the Scene of a Refugee Camp——Residents of the Lowlands Have Moved Out and Taken Their Stock With Them.

HOUSTON, Texas, June 2. —(AP)—The east Texas flood, one of the worst in a quarter of a century, today was confined almost entirely to the gulf coast region. As count of the roll proceeded, a death from drowing was reported at Houston and it was feared that other lives might have been taken by the murky waters. Property damage at Houston alone will run into millions of dollars.

The body of Arthur Araidona, Mexican messenger boy, today was dragged from the receding waters of Buffalo Bayou, which forms the basin of the Houston ship channel. The discovery of the drowned youth intensified the search for the body of a man reported to have fallen into the raging stream Friday night. Further loss of life was feared. Officers yesterday had discounted reports that a messenger boy had drowned.

The youth's body was lodged in a pile of lumber in the basement of a creamery situated alongside the stream. It was discovered and taken from the water by three other messenger boys.

Although little additional rain had fallen within the last 24 hours the last of the slowly moving flood waters were not expected to reach the Gulf of Mexico before the middle of the week.

The Trinity river was reported falling at Liberty where considerble apprehension had been felt.

The flood waters of the Neches were predicted to reach their crest at Beaumont tonight.

The crest of the Brazos was moving at a snail's pace as residents of Fort Bend and Brazoria counties, nearest the gulf, waited stoically for its appearance.

Nearly every town on high ground along the Bazos was the scene of a refugee camp as residents of the bottoms moved out and took their stock from the lowlands.

Airplanes concentrated in Houston, made as many trips to inundated areas as possible, carrying passengers and food supplies. The three towns, Goose Creek, Pelley and Baytown, remained isolated, except by air but residents said there was no danger of a serious foot shortage.

Buffalo Bayou, which flooded much of the business section of Houston, was practically within its usual channel today. Merchants were too busy retrieving as much of their stock as possible to estimate the loss.

Hundreds of city employes paid no attention to Sunday, working all day on roads, bridges, the sewer system and water works. James H. B. House, city water commissioner, predicted that the central water plant would be in operation again Tuesday.

TAKEN FOR A RIDE AND SHOT BY GUNMEN

HACKENSACK, N. J., June 2.—(AP)—Thomas Bertoni, 22, of Hoboken, was in the Hackensack hospital tonight with three bullet wounds in his legs, received when gunmen "took him for a ride."

After he had been stood against a fence and fired at three times, the men fled, leaving Bertoni to crawl along the highway until he was picked up by a passing automobilist.

At the hospital Bertoni told authorities he had been forced, "at the points of two guns" to enter a car in Hoboken last night. He stated one of the men told him they were going to "take you out and kill you."

Bertoni was unable to state in which direction his captors had taken him.

All three shots, fired by the men, the youth told police, were low. Two of them pierced one leg and the third lodged in the other.

Bertoni lost considerable blood before he was picked up and his condition at the hospital was reported as critical.

DRUNKEN DRIVER CAUGHT AFTER CHASE OF MILES

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP)—Caught after an automobile chase of several miles through upper Manhattan and the Bronx, William Greeney, 27, a real estate dealer of 7 Commerce street, Norwalk, Conn., was held in $500 bail in Bronx traffic court today on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. Bail was supplied.

Greeney was arrested last night after he was alleged to have struck a parked automobile and fled. Police said Frank Rosselli, one of the men in the car struck by Greeney's machine, jumped on the running board of Greeney's car and was severely injured when he was shoved off and dragged a block clinging to the handle of one of the doors.

Four other automobiles joined in the chase and one picked up a policeman, intercepting Greeney's car at the Central bridge.

COLONEL CHARLES JOHN COVENTRY DIED IN HIS HOME

LONDON, June 2.—(AP) — Colonel Charles John Coventry, who married in 1900 Lily Whitehouse of Newport, R. I., died today at his home Abupton-on-Severn. He was the second son of the ninth Earl of Coventry and was born in 1867.

He served in the Bechuanaland police force and took part in the notorious Jameson raid. He was sentenced to five months imprisonment in this connection but was released after 24 days because of ill health. During his long career in the British army he was mentioned in dispatches several times for his work in Africa and Turkey. He was taken prisoner by the Turks in 1916.

107TH ANNIVERSARY OF YALE DIVINITY SCHOOL

NEW HAVEN, June 2—(AP)—Celebration of the 107th anniversary of Yale Divinity school, will be held tomorrow, with special exercises presided over by Dean Luther A. Weigle and Prof. Henry T. BOY DROWNED IN QUICK SAND AVOIDING POLICE

NEW HAVEN, June 2—(AP)—A pair of dice called the turn of death for Albert Biandella, 19, when he was drowned in quick sand in West river today as he fled to escape a detail of police who descended on a "little friendly game." The youth was cut off from escape with four other members of the game and chose the river as an exit. When half way across the stream he was caught in the quicksand and soon disappeared. The others were arrested, charged with gaming.

IMPERFECT PACKING OF PARACHUTE CAUSED DEATH

DETROIT, June 2.—(AP)—Imperfect packing of a parachute today caused Daniel Otterbacher, 22, to fall 2,000 feet to his death after a leap from the wing of a plane. Witnesses who inspected the parachute after the accident said its fastenings were jammed so its was necessary to use a knife to open them.

AWAITING ACTION OF PRIME MINISTER BALDWIN

LONDON, June 2—(AP)—The whole British political world today waited on Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, who had withdrawn to the seclusion of his official residence at Chequers to think over the political situation with police at the gates to repel inquisitive callers. There had been no open development.

The newspapers call the parliamentary position a stalemate, but that postulates that David Lloyd George and the liberals who formed part of the opposition in the last parliament would be equally ready to join with a conservative opposition in the new to overthrow a labor government.

The conservatives attribute their defeat in the general elections to the liberals having put in 500 candidates for the avowed purpose of attracting votes away from conservative candidates. For this reason there is very bad blood between the two parties not conducive to an alliance between them.

Mr. Baldwin might of course reconstruct his shattered government and meet parliament, but he can hardly hope for help from Mr. Lloyd George to retain him in power. Some of the best friends of the prime minister are advising him to resign as the most dignified and most constitutional course. Moreover, in his final speech in the election campaign Mr. Baldwin said frankly that the country had to choose between himself, Ramsay MacDonald and David Lloyd George, and that he would accept the verdict. That verdict has been given and Mr. MacDonald commands the largest party in the new house.

WHEREABOUTS OF THE LINDBERGHS UNSOLVED

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP)—The honeymoon of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, the former Anne Morrow, neared the end of its first week today with the mystery of their whereabouts still unsolved.

Since the famous airman stepped from the Morrow home at Englewood, N. J., last Monday afternoon with his bride of a few moments on his arm and vanished, all attempts to locate them have been unsuccessful.

Rumors which during the week had reported them in dozens of places from the Atlantic to the Pacific last night centered round the home of Howard E. Coffin on Sapelo Island off the coast of Georgia.

Mr. Coffin is president of the National Air Transport of which Col. Lindbergh is technical adviser. The fact that armed guards were thrown about his island home and that all communication with the mainland was cut off led some people to believe the famous couple were there. Others hazarded the guess they were cruising in Mr. Coffin's yacht.

As with previous rumors, no verification was obtained.

18 PERSONS INJURED BY EXPLOSION IN SCRANTON

SCRANTON, Pa., June 2—(AP)—Eighteen persons were injured, one building completely destroyed and several others badly damaged and hundreds of windows were smashed by a dynamite explosion late Saturday night that wrecked the Sterling Market, a green goods store on Main street, Dickson City.

All of the injured are expected to recover.

The explosion occurred at 11:45 o'clock. Joseph Sabatelli of Old Forge, owner of the market, had just closed the store for the night and was standing in front of the building when the explosion occurred. He was hurled across the street and badly cut, was taken to a hospital. Police are of the opinion that a black hand feud is responsible for the explosion.

Firemen in searching the ruins this afternoon came across an electric time clock, completely wired. It is believed this was used to set off the dynamite.

UNITED SINGERS OF BROOKLYN WINNERS

NEW YORK, June 2. — (AP) —The United Singers of Brooklyn tonight were declared the winners of the highest award in the twenty-seventh national Saengerfest of the Northeastern Saengerbund of America.

The award, known as the Columbia prize, was offered for the organization scoring most points in any of the competitions, which were held Friday, Saturday and today. The Brooklyn Singers scored 119 points in winning top honors in Friday's first class competition.

Among other winners was the Remington Arms Glee club of Bridgeport, Conn., first in Saturday's second class

MANY DELEGATES AT RELIGIOUS INSTITUTE MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 2—With a large attendance of delegates from all the church schools of this city and surrounding towns, the annual institute of the first district of the Windham County Council of Religious Education was held in the Congregational church at North Windham today with afternoon and evening sessions.

Miss Marion Colman of this city, president of the district organization, presided over the sessions which were convened at 3:30 o'clock and 7:30 o'clock.

The opening service was conducted by Rev. Paul B. Sanger of Chaplin, the address of the afternoon being delivered by Rev. Everett S. Lyon of Thompson. In a general discussion in the adult division on the influence of the school church in the community, Rev. Mr. Lyon, as leader of the discussion, was assisted by Miss Grace Thomas of Hartford, who had charge of the junior group. Miss Thomas was formerly engaged in religious educational work under the Methodist Conference of Central Pennsylvania.

The evening song service was under direction of Miss Colman and was followed by a colorful missionary pageant with Miss Thomas and Miss Colman as directors. Children and young people from Chaplin and North Windham took part in the pageant. The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Edward F. Smiley of Windham Center, whose theme was, The Church Schools Share in a World-Wide Work. This was the closing address of the institute.

DRIVE FOR $12,000 TO BE LAUNCHED THIS WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 2—A public drive, supported by the chamber of commerce, will be launched here during the week of June 10, to secure $12,000 which is to be applied toward defraying moving and other expenses of the Willimantic Silk, Inc., a new industry which has at present over 200 employed and has an average weekly payroll of about $2,500. The concern now occupies a number of floors in the former Quidnick-Windham plant. It was brought to this city mainly through the affiliated interests of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company, owners of the mills.

Pledges to the amount of $32,250 were secured for this industry last August, but it was later found that this sum was not needed by the silk company and instead of calling in these pledges the new drive is now to be staged with only $12,000 as its quota.

The executive committee for the campaign as appointed by President Frank P. Fenton of the chamber consists of the following: John F. Carr, chairman, Roland B. Jordan, Nelson A. Daniels, William P. Jordan, Joseph F. Riordan, Harry N. Bullard, Edwin J. Donnelly, Raymond A. Parker, Louis H. Arnold, P. J. Laramee. President Fenton and President James H. Hurley of the Retail Merchants' bureau, President Fenton will be general manager of the campaign of which George H. Gurley of the Willimantic Trust company will be treasurer. Teams, headed by captains, are now being formed for the solicitions which will start June 10.

Abraham Garbish, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Garbish of Hebron, is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital suffering from a broken right leg sustained when he was struck and run over Saturday afternoon in Hebron by a truck of the Red Wing Feed Co., of Colchester, driven by Herman Conrad of that town. The boy was crossing the street in front of the rectory of St. Peter's church when he was struck. Conrad took the child to the office of Dr. Cyrus Pendleton in Colchester who found that the right leg had been broken between the ankle and knee. On advice of the physician the child was removed to the hospital here.

At the Saturday morning session of police court, Edward Donovan of this city was acquitted of a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor, the charge being the outcome of a collision Sunday evening, April 21, on West Main street, near the Dr. G. E. Wilcox home. Donovan pleaded guilty to a charge of operating without a license and was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $29.05 which was paid.

Stone Age Mixup.

RODEZ, France (AP) — A riddle has been set savants by the discovery of a prehistoric sepulture at the Pic d'Amboulx, near here. While the implements and weapons appear from their finished workmanship to belong to the neolithic age, the skulls of the owners, buried with them, seem to be those of men of the much earlier Cro-Magnon or mesolithic race.

DANIELSON

POND BOUND OVER TO SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 2—Harry D. Pond, who has been serving four months in jail in Dedham, Mass., for passing worthless checks, was brought here Saturday in charge of state officers and presented before Judge W. Penner Woodward to answer to charges of a similar nature. Probable cause was found for holding him for trial at the superior court and he was bound over, and in default of $2,000 was committed to the county jail at Brooklyn. In Pond's behalf it was stated by counsel that he had made restitution for the losses, amounting to several hundred dollars, he had caused by checks he passed here, and a plea made that he be placed on probation. In view of the aggravated nature of the charges against him and that he used his mother's name to obtain funds dishonestly, Judge Woodward declined to accept the recommendation and bound him over. Pond formerly was a resident of Brooklyn.

Saturday morning the funeral of Victor St. John was held from his home on Dyer street with funeral services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Joseph Berin, M. S., was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery. The bearers were Edmond St. John, Joseph St. John, Alfred St. John, George St. ohn, Victor St. ohn and Camil Guimont. Martin T. Burns was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

DEER DOES SPECTACULAR STUNTS AT DANIELSON

Somewhere in woodland country hereabouts a deer is probably recovering from an unusual and exciting experience for itself and one that was highly interesting for those who saw it. At the week end this deer leaped a high picket fence surrounding the mill yard near the office of the Quinebaug company on the West Side, raced across the lawn and leaped from the embankment a distance of 20 feet into the canal. The fast flowing water swept the deer against the grating that is placed in the canal, to keep materials that come floating down from going into the water wheels, and struggled there for a time. Eventually the deer managed to make its way into the sluiceway and from that point made a spectacular leap of 35 feet into the river, landing at a point where the water boils along among large rocks. The plunge apparently left the deer uninjured, for the animal, a doe, swam across the river and mounted the bank in the rear of Dyer street. Within ten minutes the deer was back in the canal again. This is explained through a checkup that shows that after swimming the river the deer went north to Franklin street, thence across the Quinebaug bridge, became frightened by traffic and bounded back into the mill yard. The second time the deer got into the canal and up against the grating men who were on hand hauled the animal out of the water—and it took eight of them to handle her—tied her feet together, and loaded her into a truck. She was transported to open country south of the Quebec section of the West Side, the dog hands released and her liberty restored. She went away on three legs, evidently having sustained some injury in her mad leaping and plunging before she was rescued from the water. The guess is that the deer made of sheer determination of 20 feet from the lawn to the canal and of 35 feet from the sluiceway into the river bed gave those who watched a great thrill.

Mrs. Nelson Gauthier and daughter, Miss Blanche, were in Woonsocket today to be present at the Precious Blood church at a solemn high mass of which a relative, Rev. Joseph F. Bousquet, was celebrant. Rev. Fr. Bousquet was ordained to the priesthood at the cathedral in Joliette, P. Q., Saturday morning by Bishop Papineau, and left almost immediately thereafter for his home city of Woonsocket. Many of his relatives and friends attended the mass this morning. Later there was a banquet at which Mrs. Bousquet and Miss Bousquet were guests.

This afternoon at 2:30 at the Nazarene church funeral services for Mrs. Lillian M. Barber Hill were attended by relatives and a large number of friends. Burial was in the Parker Hill cemetery in Sterling. Tillinghast and Sons were in charge of the funeral arrangements. Up to the time that her husband died, about three years ago, she being the widow of Frank E. Hill, Mrs. Hill was a resident of Danielson. Recently she has been making her home with her brother in North Sterling.

A death in Foster this morning was that of Charles Sprague Salisbury, 91, one of the oldest residents of that town, in which he had lived about all of his life. Mr. Salisbury was born May 15, 1838, a son of Charles and Celia Cole Salisbury. During the many years that he was engaged in active work he gave his time to farming and also to work as a carpenter. Mr. Salisbury leaves a nephew, Elmer Salisbury, with whom he has made his home for the past nine years.

It was said today that there is little prospect of a general revaluation of the property of the town of Killingly being undertaken this year. However, as the work cannot be delayed beyond 1930, it likely will be undertaken during the coming year, in time to base the tax assessments of October 1, 1930, on the new and, in most cases, higher valuation. It is regarded as a certainty that the revaluation will so boost the grand list as to make possible a much lower tax rate than is in force at the present time.

An Artists' night program is scheduled to be presented at Monday evening's meeting of Killingly grange.

Mrs. P. F. Murray, Misses Emma and Margaret McBride, Julia Murray, Miss Julia Murray and Miss Mary Weaver and Michael Cronin are in New York to attend the graduation from Mt. St. Vincent's college on the Hudson, Tuesday of Miss Madelyn Cronin.

Saturday's Tax day in the interest of the Killingly high school was generously responded to by the public, in the sense that there were a great many who purchased tags.

This morning's weather forced the bringing out of heavy coats and wraps again, following the nose dive the temperature did from the heights it scaled last week.

Henry D. Ouilette of New Bedford is visiting with friends in Danielson for a few days. Formerly he was a resident of Putnam.

A matter of eastern Connecticut interest is that Rev. J. E. McCarthy, for years pastor of All Hallows' church, Moosup and before that pastor of the Sacred Heart church at Wauregan, is at Holy Trinity church, Pomfret, during the absence in Europe of Rev. George Donahue. Fr. McCarthy is now vice president of St. Thomas' cemetery at Hartford.

Oliver LaChapelle of Southbridge has been ordered to appear in the town court Monday morning to answer to operating a car in this town Saturday evening without having a registration.

Mrs. Peter Reynolds and daughter, Miss Gertrude, were visitors with friends in Worcester Saturday.

Three court appearances scheduled for Monday in the town court are those of Delso Aubin, 18, of this town, a minor who will be charged with operating a non-insured automobile; William LaPorte of Wilsonville, operating car with defective brakes; and Napoleon Harrelle, Killingly, operating a car without a registration. Harrelle was in court only recently to answer to operating a car with defective brakes.

William S. Brown, severely injured when attacked by a bull a week ago today, is gradually recovering and was able to sit up today at his home on Shepard Hill farm, near Wauregan.

King George W. Jacques of East Killingly will observe his 78th birthday on July 4. He is as active as for a score of years past, and is planning a busy summer season.

Preparations are now well advanced for the commencement exercises at Killingly high school a little more than a fortnight hence.

MYSTIC

PHYSICAL WORK CLASS ENTERTAINS AT ACADEMY

Parents and friends were present at the demonstration of physical work of Mystic Academy Friday afternoon. Chairs were placed on the grass for the visitors and the exercises were carried out on the school grounds. The pupils did their work with evidence of much practice. The program was under the direction of Miss Mary Sweet, physical director of the school. In the opening number the two grades did their marching and running to music by the school orchestra and at the finish went down on one knee forming the letters M. A. S. and sang the Academy song. The wand drill and Indian clubs were especially pleasing. The human croquet by grade 3 was particularly amusing. Boys formed the wickets by standing with their legs well apart and then the players, one starting at each end, crawled through and ran from wicket to wicket as in the real game. Stunts by grade 4 were also very well done. The children all look to be in fine condition. The program follows:

March and run, Grades V and VI; dance, "Joan" Girls of Grades VII and VIII; ward drill, Grades V and VI; games—Human croquet, dodge ball, broncho tag, Grade III; dance, "7 umps", Grades I and II; Indian clubs, Grades VII and VIII; stunts, Grade IV; Maypole dance, Grade II.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM POLICE GET THREE QUARTS IN LIQUOR RAID

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 2—A successful liquor raid was staged late Saturday evening when Putnam police swooped down upon the pool room and tobacco store in the Labby block on Canal street conducted by Theodore "Ted" Beausoliel of Chapel street and unearthed a cache of moonshine and alcohol "splits," stored in a trap between the sills in the floor.

The dry squad consisted of Officers Benoni Durand, Alpheris Sponcey, Frederick Dinsdale and was under the direction of Sergt. George Liard. The raiders arrived at the store at about 10:30 p. m. Exterior appearances were that all was well. A few patrons were in the salesroom in the outer part of the store when the police entered and there was nothing to give any evidence that liquor was being sold. Sergt. Liard armed with a search warrant ordered the frequenters to depart and commenced a search of the ante rooms. The place was searched from attic to cellar and not a drop of alcohol was to be found. The officers were preparing to leave when Sergt. Liard observed a knot-hole in the floor. A bar was employed and two boards were removed. The camouflage revealed a dozen half pint bottles of alleged moonshine and "splits," carefully packed into the crevice in the floor.

The contraband was confiscated by the squad of officers and an employe, Samuel Ali of Manahansett village was placed under arrest charged with sale of intoxicating liquor.

When the liquor was seized the proprietor, Theodore Beausoliel who had departed from his place of business earlier in the evening appeared upon the scene and demanded the police explain their presence. When informed by Sergt. Liard that the place had been raided and liquor found, and that he was under arrest Beausoliel was astonished, denied having any knowledge of liquor being sold in his place of business. His story as told to the police made little impression and he was taken to the station house and booked on charges of owning and keeping with intent to sell and actual sale of intoxicating liquors.

Both Beausoliel and Ali, his employe will be arraigned in police court Monday morning.

Three youths, each tired of the "quiet life of Putnam" and who resorted to theft of money to pay their way to New York reposed in the prisoners docket of police court Saturday afternoon to make amends for the theft of money from the Roy F. Shippee filling station on School street, Friday morning.

Charles Comeau of this city, 17, and William Ward, 19, of Bangor, Maine, through Probation Officer Peter A. Gardner entered pleas of guilty to the charge, while the third, Anthony Welcome of Grafton Hill section, Worcester, 21, pleaded guilty to the offense.

The manner in which the three boys had outwitted Clarence Shaw, gasoline station attendent and had stripped the cash drawer of its contents; their escape and timely apprehension by Webster police in Webster, was related by Prosecuting Attorney Eric H. Johnson. Attorney Johnson told the plans of the trio for getting money. At first Comeau was to get the required amount from his father, who lives in Putnam. When this became impossible, Ward, whom Mr. Johnson termed as being "tough and hard" suggested they steal it. Led by Ward's methods the three started out to fleece the filling station.

Mrs. George Welcome, mother of Anthony, was in court. In a conference with Attorney Johnson she told of the many sacrifices she had made to bring her son up in the right path. The plea of his mother, it was afterwards learned saved Welcome from suffering severe consequences at the hands of the court.

Attorney Johnson in making recommendations to the court said that he believed Comeau was easily influenced. Mr. Johnson informed the court that a position was being held open for the youth and he was of the opinion a stiff fine, rather than a jail sentence would impress upon him the seriousness of his offense. Accordingly Judge Geissler meted out a fine of $25 and a six months period of probation.

In disposing of Ward's case Attorney Johnson said he had never been in trouble before. He is married and divorce proceedings are now being instituted against him by his eighteen year old wife, the prosecuting attorney said. In consideration of facts confronting the defendant Judge Geissler imposed a fine of $25 and costs of court.

A severe reprimanding from Judge Geissler in which the magistrate termed the youth as "being ambitious in the wrong way," together with a $25 fine was the fate of Welcome.

Captain of Police Jarvis informed the court that the police had recovered the amount of money obtained by the boys from the gas station and that restitution has been made to the owner.

Stanley Yeserski of North Grosvernordale was before Judge Percy P. Tourtellotte in town court in North Grosvernordale Friday evening on charges of assault upon his wife. The alleations contained in the warrant against the defendant were that he had inflicted a severe beating upon his wife knocked her down and concluded his brutality by "heeling" the woman with his heavy working shoes. Yeserski pleaded not guilty to the charges and was bound over to the superior criminal term of court for hearing. Grand Juror A. Bellerose who prosecuted the case for the state said yesterday that the man has been arrested on a similar charge before.

Mrs. Emil Rochefort of North Grosvernordale was severely burned Friday evening when flames from an oil stove which exploded scorched her face and arms. She was treated by a physician at the emergency hospital and later in the evening returned to her home.

The timely arrival of other members of the family prevented a serious blaze when the blazing stove was thrown through an open window into the street, where it was extinguished.

Rt. Rev. Maurice McAuliffe, auxiliary bishop of Hartford diocese administered the sacrament of confirmation to a class of 250 children and adults this morning at St. Joseph's church in North Grosvernordale, following the 10:30 o'clock mass. The bishop was assisted in the ceremony by Rev. John C. Mathieu, pastor of St. Joseph's and by Rev. Leo J. Lavallee curate.

At two o'clock Sunday afternoon Bishop McAuliffe assisted by the two priests of St. Joseph's journeyed to St. Stephen's church in Quinebaug where a class of 50 children were enrolled in confirmation.

At four o'clock the newly acquired 1700 pound bell recently installed in the spire of St. Joseph's church received the diocesan blessing conferred upon it by Bishop McAuliffe. The solemn ceremony was preceded by a procession of the blessed sacrament throughout the church.

Under bright June skies that made conditions ideal for a public celebration hundreds lined the streets in the north end of the city this afternoon to witness the procession that was part of the celebration of the feast of Corpus Christi which took place at St. Mary's church. Nearly every church society, St. Mary's Boy Scout band and troops of Boy Scouts and the children of St. Mary's school carried religious banners of corresponding colors on the line of march. At the home of Maxime Bibeault on Harrison street an altar had been erected on the lawn, where benediction of the blessed sacrament took place. Rev. U. O. Bellerose assisted by Rev. J. D. Casey and Elmer J. Boileau officiated at the ceremony. From here the lengthy procession reformed and marched back to the church grounds where disbandment took place.

Mr. and Mrs. John Durand of North School street spent Sunday in Waterbury.

The work of tearing down the O'Leary block on Main street adjoining the Congregational church property was started Saturday morning by a local firm of building wreckers and by night a substantial part of the structure had been removed. The new banking building of the Cargill Trust company is to occupy this spot.

The store of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea company which has been conducted in the O'Leary building for several years suspended business operations Saturday evening. During the week the stock in the store is to be removed to a new store in Rhode Island an official of the company said.

Rev. Joseph D. Casey, assistant pastor of St. Mary's church who has been in a Hartford hospital for several weeks recovering from an operation, returned to his duties at St. Mary's church this morning, in a much improved condition.

The report of Health Officer Peter A. Gardner to the state department of health for conditions in this city during the past week contained mention two cases of chicken pox, 1 case of scarlet fever, 1 case of measles, 1 case of diphtheria as existing within the city.

John Fallon of New York is spending several days as the guest of his daughter, Mrs. John Cronin and Miss Ruth Cronin of Sawyer district.

Mrs. Albert Mansfield has removed from Grove street to a bungalow on Killingly avenue recently completed.

MRS. CORNELIUS COUGHLIN DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Helen Leary Coughlin, 70, died at her home on Water street, Saturday at 12.30 a. m., after a long illness. She was born in Woolwich, England, but came to this country when very young. She was united in marriage with Cornelius Coughlin in New York. He died here a few years ago. Mrs. Coughlin was the mother of thirteen children, three are dead and the ten surviving are John of Mystic, Cornelius, William, Edward, Thomas, Joseph, Mary, Margaret, Jennie and Mrs. Fred Turner. She leaves a sister, Mary Leary.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Charlwood of Brooklyn, N. Y., are spending a few days here at their summer home.

C. H. Simmons of New York is here at his summer home for a few days.

Henry R. Palmer Speaks.

At Riding Academy.

About 200 spectators witnessed the recent exhibition of horsemanship, including jumping and trick riding at the Stonington Riding Academy.

John Miller of Hartford is visiting here with his parents.

COLUMBIA

Miss Mary Hinckley of Norwich and Miss Edith Little of Springfield were callers recently at the home of Mrs. Lucy Clarke.

Miss Margaret Blakeley, a student nurse at Hartford hospital, is having three weeks' vacation and will spend part of her time at her home here.

Miss Gladys Rice, a junior at the state normal school in Willimantic, attended the May party held there Tuesday afternoon.

A well child conference was held at the town hall Tuesday afternoon. Dr Haskins of the state board of health was assisted by Miss Margaret Lewis. Miss Margaret Danehy and a dental nurse. These conferences will be held twice a year, instead of every month as formerly.

The Ladies' Aid society met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs Janie Squiers, 33 being present.

The pupils of the Center school hung a May basket Tuesday evening to their teacher, Miss Marie Bargfrede.

WESTERLY

REPORTS TO BE HEARD AT COUNCIL MEETING

When Westerly town council holds its June meeting this (Monday) evening, an application will come before the council from the Bradford Athletic association, headed by Frank Ward, for permission to hold Sunday baseball games at Douglas park, in Bradford.

At the last council meeting the police committee was authorized to go ahead with plans and preparations for installation of traffic signal lights for the purpose of saving time while the center business streets of the town are torn up. The street lighting committee, given power at a council meeting several months ago to improve the lighting of the principal streets of the town, is doing away with the use of overhead wires and a conduit installation is now nearly completed. The council will learn from the committee the nature and description of the new lighting units to be put into use.

MAY BE TWO CONTESTS IN PAWCATUCK FIRE DIST.

The Pawcatuck fire district, Albert G. Martin, moderator, will hold its 43rd annual meeting this (Monday) night in the newly-built Liberty street headquarters, where it will assemble for the first time. There will be presented at least three petitions for new sidewalk improvements. In the election of officers, Moderator Albert G Martin is reported as having opposition in the possible naming of George P. Chapman for that office. Tax Collector Charles J. Norris is expected to have an opponent in the person of Earl Lovett. Chief Engineer Francis J. McMahon has announced that he will not again be a candidate and Second Assistant Engineer James McKnight has indicated his desire to retire from the board of engineers, thereby causing two vacancies. Joseph Purtill, now first assistant engineer, will in all probability be advanced to chief. John J. Donahue, an active worker in the fire department for the past 16 years is understood to be a candidate for first assistant, with James Ryan to be nominated as assistant.

Lieut. James Nelson Arrives.

Lieut. James Nelson arrived in Westerly Saturday from Waterbury to take up his summer residence in Pawcatuck, as in many seasons past. He is a former Connecticut police instructor and physical director for a boys' school. He reported the thermometer at 96 degrees when he sought relief by coming to the Westerly seashore.

So dusty was the torn up section of Broad and High streets that Saturday afternoon and evening a man was kept busy with a garden hose sprayer to keep down the dust stirred and churned up by passing automobiles. Until the permanent surface of these streets is relaid where the electric light wires have been placed in conduits, the retail stores find their floors and stock covered with dust.

RUMORED MRS. HOOVER WAS ABOARD EXPRESS

A private Pennsylvania railroad combination and observation car attached to the west-bound Quaker express at 1 a. m. Sunday at the Westerly station was said to be occupied by Mrs. Herbert Hoover. The first lady of the land had gone by automobile from Boston to Barrington, R. I., where she was the guest of Mrs. Hoffman, the Girl Scout leader and from whom Camp Hoffman, the Girl Scout camp on Larkin's pond in South Kingstown takes its name.

A new basement window has been set in the women's detention room of the Westerly police station. The opening was made by taking out one granite block in the basement underpinning course at the courthouse end of the town hall building. This permits freer ventilation of the former basement room. It is planned to refinish the walls in white and install such new furniture and equipment as necessary, Councilman Joseph Fraser, of the police commission, is the head of the committee making the changes.

Remembered Their Dead.

Memorial Sunday was observed by members of Granite City camp, No. 9159, Modern Woodmen of America, and Elm Tree Camp auxiliary, No. 8574, Royal Neighbors of America. During the day flowering plants were placed on the graves of members of the two organizations in the cemeteries of Westerly, Pawcatuck, Stonington, Mystic, North Stonington and Ashaway.

In the evening at 7.30 o'clock, the two organizations attended services at Grace M. E. church, where the sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. Henry C. Suter, Ph. D.

The joint committee from the two organizations in charge of arrangements were Mrs. Ella Spear, Miss Florence Barker, Mrs. Harriet Burdick, Richard Opie, Alfred Platt, William E. Martin, Charles Foberg and William Rook.

WEDDINGS.

Ruisi-Flandini.

In New York at 9 a. m. Saturday, Dr John E. Ruisi of 41 Grove avenue, was united in marriage with Miss Renala Flandini of 27 Washington square, New York, a singer. The ceremony was performed at St. Joseph's church, Waverly place at Sixth avenue, by Rev. J. J. Hickey. Only members of the families attended the ceremony and the high nuptial mass which Fr. Hickey celebrated. Anthony R. Ruisi, brother of the doctor, was best man, and Mrs. Vinzo Comito was matron of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ruisi, the bridegroom's parents, went to New York to attend the wedding accompanied by their son, Anthony R. Ruisi. Dr. and Mrs. Ruisi do not plan any honeymoon trip at present but will return to Westerly at once.

Dr. Ruisi and his bride were born in Italy. The physician came to Westerly when a boy with his parents, and attended the schools of the town, and Tufts Medical school. He is a member of the surgical staff at Westerly hospital.

Caswell-DePlacido.

At the rectory of the Church of the Immaculate Conception Saturday morning at 8 o'clock Miss Annie Madeline DePlacido, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale DePlacidyo of 40 John street, was united in marriage with Clifford Jerome Caswell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Caswell of Pawcatuck. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Bruno. Miss Antoinette DePlacido, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The best man was Andrew Phillips. The wedding march was played by Miss Evelyn Cropper.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold cross and chain, and the groom's present to the best man was a set of gold cuff links. Following the ceremony the bridal party had breakfast at Peckham's inn.

The bride received many gifts. Mr and Mrs Caswell left town early in the afternoon for a short wedding trip. Upon their return they will make their home at 132 Mechanic street.

Piazzo-Turano.

On Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the Immaculate Conception church, Miss Rose Turano was united in marriage with Joseph Piezzo. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M., who celebrated the nuptial mass. Miss Mary Rose Brogno of Norwich, niece of the groom, was maid of honor, and Eugenio Turano, brother of the bride, was best man. There were six bridesmaids. Misses Nellie Falcone, Rose Urso, Minnie Piccolo, Rose Musca, Annie Brogno and Annie Anthony. The ushers were Joseph Urso, Thomas Algiere, Charles Lavarini, Charles Liquori, Arthur Gencarelli and Angelo Turano. Master Michael Turano, brother of the bride, was ring-bearer, and the train bearers for the bride were Carolina Curto and Angelina Gencarelli. The wedding marches were played by Mrs James McMahon. The bride wore white satin, trimmed with Irish lace. Her veil of Irish lace was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and American beauties. The maid of honor wore Nile green crepe, trimmed with rhinestones. Her hat was of green to match and she carried pink roses. The bridesmaids were dressed as follows, wearing hats to match their frocks: Miss Falcone, orange taffeta, and carried pink roses; Miss Musca, Nile green crepe, and carried pink roses; Miss Brogno, orchid crepe and carried pink roses; Miss Piccolo, yellow crepe and carried pink roses; Misses Urso and Anthony were dressed alike in pink crepe, and both carried pink roses; Miss Curto wore pink crepe and Miss Gencarelli wore blue crepe. The little ringbearer wore a Tuxedo suit.

Following the ceremony at the church, a breakfast was served at the home of the bride in Central Park. In the afternoon and evening a reception for over 100 relatives and friends was held at the American Legion hall on Main street. Music for dancing was by Greeley's orchestra. Out of town guests were present from Norwich, Greenwich, Conn., New London, New York city and Boston.

NEW YORK DRIVER FOUND NOT AT FAULT

Before Judge William A. Wilcox Saturday morning in Stonington town court, Jules Dumont of East 227th street, New York, was charged with reckless operation Memorial day of his automobile near Wilcox curve. The arrest was made by Officer Joseph E King, when the New York man's car was driven off the road. It was stated that another car which was more at fault had continued on its way. Judge Wilcox found the driver not guilty and ordered his discharge.

Miss Price Arrives.

Miss Maud Price, a former Westerly resident and at one time director of Westerly Mothers' aid department and a hostess at the Lorraine Community house, Pawcatuck, arrived in Westerly, Saturday afternoon from her duties in New York. She proceeded at once to her summer home, in North Stonington.

TODAY'S ELECTION.

The duty of each and every voter, man or woman, today is to go to the polls and vote. It is the annual city election with half of the court of common council and part of the city officials to be voted for.

For the convenience of the voters the polls are to be opened in the four city districts at 8 a. m. and will remain open until 8 p. m., daylight saving time. This provides a long day and plenty of time in which to exercise your franchise, but it should be borne in mind that all should not wait until a few minutes before 8 p. m. Do your voting early, get it out of the way and thus give others, who may have less time at their command, a chance. Early voting helps to eliminate any posibility of congestion.

A city election is always important and the opportunity is given the citizens to elect the republican ticket, as printed above, as an endorsement of the good work done by the present administration during the past year. The voters of Norwich should make the most of that opportunity. It is their chance to have a voice in determining who shall fill these offices during the next two years.

In addition to the election of city officials there will also be offered to the voters the opportunity of approving or disapproving the revision of the city charter. The voters are asked to accept the old city charter with a few minor changes in lieu of a new city charter which a city meeting asked for. Instead of accepting this document it ought to be turned down and the insistence for a new city charter continued. The hope of getting what Norwich has long needed will be dashed by the acceptance of the offered instrument. Certain of the proposed changes are inadvisable and ought not to be accepted.

Defeat the charter change by voting NO.

UNSAFE AUTOS.

Connecticut at the last session of the legislature passed a law licensing the so-called automobile cemeteries. This makes it possible to regulate their location and to eliminate some of the deplorable conditions. They constitute an eyesore and efforts to correct such disgraceful conditions were warranted.

Over in Rhode Island there is a belief that the highways should not be cluttered up by the automobiles that ought to be resting in the auto cemeteries. This is a sentiment that is quite general. It is not so much the appearance of the machines that is objected to, but it is the mechanical condition, and in that respect the interests of safety for all concerned deserve attention.

By tests which are made from time to time in order to determine how many cars are properly equipped as to lights and brakes, it becomes evident that there is a too large percentage of them which are defective and dangerous. It clearly shows where the reason lies for many of the accidents. In some instances it is the result of procrastination, conditions are known but not corrected. In other cases there is the disposition to evade the trouble and expense involved. It is much the same sort of attitude that is displayed by the driver who never registered his machine or took out a driver's license. He expects to get by with it and does for a long time until something happens. But it is the prevention of this "something happening" that is needed for the better protection of the highways. There ought not to be that lack of attention to car equipment. Machines are driven at such speed today that they should be mechanically fit, not pieces of junk, and they should be so equipped that they can be controlled and give the other fellow a fair chance.

TROUBLES OF AVIATORS.

We have frequent instances of the need of being careful in the highways and paying more attention to the regulations. But it is not solely the users of the highways who are inclined to treat regulations with contempt if we can judge by the case of Congressman Maas of Minnesota who has been warned by the flying authorities that he has been flying too low over Washington and must henceforth respect the regulations which require fliers to stay above 1,000 feet when flying over the city.

Perhaps it might be expected that a congressman would be very particular about the observance of flying rules, and then again it is entirely possible that he figured that his rights as a congressman permit him to disregard restrictions which are supposed to govern others. It is often that we see a national law maker who likes to do stunts. As much enjoyment is gained from seeing a congressman stunting as anyone else, but when he does it he should be careful to see that it is where he will not endanger anyone else. That is the purpose of the regulations.

While there are many rules for the guidance of fliers it is evident that there is still much uncertainty as to what the rights are of the man in the air who finds that he must suddenly leave his plane and descend by parachute. New Jersey has a case of this kind at the present time. The aviator jumped from his machine and came down safely, barring the fact that he became entangled in a tree as he landed. The owner of the property, where he dropped, hastened to have him arrested as a trespasser and it rests with the courts to decide what the rights are under the circumstances. The New Jersey case is evidently the outcome of the opposition to airports which has developed from experiences of those who reside near one.

THE BRITISH ELECTION.

Unuaual apathy was said to have marked the campaign leading up to the British election of last week. That being so the outcome indicates that there must have been a general making up of minds well in advance of election for the outcome evidenced almost a complete overthrow of the conservatives. It was not such as to simplify the situation relative to the new government although it registered a strong opposition to the conservatives and the policies which they have been backing.

Where the conservatives were in full control they are now second in strength, the laborites having gone to the front with the largest number of members, while the liberals have shown small gains. With no majority party, developments are awaited as to the organization of the government. Even though the laborites and conservatives are far ahead of the liberals it is evident that the liberals hold the balance of power They can make or break either of the other parties, and they can use that power for mischief or for constructive work.

If Premier Baldwin undertakes to organize the government and present a ministry for approval, he may be able to get such support from the liberals, through inclusion of liberals in the cabinet, as to get the necessary number of votes. That would mean a big concession by the conservatives but only such as has to be made where a coalition government is made necessary and there seems to be no other way out of the present situation. The question now is whether there will be a continuance of the Baldwin ministry with liberal support, or the introduction of a laborite head who in turn must expect to get his necessary support from the liberals The desire is to avoid another election within two years but coalition governments are not usually long lived.

The polls will be open in the four city districts for the city election today from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., daylight time.

NAVAL REDUCTIONS.

It is an interesting note which has been sounded both by the president and by the secretary of state in regard to disarmament, or arms limitation.

There has been a strong feeling that further steps should be made in that direction, particularly in regard to the navy. The president urges it and Secretary Stimson points to the large amount of money that will be required to carry out the naval programme of this government. He points to the more than a billion dollars now planned for the construction of new ships

It was the heavy outlay which this country was making every year for capital ships that made us realize the importance of obtaining an international agreement that would put a stop to it. That agreement was obtained and every nation signing it knows the benefit it has been to them financially without altering their relative naval strength. It is the same thing that should prevail in regard to auxiliary craft. If there had ben an extension of the Washington agreement so that other vessels would have been similarly restricted it is safe to say that our bill for ships to be built or building would not loom as large as it does today.

The fact is that we have little hope of the time ever coming when there will be complete disarmament, either on land or sea. The Kellogg pact outlaws war but it is realized nevertheless that every nation will see that it is in a position to defend itself in case of emergency. We are spending money for warships, and will have to continue to do so indefinitely, but there is an opportunity for further agreements among nations which will tend to greatly decrease such an outlay The day will be welcomed when reductions can be wisely made in naval expenditures.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Norwich wants a new charter. No substitute will be accepted

The top lever means a vote for the straight republican ticket.

City election today. Be sure and vote and do your voting early.

The man on the corner says: Had your first dip of the season in the briny?

Remember your vote on the charter must be cast on the machine. Vote NO.

There is an opportunity for endorsing the good work of the republican administration during the past year by electing that party's candidates, who will be part of the administration during the coming year.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Fry the leftover cauliflower in butter until a delicate brown.

Avoid over-cooking vegetables, as they will become tasteless and tough.

Oil of sassafras will keep away red ants. Pour a little around the places where they frequent.

After icing a cake let it stand in a cool place twenty minutes before it is wrapped or boxed.

A little butter smeared on the spout of the cream pitcher will prevent the cream from dripping on the tablecloth.

An old hot water bottle, when filled with bran makes a splendid kneeling pad, when scrubbing or polishing floors.

Keep a small tablespoon in the coffee can to use for measuring coffee. Time and energy and probably coffee will be saved.

A small quantity of ground rice added to the flour you use for making cake will give you a lighter cake.

Raisins, soaked overnight in lemon juice, make a novel addition to breakfast food. Serve the food thin and do not use milk over it.

To prevent gravy from soaking through the bottom of a two-crusted meat pie, brush over the lower crust with a little egg yolk.

If lard used in making pie crust is mixed with flour with a potato masher and enough water is used to just wet it you will have a flaky soft pie crust.

Before cutting into a meringue wet the knife each time in cold water. This prevents the meringue from sticking and pulling out of shape.

Sponge cakes are made light by the air that is beaten into the eggs used in making them. Beat the whites and yolks separately and fold in the beaten whites.

When cooking an egg if it is accidentally cracked on one end, crack the other end. The egg can then be cooked without the contents coming out of the shell.

Tin or aluminum pie pans are suggested for baking one-crust pies, as they bake quickly and brown the underside of the crust. For fruit pies, which require longer, slower baking, an enameled or glass pan may be used.

FOR A CONVENIENT SINK.

The three requirements for a convenient kitchen sink are:

First: Have the sink the right height; not too low. For the woman of average stature, the top of the sink rim should be thirty-six inches from the floor. Sinks may be bought with legs having two inches of adjustment.

Second: Have two drainboards, one on each side. If there is no room for a permanent left hand drainboard, one can sometimes be fastened to the wall on hinges and let down when not in use. Wooden drainboards are very satisfactory and less likely to break dishes than those of enamel or zinc.

Third: Have a swinging faucet for hot and cold water mixed and an extra attachment for hose.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Prunes are splendid for the person suffering from constipation, as they act as a mild laxative. They are also strength-giving, as they are full of iron. They should be cooked thoroughly and eaten liberally.

A good bleach for the nails is made of adding a teaspoonful each of lemon juice and ammonia to an ounce of peroxide.

Get all the sunshine you can; however, if your skin is not accustomed to the sun and you go away to a place where you can take sun baths, begin very cautiously. Acute sunburn is not the object of a sun bath, and may be quite harmful and very uncomfortable.

Any serious system of reducing should be carried on under the direction of a physician. Those obviously overweight may be quite safe if leaving out any excess of sweets or of starchy foods. They can reduce the amount of food eaten by doing without all second helpings, but even the fat woman needs to beware of a too one-sided diet.

DESTROYING BUGS.

The appearance of a substance which resembles white mold on the stems of the coleus, geraniums and most other bedding plants distinguishes the presence of the mealy bug The mealy bug is hard to destroy. The most satisfactory way to fight him is to paint him with a strong solution of nicotine. The solution must be brushed on rather than sprayed. By brushing him the solution is enabled to penetrate the water-proof covering which he wears and once the nicotine reaches him he is destroyed. A strong spray of water direct from the farden hose against the plant stems and leaves will help to kee pthe mealy bugs away.

POTATOES.

If you buy potatoes in quantity do not keep them where they are exposed to strong light. This causes a poisonous substance called solonin by name, to develop in or near the skin of the potato.

You are also taking chances in serving your family with potatoes that have been allowed to sprout, for this also causes colanin to form.

Serious illness has been known to follow the eating of exposed and sprouted potatoes.

TO REMOVE SCRATCHES

Scratches can be removed from furniture by mixing equal parts of best salad oil and vinegar and applying with a small pad or soft rag. Shake the mixture thoroughly before using and rub.

MODERN AMERICAN FABRICS.

Very attractive indeed are some of the modern American fabrics now on sale. These materials, which are meant for curtains, upholstery, etc., have striking and bold patterns that are in keeping wit hthe trend of modern art.

MAGAZINE COVER.

One's favorite magazine can be cleverly disguised by the addition of a cover made of a silky material that resembles modernistic silk but in reality is extremely strong and durable.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Children's pajamas that are having a well merited success have gay little puppy dogs stamped all over them.

The polka dot tie materials are freely used for frocks, especially in brown and white, and are finished with white collars and cuffs.

Two large airy flowers of silk tulle look as if made of mist and moonlight, so ethereal are the ones of blue used, and so exquisite are the blooms.

With spring showing a return to popularity of the high-low heel that is big enough to give support, leather heels come back to replace the covered wooden heels that have functioned of late.

With the advent of short sleeves jewelry for elbow wear appears. A wide hammered silver band, to be worn just above the elbow, has an Egyptian motif worked out in semi-precious jewels and enamel.

Some of the day-time frocks of the immediate moment are being made of exactly the same sort of material one sees in men's scarfs. These foulards and taffetas furnish a charming selection of designs and colorings.

The most cheerful thing upon the southern beach will be a bathing suit that consists of black shorts, a white top with an animal embroidered in red and a red cardigan lined with yellow Turkish toweling.

A smart and becoming little suit for a very small boy is made with extremely brief trousers of white linen, and has a top of yellow and white striped dimity with a tiny collar, which crosses in front, made of the white linen.

A new evening gown of black satin combined with modernistic insets of white satin, has long sleeves of very fine white net with deep cuffs of the black and white modernistically cut satin. They appear, from a distance, to be cuffs without sleeves.

For southern wear there will be nothing smarter this year than white, for morning, afternoon and evening. The sport frocks of white are sleeveless of course, to display as much tan as possible, and the accessories worn with them are often of brown

TWIN PRINTS

New silks for spring now come in what are called twin prints. There are two sizes of the same pattern, the finely printed one for the frock and perhaps kerchief, the larger, bolder print of the same pattern for the sports coat.

FOR THE DEBUTANTE

A charmingly youthful frock for the debutante has a wide full skirt with an irregular hemline which is scalloped and edged inside with three small ruffles The deep decolletage is a wide bow, with long ends of three different colors, placed at the left hip.

LAUNDRY HINTS

To remove varnish from clothing sponge and rub with turpentine.

When sponging the children's school trousers, get out all the spots, then sponge with a cloth wrung out of clear water, fold the creases carefully while they are still damp, and spread over papers laid on the radiator. They will dry beautifully, all creased as if steam pressed.

Do not dry flannels and woolens in the sun. It makes them yellow. Dry them in the shade and thus keep them white and soft.

If your flatirons are old and are roughened on the base, it is time to get new ones. These slight irregularities will catch on silk and fine materials and cause real damage.

TO LAUNDER RAYON

Now that rayon has become so universally used a material, the sensible housewife learns how to launder it. In the first place, the more frequently rayon is laundered the lovelier it is if the laundering is properly done. Remember that rayon must be washed in pure soapsuds, in only lukewarm water, and should be rinsed several times in water of the same temperature—never in cold. It must never be wrung or squeezed, but should be allowed to dry on a flat surface or carefully rolled in a large towel. White rayon does not yellow and doesn't need blueing. It is wiser to iron when quite damp on the wrong side. Rayon curtains will wear much longer if frequently washed and ironed than if allowed to collect dirt and soot, which has an injurious effect on the threads.

SILK STOCKING CAUTIONS

Light colors, especially when they contrast strikingly with the dress, give a fuller effect. Grays are more slenderizing than the beiges.

Stout women should avoid dark stockings, excepting in sheer effects, as these give a heavy appearance, which is undesirable.

If you prefer the sheerest textures it is advisable to purchase those of superior quality, especially in the dark colors, because unevenness of weave is more noticeable when dark stockings contrast with the light flesh underneath.

If worn with dark shoes, light stockings will appear more sheer.

The back seam should be examined, as even a single loose stitch will mean unsatisfactory wear, and the stitches, especially at the heel, should be very close and firm.

FOR THE DRESSING TABLE

The dressing table of taffeta or chintz will be most complete if to it is added a large triplicate mirror of jade green composition and a complete toilet set of the same. The mirror is large enough to form the back and sides of the table.

HOME WORK

Think how delighted mother would be if little daughter embroidered for her a set of ice-box bags to hold lettuce, celery, radishes, etc. These sets come made up and all ready for embroidery.

CONCERNING WOMEN

There are 6,000,000 farm women in the United States.

Dr. Ellen Gleditsch, a scientist of distinction, as well as a student of world affairs, is professor of radioactivity at the University of Oslo, Norway.

More women than ever before sought American citizenship in 1928. There were 51,280 of them and they made 25 per cent of all alien applications.

Miss Edith Clarke, a one-time teacher of mathematics in San Francisco, is now one of the outstanding professional women in America. Since 1919 Miss Clarke had been an engineer with the General Electric company.

Mrs. Fred F. Cornell of Hudson Falls, N. Y., has been secretary of Queen Elizabeth court, Order of the Amaranth, for 21 years. A member of the Order of the Eastern Star since 1898, she has been secretary of Crown Star chapter for 17 years.

Possibly the lonellest Englishwoman in the world is Miss Rachel Wingate, who is the only Englishwoman in Chinese Turkestan, cut off from the rest of the world by mountain passes and a vast dessert. Miss Wingate left England four years ago, and is attached to a Swedish mission at Kashgar, a city farther from the ocean than any other in the world.

CHILD'S CHAIR

A comfortable little chair for the shade, is an exact replica of a nursery, made of wicker in a natural grownup's arm-chair.

MARKED RUBBERS

Children's rubbers should have their names written inside before they ever put them on. The whole name is preferable to initials and a better identification.

RECIPES

Cheese Biscuits: Sift two cups of flour with four teaspoons of baking powder and one teaspoon of salt. Rub two tablespoons of butter into the flour mixture with a fork, stir in about one cup of milk gradually, then add three-fourths cup of grated American cheese. Place on a floured board and roll gently about half an inch thick. Cut into rounds, place in a greased pan and bake in a hot oven for about 15 minutes. Or you can roll out the dough, dot with butter, sprinkle with grated cheese, roll up like jelly roll and cut in one-inch slices. Bake with cut side down.

Baked Caramel Custard: Heat one quart of milk slightly with half a cup of sugar, one-fourth teaspoon of salt and four tablespoons of caramel sirup. Be sure that the caramel sirup is entirely dissolved before this mixture is poured into five lightly beaten eggs. Add half a teaspoon of vanilla. Pour the mixture into custard cups and add a small piece of butter to each. Bake in a pan surrounded by water in a moderate oven. Test by placing the point of a knife in the center of the custard, and if it comes out clean remove the cups of custard at once from the hot water. The custards may be served either hot or cold with caramel sirup if more of the caramel flavor is desired. Sugar can be caramalized easily by placing it in a heavy skillet over slow, even heat and stirring it constantly until it melts and becomes a heavy brown sirup. As soon as it reaches this stage take it from the fire at once and use it for flavoring and sweetening the custard.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Tribute To Speed Evans

Mr. Editor:—May I say a few words of appreciation of an unusual figure in this town—Speed Evans. All of us, of whatever nationality, could learn from him never failing courtesy, honesty and faithfulness.

Not only the Norton family, the object of his long devotion, but many others remember his courtesy and thoughtfulness, and will miss his gentle and dignified salute as he quietly passed along our streets.

MARY A AIKEN

Norwich, June 1, 1929.

More Power To The Mayor

Mr. Editor:—You printed a letter recently from some one who stated that the gas and electrical commissioners under the new charter will receive $5 for attending each meeting, but I understand that they have been receiving this money for some time past. If the new charter is voted the mayor becomes an active member of the gas and electric committee and I sincerely hope that the new charter amendment will be voted. With Mayor Robbins and new commissioner Archibald Torrance on the board of gas and electrical commissioners the taxpayers will be working toward the time when they will get a fair deal. Mayor Robbins has been more than fair to the commissioners on the situation and he and the court of common council have already taken action for the merchants of the city of Norwich, and the small consumers should organize to get relief from the oppressive and unreasonable rates for electricy.

More power to Mayor Robbins.

TAXPAYER AND CONSUMER

Norwich, June 1, 1929.

Favored Friends at Municipal Plants

Mr. Editor:—I am enclosing a clipping from the Boston Globe of May 28th and asking if you will be good enough to print the paragraphs marked giving information pertaining to the municipal electric light plant of Concord, Mass.

If the city of Norwich gas and electrical department charged off over $9,000 for bad bills and rebates for the year ending May, 1928, and the merchandising department is being operated at a loss of over $6000 a year, anyone can see why the taxpayers are losing money which would do much to lower the tax rate.

Why cannot we have the truth about the favored friends of the manager of our gas and electrical department? The poor man is made to pay but political friends do not have to pay.

If the truth about our plant was made public as are the facts about the Concord plant the owners of the plant would be more sickened than ever of the miserable management.

The big power companies are after us and are they going to grab our plant with a continuance of this unjust management?

INTERESTED TAXPAYER.

Norwich, June 1, 1929.

The clipping follows:

Practically every family in the famous revolutionary war town was represented at the session. It was indicated that scores of citizens had cancelled important engagements in order to be on hand.

Nearly three months ago the town was startled when Theodore N. Waddell, chief of the state division of municipal accounts, submitted to the selectmen an audit concerning the condition of the municipal light department's books. It revealed that some 650 users of the light over a period of five years owed more than $53,000 in unpaid bills.

As far as could be ascertained the investigation by the state auditors disclosed that some residents had been getting free light for three and four years. At least the discovery showed that the plant had failed to render a bill to these people. Overdue bills went from $1 to $2185 in certain cases.

The inquiry and check-up was directed by Edward. Fenton, chief examiner of the state division, and was conducted by H. E. Prior, Lawrence Carrigan, William Jones and Thomas McNiff, auditors.

Urges Vote of Confidence.

Mr. Editor: I agree heartily with some of the letters published of late, commending the republicans in their carrying on of the city's business.

It has been so long a time, since the city has had the benefit of and also the privilege of praising a good business-like and economical administration, that it has virtually "taken to its arms" the present incumbents.

As they now have deposed and discarded the treacherous member of the water board, let's give them a hearty vote of confidence at Monday's election and let them continue to give us good government.

Moles Occasionally Become Malignant —Various Types Met With

By Isaac R. Pels, M. D., Baltimore.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute.)

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G street, N W., Washington, D. C.).

Moles are non-inflamed tumors or elevations, or discolored spots, and they vary from tiny size to immense areas. They are colored, depending upon the original or make-up cells—dark brown or light, black, blue (composed of epidermal or epidermoid cells), red or purple (blood vessels) and sometimes they have no color change. Many of them contain hairs—pigmented, hairy moles; and sometimes, rarely, they contain fluid (lymph). The surfaces may be smooth, uneven or actually rough (warty) They are soft, spongy (blood moles), or firm and hard, and the color is usually constant.

Frequently moles do not grow, but they may increase in size and in number. As a rule they give no symptoms or discomfort. However, they may provoke some concern on account of their presence, and especially with reference to cosmetic effects, as blemishes and disfigurements. Their real significance lies, however, in the fact that occasionally—and fortunately rarely—they become malignant.

By this is meant that under circumstances of trauma (injury from pressure, rubbing, accidental cutting or improper and inadequate surgical treatment) they enlarge and proceed to disseminate portions of the tumor content into various parts of the body, such as the lymph glands, the viscera and particularly the skin itself. These "lugs" of cells form tumors of varying sizes (known as metastases) and cause a weakening of the individual, together with some form of poisoning (cachexia) and prostration, and eventually death (usually from sarcomatosis). As stated, such resultant conditions are fortunately and happily rare, although probably more infrequent than is commonly and actually believed or suspected.

Should every mole that is potentially a malignant tumor be removed or destroyed? Naturally the pendulum of advice has swung completely between the alarmist and radical command (to destroy) and the conservative, procrastinating leave-well-enough-alone idea.

In the light of experience there are three reasons for destroying moles (by electric methods) and removing them of course by surgery. Acids, caustics, ointments, the ultra-violet rays, the roentgen-rays or radium (excepting for "port wine" marks and spongy moles) should under no circumstances be employed first. If the mole is growing rapidly and visibly; secondly, if the mole bleeds or is exposed to constant injury from clothing, shaving, etc.; and, thirdly, if for cosmetic reasons the individual desires removal.

The choice of operation, which should be thorough and complete, depends on the size and location of the mole, as well as the possible cosmetic result. Complete excision, under local anasthesia, with good cosmetic results, is always ideal. More recently electrothermic methods (electro-desiccation, coagulation, endothermy, etc.) have proved very satisfactory from every standpoint. In selected cases where hairs are present the electric needle method (electrolysis) has given excellent results. Obviously the choice of method should rest with the physician.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 2—One in every five members of the house or senate of the seventy-first congress is some sort of a war veteran.

The Civil war, war with Spain and World war all are represented, as well as the Boxer rebellion in China and the Philippine insurrection. There also are veterans of the Mexican border mobilization of 1916 and many, many ex national guardsmen.

Even the feminine membership of the house has its war veterans. Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida was a nurse with British forces in the Egypt-Palestine campaign; and Mrs. Edith Rogers of Massachusetts a Red Cross worker.

Proud Records

You can find in the official biographies, also, men who note service on war-time draft boards, as volunteers on the staff of war-time agencies like the food administration, state, county or city "defense committee" veterans, and even one case where service on a town committee to see the fighting men off to France at the dock is recorded.

Yet it is difficult to tell exactly how many war service members there are. Some are so reticent as to themselves. Half a dozen contribute nothing but their names to the official biographies. Generally, however, war-time service overseas seems to be regarded as a good political asset and is spread fully on the records.

Nineteen senators disclose war records. Warren of Wyoming, of course, heads the list with his service in a Massachusetts foot regiment in the Civil war. The house also has its Civil war veteran, however, and dean of them all, in Representative Stedman of North Carolina, 89 years of age. He was a dashing major of confederate cavalry more than three score years ago.

Double Heroes

Seven members, three in the senate and four in the house, are two-war men. They served in both the war with Spain and the World war.

Among these are the two veterans of loftiest rank, both World war combat brigadier generals. They are Senator Tyson of Tennessee, a West Pointer, and Representative Speaks of Ohio, national guardsmen of long service.

The other two-war men are Senators Brookhart of Iowa and Howell of Nebraska, an Annapolis graduate and about the only naval veteran, and Representatives Wainwright and Culkin of New York and Thurston of Iowa.

Spanish and World war veterans are in about equal proportions in the senate, but in the house, with a score or so of war with Spain men, the World war service group is more than three times as large. And in distribution among the branches of the army in which they served the congressional veterans cover almost every kind of military activity.

There are more ex-infantrymen, of course, than anything else, but cavalry, artillery, air corps, tank corps and even gas warfare and the army medical corps are included, besides military lawyers, intelligence officers and other forms of "brass hat" staff service.

Quite a number were wounded in action, and a handful, led by Warren's congressional medal of honor, have valor decorations.

The polls will be open in the four city districts for the city election today from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., daylight time.

Decorated At Poquetanuck Cemetery

The Parent-Teachers' association appointed a committee to make provision for the placing of flags on the soldiers' graves in the Poquetanuck cemetery on Decoration day, and also in the Brewsters' Neck cemetery if such had not already been provided in the latter.

On Memorial day the committee, after devotions, placed flags on the soldiers' graves in the Poquetanuck cemetery. The committee was composed of Appleton Main and Rev. Thomas H. M. Ockford.

On Evading Responsibility Charge.

Charged with evading responsibility, Albert Unger, 31, of this city, was summoned to court late Saturday night. He will be presented in city court this (Monday) morning to answer to the charge.

Unger is charged with being the driver of an automobile which backed into and broke the large one-way street sign at Church street and Union square. The sign was knocked down and Unger drove away without making a report of the accident. He told the police that he did not know he had knocked the sign down.

NO LEVER TO PULL TO VOTE ON CHARTER

Those who vote on the question of the city charter in the election today (Monday) will find that there is no lever on the machines to be pulled to register a vote for or against the charter. There are two levers on the machine, one for the republican party candidates and the other for the democratic. Pulling one of these levers votes for the city officers, but the vote for or against the charter is done by turning up a pointer for either "Yes" or "No" in the line that is provided for voting for questions on the machine.

Because a published statement that there is a lever to be pulled to vote on the charter has caused some confusion in the minds of electors, this explanation of the proper method, which was given in The Bulletin Saturday morning, is given again.

OBITUARY

Speed Evans

Speed Evans, long a resident of Norwich, died Saturday morning at 9:45 o'clock at his home, No. 118 McKinley avenue. He was born in Farnville, Va., and was the son of the late Grace Venerable and William Evans. When a young man he came to this city and had since made his home here. For two years he was employed by Dr. L. L. Button and then entered the employ of the late Henry B. Norton and after his death remained in the employ of the Misses Norton continuously for the past 45 years.

Mr. Evans was twice married. His first wife was Miss Betty Watson of Farnville, Va., who died 38 years ago in this city. Oct. 25, 1898 Mr. Evans was united in marriage with Miss Betsy Harris of Charles City, Va.

Mr. Evans was a faithful member of the A. M. E. Zion church, and served as church treasurer for many years, holding that office until his death. He was also a member of Rose of New England lodge, No. 2364, G. U. O. of O. F., and the colored Elks in New London. Surviving are his wife, one sister, Mrs. Sallie Claxton of Roslyn, Washington and there are many friends and acquaintances who deeply mourn his death.

James B. Rogers

The life of James B. Rogers 78, well known resident of Norwich Town, came to a peaceful end Saturday evening at his home on West Town street after a long illness. Mr. Rogers was born at Wauwecus Hill, the son of Col. and Mrs. James Rogers. When a young man he was employed as a traveling salesman for a local pottery firm. During the last few years he has been interested in antiques. Surviving are two daughters, Josephine and Mabel Rogers. A twin brother died about two years ago.

Charles H. Comstock

Charles H. Comstock who so far as known was the last veteran of the Civil war in the town of Ledyard, died Saturday morning at his home in Gales Ferry following an illness of seven weeks. He was 84 years old.

Mr. Comstock was a native of Gales Ferry, and was born there March 20, 1845, the son of Henry and Delia Perkins Comstock. During the Civil war he served in Company K of the 12th Connecticut Volunteers.

He married Miss Gertrude W. Bragaw of Gales Ferry, Jan. 13, 1875, and she and two daughters survive him. The daughters are Mrs. Mary C. Watrous of Gales Ferry and Mrs. Elmer Kidder of Boise, Idaho. A twin sister, Mrs. Hester Prentice of Long Beach, Cal., and three grandchildren also survive.

William Henry Murray.

William Henry Murray, who died Friday evening at his residence at Leffingwell, was born in Plattsburgh, N. Y., June 7, 1869, the son of Samuel and Matilda Taylor Murray. He was ill for a long period. Mr. Murray was married to Rebecca Paquette in Greenville, N. H., on April 5, 1894, and for the past 15 years he has lived in Norwich and Leffingwell, coming here from Westerly. For years he had been a member of the Holy Name society of St. Patrick's church.

Besides his wife Mr. Murray is survived by two daughters, Mrs William Herzog and Mrs. Jerome Norton, both of Hartford, three sons, Albert and Russell Murray, both of Leffingwell and Gilbert Murray of Hartford, four sisters, Mrs. George Fournier, of Three Rivers, Mass., Miss Tilda Murray of Deering, N. H., Mrs. Henry Le-May of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mrs. Amelia Dupont of Manchester, N. H., and two brothers, Samuel Murray of Providence and Fred Murray of Peterboro, N. H.

Mrs. George Hess

Mrs. Frances Kuld Hess, 96, widow of George Hess, died at the home of her grandson, William H. Ritchie, in Bridgeport, Sunday. Mrs. Hess, who formerly resided in this city, was born in Alsace-Lorraine. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Louise Ritchie and a grandson, William H. Ritchie, with whom she made her home.

The burial will take place in this city. Rev. Fred Hoskins of the United Congregational church, Bridgeport, will conduct the services there and Rev. A. H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, will conduct the service in this city.

HABIT IS BIG PROBLEM FOR TRAFFIC ENGINEERS

BOSTON—(AP)—Habit is a problem for traffic engineers to solve, says Maxwell Halsey, traffic engineer in the Massachusetts department of public works.

People drive by habit instead of by judgment of distance he asserts, and in consequence, the better known routes are choked with traffic that should be moving on shorter and partly deserted by-ways.

In Boston, he explains, more than 20 per cent of the people in Tremont street could take a shorter route, but, either from custom or because they follow the traffic, they pour down into the most densely congested part of the city.

Better signs will tend to relieve such conditions, in Mr. Halsey's opinion.

TRAFFIC LIGHT STANDARD AIDS COLOR BLIND DRIVER

The code suggests arrangement of traffic lights when in a vertical bank so that the red is on top, yellow light below, if used, and green on the bottom. If the lights are set up in a horizontal row, it recommends that the red be placed at the left, yellow in the middle and green on the right.

The theory is that many traffic accidents can be prevented if color blind drivers can depend upon the position of the lights, rather than their color.

FOUR NORWICH GIRLS IN GRADUATING CLASS AT CONNECTICUT COLLEGE

ELSIE A. PETERSON

MARCIA C. STANTON

Four Norwich girls are in the graduation class this month at Connecticut college at New London, Miss Alberta Boardman, Miss Lois V. Latimer, Miss Elsie Peterson, and Miss Marcia C. Stanton.

Miss Boardman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boardman of 31 Slater avenue. As a member of the class of 1925 at Norwich Free Academy, she was an honor pupil, and has continued at college to make a good record in her studies. Her major was history, and she has been a member of the history club, taking charge of a number of the meetings. She has also interested in psychology, and was a member of the psychology club. Her chief extra-curricular activity was dancing, and for two years she was a member of the advanced natural dancing team, taking part in the annual gymnasium meets. In her senior year she has also been a member of the archery squad. Her plans for next year are to teach history.

Miss Latimer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Latimer of 167 Mt. Pleasant street. An honor pupil when she graduated from the Norwich Free Academy in 1925, she has maintained here high standard in her college studies. Her major was home economics, and she has also been prominent in college athletics. In her freshman year she won first prize in the indoor track meet. In her sophomore year she took part in the outdoor track meet. In her senior year she has been a member of the fundamentals and tumbling team, and of the baseball squad. She also sang in the glee club, and was a member of the science club. In connection with her home economics course, she has for the past year been managing a college house to which only students of high standing are admitted. Next year she intends to continue her work in home economics, specializing in dietetics.

LOIS V. LATIMER

ALBERTA BOARDMAN

Miss Peterson, who is the daughter of Mrs. F. A. Peterson of West Main street, will receive the degree of B. S. She graduated from Norwich Free Academy in 1924, an honor pupil, and has maintained a high standard of scholarship in college. Her major was secretarial studies, and she has also devoted much time to branches of economics, chemistry and home economics. Next year she plans to accept a secretarial position.

Miss Stanton is the daughter of Principal and Mrs. John B. Stanton of East Great Plain. She was a member of the class of 1925 of Norwich Free Academy. Her major in college has been mathematics, and she was a member of the mathematics club and of the Spanish club. Her extra-curricular activities have been chiefly in the line of athletics. She has taken part in several tennis tournaments, and was a member of the riflery team during both her junior and senior years. She was also, in her senior year, a member of the formal gymnatics team.

Next year she expects to do statistical work.

CAME NEAR COLLIDING WITH OFFICER WHITMARSH

In a moment of inattention, while he was talking to a man sitting next to him in the machine, Angelo Montalto of Westerly allowed the automobile he was driving on Main street, East Side, Saturday night to drift across the street to the left and land on the sidewalk. It was just in time to have a near-collision with State Policeman Arthur Whitmarsh, who was coming in the opposite direction on his motorcycle.

The officer placed Montalto under arrest on a reckless driving charge to which was added the charge of driving without license when it was discovered he did not have a license with him. Montalto will appear in court this (Monday) morning.

REV. BATH'S CONGREGATION TO BUILD NEW CHURCH

Haven Methodist Episcopal church in East Providence, where Rev. W. H. Bath is pastor, is to be engaged this week in the task of raising $150,000 to build a new church. Rev. Mr. Bath was formerly a resident of this city when he was Norwich district superintendent.

The new church will be of Tudor Gothic design in stone, replacing the wooden building which was destroyed by fire March 12th last. The nave of the church will seat 400, with accommodations for 100 in the balcony. An adjoining chapel is so located that another 160 can be seated making a total of 660.

The polls will be open in the four city districts for the city election today from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., daylight time.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

The Misses Pond and Mrs. Frank Farnum, who have been visiting Norwich friends have returned to Woonsocket.

Mrs. Arthur L. Peale, Mrs. Charles L. Stewart, Miss Erwin and Miss Rosa Wilcox represented the Norwich College club at the spring meeting of the Connecticut Federation of the American Association of University Women, held Saturday at Lighthouse inn. About 60 were in attendance.

In compliment to Mrs. Walter Farr, of South Orange, N. J., who is the guest of Mrs. Philip A. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Grosvenor Ely were hosts to a party of nine, Saturday evening, at Stonington Manor inn.

Miss Anna P. Rodier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest O. Rodier, who graduated recently from the Fannie Farmer school, Boston, has sleft town for a new position in Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bowne, of Hobart avenue, spent the holiday and week end with Mr. Bowne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Bowne, of Morris, N. Y.

Miss Dorothy Prentice was in Pawtucket to pass the week end with Miss Ursula Lewis.

Mrs. Homer Brooke of Mt. Vernon, formerly of Norwich, will arrive in New London Wednesday for several days' visit with her cousins, Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Ernest E. Rogers of Pequot avenue.

COMMISSION TO PROBE SIMON'S PARACHUTE JUMP

A Mystic youth who sought a new thrill by staging a parachute jump from an airplane over the Poquonock airport recently has another thrill in store. Captain Clarence M. Knox, state aviation commissioner, was informed Friday of James Simon's leap fro mthe plane and immediately started an investigation to determine the identity of the pilot who took the youth aloft.

In making his leap for fame, Simon, unfortunataely overlooked a rather important preliminary procedure. A license is required for parachute jumping under the Connecticut aviation laws and the state commissioner is very insistent that this regulation be enforced. Simon, the records disclosed, holds no such permit and is lible to "a good stiff fine" according to Commissioner Knox.

Simon told a most unusual story of his exploit. He said that he had never been up in a plane before but volunteered to go aloft when a pilot called for a volunteer to "try out" a parachute. The pilot's name, he said, he could not recall.

He donned the 'chute and received instructions concerning its manipulation. When the plane attained an altitude of 2,000 feet he crawled out on a wing and jumped into the great open spaces. He turned over three times before pulling the release ring on his chute. Meanwhile he had dropped approximately 500 feet.

When the parachute opened, a slight breeze swept the youth away from the flying field and he narrowly escaped a large tree in his descent. He was dragged for a distance along the ground after he struck and sustained scratches on his leg. He declared that he had tried the stunt "for a thrill."

Commenting on the occurrence, Captain Knox said, "We will investigate the circumstances of the jump immediately. If Simon's story is correct, I will recommend a stiff fine for both him and the pilot who took him up. It was a foolhardy thing to do and quite at variance with our desire to make aviation safe in Connecticut. A parachute jumper is required to take a physical examination and a trial jump before being granted a license. He must also receive a permit before staging an exhibition jump."

Salem Camp Incorporated

Including in corporation papers filed Friday at the office of the secretary of state was the following:

Attended Graduation Exercises

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Schwartz of 35 Perkins avenue, motored to Boston over the week end to attend the graduation exercises at Emerson college of oratory. They brought home their daughter, Sadie Frances, who has finished her second year at the school.

Struck By Automobile.

Adelaide Sweeney, 18, residing at 58 Broadway, suffered a sprained foot abrasions of the foot and elbow when struck by an automobile driven on Broadway Friday afternoon by Russell E. Pearson of 693 North Main street. The child was attended by Dr. E. J. Brophy.

SONS OF REVOLUTION ANNOUNCE ESSAY PRIZES

The annual meeting of Israel Putnam branch, No. 4, Sons of the American Revolution, was held Friday evening in the rooms of the Norwich chamber of commerce, with President Herbert W. Gallup presiding.

At this meeting the decision of the judges, Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell, Mrs. Elisha Rogers and Arthur L. Peale was announced in the essay contest for pupils of the Norwich public schools, sponsored by the branch under the supervision of Capt. William G. Tarbox. The subject of the essays was "Industries of Norwich During the Revolution." The first prize of $10 was awarded to Murray G. Siosberg of 315 Broadway; and the second of $5 to Helen Lichwell of 67 Fountain street. Mary Stewart of 123 Broad street, received first honorable mention and Gilbert M. Johnson of 16 Watrous avenue, second. The essays which were excellent, created such widespread interest among people who like to learn more of patriotic and historic Norwich, that the branch decided to hold a similar contest next year.

E. Allen Bidwell was elected president of the branch; Capt. William G. Tarbox, vice president and Earle M. Wood, secretary-treasurer. Members of the board of management re-elected were Adams P. Carroll, Edwin A. Tracy, Edwin W. Hiezins, Howard L. Stanton, Gurdon L. Bidwell, John R. Bowman, Jr., and Herbert H. Corey.

WEDDING

Capper-Lyon

The marriage of Sidney Capper of Hamden and Miss Mildred Lyon of Derby, daughter of David Lyon of this city, took place last Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the rectory of St. Mary's church, Derby, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Robert F. Fitzgerald. Relatives and a few intimate friends were present with the bridal couple. Miss Syea Hedlund of Derby was the bride's attendant and James Boland of Ansonia was the best man.

The bride wore white satin and the bridesmaid was in blue satin. The bride's gift to her bridesmaid was a string of pearl beads while the groom gave his best man a pair of gold cuff links and his bride a substantial check.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party journeyed to Hamden where a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Capper. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Capper left on a wedding trip to Waldron, N. Y., and upon their return they will reside in their newly furnished home on North Main street, Ansonia.

Banning-Grandy

One of the earliest June weddings took place at the Bozrah Center church, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Miss Doris Lillian Grandy of Bozrah was united in marriage with Orrin Henry Banning, by the pastor, Rev. George H. Strouse, the double ring service being used.

The church decorations, although simple in design, were effective. Across the front of the platform were baskets of wild azalea with a background of green and white. The same color scheme was carried out at the bride's home.

The bridal party entered the church to the music of the bridal march from "Lohengrin," and as they left the church Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mildred Grandy, as maid of honor, and by two bridesmaids, Miss Athalie Grandy, another sister, and Miss Dorothy Banning, sister of the groom; Raymond Banning was best man; Harry Grandy and Raymond Chapman were ushers.

The bride's gown was of white satin and lace. She wore a picture hat of white, and carried a shower bouquet of roses and sweet peas. Her maid of honor wore Empire blue georgette with hat to match, and her flowers were yellow snapdragons and sweet peas. The bridesmaids, dainty in printed organdie, with pink hats, carried pink snapdragon and sweet peas.

Immediately following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Grandy. There were many beautiful gifts including furniture, silver, linen, and cold pieces.

Lunch was served. Ruth and Mildred Banning and Hazel Grandy assisting.

Guests were presented from Southington, Shelton and Norwich.

In the late afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Banning left for an automobile trip through New York state. The bride's going away suit was a white ensemble. After their return they will reside in a newly furnished home in Bozrah.

JEWETT CITY GIRL WON SCHOOL HONORS

At the graduation exercises of the Posse-Nissen school of physical education last Wednesday in Boston, Miss Helen Anne Bakanowsky of Jewett City gave the class salutatory. During the past three years Miss Bakanowsky has been a member of the athletic association, has played on the varsity and class basketball and hockey teams and during the past winter she served as captain of the varsity basketball team. She also has been a member of both class and varsity swimming teams and during her freshman year she won the individual gymnasium meet and was president of her class. During the past winter she served on the year book board. She is a member of the Sigma Iota Chi sorority of which she has been president during the past year and she was recently elected to the honorary sorority of Pi Nu Sigma on account of her excellent scholarship while at school.

Visitors From Michigan.

Arthur Earl Genter assistant public welfare director of the city of Portiac, Mich., who with his wife and daughter, Joan, has been spending several days with District Superintendent Myron E. Genter and family, has returned to his home in the west.

MODERN SWAINS COURT IN PLANES

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Shady nooks, country lanes and even the parked and darkened flivvers of yesterday were all right for love making in their time. But the ultra modern swain goes in for aerial amour.

Any bright Saturday or Sunday afternoon finds throngs of young people at the flying field here. Average Sunday attendance last summer was 10,000 persons, most of them young.

One local flying concern has inaugurated moonlight flights over the city that are appreciated by lovers. So far they have been limited to Sunday evenings, but may be made nightly this summer.

A 12-passenger plane is used, and although seats are single, the aisle is narrow. Lights are turned out during the flight, the official theory being that passengers may thus obtain a better view of the terrain below.

BOON FOR YOUNGSTERS: WHITE BLACKBERRIES

WAYCROSS, Ga., (AP)—Here is a boon for youngsters whose pantry raids often have been discovered because of the telltale marks of blackberry jam.

E. G. Kastenhuber of Waycross, Ga., has discovered a way to grow white blackberries.

Kastenhuber's experiments started two years ago with a woodland blackberry sprout. He used it as a variant and through its parentage has been able to cultivate white berries that have the blackberry taste.

He has not yet found out whether the white blackberry bushes he has developed will prove to be fertile parents for the new species.

WOMAN EXPLORER PLANS STUDY OF SAVAGE WOMEN

EVANSTON, Ill., (AP)—Mrs. Melville J. Herskovits, wife of Professor Herskovits of Northwestern university, expects to be the first white woman to enter the Surinam river bush country of Dutch Guiana where a unique colony of African Negroes live.

The Herskovits will make the trip this summer.

The Surinam bushmen are the descendants of African slaves who escaped to South America, and in the almost impregnable fastnesses of the Guiana jungle transplanted the manners of Africa.

Mrs. Herskovits hopes to obtain data on woman's place in the strange colony.

WIRE SAW SAVES SLATE IN TRIMMING OPERATION

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Wire and sand were introduced by scientists of the bureau of mines two years ago as a saw for slate quarrying. Now Oliver Bowles, supervising engineer of the bureau, believes that wire saws, which already have revolutionized the quarrying, soon may supplant the expensive circular saw of the finishing plant.

Long strands of steel cable, with a cutting edge formed by tiny grains of sand, are pulled as an endless belt over the slate. The cut that results is clean and there is not the breakage that has meant large losses in the slate industry.

Insure Air Students.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Life and disability insurance for student aviators is being offered by a Kansas City insurance firm which has organized a pool to underwrite the risk. The Universal Aviation corporation, operating flying schools in a number of cities, has made arrangements to insure its students through the company.

The polls will be open in the four city districts for the city election today from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., daylight time.

JARVIS PITCHES HOLY CROSS FRESHMEN TO EASY WIN OVER THE ACADEMY TEAM

The Academy fell an easy victim to the classy Holy Cross freshman team Saturday at the campus, the Worcester lads pounding two Wildcat pitchers fiercely for a 16 to 1 victory. Red Fagan and Louie Green were the victims, yielding 20 bingles, including home runs by Lloyd Jarvis, former Academy star and Klarman Marshall, visiting shortstop, led the attack with a double and four singles in seven trips to the plate besides performing brilliantly in the field.

Jarvis Allows But Five Hits.

Jarvis pitched for the Crusader yearlings and let his former teammates down with five hits and had a shutout until the ninth when the Academy scored their lone run with two away. Lloyd took it easy with his big lead, preferring to let his support take care of the batters. And how they did!

The new athletic building was formally dedicated before the game with Charles F. Noyes of New York city, prominent alumnus, throwing out the first ball. A traveling bag was presented to Jarvis when he came to bat for the first time, it being a gift of the N. F. A. Baseball association. About 3,000 were present.

The visitors scored nine times off Red Fagan in the first inning, tallying on two passes, two hit batsmen, four singles, a double and a homer by Klarman. Louie Green went into the box in the second and, with two away, the Frosh scored twice on a pass to Davis and Jarvis' homer, a line shot over the centerfield fence. They scored three in the third on two passes, a double and a single and one each in the seventh and eighth, in the seventh on Colucci's double, a wild pitch and a squeeze bunt and in the eighth on a pass, hit batsman and Colucci's single.

Little Andy Bats.

The Academy escaped a shutout when Flather, first batter in the ninth was given his base for catcher's interference, Crowell singled sending Flather to third but Crowell was out trying for second, Pepin walked, stole second and Flather came in while Colucci was throwing out Tombari at first. Little Andy St. Germaine, batting for Fontaine, walked on four pitched balls to the amusement of the crowd but was then forced at second by Marks for the final out. Andy took the crowd by storm.

This team was away out of the high school class, it being composed of the pick of the high school stars in New England. Every man on the club gave the crowd a great exhibition and even though the game was one-sided, the work of the Worcester lads was worth the price of admission alone. Marshall at short, Farrell, in left, Carroll first, Klarman in center, our own Lloyd, and oh, well, everyone of them looked great.

WILDCAT SCRATCHES

Runs were scored as follows: Holy Cross—Marshall 2, Klarman 4, O'Connell 1, Nolan 2, Colucci 1, Farrell 1, Carroll 1, Davis 2, Jarvis 2; N. F. A.—Flather 1.

Everyone on Holy Cross hit safely but Nolan.

Jarvis was given a big hand when he came to bat the first time.

This was the second defeat in eighteen games for the Academy, who had won 16 straight up to last Thursday.

Coach Brigham used all his pinch-hitters in the ninth, sending in Flather, Crowell, Pepin and little Andy St. Germaine. Andy was a great friend of Lloyd's last year on the state champions and it seemed quite funny as he faced him at the plate. Although Davis was on his knees, still the pitches were way too high for the little mascot.

The Academy will attempt to get back to its winning ways this week when the season closes. Two games are scheduled, Wednesday with Stonington, a league clash and Saturday with Naugatuck. The Wildcats have clinched the league title but are desirous of finishing undefeated and can do this by trimming Stonington. Naugy always seems to have good teams in every sport and should provide a lively tussle Saturday. The Academy by winning these two, can make it 18 victories and two defeats for the season which would not be bad at all.

The game with the Faculty that was slated for today has been cancelled. Instead, the Seconds will play Lyman high of Lebanon at 3 p. m. at the campus.

VELVETMEN SPLIT EVEN IN WEEK END GAMES

After shutting out the Mystic A. A., 8 to 0, Saturday afternoon at Mystic the Velvetmen dropped a weird and hectic slugging match to the Universal Winding Co. club 17 to 13 at the J. B. Martin diamond on Sunday. Saturday's game was well played with Russ Fisher holding the Mystic club to 4 scattered hits. Harry Mills was touched for 12 hits and was wild at times passing five men.

Sunday's game was a free-for-all affair with a total of 41 hits being made, the visitors getting 22, while the Velvetmen pounded out 19. The Velvetmen had the best of the argument until the eighth and ninth innings when the visitors scored four runs in each of these frames. Nap Liberty with a homer, Krauss and Normandin, with a triple and two doubles each featured in the hitting. Umpire Taft came in for terrific abuse by the crowd when he decided several close decisions in favor of the visitors. The score:

STONINGTON AND CHAPMAN TIED FOR SECOND PLACE

Chapman Tech, by blanking Bulkeley Saturday at New London to sweep the city series, 3 to 0, climbed back into a tie for second place in the eastern Connecticut-western Rhode Island Interscholastic league race with Stonington high. Each has won 5 and lost 3 for a percentage of .625. Stonington and Tech meet today at Mercer field, New London at 4 p. m. and some settlement of this dispute should be made at that time. Stonington then plays the Academy here Wednesday.

The Academy has the pennant clinched with nine victories and no defeats and but one more game to go, that with Stonington. They, however, are desirous of finishing with a clean league slate and the Wildcats will present their strongest front for this clash.

Bulkeley and Westerly, with two victories and six defeats, are tied for the leadership of the second division and Windham is a half game behind them in last place. The standings:

MYSTIC WINS HANDILY FROM PUTNAM SILK SOX

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 2.— Although the Putnam Silk Sox outhit the Mystic A. A. 13 to 9 they were not able to bunch them at the right time and lost to Mystic 8 to 3. Weiss was wild and passed six men followed by timely hitting by the visitors accounted for the downfall of the locals. Weiss had a very bad inning, the fifth, when Mystic got to him for five runs. To this they added two in the ninth. Hannifin hit a home run for Putnam. The score:

YALE CREWMEN GUESTS OF J. H. WHITNEY ON YACHT

GALES FERRY, June 2—(AP)—A squad of 25 Yale oarsmen consisting chiefly of varsity and junior varsity members, enjoyed a day's respite from the strenuous and steady method of practice in preparation for the Harvard regatta, June 21, by taking a 40 mile cruise along Long Island sound.

The Eli crewmen were guests of J. H. Whitney, of New York and made the trip on his yacht. Luncheon was served aboard. The members arrived back to New London after being on the water about four hours. As a means of exercise they were ordered to walk the distance to Gales Ferry, about two and a half miles, but not before they were taken on a tour of inspection of one of Uncle Sam's submarines.

Naugatuck Has Strong Club

Naugatuck high, which will play the Academy Saturday in the season's closing game, defeated Hillhouse high of New Haven last week, 3 to 4. Capt. Dick Finley, who will no doubt pitch against the Academy, was in great form in this game after relieving Murray in the third inning, allowing but three hits to the hard-hitting Hillhouse outfit for the remainder of the way. Naugatuck pounded out 13 hits in this game.

Susie Says

They tell me that there's to be an election today.

Well, believe me brothers and sisters, I wouldn't have known it except for them ads in the paper with all the pictures.

And say there's plenty of people who don't know it yet. Honest I've had more than a dozen people ask me what this vote on the charter is for. Gosh, there must be a lotta interest when folks have to ask so many questions.

To tell the truth I don't believe half the people in town give a hoot who's elected except them that's running on the tickets and maybe they don't either.

As for me I'm going to vote for the men that I think will make the best councilmen and alderman regardless what party they belong to. There's good men on both tickets.

It won't hurt a bit if there's a split council for the next year or so. One party kinda keeps a check on the other and matters to be decided upon get a lot more consideration than if one party is in absolute control of the city affairs. Well get out and vote anyway and may the best men win.

Lloyd Jarvis came back to the Academy Saturday and what he did to the old Alma Mater was a shame. Lloydy looked as good as ever and he had a sweet ball club in back of him.

If the Academy had more ball players like Andre St. Germain they might have beaten Holy Cross Saturday. Andre went in as a pinch hitter and walked.

Some bright fan remarked that the way those Holy Cross boys hit reminded him of a game in which Billy Moore allowed only 27 scattered hits —scattered all over the field.

Chick Stanley says he has good news for the pitchers in eastern Connecticut. He says he's not going to play ball this summer which ought to take a big load off many a hurler's mind.

Who said summer was here?

LIGHTER CLASSES HOLD FORTH IN RING THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP)—The lighter divisions—juniors lightweights, lightweights and welterweights—hold a major portion of the fistic spotlight this week.

New York's outdoor season opens Tuesday night at the Queensboro Stadium with the third meeting of Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, and Ignacio Fernandez of the Philippines. Canzoneri holds two decisions over the Filipino but both battles were close.

There will be plenty of activity among the welterweights although neither Joe Dundee nor Jackie Fields, each holding a leg on the title, will see action. At Boston tomorrow night, Gorilla Jones, Akron Negro, will see whether he can make it two straight over Al Mello, of Lowell, Mass. Jones gave Mello a bad beating here a few weeks ago after the Lowell southpaw had won two decisions over Dundee.

At San Francisco, Friday night, Young Corbett, another leading contender for the 147-pound crown, tackles Al Van Ryan of St. Paul over the ten round route.

Detroit's weekly card on Thursday night offers as a main attraction a return meeting between Ray Miller, the knockout star from Chicago and Billy Petrolle, the Fargo express. Miller took the decision in their first meeting several months ago and probably will rule a favorite again.

PENN CREW ARRIVES FOR POUGHKEEPSIE REGATTA

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 2—(AP)—The University of Pennsylvania rowing squad arrived on the Hudson today, a week ahead of schedule to start training for the Intercollegiate Rowing Association Regatta here June 24.

Coach Russell (Rusty) Callow did not make the trip with the 36 oarsmen who were in charge of Crew Manager Edward Laughlin. Callow is expected tomorrow when the first workout will be held.

The U. of P. was the second squad to arrive, Columbia making its appearance last week.

TELL-DEVLIN BOUT AT NEW LONDON TONIGHT PROMISES PLENTY OF ACTION

Plenty of action is promised the fight fans of eastern Connecticut at the New London Arena tonight when Irish Benny Tell and Irish Hughie Devlin get together for their 10-round setto. Benny Tell is from New York while Devlin is a New London boy and both are Irish through and through, if that means anything in the fight game.

Tell is the bantamweight who licked Tommy Lemieux of Woonsocket to a stand still two years ago when Lemieux was a popular idol of Norwich fans. The New York youngster is a tough boy who packs a sleeping portion in either hand and don't care who he gives them to. In Tell, Devlin, himself a fast hard-hitting boy, is meeting the best boy that he has met in many moons. Devlin possesses plenty of boxing ability and expects to be able to stop the rushing tactics of the visitor. The cut on Devlin's head has healed and he is in fine condition expecting to come into the ring tonight at about 121 pounds.

This bout between Devlin and Tell has all the earmarks of being a whale of a scrap with ten rounds of flying leather. Neither Tell nor Devlin are in the habit of giving ground in the ring so it should be one grand little slugging match. Tell has been installed as a slight favorite by virtue of his victory over Sammy Geller of New York who recently beat Devlin to a close decision at New Haven.

The semi-final bout is in the heavier class, two welterweights, Mule Brown of Danbury meeting Charlie Gallo of Hartford in an eight-rounder. Mule Brown gets his nickname from the punch that he has and which he demonstrated when he broke two perfectly g—— ribs for Eddie Corbett in a recent bout. Gallo is no weak hitter by any means and for good hefty wallops this bout should be just the thing.

Paddy Shea of Hartford meets Benny Mann of New York in a special six-round feature which followers of the ring claim will not go the limit.

Topping the preliminary bouts is the one between Geno Pecheeni of Norwich and Bingo Billo, now of New London. Pecheeni, the popular local featherweight, is favored to win because of his showing in a recent show at the arena. Billo is reported to be a powerful hitter but will have to be something pretty good to stretch Pecheeni on the canvas for the local lad is well versed in the art of give and take.

Another four-rounder brings together Young Tauff of the Coast Guard and Johnny Bedeli in a renewal of their grudge fight. In the last meeting Tauff gained a verdict but at the same time took plenty of punishment from Bedeli who made a Garrison finish in the last round.

The opener will see Young Lavigne of the U. S. S. Camden pitted against Young Illison of the Coast Guards. This bout is for the especial benefit of the service men among whom there has been much discussion relative to the ability of these two lads. The boys are bantamweights who throw plenty of gloves and for little fellows hit with plenty of steam. No love is lost between these two who have been anxious to meet one another for a long time.

Without doubt the card tonight is one of the best, if not the very best offered by Promoter Ernie Fakourey for the fans of eastern Connecticut. Action has been Fakourey's aim in planning the bill and it seems that he has accomplished his purpose for every boy on the card is known as a sugger and not afraid to give and take plenty of punishment. The show is slated for 8:30 o'clock.

BARBUTI MAY RUN IN DENVER MEET

DENVER, June 2—(AP)—The Denver committee in charge of the A. A. U. track and field championships here July 3, 4 and 5, has been informed that Ray Barbuti, the only American to win a flat race for the United States in the 1928 Olympics at Amsterdam, has resumed training and will apply for reinstatement in the A. A. U. with the intention of entering the Denver games.

Barbuti, suspended after he had charged that star athletes were being paid excessive sums for expenses for competing in meets, has refused to answer letters concerning his entry, but officials said they were confident he would make an effort to be reinstated and run the 440 yard dash.

Present indications are that at least two thirds of America's 1928 Olympic team membership will be represented in the local games. Among those who have signified their intention direct to the A. A. U. committee are Charley Borah, Sabin Carr, Alfred Bates, Carl Ring, "Bud" Houser, Lee Bartlett, Steve Anderson, Lloyd Bourgeois, Bob Kelly, Walter Geyan, Claude Bracey, Jimmy Quinn, Herman Brix, J. F. Anderson, Ben Hedges, Arthur Sager, Charles Harlow, Charley Paddock, Edward Gordon and Jackson Scholz.

BLAKE WEAKENS AND GIANTS TROUNCE CUBS

CHICAGO, June 2—(AP)—Sheriff Fred Blake exploded in the seventh inning here today enabling the Giants to overcome the Cubs 4 to 1. Before 37,000 Sabbath spectators Larry Benton held the home team to five scattered hits and was not scored on until the ninth when Norman McMillan popped one into the right field seats for a homer.

The victory gave the Giants a record of four straight and ten of their last eleven. The seventh-round assault which proved the undoing of Blake consisted of Lindstrom's double and five singles. Mike Cvengros and Berlyn Horne inherited the pitching job after Blake was led from the premises.

PIPGRAS HOLDS WHITE SOX AND YANKS WIN, 6 TO 1

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP)—George Pipgras held the White Sox to six scattered hits here today and the Yankees won their second straight game from the western invaders. The score was 6 to 1.

Lou Gehrig hit his twelfth home run in the first inning with one on base and Cedric Durst pounded one out of the lot in the seventh inning, also with one aboard. Earl Combs' single in the eighth drove home the other two runs.

Ed Walsh, Hal McKain and George Connally all were hit hard. Kerr's single and Metzler's triple in the third gave Chicago its only run.

Babe Ruth was out of the game with a heavy cold and Sammy Byrd took his place. Byrd's fielding in right field was a feature.

SEGRAVE UNABLE TO SET NEW SPEEDBOAT RECORD

POTSDAM, Germany, June 2—(AP)—Major H. O. D. Segrave, British sportsman, was pursued by bad luck on the second day of the international regatta today and motor trouble prevented his attempt to set a new world's speedboat record with the "Miss England".

Despite a leaden sky and a persistent drizzle, a crowd of several thousand watched from the shore of Templin lake while Segrave and his assistants worked feverishly to repair the motor. Although the Briton easily beat a single German rival in the first race with the "Miss Alacrity," the "Miss England's" engine trouble dashed his hopes of establishing a new record. Segrave was forced to withdraw his boat in a race against the "Parolo Fifth" a short time after the two speedboats left the starting line and the Parolo Fifth had an undisputed victory, making the round alone.

Malcolm Pope and Jack Kerr, American entrants in the regatta, still had failed to appear today. Club officials said the Americans had announced they were on their way but that no further word had been received since.

RED SOX POUND OUT EASY WIN OVER INDIANS

BOSTON, June 2—(AP)—The Red Sox knocked Lefty Joe Shaute from the box in the third inning and proceeded to defeat Cleveland 12 to 3 here today. Milton Gaston hurled a three-hit game for the Sox after the third inning.

Remarkable one hand catches were made by Bill Barrett and Rothrock. Morgan, Cleveland right fielder, collided with the bleacher wall in chasing Scarritt's long fly, which went into the stand for a homer. He was knocked unconscious but was revived and walked from the field, apparently only jarred.

HELEN WILLS WINS FRENCH TITLE IN STRAIGHT SETS

PARIS, June 2—(AP)—For the second straight year, Helen Wills, California's queen of the courts, won the women's singles title at the French hard court tennis championships today.

In a clashing match in which power of stroke predominated, Miss Wills defeated Mme. Rene Mathieu, ranking No. 1 French player, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, in the final round.

The American, French and British women's champion saved her best tennis for the final day. Although Mme. Mathieu put up a gallant fight, Miss Wills, in the opinion of all the experts assembled here demonstrated that she dominates feminine tennis just as lofty as did her former rival, Suzanne Lenglen, some years ago.

Although the finals of the women's singles held a major share of interest among the 12,000 spectators—the largest crowd that ever saw a tennis match in France—Jean orotra the "bounding basque," sprang a stunning upset when he eliminated his fellow-mus

SEASONAL SLACKENING IN MANY INDUSTRIES IS NOTABLY LACKING

NEW YORK, June 1—(AP)—Business has entered the month of June with the seasonal slackening in many industries usually in evidence at this time, notably lacking, but with rather more uneveness than has been noted in the past few months.

Retail trade was given a sharp impetus by the warm weather of the past week, but there was rather more hesitancy in wholesale buying reflecting some fears that the collapse of the grain markets and persistently high interest rates may have adverse effects on public purchase power.

Freight car loadings during the latest week again exceeded the 1,000,000 car mark, although there has been a gradual decline during the past few weeks. Indications are, however, that distribution set a new high record during May.

The steel industry continued to show amazing vitality, with mill operations still holding near capacity. Indications are that the month of May set a new high record of output for that period. A high rate of operation is indicated for June, barring exceptionally hot weather, which would necessitate some slackening. Automobile manufacturing showed surprising little slowing up, although a lessened demand for raw materials was again evident.

The reaching of an agreement at the reparations conference was a particularly favorable development for the automobile and copper industries, both of which are depending more and more upon foreign markets.

In addition to building, a quieting down was apparent in textiles, furniture, and jewelry manufacturing. The hide markets, however, continued the improvement noted a week ago. Firming prices were again noted in the petroleum industry, and while production took a turn upward, new restrictions were put into effect in California, beginning June 1, which should help the situation considerably.

Credit rates for commercial purposes were unchanged from their recent high levels, but sharp declines in the stock market caused a large reduction in brokers' loans, and imparted an easier undertone to the New York money market.

Business failures, as reported by R. G. Dun and company, for the five day week, totalled 374, which was less favorable than the 344 reported for the Memorial day week a year ago.

His "Borrowed" Date!

—By PAUL ROBINSON

POETRY

Man as Trees Walking

Once poet sang, "by fools like me,
But only God could make a tree."

But 'tis no fool a man can be
God sees in elm or maple tree.

Those "pure in heart" alone see God
Revealed in tree, or star, or clod.

True, marvellous beauty dowers each tree,
But grander far man's power to see.

Find charm in flower, or weigh a world,
Sos in dewdrop—God, unparalled.

Note music of revolving spheres,
God's voice in storm or zephyr hears.

Yet sense of beauty, so defined,
Had first creator in man's mind.

One with such power endowed to see
Will "worship God" in every tree.

'Tis grace of God when men thus see
The Face Divine—and love a tree!

Though trees, superb, entrancing, grand
Vanish full soon from off the land,

By woodman's axe, or lightning stroke
Destroyed—or fires leave ash and smoke

Yet life, so brief in ant, flower, tree,
Is proffered Man, eternally.

Each page, close writ, of History's book
Proves man Godlike, where-er we look.

The architects of ancient domes,
Or pyramids of well-poised stones,

Tell that in Oriental mind
"God's image" clearly was defined

Viewed thus, by all the "pure in heart,"
Man seems from God not far apart.

More precious still his life appears
If judged as Christ loved man—through tears!

Soul, made by God, God's Life then choose
Nor gift of Life Beyond refuse.

"Lay hold on life," to heaven aspire,
Be thou no "fool," God's Life desire.

And that more glorious life thou'lt see,
God's promise, Immortality!

By Love created, loved thou'lt be,
As proved by Christ on Calvary's Tree.
—By the late Rev. George G. Phipps

The Glorious Game

I go about dumfoundedly, and show a guttered glance,
But in my mind are spangles and music and a dance,—
Tra-la, the hid romance!

And I suspect, O brothers (and sisters, drab and prim)
'Tis quite the same with all of you, with every her and him
That goes in masking-trim.

The whole world hides the truth; and faith, it is a parlous shame
To make a pale-faced misery of such a glorious game,—
With all of us to blame.

So let us be like mummers who grin and lift their lays
And kick their heels at heaven a hundred happy ways,
Sky-larking down the days!
—Richard Burton.

The polls will be open in the four city districts for the city election today from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., daylight time.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Doctor—And do you assimilate your food, Dinah?

Dinah—Deed Ah doesn't. Ah buys it open and honest.—Norwich Guidon.

Employer—But see here. These aren't recommendations you've given me.

Lady (seeking job)—No, sir. They're copies of the death certificates of my four grandparents, sir.—Northern Telegraph.

Excited Lady—Sergeant, arrest me immediately. I have just shot my husband.

Weary Sergeant—Go away, lady. This ain't no vaudeville agent's.—Farm Journal.

"Where were you yesterday, Dinah? My wife expected you to help clean," said Mr. Whitty.

"Well, you see, suh, had to go to Cousin Lizzy's funeral."

"Oh, I see. Blackberrying again."—Boston Transcript.

Letter from Reader—Dear Editor: I have a horse that sometimes seems normal and other times is very weak and lame. What shall I do?

Reply—Dear Reader: Next time the horse appears normal, sell him.—Country Gentleman.

The family was at table, and little Francis, normally of excellent appetite, had left most of his meat untouched. So mother was concerned.

"Why, Frankie, why don't you eat the nice shad? I thought you liked fish."

"Well, I do, mummy. But this one's full of splinters."—Boston Transcript.

The shopper was on her way out after leaving her list of groceries to be delivered. Suddenly she turned and said coldly:

"Never mind the cranberries, Mr. Dugan. I see the cat is sleeping on them."

"Whisht, mum! She won't mind me waking her up!"—Army and Navy Journal.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Honey may be kept for years under proper conditions.

The Chinese were the first men to study the air with aircraft or kites.

The Leechman "boys," 73 and 72, of Falls City, Neb., still have something to look forward to. They have never read a paper, owned a car or used a telephone, electric lights or a radio. They haven't been off their farm for 50 years because the last time they went they didn't get home till nearly sunset and the scare cured travel fever.

Dr. Frank Crane, writer, after an inspection of one of the dreadnaughts of the United States navy, said: "I recently had a very illuminating visit aboard the battleship Tennessee. It was illuminating because I found it not only a fighting machine, but a schoolhouse. In this age of modern efficient methods it is only natural that a wise government provide means to insure the highest type of personnel. Why not? A battleship is perhaps the most perfect laboratory in the world. All its machinery must be the best of its kind and to maintain the high standard the United States navy has set, it is necessary that the personnel be highly trained. Education proved to be a deciding factor and to further their policy the navy department has provided enlisted men with a correspondence course system that is perhaps the most completely organized project of its kind in use. It is comprised of 126 courses, prepared by the leading universities of America. A program of personal supervision by naval academy graduates and competent instructors insures a thorough knowledge of the subject undertaken."

HARVARD SHELLS REACH NEW LONDON SUNDAY AND ARE TAKEN TO RED TOP

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 2.—The Harvard crews arrived at their training quarters at Red Top Saturday evening. The oarsmen reached New London at 5:24 o'clock and went direct to Red Top. The shells arrived this morning and were taken to the training camp, where they were unloaded and made ready for use tomorrow, when the crews will get down to real hard training in preparation for their annual struggle with Yale on the 21st inst.

OFFICER'S FLASHLIGHT SPOTTED NEW YORK SALESMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 2.—Francis D. Gilbert, 42, who describes himself as a salesman and his residence at 55 East 72nd street, New York, was arrested at 3 o'clock this morning charged with indecent assault. He was unable to obtain a surety on his bond of $500 and was locked up pending a hearing in the police court Monday. Gilbert is staying at a hotel and has an automobile. He sought the company of several sailors during the evening and was successful in forming the acquaintance of bluejackets. Sergeant Samuel Hick and Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey were making a tour of the outlying sections of the city and off Jefferson avenue, between Cedar Grove and St. Mary's cemeteries the officers observed a car parked off the highway. Bailey alighted and approached, the motionless auto. Arriving at the car and turning his flashlight into the car, what the officer saw resulted in the arrest of Gilbert.

THOS. C. CURTIN OUT EARLY—ALSO HE WAS NOT SOBER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 2.—Thomas C. Curtin was arrested early today charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and will be in court Monday. Curtin was near Connecticut college for women at 2:30 o'clock at a time when State Police Officer Joseph King was touring the New London-Norwich turnpike. The manner in which Curtin was driving attracted the attention of the officer and when the driver was ordered to stop it was plain that Curtin was drunk. He was arrested, taken to police headquarters and locked up. Later he secured a surety on his bond of $150 and was released.

His car collided with a machine driven by Sidney M. Johnson, Hartford. Both automobiles were damaged, but their occupants escaped injury. Ditomoranso was arrested by State Police Officer Peter Busgh.

Fractured Collarbone.

An automobile driven by G. F. Neunz, U. S. Coast Guard, struck Maniro Moretti, 14, of Shaw street, near the child's home. The youth was taken to Home Memorial hospital where an examination revealed that he had a fractured collarbone.

Boys' Need Discipline.

Mischievous boys caused the police much annoyance Friday night and Saturday. One group went to the fire headquarters of the Pequot Hose company and stole a one-pound cannon, of the type used by the U. S. coast guard, from the lawn in front of the fire house. Another stole a settee from in front of the Krystal Cleaning and Dyeing company and another gathering, playing ball, smashed a windown in the residence of R. J. Calvert, 4 Marshall place and then entered the house and recovered the ball. Calvert made complaint to the police when he and his family returned home, after being absent the entire day.

Cook Lost His Case.

Captain Wallace Ralph, master of one of the lighters of the Merritt-Chapman-Scott Wrecking company, was in the police court Saturday charged with breach of the peace. He was arrested Friday on complaint of Frank Kier, 73, employed on the lighter as cook. The case was disposed of by Ralph being discharged Testimony of Kier was to the effect that Ralph struck him during a fit of anger. Ralph testified that he remonstrated with Kier because of the manner in which oatmeal had been served and that when the cook attempted to strike Ralph the latter shoved Kier away. The latter fell, and his head struck a nail causing a slight laceration of the scalp. Ralph's testimony wa corroborated by three other employes on the lighter.

RAID CROSS ST. HOUSE BUT GET NO EVIDENCE

A squad of police raided the house, 8 Cross street, conducted by Marty Russell, early Saturday morning for they believed that what would be revealed by their visit there would result in Russell being arrested on a charge of frequenting. The house had been under surveillance of the police several nights and when a taxicab with a sailor as passenger arrived at the house and both the sailor and driver entered, the raiding force organized and went to the house. Gaining admission the officers found the two men and a woman, who said she was Mrs. Russell, the trio being seated in a living room. The circumstances did not warrant arrests being made and a search of the house did not reveal liquor.

Stephen Jackett, a sailor, was arrested Saturday night charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. Jackett was at the union station where he created a disturbance, being arrested by Special Agent Peabody.

Motorists Break Laws.

Charles H. Comstock, 84, who died Saturday morning at his home at Gales Ferry, following an illness of several weeks, was a veteran of the Civil war.

ATTY. DANIEL M. CRONIN TO BE JUDGE AFTER JULY 1ST

Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin resumed his duties Saturday having been incapacitated several months because of eye trouble. He will continue to act until July 1 when he will ascend to the bench, having been appointed to the judgeship several months ago. Acting Prosecutor Max Boyer is having a vacation and will assume the duties of his recent appointment to succeed Prosecutor Cronin upon the conclusion of his vacation.

A fellow was sought by the police tonight for annoying girls, who are students at Connecticut College for Women. Several of the young ladies strolled to the vicinity of Deshon street and there the annoyer leaped from a slump of bushes, but did not attempt to seize the girls.

Montville Man Too Speedy

George B. Congdon, of Montville, was arrested this afternoon by State Police Officer Arthur Johnson charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Congdon was driving in Salem and where State Police Officer Arthur Johnson was on duty. The zigzag course taken by the auto caused the officer to bring it to a stop and it was then observed that Congdon was intoxicated. He was brought to New London and locked up at police headquarters. Tomorrow Congdon will be taken before a justice court at Salem.

PORTUGUESE FRATERNITY OPENS CONVENTION SUNDAY

The annual convention of the Portuguese Fraternity of the United States of America opened a two days' convention in this city today, the affair being attended by about 100 delegates. This afternoon the visitors had an outing at the grounds of the Holy Ghost society, Waterford. Tomorrow morning the business of the convention will be transacted and at night a banquet will be held at the hotel at which there will be many guests, including city officials.

THIEF DRIVES AWAY IN A DEEP RIVER CAR

An automobile owned by H. J. Stalsberg, Deep River, was stolen in New London Saturday and has not been recovered. The car was parked by Stalsberg in the rear of the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument, State street and while the owner was absent the thief drove away in the auto. It is a Buick and carries Connecticut registration N-5244.

Edward Williams, a barber, residing at 91 Bayonet street, was arrested by Patrolman Dennis Murphy last night charged with breach of the peace. He will be in court Monday. Williams was observed emerging from an alleyway and when the officer ordered him to stop, Williams attempted to run away and was overtaken and arrested as he could not give a good account of himself or for being in the alleyway.

The summer camp of the New London Girl Scouts will open July 6 at Gardner lake and will continue until August 31.

McCrory-Mitchell Engagement.

Announcement was made last week of the engagement of Miss Mildred McCrory of Ellaville, Ga., to Donald Grant Mitchell, Jr., formerly of this city. Mr. Mitchell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Mitchell of Granite street. He was educated at Amherst, and has been in Macon, Ga., during the past four years, making his home with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Earle H. Strickland. He is on the city staff of the Macon Telegraph with which he has been connected since March 1925.

Miss McCrory is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robert McCrory. She was graduated in 1924 from Wesleyan college, Ga., where she received an A. B. degree and a B. M. degree, later going to Columbia for three summers, where she majored in English. Since her graduation from Wesleyan, Miss McCrory has been a member of the college faculty. She is now the English instructor and the registrar at the conservatory.

STEALING OF PLUMING FROM ANOTHER COTTAGE

Sergeant Patrick Murphy reported at police headquarters tonight that a cottage at 65 Park street, Ocean Beach, owned by Mr. Lutin, of 23 Vineland Terrace, Hartford, had been entered by thieves and that a sink and toilet had been dismantled and taken away. The cottage was intact last Wednesday when Lutin visited it, but today another visit revealed the theft having been committed. Entrance to the house was gained by smashing a window. The stealing of the sink and toilet is the second offense of this nature to be reported to the police within a month. It is apparent that some one is making a practice of entering cottages there, whose owners reside out of the city, and stealing the plumbing.

LAST SWIMMING TESTS NEW LONDON TOWN BOYS

The final lesson of the Town and County branch Y. M. C. A. Learn-to-Swim campaign was held at the week end in the Central branch pool. Under the instruction of the physical director A. B. "Doc." Dawson and Howard W. Corey the boys from the towns surrounding the city of New London have taken four lessons to teach them to swim. Of those who took the course an unusually high percentage passed the test.

The 6:15 class was enrolled from the schools in Quaker Hill and Uncasville, and 21 boys took one or more lessons. Of these 13 took the entire course and the following ten were awarded the button indicating they had successfully negotiated the pool—a distance of sixty feet: Quaker Hill: Melvin Enos, Joseph Muscarella; Uncasville: Albert Vars, George Lapanne, Charles Smith, Frederick Johnson, Joseph Fiedorowicz, Lewellyn Potter and George Matteson, while John Dicklow of New London, also a member of this class, took a button as well.

The 7 o'clock class was a smaller one, and of the 11 who took at least one lesson seven took the course and the six who were successful were: Niantic: Charles Miller, John O'Brien, George Mason and Lewis Rando; Cohanzie school, Waterford: Francis Bauer and John Petrowsky.

In the 7:45 o'clock class ten took at least one lesson and eight completed. Of these, six were awarded buttons: Niantic Center: Russell Hoffman, and Wesley Hoffman; Cohanzie school, Waterford; Eugene Sang and Franklin Steward; Flanders: Fred Drabik.

The 8:30 o'clock class was enrolled entirely from Jordan school, Waterford, with the exception of one New London boy, who had been prevented from completing his course at the time the city campaign was conducted, due to vaccination. Twenty boys took at least one lesson and fourteen completed. Of these, the following won their button: Stanley Berntsen, Woodrow Giordani, Benjamin Blender, George Worrall, Fred Carling, Howard Smith, Paul Rowley, Philip Contino, Raymond Berntsen Edward Berntsen and James Murtha.

None of the communities in the town of Groton could be included in this year's campaign, due to the smallpox scare and the fact that all the school children were vaccinated just as the time when they would be going into the pool.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Newspapermen Will Be Guests at the Broadway Theatre Monday Evening

Every newspaperman gets a thrill out of the newspaper game some time in his life—every young cub reporter waits for the chance when he can turn in a scoop on some story that the other fellow does not get, just like Lindbergh has put it over on the scribes, but it's a hundred to one shot that some cub reporter will get the scoop and get his reward, even if it is only the boss' season pass for a big league game.

Mr. Snider, who is manager at the Broadway at the present time, put in many years on one of the country's biggest dailies, and for that reason he knows the scribes and their associates on The Bulletin and Record will enjoy seeing how it is done in the big cities.

A newspaper office as authentic in appearance as any editorial workshop was built at Paramount's Long Island studio for Paramount's new all-talking picture, "Gentlemen of the Press." This picture, which will show at the Broadway theatre from Sunday until Wednesday, is a screen version of the sensational Broadway stage hit which had a long run last season.

Green lampshades swing low over battered typewriters; a circular copy desk is covered with paste pots and news copy; there is colorful litter and disorder. Walter Huston gives an outstanding and thoroughly convincing characterization of a veteran newspaperman in the leading role and several members of the supporting cast have had newspaper backgrounds.

Huston is one of the most versatile of the stage-trained artists to turn to talking moving pictures as the most satisfactory means of expressing his talent. His voice is perfect for microphone recording. In several short Paramount talking features he sang some of his own songs. In "Gentlemen of the Press", an all-talking picture, he plays a straight dramatic role.

Breed Theatre

"Hit of the Show," the FBO special now playing at the Breed theatre, is one of the finest shows to play here during the last year. It is a story of stageland and is so well directed that the trials and hardships of its cast seem real and their happiness well earned.

Joe E. Brown, late of Broadway and musical comedy, enacts the role of a rather wistful little hoofer, who for fifteen years has been knocking on the door to stardom. When the call comes love for his girl makes him sacrifice his life for her happiness.

It is a remarkably sweet story that moves far faster than is usual. The cast is very excellent, Gertrude Olmstead, Daphne Pollard, Gertrude Astor and Lee Shumway being especially good.

The story is from a novel by Viola Brothers Shore which was published under the name of "Notices."

TAFTVILLE

The Feast of Corpus Christi, the feast in honor of the Blessed Sacrament, was observed Sunday at Sacred Heart church, with an outdoor procession directly after the high mass of the day. All the parochial societies participated and the first communicants strewed petals in the path of the Sacred Host, borne in a monstrance under a canopy by Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault, pastor of the church. Members of Peter Gallan post, No. 104, acted as a guard of honor to the Blessed Sacrament. With each organization headed by its banner and with the flags of the United States and the French Republic leading, the procession moved to the Providence street grounds where benediction was given at a temporary altar on the cliffs. Surrounding the altar were scores of daintily frocked little girls carrying flowers. Red cassocked acolytes, some holding lighted candles and others with smoking censers preceded the Sacred Host. After the service the procession returned to the church. The bell in the tower pealed as the marchers left and returned to the edifice. Rev. Francis X. Chicoine and Rev. Omer T. Mandier acted as masters of ceremonies.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Linderson, Wilfred Linderson and Miss Roberta Vergason of North Third avenue were at their summer home, Pine Tree cottage, at North Stonington, over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Stinson and family of Boldue lane have as their guests Mrs. Henry Beers of Westerly, R. I.

Mrs. Charles R. Adams of North Third avenue is spending this week with Mrs. William Billings of Mystic.

With the president, George Serus, presiding, the monthly business meeting of the members of Branch 98, Polish Workers' Sick Mutual Aid association was held Sunday afternoon at their rooms on Norwich avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ewart and son, of Phillipsdale, R. I., have returned home after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wood and family of North B street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Laramie of Plainfield were week end guests of Mr. Laramie's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Smith and Mrs. Lillian Laramie of North B street.

NORWICH TOWN

DISTRICT SUPT. PREACHES AT METHODIST CHURCH

Before a good congregation Sunday evening in the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church Rev. Myron E. Genter, superintendent of the Norwich district, preached an excellent sermon. The opening service was in charge of the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter. A special musical selection was given by the Junior choir in charge of Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich, organist. Rev. Mr. Genter's subject was Character Building. Rev. Frederick C. Baker, pastor emeritus of Trinity Methodist church, offered prayer. "First Things First," was the theme of the sermon by Rev. George Warren Potter at the Methodist church Sunday morning. The Junior choir under direction of Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich, sang an anthem.

The C. E. society is to hold its June meeting this (Monday) evening in the vestry. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Potter, is to read a paper this (Monday) afternoon at the ministers' meeting at Hartford on "The Minister Renews His Youth As a Scout Master."

Wolf Cubs Hear Open Road.

There was a meeting of the Wolf Cub Pack of Scouts connected with the Methodist church, at the parsonage, Friday afternoon, with an attendance of 13. One new member was accepted. The opening of the meeting was in charge of the cubmaster, Rev. George Warren Potter. The story from the Open Road was read by the assistant submaster, Ralph Smith.

At the next meeting a new Sixer will be chosen and a new treasurer. Frederick Ross, who has served very acceptably as treasurer has resigned as he is about to join the Boy Scouts, having reached his 12th birthday.

The polls will be open in the four city districts for the city election today from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., daylight time.

BALTIC STREET CELLAR HELD LARGE QUANTITY OF WET GOODS

In a midnight raid, Saturday, state and local police seized a large quantity of beer and liquor at the house at No. 26 Baltic street and arrested Antoia Tramontozzi, 40, on a charge of violation of the liquor laws. After being booked at police headquarters, she was released on bonds of $1,000 for her appearance in the city court this (Monday) morning.

State Police Officers Arthur Whitmarsh and King secured evidence of three actual sales at the place which is said to have been doing a large business for some time. A sale was secured Saturday night and shortly afterwards the police made their appearance at the house.

In the cellar they found an confiscated 540 bottles of beer, seven gallon jugs containing cider, about a quart of hooch and a 50 gallon barrel of wine, full. The beer and liquor were found in the cellar of the house. It was transported to police headquarters in the patrol wagon. In the raiding squad were State Police Officer Whitmarsh, State Police Officers King, Sergt. Matthew Delaney, and Officers Clifford Crary, Patrick Shahan and Joseph P. Farrell.

COMBINATION RESISTRY TO TRUCKS CARRYING EMPLOYES

All trucks used in transporting employes to and from places of employment should be operated under combination registrations, which are issued for vehicles doing freight and passenger business, under interpretation of the statutes made by the state motor vehicle department. This opinion, mainly affects commercial vehicles in the service of transporting tobacco plantations workers.

A warning against overloading of these trucks with workers has been issued also by the department. Advice has been given to owners to use common sense safety rules, based on the capacity of the vehicles. Particularly, the warning stresses the importance of forbidding passengers to ride on the running boards or hood or anywhere except on the body of the vehicle or its seats.

Owners and operators are also advised to cooperate with the police in adopting safety rules. The department points out that "if the state police and other police authorities understand the general nature of emergencies which arise in transportation of workers, proper allowance will be made and there will be little technical interference. On the other hand, it is fair to assume that the police will enforce largely on all safety rules and the suggestion is made that police departments be asked to pass on all safety measures taken by owners.

The department has accepted the position that the statutes are not definite in deciding whether commercial motor vehicles which carry employes are public service motor vehicles. Also, that the definition of public service motor vehicle has not been applied to vehicles in this type of service by any court.

In registering vehicles, the department has defined a public service motor vehicle as one which carries passengers for hire, and where this element of compensation is not present that such vehicles are public service vehicles. If, however, this element is present even through some roundabout method the vehicles so used are considered public service vehicles.

The opinion on the use of a combination marker for vehicles carrying employes follows a decision by Judge Edward M. Yeomans of the superior court. He found that for vehicles doing such a business it is necessary to have a combination registration, which is issued as a matter of course in connection with all motor vehicles where the vehicle does both passenger and freight business.

HENS AT STORRS HAVE SMALLER WEEK

Production for the thirtieth week has eased off by 237 eggs over last week's production. The total for the week was 4,691 eggs, making a grand total to date of 129,689 eggs, or an average of almost 130 eggs per bird. The last two days of the thirtieth week were extremely hot in this locality and production eased up a bit during the hot spell.

It has been rather difficult for any one pen to receive first honors during the past week. Last year a pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by Clarence E. Lee captured the week with 65 eggs. This year Charlescote's Reds from Sherborn, Mass., the leading pen of Reds in the contest, tied with a pen of White Leghorns owned by Toivonen Leghorn farm of Girard, Penn. These two pens came through with 64 eggs each. Once again a pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by John Z. LaBelle of Ballouville, Conn., is in the running and captures second place with 63 eggs. A pen of White Leghorns owned by Wm. L. Gilbert Home of Winsted, Conn., was third with a lay of 62 eggs. Fourth honors for the week went to a pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by Donald I. Goodenough of Torrington, Conn., with a lay of 61 eggs. Thus we find, as summer approaches, three pens of heavy breeds in the running for the week.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties:

WAS DRIVING MACHINE WITH IMPROPER MARKERS

Cyrille Heroux, 44, of Taftville, was arrested about noon Saturday by Constable Louis Paquette, on a charge of driving a machine with improper registration plates. His arrest followed an accident at Norwich Town as he was driving out of a gasoline station entrance on Washington street.

His machine collided with a Buick owned and operated by Mrs. Carrie Kinney of No. 88 West Town street and both cars were somewhat damaged. The machine Heroux was driving, a Cadillac was equipped with numbers issued for a Chandler. Heroux was released on bonds of $100 for his appearance in the city court this (Monday) morning.

CONTINUANCE IS GRANTED IN FERACO CASE

Frank and Mary Feraco, husband and wife, were presented in the city court Saturday morning on charges of violation of the liquor law, as the result of a raid the night before at their home, No. 120 Talman street. By request of Mrs. Feraco the cases were continued until Wednesday so that she would have time to secure counsel. Both accused are at liberty on bonds of $1,000 each.

NORTH STONINGTON SCHOOLS HELD FIRST FIELD DAY

Last Wednesday, for the first time in the school history of North Stonington, the eleven public schools of the town were united by an event in the form of a field day held at the North Stonington fair grounds.

The scheduled events held at the fair grounds were not purposely prepared. The teachers of the town chose their best athletes as participants in the contests. The work done during field day was merely a demonstration of everyday work in physical education, a required subject in the curriculum of Connecticut.

The schools participating in the exercises were Hewitt, Boombridge, Clarks Falls, Laurel Glen, Center, Miner, Shunoc, Wheeler, Williams, Pendleton Hill and Northwest Corner schools.

The schools were rated accordingly: the school ranking first received five points to their credit; the second three points and the third, one point. The school receiving the majority of points was given a silver cup with the name of the school, date and occasion engraved on it.

The following were the results:

50 yd. dash for girls—Shunoc, first; Miner, second; Hewitt, third.

Running broad jump for boys — Hewitt, first; Boombridge, second; Center, third.

Running broad jump for girls — Hewitt, first; Shunoc, second; Miner, third.

High jump for boys—Hewitt, first; Miner, second.

Sack race for boys—Shunoc, first; Boombridge, second; Clarks Falls, third.

Sack race for girls—Shunoc, first; Miner and Hewitt, tied, second; Boombridge, third.

Boys' throw for distance— Hewitt, first; Pendelton Hill, second; Miner, third.

Three-legged race for girls—Shunoc, first; Hewitt, second; Miner, third.

Potato race for boys—Boombridge, first; Northwest Corner, second; Miner, third.

Siamese Twins for girls—Shunoc, first; Hewitt, second; Miner, third.

To Hewitt school went the laurels. Shunoc came in second. The Hewitt school exhibited excellent work, chiefly in the running and jumping contests, one boy jumping 5 feet in the running, high jump.

After the events the schools then disbanded for lunch, some having school lunch in the grange hall and others divided in groups and dined in shaded woody spots. After lunch there was a baseball game.

At 2 o'clock, the schools convened in grange hall for the oratorial and spelling contests. Mr. Connolly gave his address of welcome. "Field day," he said, "was an opportunity for uniting the schools. Pupils from all the schools were given an opportunity to get acquainted. The children did not have to come to demonstrate what they could do, but to see who could do better. They all came to have a good time. Each child will not remember how far he jumped but how much farther another child jumped. He will remember that fact for years and if he should meet him, he would be glad to see him. Thus field day will help make for amicable relations between schools and puplis. After all, the future of America depends on the growth of our young ones. Physical education provides for the making of stronger bodies, which will make men of whom America will be proud. As North Stonington had a fair day in September to show the produce of the town, so, too, we are having a field day to show the work of the schools in physical education. People did not contribute to the fair with the sole object of winning a prize, because all could not win, but to see how much better another individual did along the same line. And so with our field day. All schools could not win the cup. Still, all participated for the sport of it. If he lost, he respected the child who beat him. What we need is to develop a splendid spirit of sportsmanship; to play as Roosevelt said, 'the game hard by not fouling or shirking.' Each child should learn to play fair and square always and to be able to take defeat as befits an American. Fair players make for good citizenship and what we need today and tomorrow are good citizens."

Mr. Connolly next introduced the judges of the oratorial contest: Mrs. Connolly, Mr. Delaney and Mr. Laakso. "The judges, he said, "were not to know the pupils' names. They were given numbers from 1 to 8, three pupils being unable to recite. The judges were to rate the pupils according to interpretation, a term which meant, posture, conveyance of selection to the audience, and comprehension and feeling of the piece being recited."

The oratorial contest was interspersed with musical numbers. Dorothy Edwards of Hewitt school played a piano solo previous to the contest. The first four numbers of boys and girls, recited their selections. During the short intermission a quintette of Shunoc boys and girls sang "Stars of the Summer Night." The next four numbers recited their pieces. While the judges retired to consider the winner, a trio of girls from the Northwest Corner school, Betty Reed, Anna Scepura and Eleanor Lyons, sang "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton" and Swanee River," directed by Miss E. Zoccaner.

The spelling contest followed, nine pupils representing the schools. Mrs. Pendleton pronounced the words, Mrs. Babcock and Mrs. Miner refereed the disputed words. Four hundred words were selected from the seventh and eighth grade lists, no abbreviations, proper names or words of two meanings given. Each pupil was given one trial for each word. If a pupil failed, the next pupil was given a new word. The children had the right to ask to have a word repeated.

The children were spelled down rapidly until Betty Reed remained. Betty, the winner, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Flood Reed. She received the prize for three years in succession. She will go to New London, June 10, at 7 o'clock, where she will compete for the county prize. If successful, she will go to Hartford to compete for the state prize.

The judges of the oratorial contest returned. Mr. Laakso announced that the judges had decided that Betty Brown of Shunoc was the winner. She spoke exceedingly well on "King John and the Abbot of Canterbury." Her selection was a long one but was well memorized and given with appropriate gestures. Betty must be commended on her fine work.

David Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Flood Reed, was also praised for his work. David is only ten years old and a sixth year student at the Northwest Corner school. His poem on "Work, a Song of Triumph," by Angela Morgan, was a difficult piece to undertake. He recited it very well considering the uneven meter, abundance of adjectives in series and unrhyming lines.

Mr. Connolly, supervisor of North Stonington schools, deserves credit for having conceived the idea of having a field day.

SPARKS FROM RUBBISH FIRE IGNITED FENCE

At 3.05 o'clock Saturday afternoon the fire department was called out by telephone for a small blaze in the rear of No. 359 North Main street, owned by the Atlantic Carton Corp., and occupied by Silvy's filling station. Sparks from a rubbish fire set fire to a fence. The blaze was extinguished with chemical. Acting Chief H. R. Taft, Engine No. 1, Engine No. 2 and Squad A responded.

Heads State Physicians

Dr. William F. Verdi of New Haven eminent surgeon of St. Raphael's hospital, was chosen to head the Connecticut State Medical society at the election of officers held at the 137th annual convention which took place at the Hotel Elton, Waterbury. Dr. Verdi was recently decorated by the Italian government for his brilliant services in the field of surgery.

Cellarway Cover on Fire

A few minutes after 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon Squad A., and the deputy chief's car responded to a call to extinguish a small fire on Bath street. A wooden cover over a cellarway in the sidewalk in front of the New York Electrical Co., store, caught fire, probably from a cizarette butt. A small quantity of chemical was used to extinguish the blaze, with little or no resulting damage.

TEXAS GUARDS CITRUS FROM FRUIT FLY PEST

AUSTIN, Tex., (AP)—Two safeguards have been thrown up by George B. Terrell, Texas commissioner of agriculture, to thwart the spread of Mediterranean fruit flies into the state's citrus-growing regions.

Not only is Florida fruit banned at Texas border points, but Terrell also has ordered that no such fruit already in the state shall be moved to citrus areas. He has urged that all Florida fruit now in the citrus section be moved elsewhere.

Purchasers and dealers have been asked to check all boxes for signs of decayed spots or worm punctures. State inspectors have been ordered to destroy all fruit in localities where traces of the fly may be found.

By Sunday, the length of the day had increased an even six hours, since the shortest days in December.

FORMER SCHOOL TEACHER FOUND SLAIN IN DETROIT

DETROIT, June 3—(AP)—Arms still folded rigidly but peacefully across her breast in the position in which she was found, the body of Miss Mary Haydis Lee, 27, former school teacher and daughter of reputedly wealthy parents in New York city, today was the greatest stumbling block in the path of police investigating her death in a hotel room here yesterday.

The difficulty arose through the apparently paradoxical position of the young woman's body when found and disclosures of subsequent post morten examination.

A maid discovered the girl's death when she entered the room to clean. So normally disposed was the body that the maid several times retreated after looking into the room, believing Miss Lee asleep. Her hands were folded lightly over her breast and a near smile rested on her lips. The bed was unrufried, with sheets still tucked in around the sides.

When she finally approached and discovered Miss Lee was dead the maid summoned hotel officials, who called police. A police surgeon, after cursory examination, declared death due to heart disease and the body was removed to the county morgue.

There, however, another examination disclosed bruises on the neck and face and closer examination showed a broken neck with a traumatic hemorrhage which indicated the fracture occurred before death.

Miss Lee registered at the hotel May 19, and at that time gave her address as Columbus, Ohio. She came here with a crew of magazine solicitors, all of whom are registered at the same hotel. Fellow employes said she did not appear for work yesterday but they believed her asleep.

SAWDUST TURNED INTO FUEL WITH GOOD HEATING QUALITY

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Dr. C. A. Basore, professor of chemistry at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, says he has found a "new fuel," the principal ingredient of which is found in sawdust.

His find resulted from research to accumulate material for a thesis for a degree of doctor of philosophy at Columbia university. He estimated the cost of producing his new fuel at $1.64 per ton.

By heating fine sawdust until partially carbonized, Dr. Basore made briquettes which he claimed had a heating value equivalent to three-fourths the heating power of a like quantity of bituminous coal. Necessary equipment was itemized as a heater and briqueting press.

Dr. Basore believes that the sawdust briquettes would be suitable for manufacturing processes where sulphur and other impurities are objectionable. He said sawmills should be able to produce the marketable fuel at slight expense.

INDIANA LAW OPERATES TO OUST CHICKEN THIEF

INDIANAPOLIS, (AP) — Chicken stealing has passed into the realm of "big business," special laws passed by the last legislature indicate.

Under the new statute dealers are required to be personally acquainted with the persons from whom they buy chickens or to take the name and address of the seller. Its object is to aid in the tracing of stolen poultry. Wholesale thefts are common, says Attorney General James M. Ogden.

Sugar Interests Unite.

LANSING Mich. (AP)—Michigan sugar beet growers and sugar manufacturers, long at odds over prices and crop contract terms, have buried the hatchet—at least until congress completes its work on the proposed revision of sugar tariffs. They formed an alliance to support the demand that the duty on Cuban cane sugar be increased from 1.72 cents a pound to 3 cents. They say Cuba can produce cane for $1 an acre, whereas it costs $60 an acre to grow sugar beets in Michigan.

ROVING TEXAS PASTOR IN MINISTRY 50 YEARS

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—The "pastor of the plains" in western Texas, the Rev. Leander D. Millican, is nearing half a century of service as ambassador of the gospel among ranchmen and cowboys.

"Brother Lallie," as he is known to hundreds, always has preached under supervision of the Baptist Missionary board. Except for a few years in an El Paso pastorate, he has traveled throughout the southwest as a missionary since 1879.

Although 75, "Brother Lallie" has no thoughts of retirement. He has worn out five automobiles in his tours of the last few years.

LAND EXPROPRIATED BY ESTHONIAN LAW

GENEVA (AP)—As a measure of agrarian reform, all large estates in Esthonia have been expropriated for the purpose of providing farms for a large number of persons and to enlarge holdings considered too small to support a family of peasants.

Of the persons formerly employed on large estates 550 applied for land during 1927-28 and 331 received it.

Other applications for land totaled 1,947, but 1,683 of these could not be satisfied legally. The number of new holdings given in tenancy since 1919 amount to 53,976.

POTATO "KINGS" PLANT 5,000 ACRES IN "SPUDS"

SCOTT CITY, Kas., (AP)—Nearly 1,500,000 bushels of potatoes will be grown this year by two Kansans who have built what may be the world's largest farm potato cellar.

C. E. Foster and A. M. Bates, whose names stand for large scale potato production in Kansas, have planted 5,000 acres in "spuds." Last year their first crop totaled 100,000 bushels—the capacity of their cellar. For this year's crop they used 30,000 bushels of the 1928 yield for seed.

The pair literally stumbled on to success as "potato kings." They decided potatoes could be grown for a profit when their car broke down during a tour for new farm land.

KENTUCKY COW SETS NEW HOLSTEIN RECORD

LA GRANGE, Ky. (AP)—A new senior two-year-old Holstein-Fresian record for Kentucky has been made by a cow in the Gray-Von Allmen dairy herd. She produced 19,805.7 pounds of milk and 662.8 pounds of butterfat in 365 days. Farm cows average 129 pounds of butterfat in a year.

A cow in the same herd won the two-day state production record with 5.89 pounds of butterfat. A Jersey owned by H. C. Gingles of Galloway county led the one-day division with 2.32 pounds of fat.

To Study European Schools.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of Pittsburgh public schools, has been granted a three months' leave of absence by the board of eduation, during which time he will tour many countries of Europe studying the school systems. Dr. Davidson will leave here July 1, and will return Sept. 30. While in Switzerland he will attend the International Conference of World Educational Associations at Geneva.

The polls will be open in the four city districts for the city election today from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., daylight time.

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it it is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

BALDWIN BRITISH CABINET TO RESIGN IMMEDIATELY

The Prime Minister Will Take the Resignation of His Government to King George Today—It is Expected That the Premier Will Advise His Majesty to Summon Ramsay MacDonald to Form a New Government—MacDonald Commands the Strongest Single Party in the House, Though He is 21 Votes Short of a Majority Over All Other Parties.

LONDON, June 3—(AP)—Stanley Baldwin, prime minister of England since October 1924 and conservative party leader, today bowed to the will of the nation as expressed in the general elections Thursday, without unnecessary delay.

He will take the resignation of his government tomorrow to King George, on his sickbed at Windsor Castle.

After consultation with the members of his cabinet this afternoon, the premier solved the dilemma confronting the conservatives in parliament by resigning power and leaving the way open for the second labor government in England's history.

Official announcement that Mr. Baldwin had placed the resignation of his ministry in King George's hands, was expected tomorrow or Wednesday.

His decision, debated during the week end at the official country residence of British premiers, "Chequers," puts an end to much speculation about the immediate political future of Great Britain.

There had been rumors that Mr. Baldwin would prefer to face parliament at the head of his cabinet June 25 and thereby force the liberals, who hold the balance of power with their 57 seats in the house, to choose between supporting a government headed by a conservative premier or a labor premier.

The premier chose the more direct method of resignation at Chequers on Sunday, and when he reached Number 10 Downing street this afternoon his mind was made up. He explained his reasons to his colleagues, of whom a majority were already in favor of the course he indicated.

When M. Baldwin sees the king tomorrow, it is expected that he will advice his majesty to summon Ramsay MacDonald, premier of the first labor government in 1924, to form a new ministry. With 267 seats out of 615 in the house of commons, Mr. MacDonald commands the strongest single party in the house, though he is 21 votes short of a majority over all other parties.

Mr. MacDonald is fully ready to accept the task of governing.

He will find it much easier than he found it five years ago. The nine months during which labor held power in 1924 gave him and his colleagues much needed experience in administrative affairs. This time the labor party leaders will not come into office as complete novices.

Mr. MacDonald has ample material in his party to fill all the cabinet posts, and in this respect he will be much less embarrassed than in the formation of his first cabinet.

The most interesting question about a MacDonald ministry is how the labor chieftain will dispose of the portfolio of foreign affairs.

In 1924 he took this portfolio himself, and on the admission even of the opposing parties, he filled it with eminent success and made an excellent impression on the permanent officials of that aristocratic department.

Arthur Ponsonby, under secretary for foreign affairs to Mr. MacDonald then, and Sir Oswald Mosley, son-in-law of the late Lord Curzon, are two others whose names have been mentioned for the post. Both of them belong to the group of aristocratic converts to the labor cause.

One of the most interesting aspects of Mr. Baldwin's prompt decision to resign, is its connection with his majesty's illness. The inference was that the king was not so seriously ill as to be prevented from attending to duties of state.

No reports of cabinet meetings are ever issued for publication, but it was assumed that the cabinet council today decided that, since the state of the king's health did not debar the necessary consultations incident to a change of government, it would be better to resign at once and not irritate the country by opposing its will expressed in the general elections.

SINCLAIR MUST SERVE ADDITIONAL SIX MONTHS

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—After completing his present thirty-day sentence in the district jail for contempt of the senate, Harry F. Sinclair must serve an additional six months on the charges growing out of the jury shadowing which caused the Fall-Sinclair conspiracy mistrial.

Of the others brought to trial in the same contempt of court case, whose appeals were covered in a decision rendered today by the supreme court, William J. Burns alone was exempted from serving the sentence imposed. The court ruled that the evidence failed to show the former head of the Burns Detective agency was in any way responsible for the shadowing and set aside the 15-day jail term which had been imposed upon him.

Henry Mason Day, an assistant to Sinclair who employed the Burns detectives who shadowed the jurors, must serve four months in jail. W. Sherman Burns, who had active charge of the detective agency at the time, must pay the $1,000 fine imposed on him.

Sinclair, now working in the district jail pharmacy, refused to discuss today's decision. District Attorney Leo Rover, who prosecuted the contempt of court case, said the oil magnate would begin serving the second sentence as soon as he had completed the present term. The district attorney said the millionaire would be entitled to five days a month off each sentence for good behavior, which would require him to serve at least 7 and one half months in jail from the time of his commitment May 6.

The supreme court decision was unanimous except that Justice Stone did not participate. He was attorney general while some of the oil scandals cases were before the courts.

LAVA FROM VESUVIUS MOVING TOWARD POMPEII

NAPLES, Italy, June 3—(AP)—Mount Vesuvius, which wiped out the Roman city of Pompeii nearly two thousand years ago, burst into eruption this afternoon and again sent a stream of molten lava in the direction of Pompeii.

The eruption came suddenly from the base of a small cone on the southeast side of the crater and sent a boiling lava flow, nearly 40 feet in width, pouring into "Hell Valley."

The main eruptive cone inside the crater continued its normal activity.

The new lava stream, which was described as strong and plentiful, was not considered a threat to the archaeological treasures contained in the Pompeii excavations, since its main current was directed into "Hell Valley."

On the Pompeii side of Vesuvius, many modern dwellings have crept up the first slopes of the great mountain. These with the excavated streets and houses of Pompeii, buried in A. D. 79, might be threatened again, however, if the lava current should suddenly be augmented by a flow from the big cone.

The "magic mountain" of Vesuvius was last in active eruption in November 1928. Vesuvius then flared up as the disastrous eruption of Mount Etna, in Sicily, died down. Damage done by Mount Etna at that time was subsequently put at $15,500,000, but Vesuvius quieted down without causing anything graver than some disquiet among its human neighbors.

JOHNSTOWN FLOOD HERO COMMITTED SUICIDE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 3—(AP)—Michael Sabel, 65, hero of the Johnstown flood of 1889 in which he was credited with having saved nineteen persons from drowning, committed suicide by hanging in the garage at his East Pittsburgh home today.

Sabel had been brooding over his arrest a week ago for inducing a boy with his automobile, friends said. He was an employe of the Edgar Thompson Steel works.

GREENVILLE, MISS., IS THREATENED BY FLOOD

GREENVILLE, Miss., June 3—(AP)—The threat of a flood stood menacingly before Greenville tonight while business man, planter, Negro and convict worked side by side to save the city and the lower delta from the rampaging waters of the Mississippi.

As night fell hope was expressed that these forces would be able to hold back the pounding waves that shot a spout of sand and water ten feet into the air at 8 a. m. today opening a wide gap in the levee one mile and a half below the city.

The geiser sprang from a sand boil at the foot of the levee which blew out before a guard could summon aid. By a strange quirk of nature the top and sides of the levee immediately dropped into the gap and stopped the rush of water before it hardly had started.

Immediately the alarm was sounded Greenville, precipitating a panic, residents recalled the horrors of the 1927 inundation when the city was under water for several weeks. House wives sought high places for the valuables, store keepers moved their goods to upper floors, new comers and tenderfeet fled the city. The mayor issued orders closing all places of business and called for volunteers to save the city.

Within a short time a thousand men were working laying willow mats, brush and sand bags around the weak spot and started building a loop behind the whole area of 200 by 500 feet.

Before night another thousand men had arrived, including 300 state convicts who were working higher up the river. They planned to toil through the night.

AWAIT AGREEMENT BY BELGIUM AND GERMANY

PARIS, June 3—(AP)—The creditor reparations experts tonight had under consideration a German proposal that the new reparations plan now virtually complete be suspended until settlement of Belgian claims of compensation for paper marks left in that country at the close of the World war. Movement for discussion of this question was already under way today with the naming of plenipotentiaries by the German and Belgian governments.

The German proposal was embodied in a letter from Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief of the German experts, to Chairman Owen D. Young. It was considered at length by the experts this evening without reaching a decision. The deliberations will be resumed tomorrow.

The Belgians still insist that the question must be settled before nature of the conference report, which is otherwise ready, because in their opinion the Germans are unwilling to negotiate unless the marks question is linked with the return of the provinces of Eupen and Malmedy transferred from Germany to Belgium by the treaty of Versailles. They argue that while the Germans reaped no benefit from the devastations for which they are now paying France then did benefit from the gold and securities they took out of Belgium in exchange for paper marks which became worthless.

FLORIDA LEGISLATURE PROTESTS TO U. S. SENATE

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June —(AP)—Official notification of passage of the Florida legislature of a resolution calling upon its members in the United States senate to break the deadlock over the debenture clause in the farm relief bill was telegraphed to President Herbert Hoover, congressional officials and the members themselves today by Secretary of State H. Clay Crawford.

The resolution calls upon Senators Duncan U. Fletcher and Park Trammell to vote against the debenture plan, and thus enable the president to obtain the legislation he seeks designed to aid the farmers of the nation.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

CANTON, China, June 3—(AP)—The government has attempted to place the expense of the present war between Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces directly on the people by ordering property owners to pay a special military tax equivalent to one month's rentals.

WAEREGHEM, Belgium, June 3—(AP)—Memorial services for American dead in the World war were held here yesterday by American, French and Belgian legionnaires. School children sang the American anthem and placed flowers on each of the graves of 367 American soldiers buried here.

AMOY, China, June 3—(AP)—The political situation in southern Fukien province is daily growing more chaotic. Large numbers of persons are pouring into Amoy from the interior, indicating the general uneasiness. The radical element has become assertive as the result of removal of restraint.

SENATE HOLDS POWER ON FARM RELIEF BILL

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—A final decision on farm relief legislation is expected to be asked of congress this week with the senate holding the power to say whether a bill will be sent to President Hoover promptly or whether the export debenture plan is to delay enactment.

Administration leaders confidently asserted today that the conference report on a farm measure, which promises to recommend the elimination of debentures, will be adopted by the senate. If these predictions are borne out, it was held, the president would be able to sign the farm bill within another ten days.

"WET PRESS" ATTACKED BY REV. DR. F. SCOTT M'BRIDE

PITTSBURGH, June 3—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, speaking at the United Presbyterian general assembly today assailed the "wet press" as a menace to prohibition. He also attacked the Heart prohibition substitute plan as insincere.

"Since when did William Randolph Hearst become interested in a plan to enforce prohibition?" McBride asked "and from where did the $25,000 prize money emanate? The so-called Hearst plan is nothing more than a liquor selling plan," the Anti-Saloon leader asserted.

DEGREE FOR MRS. HOOVER FROM SWARTHMORE COLLEGE

SWARTHMORE, Pa., June 3—(AP)—Because Mrs. Herbert Hoover shares a partnership in national and world affairs with her husband, the president, the first lady of the land today received the degree of doctor of letters from Swarthmore college.

Mrs. Hoover was the central figure at the 57th commencement exercises held in the Magill outdoor auditorium.

After the commencement exercises, Mrs. Hoover participated in the exercises of breaking ground for the new Isaac H. Clothier hall on the campus, turning over a spadeful of earth as the throng surrounding her applauded.

LAGOON STARTING TO RUN WITH BOILING WATER

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 3—(AP)—A large lagoon, "Laguna Brava," near the city of Yoro after being dry for many years has suddenly started to fill with boiling water. The heat on the lake bed not yet inundated is so intense that logs thrown in have been consumed and a cloud of smoke hovers over the lagoon. Residents in the city have been alarmed and the government is sending a technical commission to investigate the disturbance.

WATERBURY FAILED TO SUPPORT STOCK COMPANY

WATERBURY, June 3—(AP)—"The Love Test" proved to be the last test for a stock company here as the B. Broadway players for, after seven weeks of productions, the company was suddenly disbanded today and the players left the city. Poor public support was given as the cause. The receipts for the past week were insufficient to pay salaries.

WATERBURY LICENSE FOR OUTDOOR CARNIVALS $100 A DAY

WATERBURY, June 3—(AP)—Determined to keep out of town peddlers and outdoor carnivals from Waterbury, the board of aldermen tonight adopted an ordinance raising the fees for outdoor carnivals from $100 a week to $100 a day and the license rate for peddlers hailing from other cities from $5 a year to $50 a week. It was felt that the almost prohibitive fees would eliminate further complaints of competition and disorder.

Resident peddlers are only required to pay a fee of $5 per year.

PLANE "ALASKA" IS IN CORDOVA HARBOR

CORDOVA, Alaska, June 3—(AP)—The amphibian plane "Alaska" reported lost in the Cape Hinchinbrook area, was in Cordova harbor today taking on fuel for a flight to Seattle. Residents of this city were unable to account for previous rumors at Seward, that the ship was missing.

CHICAGO IRON WORKERS STRIKE SETTLED

CHICAGO, June 3—(AP)—A wage agreement was reached tonight between leaders of striking structural and architectural iron workers and the iron league of Chicago. The agrement, which represents a compromise of the original demands of the workers, has yet to be ratified by the rank and file.

GRANTED DIVORCE FROM MABEL TALIAFERRO O'BRIEN

RENO, Nev., June 3—(AP)—Captain Josephus P. O'Brien, former army officer was divorced here today from Mabel Taliaferro, O'Brien, noted actress, whom he married at Darien, Conn., January 11, 1920. Captain O'Brien testified his wife left him in Hollywood in July, 1927, and later wrote him that she would not return to him. She gave no reason, he said.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR., WEDS JOAN CRAWFORD

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., screen star, and Lucile Fay Le Suer, known on the screen as Joan Crawford, were married today by the Rev. Edward F. Leonard at St. Malachy's Roman Catholic church.

Report Govt [illegible] Buy Surplus Wheat

Grain Prices Soared on Report That $100,000,000 Federal Money is to Be Used to Stabilize Market.

CHICAGO, June 3—(AP)—Reports that $100,000,000 federal government money is about to be directed immediately toward the purchase of surplus wheat sent grain values flying skyward today. Almost in the wink of an eye, amid tumultuous bidding, wheat gained nearly 9c a bushel in value, and although subsequently fluctuating at a rapid rate held about two-thirds of the advance. Rye, corn and oats scored extreme jumps varying from 3 1-2 to 6c a bushel.

In a nervous finish, wheat closed at 5 3-8 to 6 1-8c above Saturday's final figures. Corn closed 3 7-8 to 4 3-8c up, oats 1 3-8 to 1 3-4c advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12c.

Highest prices of the day in all the grain pits was reached right at the opening of business or shortly thereafter. It quickly became apparent that a run-away market was in progress. A famine of offers to sell went hand in hand with intense hunger to buy. Excited brokers with orders to purchase were in many cases frantically trying to get quick ownership at as much as 8c a bushel above the price at which the grain could be obtained for only a few feet away if the confusion prevailing would have permitted.

Even after nearly an hour of wildly swinging prices, the market was still switching violently, changes of a cent a bushel inside of a few seconds being of frequent occurrence. No such similar experience was recalled by veteran traders except during the World war and on other occasions when the market had suddenly been confronted by unlooked for developments.

Most traders had been expecting a decided advance in wheat values today, but relatively few persons were prepared for the extraordinary momentum of the buying rush today that forced the market into an almost perpendicular climb. All factors other than news from Washington received scant attention. Meanwhile, about the only sellers were traders who were willing to let go of holdings which had been acquired earlier at a lower level and which showed a handsome profit.

Unofficial monthly crop estimates issued today contained various features which ordinarily would tend to bring about lower prices, but on the whole the estimates so far as they received notice were construed as helpful to an advance. The principal stimulating aspect was that the average of the estimates although pointing to a likelihood of 53,000,000 bu. larger domestic winter wheat crop than a year ago was more than counterbalanced by a prospect of 72,000,000 bu. decrease in winter states spring wheat yield. Further unwelcome rains in the harvest region southwest counted also on the side of higher prices.

In some quarters, today's advance of the wheat market was said to have put domestic wheat out of line for export abroad. Such considerations, however, were virtually disregarded in view of Washington advices which were current, and so too was ignored the fact that the Liverpool wheat market today closed at only an ordinary upturn of 1 to 2 pence per bushel.

Corn, oats and rye received their advances today from the same influences that governed wheat. A huge amount of buying of corn as well as of other grain came from recent speculative sellers. Visible supplies of corn showed 2,637,000 bu. decrease for the week.

Provisions inclined upward, reflecting the course both of grain values and of hogs.

OIL CONSERVATION NOW FACES A COURT TEST

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—President Hoover's oil conservation program faces a court test with the filing in the District of Columbia supreme court today a mandamus suit by Ethel M. McLennan, of Sacramento, Calif., challenging the legality of Secretary Wilbur's action in cancelling her application for a permit to prospect for oil and gas without having given her a hearing.

In her suit, which named Secretary Wilbur as defendant, the Sacramento woman maintained she was duly qualified under the leasing act to hold a prospecting permit and argued that the interior secretary had exceeded his authority in directing that her application be rejected.

SAY MRS. TUNNEY IS ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—Mrs. Edwin Dewing, whose sister is the wife of Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion, returned today from abroad where she was with Mrs. Tunney during the latter's recent illness, and said that her sister was on the road to recovery but needed a long rest. The Tunney's, she said, are expected to return to America in the fall.

Mr. Dewing expressed the opinion that Tunney would continue to live a life of leisure as it is his opinion that he made enough money in the ring and any more would be ostentatious.

KING GEORGE PASSED A COMFORTABLE DAY

WINDSOR, England, June 3—(AP)—King George today passed a comfortable 64th birthday with considerable periods of restful sleep despite the recent appearance of an abscess where an old lung incision had been made. The official statement announcing this was issued from the castle tonight and a cheerful atmosphere prevailed regarding the royal patient.

Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Stanley Hewett motored from London this afternoon and saw their patient for nearly two hours.

WELLESLEY SOPHOMORE COMMITTED SUICIDE

No motive has been discovered, nor did she leave a farewell note of any kind. She was in good health and in good standing in her classes, college officials reported.

The girl's body was discovered this morning in her dormitory room. Her father, F. W. McBride, of Weston, W. Va., has been notified.

Lindberghs Spending Honeymoon On Yacht

The Motorboat Put Into Block Island Saturday to Take on Supplies—Trail Lost.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 3—(AP)—The honeymoon trail of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is a path across the waters of Long Island sound.

This was revealed today when Louis Rounds, skipper of a motorboat that plies between New London and Block Island, told of helping the flying colonel dock a new motor yacht at Block Island to take on supplies Saturday.

Rounds' report led to discovery that Col. Lindbergh had indeed bought a small yacht just a week before his secret marriage to Miss Anne Morrow, daughter of Ambassador to Mexico Dwight W. Morrow, a week ago today in the Morrow home in Englewood, N. J.

While reporters were searching for the famous flier and the ambassador's daughter on land and in the air or on board the yacht of one of his wealthy friends, the honeymoon pair slipped quietly down to the waterfront and sailed away in their own boat, purchase of which had been kept a close secret.

Their trail was not picked up until today and then it was a cold trail, two days old and leading out over the broad waters. So the Lindbergh's still enjoyed their hard won privacy.

Rounds said he recognized the aviator despite dark sun glasses and that Lindbergh acknowledged his identity when questioned. Rounds' mate and a taxi driver were also told by the flier who he was.

When Lindbergh purchased his yacht, a 52-foot double cabin craft designed for owner operation, he enjoined the builders to secrecy. They acknowledged today, however, that a recently built boat of the name Mouette the name noticed by Rounds, had been sold although they were not at liberty to tell to whom. From other sources it was learned that Lindbergh not only bought the boat from the Elco works in Bayonne, N. J., but that he had taken instruction in its operation from the company. For despite his proficiency operating planes in the sky and automobiles on the ground, he was a novice as a yachtsman.

TRACING MOVEMENTS OF LINDBERGH AND BRIDE

NORFOLK, Conn., June 3—(AP)—The movements of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his bride of a week, the former Anne S. Morrow, were definitely traced back to Saturday here today, when it became known that the couple had dinner in New York city Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Bench, of Englewood, N. J., with whom they are believed to have motored to the home of George B. Case, here, in the evening. Mrs. Bench is the daughter of Mr. Case, a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan and company and a friend of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, father of Mrs. Lindbergh. It was Mr. Case who stalled today that the Lindberghs and the Benches had dinner Saturday in New York city.

Prof. Michael Pupin of Columbia university, a summer resident here and a friend of the Cases, is authority for the statement that Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh motored from New York city Saturday in Mr. Case's car. The couple were in town here for two days, he said, but left late yesterday. Mr. Case himself left for New York city today at noon, although he did not close his house here, one of the most beautiful estates in this town of charming summer homes.

TO DIRECT NEGOTIATIONS WITH BELGIUM ON MARKS

BERLIN, June 3—(AP)—Appointment of Dr. Erwin Ritter, economic expert of the reparations division of the foreign office to direct negotiations with Belgium on the marks problem was made today almost coincident with delivery of a note by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht to Chairman Owen D. Young at Paris outlining German proposals for settlement of that problem.

Belgian circles here had declared that Dr. Schacht had at first refused to enter negotiations on the mark question at Paris until instructed by Berlin that he had been appointed to act in dual capacity on both the Belgian and reparations questions.

THREATENING LETTERS TRACED TO CUSTOMS GUARD

BOSTON, June 3—(AP)—The Boston Herald in a copyrighted article tomorrow will say that post office inspectors have traced the source of threatening letters sent recently to Constance Morrow, daughter of Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, and other prominent persons, to a waterfront customs guard here.

The Herald will say that the guard was formerly an orderly and valet to General Clarence R. Edwards, wartime commander of the 26th Division and that he was for many years a decoder in the war department at Washington.

SOVIET CONTRACTS WITH TWELVE AMERICAN FIRMS

Chief Contract is With the Ford Motor Co.—Runs For Nine Years, Calling For the Purchase of About $30,000,000 Worth of Ford Cars and Parts Annually—Also For the Construction of an Automobile Factory in Soviet Russia—Soviet Officials Regard the Transaction as an Important Forward Step Toward Closer Relations Between Their Government and American Business.

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—Regarded by soviet authorities as the most forward step in two years toward a closer relation between their government and American business, soviet contracts with more than twelve American firms have been signed. The details involving millions were announced today.

Chief among the agreements is a nine year contract with the Ford Motor company calling for the purchase of about $30,000,000 worth of Ford cars and parts and the construction in the U. S. S. R. of an automobile factory to produce annually 100,000 Ford cars and trucks. The other contracts call for technical assistance, especially American engineering consultation on soviet projects.

The Ford contract was signed last Friday at Dearborn, Mich. Announcing its details today Valery I. Meshlauk, vice chairman of the supreme economic council of the soviet union, said that with the other agreements it constituted one of the greatest soviet advances with American business and the greatest advance in at least two years.

The contract provides for technical cooperation between the Ford company and the soviety automobile trust for five years after the completion of the factory at Nishni-Novgorod on the Volga river, which is expected to be put in operation within four years. Pending completion of the plant the demand for automobiles will be supplied chiefly by imports, and more particularly through the purchase of about $30,000,000 worth of the Ford product for the next four years.

The soviet union now possesses only 20,000 cars, Meshlauk said, although he cited as an indication that the situation is improving the fact that this year $150,000,000 has been appropriated for road construction.

Other contracts included those with:

Hugh L. Cooper company, New York, consulting engineers for building of new coal mines, retuilding of old ones and installation of modern equipment.

H. J. Freyn Engineering company, New York, consulting engineers for designing steel mills to cost more than $1,000,000,000.

Radio Corporation of America, for exchange of patents and other technical information.

International General Electric company, for technical assistance and exchange of patents.

Nitrogen Engineering company, New York, for technical assistance in erecting a nitrogen fertilizer factory.

Longacre Engineering and Construction company, New York, technical assistance and supervision over the construction of apartment houses in Moscow.

Arthur Davis, Oakland, Calif., chief consulting engineer on irrigation project in soviety central Asia.

McCormick company, New York, designing of a large baking plant in Moscow.

Albert Kahn, Inc., Detroit, designing of the Stalingrad tractor factory to produce 40,000 tractors annually.

J. H. YEOMANS APPOINTED CORONER TOLLAND COUNTY

HARTFORD, June 3—(AP)—John H. Yeomans, a Hartford lawyer and son of Judge Edward M. Yeomans, of Andover, was appointed coroner of Tolland county by the judges of the supreme and superior courts today, to succeed John E. Fahey of Rockville, who declined to accept re-appointment after holding the office many years.

A. Storrs Campbell, of Enfield, a practicing lawyer of Hartford, was appointed one of the five members of the state bar examining committee to fill the unexpired term of James E. Cooper, of New Britain, resigned. George E. Dunn, of Rockville, was appointed a messenger of the Tolland county superior court to succeed Patrick H. Cratty, deceased. These were the only three changes in the expected list of annual appointments in the administrative branch of the judiciary system.

Mr. Yeomans is a member of the firm of Spellacy, Whelan and Yeomans, of which his father Judge Yeomans, was formerly a member. He is a graduate of Harvard Law school and is said to have passed the bar examinations of this state with the highest standing the year he entered.

SUPREME COURT DECISION ON FED. INCOME TAXES

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—Federal income taxes, when paid by others in behalf of the person taxed, are taxable as part of the income of the person whose interest the taxes were paid, the supreme court decided today in favor of two cases from Massachusetts.

The Maine railroad, having under lease the Fitchburg railroad, paid $65,000 as income tax of the latter for 1917. The American Woolen company paid approximately $1,000,000 as income and surtax on the income of its president, the late William M. Wood, for 1918 and 1919.

The federal circuit court of appeals asked instructions as to whether payment of these taxes constituted additional taxable income to the Fitchburg railroad and to William M. Wood. In the former instance the federal district court had held payment did not constitute additional taxable income while in the latter the board of tax appeals held it was additional taxable income.

HOUSE TAKES UP THE SENATE CENSUS BILL

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—The question of allotting its seats among the states to correspond to the changes in population that have occurred since the 1910 census stirred the house today as it took up the senate census and reapportionment bill.

Various proposals for changes were made but there were no indications of what support could be mustered for them. Advocates of the combined measure described it as largely similar to the two bills authorizing the census and reapportionment passed separately by the house last year.

The measure provides for a report on the 1930 population count to be made at the opening of the second session of the 71st congress and for an automatic re-allocation of house seat if action is not taken by congress.

COURT DECIDES IN FAVOR OF THE NEGRO SHRINERS

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—White Shriners lost by delay their right to challenge in the courts the use of their insignia, ritual and emblems by the Negro organization known as the Ancient Egyptian Arabic order of the Mystic Shrine, under a decision handed down today by the supreme court.

Ruling in favor of the Negro organization, the court maintained the controlling question was whether the white Shriners has acquiesced so long without protest as to have lost their right to object. The opinion was read by Justice Van Devanter and no dissent was announced.

IMPROVEMENT IS REPORTED IN THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY

BOSTON, June 3—(AP)—The rate of New England business activity during April was the highest on record for that month, the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, reported in its monthly review today. However, that was a moderate recession the report said, from the usually high level which had been maintained throughout the first three months of 1929.

"The general business situation in New England," the report continued, "as measured by physical volume, during April, continued to reflect a distinct slowing up in certain lines of industry, and the declines which took place in March from February in car loadings, in residential building and in boot and shoe production continued more intensively in April.

"Furthermore, there was a decided decrease in the volume of contracts for commercial and industrial building from April and March, production of fine cotton goods was curtailed considerably. On the other hand, the principal sustaining influences, were electric power production, cotton consumption, wool consumption and silk machinery activity, all of which showed increases from March during April, when allowances were made for customary seasonal changes.

"Activity in the New England textile industry has increased during recent weeks, and whereas this industry was lagging behind other New England industries earlier in the year, it has recently shown a steady improvement.

"Sales of New England department stores in April were slightly ahead of April, 1928, and preliminary reports on May trade also indicate a gain over a year ago."

WEATHER UNFAVORABLE FOR CROSS OCEAN FLIGHTS

OLD ORCHARD, Me., June 3—(AP)—The French plane Yellow Bird, which will head for Paris when weather permits, today was taken into the air on the second and third flights since it was brought here two weeks ago.

Jean Assolant and Rene Lefevre, two of the three members of the crew, took the big ship out for 20 minutes to test the fuel mixture and its radio. Lefevre contented himself with sending out the call letters "FAX" several times. The naval radio station at Cape Elizabeth reported that the signals came in with good volume.

When the two brought the plane to the ground they said one of the cylinders had been misfiring most of the time. Mechanics found that a cloth inserted in one of the breather pipes to keep the sand out had been left there and been sucked down into the pipe.

Dr. James W. Kimball, of the New York weather bureau, reported "continued poor conditions" which will hold the planes here until Wednesday, at least. The two planes were tied down for the night on the beach, with gasoline drums used as anchors.

TWO MEN KILLED IN FREIGHT TRAIN WRECK

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., June 3—(AP)—Two men were killed late today as 18 cars of Erie railroad fast freight number 86, piled up at Graham's Cut, two miles north of here. The dead were Charles F. Smith, 31 Hill street, Springfield, Mass., and an unidentified companion of Smith. Albert James, of 3012 Stiles street, Philadelphia, who with those killed, was "beating his way" on the train, was uninjured.

Alfred Moon, of Port Jervis, a trainman, was slightly injured. He was in the caboose, neither the engineer, F. A. Smith, nor J. J. Harrington, fireman, was injured. Both are of Port Jervis.

The 18 cars, loaded with coal or huge iron pipes, were near the center of the 110 car freight train. They were twisted and sprawled across the two-track way in gigantic confusion. The tracks were ripped up.

Persons living near the cut pulled Smith in a dying condition from the wreckage.

Grady of North street extension for his bride at a pretty wedding ceremony performed at St. Joseph's church this morning by Rev. Henry E. Quinn, the pastor. Rev. Father Quinn celebrated a nuptial high mass at 9 o'clock. The attendants were James H. Aspinwall, Jr., of Bridgeport, brother of the groom, as best man, and Mrs. Theresa Payne of Mamaroneck, N. Y., a cousin of the bride, as matron of honor. The bride was daintily gowned in yellow georgette crepe with hat to correspond. Her shower bouquet was of bridal roses. Miss Payne, matron of honor, was attired in green georgette with hat to match and she carried yellow roses.

A reception and wedding breakfast was held in a tea room here with guests present from Norwich, Bridgeport, New York, New Bedford, Pawtucket, Holyoke, Mass., and this city. Mr. and Mrs. Aspinwall will tour to points of interest in New York state, returning June 10, when they will be at home to their friends at 443 Center street, South Manchester. The bride's travelling ensemble was of blue georgette.

Mr. and Mrs. Aspinwall are both well known here. They received many gifts of silver, checks, china, linen, etc. The groom is employed in Hartford while the bride has been employed in a clerical capacity in the costing department of the American Thread company.

Martineau-Millette

St. Mary's church was the scene of a pretty wedding at 9 o'clock this morning when Miss Aline Irene Millette, daughter of Mrs. C. F. Millette of 100 South street became the bride of Amedee Martineau of Hartford. Rev. E. A. Mathieu officiated at the ceremony and was celebrant of the nuptial high mass. Albert Girouard of a Hartford, a friend of the groom, was best man and Miss Agnes Turcotte, intimate friend of the bride, was maid of honor. The bride was charming in a gown of white georgette with a veil of the Belgian style. She carried bridal roses. Her attendant was attired in a gown of Nile green with hat to harmonize and she carried Ophelia roses.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Guests came from Chicopee and Willimansett, Mass. Hartford, New York and this city. Upon their return from an unannounced honeymoon the couple will reside in Hartford where the groom is employed by the Hartford Rubber company. The bride wore a pretty ensemble going away. Up to recently the bride was employed at the Rossie Velvet company and she commands a wide circle of friends in this city. Numerous gifts were presented the couple.

A continuance of one week was ordered in police court this morning in the case of William A. Richmond, 56, of this city, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. The continuance was granted upon request of the accused who was arrested early Sunday morning by Officer Leo Piche. During the court session Napoleon Goulet of Fall River, Mass., was arraigned on a charge of reckless driving and the minimum fine of $25 and costs was imposed. Goulet was arrested by State Policeman Frank A. Starkel of the Stafford Springs barracks. Disposition was made of three cases of intoxication, two of the accused being taken to the county jail at Brooklyn when they were unable to pay their fine and costs.

CHILDREN'S DAY SERVICE AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Children's day was observed at the Congregational church Sunday morning exercises being carried out by the younger classes in Sunday school. The decorations included a lavish display of beautiful iris from the gardens of John G. Bromley and Mrs. G. A. Ross of Lisbon, and Mrs. W. H. Payne of Jewett City. In addition there were swamp apple blossoms, wild geranium, quantities of pink lady slippers, ferns, and pyrus arbutifolia. Canaries and a pair of love-birds were an added attraction. The decorations were done by Belle Ellis and Mrs. Edith Soule, assisted by members of their classes. During the service Marian Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Geer was christened. Bibles were given according to the provisions of the will of H. L. Reade, to baptized children of the church who have reached the age of seven. This year they are, Ruth Richmond, Watie Wyantt, David Goodenough and Harold Tomlinson. The offering was received by Donald McNicol, Leonard Shackleton, Raymond Synington and Ralph Goodenough. The program, arranged by Mrs. F. E. Robinson, assisted by Mrs. Edith Soule, Mrs. Belle Ellis, Mrs. Walter Benjamin, Miss Lonetta Alley and Mrs. E. H. Hinsox, included: Opening chorus, "Gifts of Summer"; responsive reading, Girls' class; prayer, Rev. Mr. Goodenough; song, "Rejoice"; recitations, "Good Morning," Estelle Ellis; "Our Guide," David Goodenough; song, "This is Children's Day"; recitation, Bernice McNicol; song, "Children's Day"; primary department; recitation, "The Children's day train," Watie Wyatt; solo, "Pretty Fluffy Daffodil," Ruth Mae Benjamin; song, "Gifts of Summer"; recitations, Corinne Zeeger; "Dahlias", Helen Bromley; song, "I Know He Cares"; recitations, "Bee Cheery", Barbara Payne; "Thank God," Agnes Broadfoot; song, "Summer Breezes"; recitation, Kenneth Carpenter; solo, "Happy Children's day", Beatrice Dominique; recitation, Harold Tomlinson, assisted by David Goodenough and Herbert Webster; song, "The Garden of the Heart"; recitation, "Happy Hearts", Beatrice Dominique; exercise, Mrs. Soule's class; exercise, light rays, Mrs. Ellis' class; talk by Rev. G. F. Goodenough; song, "Children of the King; benediction.

The mercury dropped to 48 at sunrise, Sunday. The rare day in June, was enjoyed by everybody going somewhere at sometime. State highway traffic here was up to the peak in mid-afternoon, with well over 300 cars an hour passing until late evening.

Jewett City is off to a good start for home baseball. No less than a half dozen teams are on the diamonds every day. Judging from their names: Rough Necks, Terrors, All Stars and Stone Walls, they should be an invincible aggregation.

Miss Ellen C. Faust left Saturday for Andover to participate in the Centennial fete of the founding of Abbot academy.

Mrs. Anna Cummings returned to her home in Brooklyn, Conn., Friday, after spending the winter with her cousin, Miss M. A. Burdick. The latter accompanied her for a few days' visit.

TEJERO of Barcelona

Beauty Adviser by Appointment to 3 Reigning Queens advises daily use of Palmolive Soap

Spanish beauties have long known the exquisite value of olive oil. Scientifically blended with palm oils, it has the greatest beauty effect in Palmolive Soap

"Regular cleansing twice a day with Palmolive Soap is my advice to my clients. The effect of the pure palm and olive oils in this soap keeps the skin always in the proper condition."

Luis Tejero
BARCELONA

IN SPAIN, the country of olive-skinned beauty, care of the skin is entrusted to men who are not only beauty specialists but dermatologists as well. Of these, one of the highest in rank is Tejero, of Barcelona.

A skin specialist of renown, Tejero studied at the faculty of medicine at Zaragoza. He holds a surgeon's diploma and has practiced his profession in Paris and London—in Berlin and Brussels—in Vienna, Budapest and Prague.

Tejero's distinguished clientele

In Paris he was privileged to attend the Queen of Holland and her daughter. In Belgium he served Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth. He has, of course, attended the Queen of his native Spain . . . and his many distinguished patrons include not only Ladies-in-Waiting from all the Courts of Europe and the Castilian aristocracy, but numerous celebrated artists of the stage and musical world.

Senor Tejero always prescribes Palmolive for home treatment and attributes much of his success to the fact that his clients follow this advice:

"No skin can remain healthy for long unless it is thoroughly cleansed twice a day with soap and water," says this famous Spanish authority. "The effect of the pure palm and olive oils in Palmolive Soap is to penetrate gently but deep down into the pores . . . and to soothe and rejuvenate the tissues."

Other international authorities who prefer Palmolive and stress the value of its olive oil content include Cavalieri, of Paris; Jacobson, of London; Attilio of Rome—and hundreds of the leading beauty artists of the world. Act upon their advice this very evening. A radiant complexion will be your reward.

Maids of Paris recommend, as do the great beauty culturists of Europe and America, twice daily "foundation cleansing"—the massage with rich, warm Palmolive lather for two minutes, followed by warm, then icy cold water.

DANIELSON

E. C. P. TO BUILD NEW SUB STATION AT WAUREGAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 3—More electrical energy generated by the waters of the Quinebaug river is to be passed into the lines of the Eastern Connecticut Power company. This time it is to be picked up at the plant of the Waureagan mills, where the stream develops a maximum of 1800 horse power and produces 1200 kilowatts of electric power. A sub-station is to be built there and the necessary installations made to make the power available by August 1.

This is no innovation in this territory, merely the picking up by the power company of aditional energy at a new point. The arrangement is for the power company to get this energy during the night season, when the mill is not operating, and on Saturday afternoons and Sundays, when the mills are closed—to use the water that is eternally flowing down the river during hours of the day and night when it is not being used to operate machinery in the big mill. Under the arrangement the mill gets a financial return and a consequent lower net cost of its own power. The Eastern Connecticut Power company has a similar arrangement with the Quinebaug mills and Powdrell and Alexander in Danielson, with the Putnam Woolen company, with the Farnsworth company at Central Village and with mills in Jewett City. The arrangement also will be extended this year to mills in Voluntown and Glasgo, to which communities the power company will build lines this year.

The arrangement is significant of the progress being made in developing electrical energy from eastern Connecticut streams and of the ever increasing demand for electric power for many purposes all through this eastern section of the state.

Advices from Aberdeen, South Dakota, tell of the continued rise to even greater prominence than has been his in the banking business in the northwest for many years of John C. Bassett, who began his business career as a clerk for the railroad company in Danielson many years ago. Mr. Bassett is now an outstanding figure in a merger of the Aberdeen National bank and the First State Savings bank, of that city with the First Bank Stock Investment company, a holding company recently organized by the First National bank of St. Paul and the First National bank of Minneapolis to co-ordinate the activities of the leading banks in the Ninth Federal Reserve district. Mr. Bassett is chairman of the board of the Aberdeen National bank and president of the First State Savings bank. He becomes a director in the holding company under the affiliation plan.

At the registered shoot held June 2nd, fifteen shooters took part and enjoyed a fine day of shooting.

In the 16 yard targets, L. H. Bradley, West Hartford, was high with 95, C. F. Peabody, New London 2nd with 94, and E. C. Griffith 3rd with 93. In the distance Griffith was high with 44, and Bradley, Carter, Stapleton and Tebo tied for 2nd with 43.

Tebo won the doubles with 45, Bradley 3rd with 44.

The scores follow:

x—Professional.

50—Distance—Griffith 44, Bradley 43, Carter 43, Stapleton 43, Tebo 43, Ingalls 41, Buck 40, Todd 40, Peabody 38, Prest 32.

50—Doubles—Tebo 45, Bradley 44, Baldwin 39, Griffith 36, Stapleton 33.

This is the first time that Geo. Ingalls, 14 years of age, has taken part in a registered shoot and his score would indicate that it will be only a short time before he will be able to look out for himself in the game.

Delegations from various points in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island held a conference at Plainfield Sunday afternoon to again take up various controversial matters that had an airing a week ago today at the biennial convention of the Franco-American union of Connecticut in Hartford. At the Plainfield meeting the supreme board of the Union St. John Baptist came in for criticism for selecting the location on which the supreme bureau building stands in Woonsocket and for their refusal to give out the names of the presidents and secretaries of the various councils of the Union St. John Baptist. These names were withheld, it is said, because of the belief that these officers would be circularized with material opposing the re-election of the present supreme officers when the society holds its convention later this year. Names of three men to oppose present supreme officers were presented for consideration. Union St. John Baptist members here said today that those meeting at Plainfield Sunday are representative of a group desiring to gain control of the order, which has thousands of members in eastern and middle western states.

At a session of the town court lasting from 10:30 this morning until 12:45, five cases were heard and disposed of by Judge W. Fenner Woodward. All were of the type known as motor vehicle cases. Delor Aubin, 16, of Killingly, was charged with operating a motor vehicle without having proof of financial responsibility. He was fined $1.00, and costs. It is the policy of the state to enforce this regulation in instances where minors are operating motor vehicles. William LaPorte of Thompson was fined $5 for operating a car with defective brakes. Napoleon Harrede of this town was charged with operation of a motor vehicle without having a registration and also with changing a registration. He was fined $1.00 on each count and actual costs.

James Carbery of Providence, operator of a Rhode Island jitney car, appeared to answer to a charge that he operated his car in this state without having a special license from the commissioner of motor vehicles of Connecticut. Carbery explained that he had come out the Providence road to give assistance to a crippled car; that he had no intention of entering Connecticut, but not meeting the car he was seeking, did so. His case was nolled.

Patrick Minehan of Willimantic was found not guilty of operating a motor vehicle while he was intoxicated. Minehan's car was involved in a minor accident in this town a week ago Sunday and later was ordered into court to face the charge of which he was found guilty this morning. State officers and others testified as to their opinions that he was intoxicated at the time of the accident. Another group of witnesses testified that he was completely sober and that there was no smell of intoxicants from his breath. In view of all the evidence, Judge Woodward found him not guilty. Mr. Minehan was represented by Attorney Harry E. Enok.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Wood of White Plains, N. Y., have taken a home at Brooklyn for the summer season and are now there with their children.

When the Westfield Men's Club meets Friday evening the members will hear a travel talk by Burdette C. Hopkins, a delegate to the recent International Rotary gathering at Dallas, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Lane motored to Worcester yesterday to be guests of Rev. and Mrs. Marvin Gibson. At the church service they attended Mrs. Lane sang a contralto solo.

Union services under the auspices of the Danielson Federation of Churches will be held regularly Sunday evenings from now on.

A set of the smaller denomination bills to be issued by the treasury department about July 10, has been received at the Windham County National bank and are on display. The set includes a one, a two, a five and a ten dollar bill. The bills are about two-thirds the size of those in present use.

The June Church Family night at the Westfield Congregational church is scheduled for Tuesday evening. A feature of the evening's program will be games for the boys and girls, under the direction of Miss Priscilla Brooks. During the formal program period several members of the church family will discuss the subject Why I Believe in the Church.

Joseph Cloutier, who is in charge of the purchasing department of supplies at Notre Dame college, South Bend, Ind., is visiting here with his brother, Edward Cloutier. Mr. Cloutier made the trip from South Bend to Danielson, a distance of well over 1,000 miles, in two days.

Several arrests were made in the town of Plainfield yesterday, those taken into custody being engaged in distributing literature such as caused the arrest of men here the past month and their later appearance in a justice's court in Brooklyn, where fines were imposed and appeals taken to the superior court.

Howard C. Baker of Attleboro returned to his home today after visiting with friends here since Memorial day.

Vincent Jones of Mount Vernon, N. Y., who passed the week end at the summer home of the family, returned home Sunday evening.

Children's Day Plans

Children's day will be observed Sunday next at the time of the morning service, at the Community M. E. church, with a special program being prepared under direction of Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, superintendent of the junior department of the school.

The church calendar Sunday had notices of an entertainment under the auspices of the Epworth League and an all day meeting of the Ladies' Aid society, June 14th. The meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society is scheduled for Tuesday of the same week.

Rev. and Mrs. Horace B. Sloat and sons, Milton and Harold, of Hartford, who have been spending a few days at their summer cottage on the Bluff, returned home Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McLeer and daughter, Miss Virginia and their son, Kenneth, with a guest, of Brooklyn, N. Y., passed the holiday and week end at their summer cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Earo and children, Mary and Raymond, of Groton, former residents here, called on Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Herman on the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. B. DuMont of Montclair, N. J., accompanied by their son, Donald and a friend, motored here for a visit at their summer cottage over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Gunuskey, of the Long Cove district, entertained Mrs. Gunuskey's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Rogers, their daughter, Mrs. E. J. Mahoney and her son, Jack, and Miss Clara Robbins, of Springfield, Mass., for the day recently.

Guest From California

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Miller are entertaining Mrs. Miller's sister, Mrs. C. W. Johnston, of Santa Monica, Calif., who arrived here Friday. Mrs. Miller's mother, Mrs. Marie Sorensen, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Anton Larsen and family in Boston, returned the same day with her son, Soren Sorensen of Holte, Denmark, who will continue his visit here.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene LaFontaine, Charles LaFontaine and Miss Grace A. Chapman, of the Allyns Point section, called on Rev. James M. Potter, a former pastor of the Gales Ferry M. E. church and Mrs. Potter at Warehouse Point on the holiday.

Attorney and Mrs. Horace H. Sears returned to their home at Hastings-on-the-Hudson, Monday morning following a few days' visit at their summer cottage, on Allyn road. Their son, Alfred Dana Sears joined them here for a visit over Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. A. C. Risdon and maid, arrived from New York Thursday and opened the family home for the season. Mrs. Delphine Pign, who has been the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Brooks, in Hartford, returned home Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks who motored here with her, remained over the week end.

Mrs. Harry Knowlton, of New London, was entertained by Mrs. Joab B. Rogers on the holiday.

Mrs. Charles F. Bartlett and daughters, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt and Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt, with the latter's children, Harold, Ruth and Florence Eugenia, attended the Memorial exercises at Uncasville.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Parker, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Hall and daughter, Betty Ray, of West Haven, over the week end.

Apples from Virginia are staple fruit in markets of London.

PUTNAM

BEAUSOLIEL ACQUITTED BUT HIS EMPLOYE IS FINED

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 3—Theodore Beausoliel, proprietor, and Samual Ali, employe, who were arrested Saturday evening in a liquor raid conducted by local police were arraigned in police court before Judge M. H. Geissler this morning. Beausoliel was charged with owning and keeping and sale of intoxicating beverages, while similar charges were pressed against his employee. All took the stand and pleaded guilty to the charges and received a fine of $100 on each count making a total of $200.

When Beausoliel was put to plea he denied that any liquor was ever sold in his place of business by him and had no knowledge of his employee conducting a speakeasy. At this time Ali whose plea of guilty had been accepted, arose and testified that he owned the contraband found by the police. With this out and no evidence available to further charges against Beausoliel court authorities absolved him of responsibility and the case was dropped.

At a late hour this afternoon Ali was unable to raise the amount to pay his fine and was detained at the local police station.

One other case, that of a local man who was arrested Saturday evening on a charge of intoxication was tried this morning. The defendent was found guilty and was committed to the county jail in Brooklyn to serve a sentence of 60 days.

L. T. Thompson, of Putnam, was arrested Sunday evening by Officer Alpherie Sponcey of the local police on a charge of indecent assault upon small children. He was given a hearing before Judge M. H. Geissler this morning, which was held in chambers and the case was ordered continued for a period of two weeks pending a further investigation by police authorities.

In the display windows of all local banks specimens of the new United States currency which is to be issued on July 10 are exhibited. The bright shiny bills much smaller in size are attracting a great deal of attention from passersby.

Officials of the local banks said this afternoon that none of the new money will be distributed before the 10th day of July and it will be several weeks after that date before the small size currency becomes common tender, especially in the small communities.

Miss Emma Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hall of Farrows street, has been accepted as a student nurse at the Hartford hospital nurses training school. Miss Hall received her cap at special exercises of her class held Friday evening in Heublien hall in Hartford. She is a graduate of Putnam high school class of 1928 and for the past year has been a student at the Hartford hospital.

Mrs. Albert Hall was present at the graduating exercises.

Private Henry Bugbee of the U. S. Marine corps, stationed in Cape Haitien Republic of Haiti, former Putnam boy was among the number of sea soldiers of the garrison at Cape Haitien to become stricken with the tropical disease known as Black Water fever. In letters received from Private Bugbee by Putnam friends he writes that a number of his buddies died. Private Bugbee said that those who recovered were confined for several weeks to a marine hospital within the garrison.

Miss Majorie Bradford of South Main street was in Worcester Saturday.

Commencement exercises opened today at the Howe-Marot school for girls at Thompson and will continue until Wednesday when graduation will take place. The students at the school will leave sometime Wednesday for their home in the various parts of New York and New England.

Graduation and commencement at Pomfret school for boys will begin next week and will continue until Thuraday, June 13.

BOY STRICKEN BLIND AFTER PICTURE SHOW

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 3—Albert Laflamme of North Grosvenordale youngest son of Cleophus Laflamme of North Grosvenrdale, was stricken with blindness Saturday evening as he stepped from a bus near the terminal in North GrosGrosvenordale. Mr. Laflamme had spent the early hours of Saturday evening in Putnam where he had attended a movie show. He took passage on the 10 o'clock bus for North Grosvenordale. As he departed from the bus he complained to the driver that a cloud of darkness had suddenly come over him and that he could see nothing. The driver escorted him to an ice cream parlor opposite the terminal where his brother Octave was called to assist him to his home.

The youth was taken to a Danielson eye specialist this morning where an attempt to restore his sight was made. Little information concerning the case could be obtained tonight and what transpired during the day was comparatively unknown.

Mr. Laflamme is eighteen years of age and has been in ill health since the tragic deaths of his mother and sister-in-law who were killed on the Providence pike road in an auto accident early in January.

Miss Pauline Bousquet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Bousquet of Chassey street, and Lionel Brunelle, son of Mrs. Celina Brunelle of Pomfret street, were united in marriage at St. Mary's church this morning. Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's officiated at the ceremony.

The bride's gown was of white satin trimmed with Spanish lace. She wore a full length veil which was trimmed with clusters of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Following the ceremony a reception was held in St. John's hall on Providence street. The couple left late today on a wedding trip to New York city and Washington.

Town Tax Collector Irving H. Miron said this afternoon that a total of $137,860 in taxes levied on the grand list of the town of Putnam for 1928 has been collected and deposited into the town treasury. The amount represents more than one half of the total amount to be collected. The period in which to pay taxes without the application of an interest fee has expired and stragglers who failed to forward their assessments on property will be taxed a collectors fee.

A general alarm from box 24 at the corner of Walnut and Highland streets late Sunday afternoon sent the entire city fire apparatus scurrying to a house owned by Henry Welsh on Walnut street. When the firemen arrived they were confronted with smoke pouring from the kitchen of the home. The blaze was caused when a small cook stove operated by gasoline became overheated and exploded. Considerable damage was caused to the interior of the kitchen before the fire was extinguished.

The June meeting of the common council will be held Tuesday evening and little business is expected to come up that will be other than routine. Ralph E. Thurston chairman of the board of water commissioners was non-committal today when asked if the commission was ready to tender its report of reconstruction of the water department's piping system. This subject has been hanging in the balance since March. Several setbacks experienced by the commission have been attributed to the delay in the report being submitted to the common council.

Mrs. Thomas Spellacy of Highland street and Miss Florence Spellacy spent Sunday in Lowell, Mass.

Chandler Morse son of Attorney and Mrs. E. C. Morse of Seward street is spending a few days with his parents in this city.

BEAUTIFUL ROSE GARDEN AT FRED W. HOLMES

Fred W. Holmes of Hall Hill avenue has one of the finest rose gardens in this vicinity. He has about fifty varieties, including many rare varieties of hybrid tea roses which will be in full bloom within the next few days.

Frank Falk of New York was with his family here over Sunday.

There was a good attendance at the Well Child conference held in the Congregational chapel Monday afternoon.

A number from here attended the presentation of the play by the members of Lebanon grange in Westchester Center, on a recent evening. The music and two sketches were effectively presented.

C. F. Bailey and Carlton Jones of Hebron were calling on friends here Monday.

Abraham Cohen of New York, a former local resident, is visiting his parents on Linwood avenue for a few days.

Miss Margaret M. O'Connell of East Hartford has been visiting for a few days with her sisters on North Main street.

ASPINOOK STENOGRAPHER BRIDE OF DANIELSON MAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, June 3—Monday, at eight o'clock, Miss Anna Donais, of Moosup, and Mario Del Pasco, of Danielson, were united in marriage by Rev. Philip L. Bassicott at All Hallows' rectory, in Moosup, the double ring ceremony being performed.

The bride wore a period gown of pink chiffon, and pink and orchid tulle, with orchid horsehair hat to match. She carried a bouquet of orchid sweet peas and pink roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Donais, who wore a period gown of green satin and tulle with hat to match. Her bouquet was of pink carnations. Ralph Jeanette, of Waterbury, was best man. After the ceremony a breakfast was served to relatives and intimate friends at Lawton inn, Plainfield. Mrs. Del Pasco is a graduate of Plainfield high school, class of 1927, and has been employed by the Aspinook Co. as a stenographer. Mr. Del Pasco is an overseer at the Powdrell & Alexander Co. plant, Danielson. The honeymoon will be spent in New York and Washington, D. C. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Del Pasco will reside in Danielson.

CHAPLIN

GRANGE ATTENDS CHURCH IN A BODY SUNDAY A. M.

The largest congregation of the season attended the morning service at the Congregational church Sunday, numbering nearly 90. Natchaug Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, Ellsworth E. Weeks, master, numbering about fifty and in full regalia, attended in a body. The pulpit was attractively decorated with ten large forms of a variety of flowers. There were other decorations marked P. of H. and two large [illegible] standing on either side of the pulpit. Rev. P. B. Sawyer, the pastor, gave an inspiring sermon taking for its theme "The Light of Life." At the close of the service the members of the grange marched to the Center cemetery and decorated the graves of deceased members.

At a business meeting of the church Sunday, it was voted to change the time of the Sunday morning service from 11 o'clock to 10:30 from now to the first Sunday in October.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney B. Burleigh and Miss Amey Vernon of Providence, R. I., were callers on Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gallup Saturday.

The Christian Endeavor society attended the service and pageant at the North Windham church Sunday evening.

THE CITY ELECTION.

By the verdict of the voters who went to the polls Monday for the city election, an enthusiastic endorsement has been given to the republican administration during the past year. It is evident that the manner in which the city government has been run has made a good impression, that there is appreciation of the efforts to keep within appropriations and that there is a desire for more of such handling of city affairs where bills are paid, floating indebtedness eliminated and a real balance in the treasury at the end of the year.

It is understood that the court of common council would have remained republican had there been a democratic victory. It would, however, have meant a divided council with the deciding vote resting with the mayor. The voters have decided that the results of the past year are such under complete republican control that they are desirous of having it continued. The expectation is, and there is every reason to believe that it will be realized, that the same conscientious efforts for the good of the city in the various departments will be continued. The off year vote has proved that while the republicans have been under a test they have been found worthy, true to their trust and entitled to the vote of confidence which they have received. It is the logical outcome of a year of good government.

The expression of the voters in regard to the revision of the charter was equally emphatic. This was not a partisan proposition. The move for a new charter came through a special city meeting without instigation from either party. The defeat of the measure indicates that the opposition to certain of the changes was enough to overbalance those that might have been acceptable and the revision as offered could not be accepted in place of the existing need of a new charter that would do away with the undesirable features of the present antiquated document. The need for a new and up to date charter still exists.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

The highest court in the land has held that responsibility at grade crossings rests upon the user of the highway.

In a case recently heard by the United States court of appeals having gone up from the district court in Delaware, the decision of the judge of the lower court was sustained when he held that the driver of a truck should not have gone across the railroad track, a view of which was obstructed, without stopping his machine and finding out if it was safe from the watchman who was on the other side of the track. The truck was struck and a suit in damages was instituted but the court declared the accident was due to the negligence of the truck driver and the verdict was for the railroad.

Regarding this case the Philadelphia Ledger says: "The interest in this decision lies in the court's warning dictum that 'precaution and safety first and not chance, luck and daring crossings' are 'the proper standards for automobiles at grade crossings.' If more drivers followed this principle, there would be fewer casualties'."

This is made apparent by almost every grade crossing accident. They are preventable in most cases, but it is because of the failure upon the part of the highway users to apply the caution and then be guided by the warnings that there are so many killed and injured at those points. The driver in question failed to get the signal from the crossing tender to go ahead. It was unsafe for him to do so. He took the responsibility upon his own shoulders, threw caution to the winds and ran into serious trouble. It is not the first time that death, serious injury and court decisions have pointed out the need of being careful at such points, but there are those who persist in disregarding it, and after doing so to their detriment, seek to attribute it to the negligence of someone else.

BALDWIN STEPS OUT.

The decision of Premier Baldwin to resign indicates the result of the study which he has been giving to the situation as the result of the recent British election. He has apparently come to the conclusion that there is no chance to expect support from the liberals should he undertake to retain the premiership. There is not the feeling between the conservatives and liberals that would make possible the continuance of such a government as he would desire, and if he could not get a vote of confidence over a fairly long period he comes to the conclusion that he might as well drop the reins now and avoid a lot of trouble. His deliberations have caused him to recognize the public desire for a change.

With Premier Baldwin deciding to put in his resignation, it is to be expected that Ramsay MacDonald will be asked to form the new ministry. He is the head of the largest party membership in the house of commons as the result of last week's election. It is upon such that the responsibility for the new government would be expected to rest. The labor party appears to represent the wishes of more voters than any other party if measured by the number of members, but like the conservatives if Premier Baldwin had decided to continue the premiership it will be obliged to depend upon support from the liberals if it is to stay in power.

This will place upon the laborites the responsibility of forming a coalition which will not only make possible the forming of a cabinet but of forming one that will stand for a sufficiently long time to make its formation worthwhile. It doesn't appear that the desire is for another election in the near future. It is the declaration of Lloyd George that he doesn't want to see another election for at least two years. This gives the impression that he is ready to use the influence of the liberals for constructive service instead of insisting upon demands that would make votes of confidence impossible. His statement was made before it was known what Premier Baldwin was going to do, but it is to be presumed that it was made with the realization that such a course would be followed whatever transpired.

In view of the fact that a coalition government is inevitable, it remains to be seen what developments will bring forth.

NO PLACE FOR LENIENCY.

"Your criminal career is going to be checked for some time. I consider these the worst cases of robbery ever before me. You used a pistol to enforce your demands for money."

Such was the statement made by the judge in the criminal division of District of Columbia court in disposing of the case against a 27 year old man who had been a policeman, and who had pleaded guilty to two cases of highway robbery.

Evidently this former guardian of the law had been impressed by the success which some people seemed to be attaining in the business of being a crook. Instead of sticking to the business of making an honest living he cast his lot among the hold up fellows, made use of his gun and held up two persons from both of whom he received the munificent sum of $48.28.

He must realize now that he sold himself dirt cheap, especially since he received a sentence of 10 years for each offense, and the reference of the judge was to the effect that the 20 years in the penitentiary would give him plenty of time in which to reflect upon his method of making a living and at the same time afford much relief to the public in placing him where he could do no harm.

If the severity of the sentence was increased because the accused was a former policeman there can be no surprise. It is expected that such a person who is supposed to restrain others from criminal acts and law violations will be sufficiently schooled in the difference between right and wrong to set an example for others. When a former policeman sets out to be a criminal he deserves no leniency. The court recognized this. There was no ground on which he could appeal for easy treatment, but every reason why he should not be handled with gloves. It would be folly to punish criminals if former policemen were to be let off with a slap on the wrist.

LOST SHIPS.

Those who go down to the sea in ships do so at the present time with much greater safety than in years gone by, but in spite of the improvements in the construction and handling of ships and in the protection of human life there is still a heavy loss in vessels every year.

While the day's news contains many instances where ships are wrecked or lost it fails to contain them all. According to the record kept by Lloyd's Register, there were 280 steam and motor ships lost at sea during 1927. This does not include the ships totalling 189 which were broken up nor the sailing vessels, which are lost each year in large numbers, but with all vessels lost and broken up included it shows that there was a tonnage of over 5,000,000 lost to the various nations of the world in that year.

Aside from the construction of new vessels for various purposes, the replacement of the ships lost and broken up in the course of a year means much work for the shipyards. This work is well scattered but it all has a part in the world commerce.

Even though the loss for the year 1927 amounts to a large figure, it is shown that it is the smallest for several years previous which indicates the good influence of modern construction and undoubtedly the beneficial effect of wireless in the guidance of ships along the coast and the summoning of aid in time of distress. The saving of life at sea doesn't stand in the same relative position for it is frequently the case that those aboard vessels which subsequently go down are taken off by other vessels which have responded to the call for assistance. It is possible to rescue the human cargo when it is impossible to do anything for the ship. Thus the loss in property can be expected to be larger than life and in many instances much more difficult to stop.

OBSTINATE YOUNG THINGS.

In the theatre Dave never waits for an usher. He knows where the seats are and he heads for them in his own masterful fashion. So Mrs. Dave followed him without misgivings until he had passed the fourth row.

"Where on earth are you going?" she whispered then. Dave, with the air of offering a throne, motioned her into a center seat in the front row.

"What does this mean?" she demanded. "You know how I detest sitting on top of the orchestra!" Dave settled into his place with a tolerant smile.

"They were absolutely the only two I could get."

"Then why come here at all? These are awful—impossible! They'll break our necks before the evening's over."

"Oh, no, they won't. See here—you've talked for a week about wanting to see this particular play. Now if you'll calm down and use your eyes you're going to see every bit of it." In speechless annoyance Mrs. Dave turned her face away. She resolved not to speak to Dave again that night.

At her left, between her and the aisle, was one vacant seat, and, as she looked in that direction, a charming young couple paused beside it, with questions in their eyes. Ordinarily, she would have asked Dave if he was sure they were in the right chairs, but having just resolved to treat him like a stranger, she remained immovable.

The young man looked at his check, looked at Mrs. Dave, murmured something to the lady, and then, as the curtain began to rise, walked quickly across to an empty front row seat over at the right. Just then Dave took notice and began studying his checks.

"Look here!" he exclaimed audibly, unconscious that the play was beginning, "we're one number off. We're in that fellow's seat. Why on earth didn't he speak? We must move over."

"Sh-sh!" whispered Mrs. Dave. "The curtain's up. Evidently he knows enough to wait through this act, and you'd better, too."

But Dave had already changed his seat and the only way to keep him quiet was to follow. Then he leaned forward to catch the young man's eye, repeatedly nodding his head and jerking his thumb toward the vacated place. No use. The young man's gaze was glued to the stage. So was Mrs. Dave's. So was that of the sweet young thing next the aisle. At last, becoming suddenly aware that the whole orchestra was glaring at him, Dave subsided.

As soon as the curtain came down, however, Mrs. Dave took charge.

"Now's your time," she said to Dave. Only do get it across to him that his seat is empty before the curtain goes up again. We're making a perfect show of ourselves." And after she had Dave started again she herself leaned across the vacancy to the sweet young thing who was evidently fascinated by Dave's antics.

"My dear," said Mrs. Dave, graciously, "we were quite innocent of having that young man's seat when he came in and we're doing our best to let him know it's empty now." To Mrs. Dave's surprise, the sweet young thing looked at her as if she were something out of the zoo.

"Why take so much trouble?" she asked coolly. "Surely he can find out that the seat's vacant."

"The young idiots have quarreled!" said Mrs. Dave behind her hand, feeling of a sudden superior and close to her husband. "That's why he was so quick to leave without claiming his seat. That's why he won't look at you now. Don't you see?"

The curtain went up again, but by now Mrs. Dave was so absorbed in the front-row romance that the art behind the footlights left her cold.

"If we could just make it up between them, Dave, before the evening's over, wouldn't it be sweet?" she murmured at the end of the second act. "It's possible he hasn't seen you motioning at all. Suppose you go over there and apologize for having taken his seat and make him take notice that there's a place for him next to her?"

But Dave demurred. He hated being conspicuous. So he resumed that peremptory nod of the head and jerk of the thumb toward the vacant seat, without visible results. At last, just as the curtain was about to go up for the last act, he gave in and walked across in front of the audience to where the young man sat. Mrs. Dave leaned forward, following him with her eyes.

"Can't you make that man of yours stop performing!" asked the young thing—not sweet at all. "Some of us would like to see this play."

"But, my dear," protested Mrs. Dave. "It's just being done for——" And then, before she could finish, she saw that Dave, with incredible swiftness, had regained his own seat.

"Wouldn't the obstinate thing come?" she asked indignantly.

"No," replied Dave. "He said he was in his own seat. He thanked me very much, but he said he didn't know this lady! Now will you be satisfied?"

But Mrs. Dave was far from it.—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

Many Victims of Hay Fever and Food Sensitivity Can Be Relieved

By Dr. W. K. Kellogg, Chief, State Department, Public Health, Sacramento, Calif. (From Gorgas Memorial Institute.)

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Anaphylaxis is a very peculiar and interesting phenomenon that follows the introduction of substances of protein nature directly into the blood of animals, instead of by way of the stomach, the normal way of receiving nutriment.

The term protein applies to a large group of nitrogenous substances that make up a very important part of all living things. Examples of proteins found in our daily food supply are lean meat, brain, glands, egg albumen, the casein of milk, etc. Proteins are constituents also of vegetable foods, being particularly high in peas and beans.

The classical laboratory experiment demonstrating anaphylaxis is to inject a drop of white of egg or milk under the skin of guinea pig. This, of course, results in no harm to the animal, which continues the daily round of guinea pig affairs no different from its fellows. If, after two weeks, however, this same guinea pig is given a second injection of the same material, a very surprising thing happens. In a few minutes to half an hour the pig becomes restless, scratches at its nose, appears to have difficulty in breathing and frequently falls over dead. The milk or other protein, harmless to a normal animal, is fatal to one that has been sensitized by a previous injection.

Anaphylaxis occurs only as a laboratory experiment in the realms of animals lower than man, and even there the result of the experiment is uncertain, or varies in its manifestations, when other animals than guinea pigs are used. The symptoms are totally different, for example, in the dog and in the rabbit, while in the monkey, the animal most like man, symptoms of anaphylaxis cannot be produced at all.

Man, himself, is subject to various kinds of illness, which are undoubtedly manifestations of hypersentitiveness, but which are not traceable in most instances to a previous sentitization.

Among the different kinds of hypersensitiveness that are seen in man are oak and ivy poisoning, primrose poisoning, hay fever, some cases of asthma, the so-called serum sickness (characterized by fever and hives, frequently following the injections of a curative serum or antitoxin) and the cases of food idiosyncrasy. People who can't eat certain foods without a stomach upset, perhaps pain and a rash on the skin, are "sensitive" to that particular food. How they become sensitized is not clear, but it seems likely that during a temporary intestinal disturbance due to infection, imperfectly digested food is permitted to pass into the blood stream, thus complying with the requirement first mentioned in regard to experimental anaphylaxis, that the protein must enter the blood directly and not by way of the stomach.

There are two facts that detract somewhat from this theory. One is that hypersensitiveness has a hereditary basis; it runs in families, and the other is that people cannot be sensitized like guinea pigs. If this were not true, we would hesitate to give a child a dose of diphtheria antitoxin if he had already had on some previous occasion a dose of anti-tetanic serum, both being made by immunizing horses, and therefore containing the same protein. But there is no ground for such fear. The few deaths that are on record as having occurred following the administration of serum were not due to a previous dose of serum nor to anaphylaxis, but in nearly every case to a peculiar physical defect known as status lymphaticus. Fortunately, there are only a few of these accidents on record, notwithstanding the millions of doses of serum given. Knowledge of the guinea pig experiment has caused many people to fear that children will be sensitized by giving them toxin-antitoxin (which contains a minute amount of horse serum), but this fear is also groundless. In the first place, the amount of serum in a dose is only about one five thousandth of a drop, and, in the second place, a child is not a guinea pig. Hundreds of thousands have now been immunized and no untoward results attributable to toxin-antitoxin properly given have been observed.

There is one aspect of anaphylaxis that finds an application in the treatment of hay fever and food idiosyncrasy, conditions that bear some resemblance to anaphylaxis. This is the fact that anaphylactic animals may be rendered temporarily insusceptible to a "shock" dose of the protein concerned by the cautious injection of very small and frequently repeated doses of that substance. Many hay fever cases and food sensitive persons can in this way be relieved of their hypersensitiveness if the offending protein is known, and persons with a known serum idiosyncrasy can be "desensitized" before its administration.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 3—In the midst of the special congressional struggle with farm relief legislation, Dr. O. E. Baker, department of agriculture economist, has put out a study of farm crop and population relativities that should prove of very timely interest.

It indicates that the farm surplus problem is here to stay, and that the agricultural output increase is steadily outpacing the growth in population despite a decline in crop acreage.

Concurring with the view of other statistical experts that a time when the population of the United States will be stabilized at between 175,000,000 and 200,000,000 is approaching, Dr. Baker finds that it would take not half of the remaining potentially cultivable land to feed that number of folks.

There will still be upward of 500,000,000 acres of additional farm lands that could yield food crops in 1940, he finds. As there is a vast amount of idle farm land now, he holds there will be no need for increasing farmable acreage to meet home needs for the next decade.

On the contrary, "unless agricultural settlement is prudently guided there is grave danger that periods of agricultural depression will recur," the summary of the study said.

Stabilization

Dr. Baker estimates that from 50 to 75 years will see the period of stabilized population reached. His estimate is derived from study of the lessening birth rate, particularly in those states where per capita wealth is largest.

A drop of 20 per cent in the birth rate, or five per 1,000, is shown since 1915.

An additional drop of four per 1,0000 would bring it down to that necessary merely to maintain the population if an average span of life of 61 years, four years longer than the present average, is used for comparison.

Dr. Baker finds that with the combined crop and pasturage acreage virtually the same since the war, agricultural production went up 13.5 per cent between 1922 and 1926 as compared with the 1917-1921 period.

Two-thirds of the gain was in animal products, and increased mechanization of farms released from 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 acres from pasturage to other uses. The study estimates that almost a fourth of all pasturage for draft animals in 1919 had been that released to feeding feat and milk animals and growing cotton by 1928.

Little Increase

There has been no substantial increase in per capita consumption of beef, veal and eggs since the beginning of the century.

Mutton, lamb and poultry per capita consumption has gone down distinctly, yet consumption of pork has gone up 10 per cent, milk 12 per cent.

And at the same time unit production of pork and dairy products for human food use has increased amazingly in proportion to the unit consumption of animal foodstuffs.

Out of all this Dr. Baker reaches the conclusion that the American population will have ceased to grow long before the "limits of subsistence" are reached in this country.

Tourists Dislike Greek Resinated Wine

ATHENS—(AP)—When the poet Pulder wrote that "Water is Best," he expressed the feeling of the modern as well as the ancient Greeks.

Athens is a thirsty city, whose water supply will continue to be quite inadequate until in some four years' time, an American company has provided it a new reservoir near Marathon.

Meanwhile the quality of the Athenian water is as poor as the quantity, and foreigners and many Athenians daily buy their drinking water in picturesque sealed earthen ware jars, brought into the city on carts from the springs of Marousi and Kaisariani.

But although one hardly ever sees a drunken man in Greece Greeks are by no means exclusively water drinkers. To many foreigners, however, it seems at first extraordinary that anyone can like the indigenous beverage resinated wine.

Later on even foreigners find that it possesses medicinal qualities and staying power, which the ordinary wines lack. But to the novice it tastes of nothing so much as furniture polish! Yet this curious custom of mixing resin with the wine like so much else in Greece, goes back to a hoary antiquity. The elder Pliny, who perished in the great eruption of Vesuvius in 79 A. D., alludes to the practice.

In the twentieth century, Akominatos, the famous archbishop of Athens, wrote that the wines of Attica savoured of the pine rather than the vine.

In 1674 the French ambassador to Turkey, Marquis de Nointel, visiting Athens, complained of the resinated wines.

The pine trees of Attica are tapped for their resin for this purpose and the yellowish liquid is collected in tins fastened to the trees which are sometimes damaged by the slices of wood cut out of them.

The best resinated wine in Attica is tre white from the village of Spata; the best red is perhaps that of Aracheova near Delphi, which tourists drink under the magnificent label of "Nectar of Pythian Apollo!" But resinated wine is less common than it was.

Under the monarchy, it was sometimes served at the royal table, and Queen Sophia is said to have smiled at the wry grimaces of foreign guests, who quaffed a draught of what appeared to be Moselle but turned out to be resinated wine! An excellent unresinated wine is, however, produced on the former royal estate of Tatoi, just as another vintage, also without resin, takes its name, Four La Reine from Queen Amalia's tower.

IN DAY'S NEWS

Begums, Nizams and Maharajas

The recent report of the Indian states committee opposing the federation of the Indian native states and the British administration in India, tends to perpetuate the picturesque rulers of India.

According to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society, these rulers, although they have adopted western dress and customs for many occasions, still are among the most colorful potentates of the east.

"Consider the Maharaja of Patiala in festive array if you would have a true picture of eastern splendor and color," the bulletin continues. "He wears a diamond tiara from which hang loops of diamonds, pearls and emeralds. Around his neck is a three-row pear collar and, on his breast, an emerald breast-plate. His coat is of rich brocade, and his hand rests upon a diamond-hilted sword sheathed in a velvet scabbard studded with diamonds. On his fingers are diamonds, rubies, emeralds and pearls.

'Patiala's Maharaja is outshone by other princes in the splendor of their jewels. One ruler has a carpet of pearls, eight by ten feet. Maharaja Holkar of Indore has a carpet of gold in his throne room and tall gold chairs. The Gaekwar (Prince) of Baroda's treasure includes gun-carriages and cannons of gold. White bullocks, with silver-capped horns and brocaded trappings, convey these cumbersome carriages through the streets in official parades.

"Until a few years ago the ruler of Bhopal was a woman, the Begum. Bhopal is a Mohammedan state and its woman ruler made pilgrimages to Mecca, and also visited England. There she was protected from 'inf[illegible] eyes by an enveloping cape which gathered around her head, with lace embroidered slits for her eyes.

"Perhaps the most novel banquet table in India is that of the Maharaja of Indore. A miniature landscape of flowers and trees illuminated by revolving colored balls adorns the table. A tiny electric train runs around its edge on a small track. The train contains seven coaches, one each for carrying brandy, port, sweets, nuts, chocolates, cigars and cigarettes. At the end of the meal, the Maharaja starts the train by pressing a button at his place, and it stops automatically at the slightest touch of a guest who wishes to make his selection.

"The Nizam of Hyderabad, the ranking Mohammedan prince of India and probably its richest ruler, has the largest harem in India. His household, including all retainers, numbers 7,000. Hyderabad was once known as Golconda, a famous market for diamonds in ancient days, and the Nizam's personal collection of jewels is worth millions.

"Although lacking in quality and quantity of jewels, the retainers of the rajahs, in their voluminous turbans and richly colored coats, are almost as picturesque as their rulers. Corps of nautch girls wear fortunes in heavy gold ornaments, and are pictures in their brilliantly hued skirts and pastel tinted saris. Even the elephants of state take to color and jewelry. Their tusks are cut off and bound with brass rings. In some states they are provided with solid gold ankle bands, and are tattooed with shawl effect on their foreheads and ears. One ruler has a solid gold pavilion mounted on the back of his favorite elephant, and others gild those howdahs and hang them with gorgeous trappings and tapestry curtains.

"The Maharana of Udaipur has some famous dancing horses. These are pure bred horses, caparisoned in gold-covered bridles and brocade saddles, which prance with careful steps to the sing-song music of their Indian accompanists. These dancing horses are popular and may be found in the stables of many of the Indian princes.

"Despite the enormous wealth of the princes and other potentates of India the masses of the people live in poverty. The average individual income of India's 300,000,000 people is estimated at less than the equivalent of $35 annually. British rule has brought two blessings to India, the building of railroads which avert the regional famines which, in the past, dealt death to thousands, and protection of her northwest border against invasion by marauding tribesmen."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

What is the Answer?

Mr. Editor:—I have carefully read the Rev. C. Storeks' explanation of the decadence of the country church as appears in The Bulletin issue of Friday, May 17. His analysis may suffice for this time, but it does not give an answer that could be construed as covering the subject for it does not point out the real reason for there is a condition that confronts the people and not a theory. As I am the "venerable correspondent," and by the way the term venerable gives me a picture of an old man, a patriarch, who is an oracle in his own land, I picture him with a long white beard, iron bound spectacles, as he comes tottering down the village street with his staff to lean upon to support his faltering and feeble steps. Candidly, I feel sorry for myself. Poor old man!

After all is there any real country today that can be given as the reason for the passing on of the country church? I don't think so, for since the advent of the autos the country everywhere has grown like a rose in the desert. Right in the city of Norwich I can locate no less than four different churches that have disappeared since I was a boy and some of those old New England people worshipped God, while seated on hard wooden benches. Something tells me that their petitions were answered at the court of last resort. 'Tis said that each generation is getting weaker and wiser and the fly in the ointment is that one half the, as you call them, shabby looking ministers were out of their element. In their sermons they were too prosy, too tiresome. When at church I looked around and saw many heads drooping for the owners of those self same heads were not paying any attention to what their pastor was saying, and I doubt if in coming away from church they could repeat a sentence of what had been told. By the time the pastor had arrived at "fourthly" they were miles away in the land of Nod. I tell you what it is brother, as Billy Sunday says you have got to brighten up the corners, get the young folks to come in, let us hear their young voices as they sing with all the splendid ability they have. Brighten up the lives of the older ones, let the glorious sunshine of music and singing drive out the shadows from the corners of the minds of those who are forever telling the people that they are on the road to according to the revision, Hades.

No, Brother Storek, you and I have got to come along with the rest and know we are living in 1929, and at a time when all the people are looking on the sunny side of life, and are trying to keep out of the shadows. The consolidation of the churches but partially answers the question; it only scratches the surface. It shows there is something beneath the surface that is needed and that something is to try and make the church attractive. Make it a place where they are anxious to go, for here there is happiness, and let them lift up their voices and sing, for with this you will get the young folks interested, where now they are not. Right here where I am there is one church that has moving pictures in its lecture room every week, real pictures and the young people look eagerly forward to this every week. Another church has a song service once a week, and I can hear some of the young folks at my place of business talking it over and telling what a fine time they had the night before. That is what gets them and holds them. Listen on the song service of the Madison Ave Baptist church over in the big city. Hear those young people sing, as they raise their splendid young voices in Thanksgiving to the Supreme Being who looks down and is pleased at their offering. Hear their voices blending in perfect harmony as they sing some of those blessed old hymns that I used to listen to in silent adoration when I was just a bare foot "kid," and would enter some church, perhaps a little bit bashful or timid, sit in an obscure corner and listen in silent adoration. Yes, what we ought to do is open the windows and let the sunshine in for all religion no matter what may be the creed, is a joyful thing and not something where we all should go around with a face on us as though we were in pain.

Have you ever noticed the pleased expression on the faces of a congregation, when after a long tiresome sermon you have heard: "We will now sing hymn number so and so." If you have not just notice the next time when you are at service the pleased expression on the young and old and how they do lift up their voices with their whole soul in praise of God and His wonderous love. I am free to confess after reading this over I haven't shed any light on this matter, but anyway, make it more attractive, and note results. Be original, introduce your own ideas, but at all times with the one thought to praise and glorify the Great Jehovah. Carlyle has said: "One is scarcely sensible to fatigue when sings. The very stars are said to make harmony as they revolve in their spheres."

Little Talks on Thrift

Thrift Proved Way for Opportunities That Both Succeed And Advance

The Chinese have a proverb as follows: "The gods cannot help a man who loses opportunities." One of the great values of thrift lies in the fact that it enables us to take advantage of opportunities when they come.

"I had a fine opportunity but was not able to take advantage of it because I could not raise the money." This statement, often heard, typifies the experience of many. Disraeli pointed out that "the greatest secret of success in life is to be ready when your opportunity comes." There are a great many ways to be ready when your opportunity comes, and all of them are the results of thrift. If we are to take advantage of opportunities for advancement and improvement, we must be ready from the standpoint of education, ability, health and money.

It is not the point of view of this writer that opportunities come infrequently. It is rather our viewpoint that when we are ready for them opportunities of advantage will not be long delayed. The great point to bear in mind, however, is that opportunity will mean nothing to us unless we are fully prepared to take advantage of it when it does come.

"Opportunities are more powerful than conquerors and prophets," wrote an old philosopher. This is true only of opportunities that are taken advantage of. Lost opportunities are without value.

These thoughts should be of special interest in these days when there is a tendency to disregard the value of patient thrift. To many the processes of systematic saving and prudent investing seem a little slow. Experience, nevertheless, has shown that advancement through thrift is in many cases rapid because of the opportunities that are unfolded for those who prepare themselves in every way for these circumstances.

Thrift is the happy forerunner of improved opportunities.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

TAFTVILLE

WEDDING

Prodell-Allard.

At Sacred Heart church Monday morning at 8 o'clock, Miss Helen Agnes Allard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Allard of Norwich avenue became the bride of Albert L. Prodell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prodell, of 58 Fourth street, at a nuptial high mass at which Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault, pastor of the church was celebrant. Miss Alice Frechette, presided at the organ, playing the musical program including the wedding march and music of the mass and accompanying Miss Nellie Delaney and Miss C. Smith, who during the service sang O Promise Me and Ave Maria. The bride was most attractive in a gown of Spanish lace and tulle, her bridal veil of tulle being caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of brides' roses with a shower of lilies of the valley. As maid of honor she was attended by her sister, Miss Theo Allard who wore a gown of lavender georgette with hat to match and carried carnations and sweet peas of harmonizing colors. A reception, at which there was a lavish display of wedding gifts, and a wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's parents following the church ceremony, many friends and relatives of the newly married couple attending. During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Prodell left by automobile on a two weeks wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, and upon their return are to make their home on Fourth street. The groom is a foreman with the Atlantic Carton corporation.

Miss Mary McCarthy who has been visiting Miss Louise White of South A street has returned to her home in Providence, R. I.

Among those attending a meeting in Plainfield on Sunday which was addressed by Attorney Lajoie of Fall River, Mass., were Desire J. Dufresne, David Lambert and Philiza Poirier representing the St. Jean Baptiste society; Omer Tellier and Henri Phaneuf representing the St. Louis society and Edmund Proulx, Frank Mathieu and Mrs. Gabriel Paquette as delegates from Council Gannon, No. 208, Union St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique.

PAWCATUCK FIRE DIST. DECREASES TAX RATE VOTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 3.—At the forty third annual meeting tonight of Pawcatuck Fire district, called to order in the new Liberty street department headquarters by Moderator Albert G. Martin, Dr. William A. Hillard, clerk, read the minutes. Nearly 600 taxpayers crowded the second floor assembly hall and stairways to the first floor.

Clerk William A. Hilliard was re-elected by acclamation. Claude L. Spencer, treasurer for 25 years, declined nomination and Karl G. Stillman was elected; Charles Jeremiah Norris was elected collector; tax assessors, William A. Hillard, Joseph H. MsGuinness; Frank H. Furnace, declined and David L. Keefe was named auditors, William R. Hillard and A. R. Stillman. Chief engineer to succeed Francis J. McMahon, Joseph Purtill was elected. A paper ballot was required for First Assistant Engineer and out of a total of 319 ballots cast, John J. Donohue received 266 and Noa D. Morse, 53; second assistant, James Ryan; third assistant, John A. Shea; fire wardens, Charles J. Norris, A. G. Martin, Edwin W. Taylor, zoning committeeman for three years; re-elected W. F. Crandall; garbage removal committee for three years, Alexander Marr, Pierce J. Morrison, John W. Parker.

A tax of six mills was voted, a decrease of half a mill over last year, due Oct. 1, 1929, with nine per cent interest after Nov. 1, and ten per cent after April 1.

Action was recommended on the addition to Pawtucket fire district of a section known as the Highlands in Clarkville, with an expenditure of $60 for light and hydrants. The meeting closed with a defeat of a resolution presented by Joseph Grillo that each time the apparatus went out of the district a charge of $100 be made with the exception of trips into Rhode Island or to Mystic.

Met With Brook St. Member

The Girls' Friendly society of Christ Episcopal church met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Fred Leffingwell on Brook street with eleven members present. R. I. ROAD SUPERINTENDENT DIES FROM INJURIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, June 3—The death of Wendall R. Phillips of Wyoming, R. I., Rhode Island state highway superintendent, occurred at the Westerly hospital at 6.40 p. m. this evening. His death resulted from injuries sustained while on the Nooseneck hill road near the Exeter town line, when he was struck by a truck of the J. H. Carrington Co., furniture movers, of Central Falls, and driven by Thomas J. Martin, 46 Jenks avenue, that city. Phillips was brought to Westerly by George Norden of Saybrook Point, Conn., who picked him up but did not consider his condition serious.

Sergeant of State Police Ernest F. Stenhouse investigated the accident and Westerly police intercepted the driver on the Pawcatuck river bridge. He was taken to Westerly police station and from there the Rhode Island officers took him to Wakefield. Martin will be before Judge James O. Watts in the second district court tomorrow morning. Phillips was attended at Hope Valley by Dr. Hartford Gongaware shortly after 5.30 and at the Westerly hospital by Dr. Michael H. Scanlon.

REPUBLICANS SCORE DECISIVE VICTORY IN NORWICH CITY ELECTION

MAURICE B. LOOBY
Elected Alderman

With a little more than half the qualified voters casting ballots in the city election Monday, the republicans elected their entire ticket for city officers by an approximate majority of 600. Figured on the vote for water commissioner where the party vote is shown as both candidates are elected, the difference in favor of the republicans was 592 as Charles A. Hagberg got 2637 votes and John P. Corcoran 2045.

The result elects two new aldermen to the common council in the persons of Amiel C. Brosofske and Maurice B. Looby, who have been serving as councilmen, and elects four councilmen, Herman Stelzner, Alexander Sharp, Herman A. Bruckner and Joseph K. Panek. The council membership thus continues completely republican.

Elected Alderman

The election continues Charles Coit in office as city treasurer Weston C. Pullen as city clerk and Charles A. Hagberg as water commissioner, all republicans, while John P Corcoran, the democratic water commissioner, likewise continues in that office. Harold T. Robinson, democrat, who was on both tickets, was also continued in the office of tax collector.

The proposed new city charter, which had been prepared by a special commission and came before the electors on a referendum vote, was defeated by the decisive vote of 1609 no and 449 yes.

Many who voted for city officers

HERMAN STELZNER
Elected Councilman

did not vote on the charter as the total vote cast for the candidates was 4,731, but the total votes on the charter were only 2,058.

Of the 4,889 men who are registered in the four city districts only 2,687 cast ballots in the election Monday and of the 4,169 women registered there were 2,044 who voted. The vote and registration in the four districts was shown as follows:

Dist	Men Regis.	Men Voting	Women Regis	Women Voting
1	2444	1330	2245	976
2	1043	494	751	356
3	956	604	816	514
6	446	259	357	198
	4889	2687	4169	2044

Three of the four city districts, the first or central, the second or West Side and the sixth or East Side, went republican, while the third, or Greeneville, showed its normal adherence to the democratic column. On the vote for water commissioner the republican margin in the first district was 414, in the second 150, in the sixth 163, while the democratic margin in the third was 133.

Elected Councilman

On the republican side, Herman A. Bruckner, who was running for councilman had the highest vote, 2654, but Weston C. Pullen, who was running for re-election for city clerk was only one behind him.

On the democratic side Frank H. Quinley, candidate for alderman, led his party with 2073 votes and Laurence E. Millea, running for councilman, was second with 2053.

The overwhelming republican victory was taken to be an indication of the purpose of the voters to endorse the republican administration of the past year under Mayor Leo Roy Robbins and a republican council.

This was the off year, when no mayor was to be chosen, and the voting was slow all day. The polls were open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. standard, time but it was not till the latter part of the afternoon that there was any great activity at any of the polling places. In the central district where the voting was done in the city court room with four machines in use, there was some difficulty in unlocking two of the machines, but this was quickly overcome, and in the afternoon one of the machines got out of adjustment for a while until the two machine mechanics, S. Jeffrey Colt and Louis H. Maples, straightened it out.

The first to vote in the first district were Gladys W. Waters and Leroy Bolduc. By noon only 646 had voted. The last two to vote were Mrs. Simeone Sage and John H. Walker. The election officials here were moderator, Martin E. Jensen; checkers, Geraldine Oat Barnett, Thomas F. Driscoll; challengers, Mrs. Tyler D. Guy, John F. Donohue; machine tenders, Frank W. Brewster, Albert A. Clark, Herbert W. Lucas, Charles W. Dow, Albert Courtney, Joseph P. Monaher, Edward Kirby, Thomas Fields; door tenders, Byron Mathieu Dennis Moran.

In the second district where the ballots were cast in the polling place on Falls avenue the election officials were: Moderator, Roderick F. Sullivan; checkers, Leonard G Partridge, Isabelle Finnegan; challengers, William W. Drake, 2nd, Theresa Murphy, Eliza B. Dolbeare, Elizabeth Ward; machine tenders, H. D. Dolbeare, Charles C. Stamm, William Dougherty, Sidney Shabecoff; door tenders, Alvin D. Lewis, David Sadinsky.

The first to vote in the district were William W. Ives and Mary E. Coughlin. There were 212 ballots cast up to noon.

In the third district the first to vote were Fitch A. Dolbeare and Sarah M. Eccles and about 250 had voted up to noon. The ballots were cast in the polling place on Seventh street with the following officials in charge: Moderator, Robert A. Gray; checkers, George W. Armstrong, Anthony O'Connell; challengers, Henry Craney, Mabel G. Shaw, Rose R. MacMillan, Esther Collins; machine tenders, Patrick McDermott, Allan Gordon.

In the sixth district the polling place was at the Bishop school, the first to vote were Edwin Duro and Emma Barnes and 125 had voted up to noon. The officials were as follows: Moderator, John Durnan; checkers, Joseph Fraser, John Quinley; challengers, George Atwood; machine tenders, Brenton Allyn, Edwin Duro; door tenders, Ivar Olsson, Willard Worthington.

Automobiles were used by both parties to round up the men and women voters who were slow about getting to the polls. The town committees of the two parties scrutinized the lists carefully and telephoned to voters or sent machines after them to get them to the polls to vote.

At the central district polling place, where the final results were tabulated there was quite a crowd gathered when Moderator Jensen declared the polls closed promptly at 7 p. m., standard time, and proceeded to take the count of the vote off the four machines. In this he was assisted by Registrars Tyler D. Guy and Joseph B. Downes, the latter having his first experience with this part of the election work.

There were 755 ballots cast on the first machine, 605 on the second, 716 on the third, and 230 on the fourth. On each machine there was a republican majority.

The moderators from the other districts soon arrived with their figures, the second and the sixth districts arriving almost together and the third coming last.

By 8 o'clock, standard time, the complete vote had been tabulated and Moderator Jensen, with Mayor Leo Roy Robbins led the way upstairs to the town hall, where Mayor Robbins called the annual city meeting to order.

After Moderator Jensen had announced the election result, Mayor Robbins called the business part of the meeting to order and on motion of Corporation Counsel E. W. Perkins, it was at once voted to adjourn the annual meeting to next Monday evening, June 10, at 8 o'clock standard time, in the town hall.

GIVES INTERESTING TALK BEFORE CONTACT CLUB

At the meeting of the Contact club held Monday noon at the Wauregan hotel Frank G. Aubrey, manager of the Mohican store, gave an interesting talk on the topics, "The Public Market" and "The History of the Chain Store." President Ernest O. Rodier presided at the meeting.

It was just 28 years ago that the Mohican company established its first branch store in what was then known as the Dawson property, said Mr. Aubrey. They employ about 50 people and have a payroll of approximately $50,000 per year. Our market consists of six departments, each department in charge of a foreman with the power to govern his own department as he sees fit, provided he gives a fair margin of profit.

We feel that we are not the modern chain store with one or two employes, but rather a community store, continued Mr. Aubrey. Surely a firm that is listed in this New London county for approximately $1,200,000 in taxable property, $200,000 in Norwich and the remainder in New London deserves to be classed as an industry entitled to its share of the public patronage.

After divulging interesting bits of information on the peddler and the small store, which came into being a decade before the Civil war, Mr. Aubrey said that it threatened the existence of the peddler and now the small storekeeper in turn sees his existence threatened. The chain store is growing very rapidly, said the speaker, through its ability to buy in larger quantities by buying items that are better sellers because merchants must know what to buy. Modern methods must be adopted by the smaller merchant if he wishes to keep up with the parade.

VIOLIN PUPILS GIVE SUCCESSFUL RECITAL

On Sunday afternoon a large gathering of friends and parents attended a very successful violin recital given by the pupils of Edward J Brennan in Odd Fellows' hall. The program comprised selections by the violin ensemble, as well as duets and solos by many of the pupils, which were all well-rendered. All the pupils were accompanied by Mrs. Edward Brennan, piano teacher.

As a special feature, Miss Anna Stockdale, singer and violinist, assisted by Felix Paebus, flutist, rendered selections which were well executed.

The program was as follows:

Connecticut March (William Nassann), ensemble; Sixth Air Varie (Ch. Dancla), Rutherford Blinderman; Largo, from New World Symphony (A. Dvorak), ensemble; Sweet Mystery of Life (Victor Herbert), duet, Anna Leone and Frances Abramson; Intermezzo Sinfonico (Pietro Mascagin), ensemble; Adoration (Borowski), violin solo, Miss Anna Stockdale; Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark (Sir Henry Bishop), vocal solo, Miss Anna Stockdale, with flute obligato by Felix Paebus; Sonata in D Major (Handel), Miss Edna Lambert; Over the Waves (Juventino Rosas), ensemble; Slumber Song (Tolhurst), Mr. Arthur St. Marie; Love and Flowers (Ambriso), duet, Miss Helen Hargrave and Mr. John Baker, accompanied on piano by Miss Mary Hargrave; Blue Danube Waltz (Strauss), ensemble; Dream of the Shepherdess, duet, Lewis Switzberg and Rutherford Blinderman; Stars and Stripes March (Sousa), ensemble.

FOR DRIVING AUTOMOBILE WITH IMPROPER MARKERS

Cyrille Heroux of Taftville was fined $15 and costs in the city court Monday morning on the charge of driving an automobile with improper markers. He paid $20.61. Heroux was arrested Saturday after the machine he was driving had run into the automobile of Mrs. Carrie Kinney of 88 West Town street as Heroux was driving out of a gasoline station on upper Washington street. The machine he was driving was carrying markers issued for a car of another make, Heroux claimed he had bought the car only the day before.

Three men who were arrested for drunkenness on Sunday were each fined $10 and costs, a man arrested Saturday night for drunkenness was fined $5 and costs and a breach of the peace case was nolled.

GIFT OF ORNATE BIRD BATH TO HUNTINGTON HOME

Passers-by always pause to admire the beautiful flowers on the terraces at the Eliza Huntington Memorial Home, Washington street, find cause for additional interest just now. Amid the blooming iris, snowball shrubs, phlox, yellow lilies and other blossoms there is conspicuous a handsome new bird bath. This is a recent gift to the home from S. Alpheus Gilbert, of Norwich. Robins, sparrows, starlings, humming birds, wrens and other feathered visitors manifest daily appreciation of the new gift. The ramblers, old-fashioned damask and other roses in the finely kept grounds are beginning to bloom and up to last week there were over 300 blossoming tulips in great variety.

COOKS FIND NEW VALUE OF SUGAR

Vegetables More Delicious When Cooked New Way

Two groups of women, all famous cooking experts, recently conducted a series of tests to find the most tasteful way of preparing vegetable dishes. In every case, after the various ways of cooking vegetables were tried, the experts unanimously voted in favor of using only a little water and adding sugar in cooking vegetables.

One group of experts recommends this unusual recipe for baked apples and onions. Slice 3 medium-size apples and six medium-size onions into a greased casserole in alternate layers, seasoning with salt, pepper, ½ cup of sugar, and 2 tablespoons butter. Add ½ cup water and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about ¾ of an hour.

The sugar adds not only to the taste but also to the food and energy value of the vegetables, so that they are not only valuable vitamin foods, but foods that furnish working power to the individual. Use a liberal dash of sugar, depending on the quantity cooked, with peas, lima beans, string beans, corn, carrots, beets, parsnips, sweet potatoes, squash, onions and tomatoes. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

NORWICH TOWN MAN FINED IN LISBON COURT

Found guilty of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor Albert Murphy of Norwich Town was fined $100 and costs and given a 30 days jail sentence, suspended. Fifty dollars of the fine was also remitted. His case was tried before Justice of the Peace Walter C. Drew in Lisbon town court.

Murphy was arrested Tuesday evening of last week, after a machine owned and driven by him had collided with a tree on Tunnel hill on the Jewett City river road, veered across the highway and crashed through a state highway fence. Officer Strand of the Danielson barracks made the arrest.

Third Birthday Party.

A party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McCall on Pine street Sunday for the third birthday of their daughter, Dorothy, who received many lovely gifts. Refreshments were served by Mrs. McCall and Mrs. M. Walker of Washington street. Games were played and a very enjoyable afternoon was spent by all.

Recovering from Illness.

Raymond Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Adams of No. 4, North B street, Taftville, who has been dangerously ill for the past two weeks, is to be discharged from the W. W. Backus hospital today (Tuesday.)

Elks' Flag Day Speaker.

State Attorney Arthur M. Brown is to be the speaker for the flag day program of Norwich lodge of Elks.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Flint Brayton and Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins gave a linen shower Monday at the home of Mrs. Brayton, Coit Lane, for Mrs. Elliot Brown Grover, who has received many social attentions since her recent marriage. Three tables of bridge followed the presentation of the exceptionally elegant gifts. The prizes were won by Miss Harriet Chappell, of New London, Mrs. Larned Ely. Miss Constance Learned and Miss Alice Sayles. Coffee was poured by Mrs. Walter T. Camp. Mrs. Frederic S. Camp served ices.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Noyes and daughter, Miss Lorna Noyes, of New York, formerly of Norwich, were guests at Lighthouse Inn over Memorial day and the week end. Mr. and Mrs. Noyes were hosts at a dinner party of 13 at the inn Saturday night.

DEVLIN DECISIVELY OUTPOINTS TELL IN FEATURE BOUT; PECHEENI LOSES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 3—Hughie Devlin local bantamweight decisively outpointed Irish Benny Tell of New York in the ten-round feature bout at the Hamilton street arena here tonight. In the entire ten rounds the New Yorker did not even once land a solid punch with his vaunted right hand in which he is reputed to carry a charge of dynamite. Devlin's clever use of the left hand for hitting and parrying kept the metropolitan bantam in a constant state of bewilderment.

Devlin was in the pink of condition and he went the entire distance at top speed. In the seventh and ninth rounds. Tell attempted to rally but his flurries of punches lasted only a few moments and Devlin, side-stepping and shifting to gain a better position, bored in again to assume the aggressive.

Hughie hooked and jabbed his left hand with equal effectiveness. He threw most of his right hand punches to the body, hammering constantly at the heart and stomach but he changed his elevation often enough to land some punishing smashes to the head.

The New Yorker took his punishment without flinching standing flat-footed to meet every one of Hughie's charges. Tell gave a good account of himself in the exchange of short punches at close quarters. Devlin's left hand cut the New Yorker about the mouth but the damage was not serious. In the ninth round Tell swung a left hook which was apparently aimed for the jaw and which went high and clipped Devlin over the eye causing a slight swelling. It was the only mark that Tell made on Devlin. The weights were Devlin 122 1-2, Tell 121 1-2.

Mule Brown, Negro welterweight of Danbury, made short work of Charlie Gallo of New York in what was scheduled as an eight round semi-final. Brown won by a knockout in the second round. Gallo gave the Negro as much as he received in the first round but was unable to stand up under the crushing drive of the muscular welterweight in the second round. The Negro, casting all caution aside, tore in with both hands pumping violently. Brown crowded Gallo into a corner and smashed his chin with thudding rights. Referee Watson stopped the bout to save Gallo from further punishment. The weights were Brown 140 1-2 and Gallo 138.

Benny Mann of New York scored a knockout over Paddy Shea, Hartford welterweight, in the fourth round of a six-round bout. Shea was floored twice in the second round for counts of nine and eight but he weathered the storm and fought a courageous battle until the third round was nearly over. In this round he went down for the third time but got up at the count of eight. Mann was beginning to fire himself after the wild exchange of punches and for a while it seemed likely that he would hit the canvas under Shea's furious return fire. Mann came back strong in the fourth round and put over a right hook which sent the Hartford boy down for good. The referee waved Mann to his corner and then carried Shea to the other corner without making a count. The weights were Mann 141 and Shea 140.

Pecheeni Loses Close Decision

"Bingo" Billo, local Filipino featherweight, won by a shade over Geno Pecheeni of Norwich in another four round preliminary. Pecheeni took the first two rounds by slender margins and finally gave way before the Filipino's aggressive attack in the last two rounds. The bout was fast all the way and both boys punched freely. The weights were Pecheeni 126 1-4 and Billo 127 1-4.

Johnny Bedell of New London knocked out Charlie Tauff of the Coast Guard in the last stanza of a four round preliminary. It was the second meeting between the two bantamweights, Tauff having won a decision in the first bout two weeks ago. Tauff had an edge on points in the first two rounds of the battle scoring heavily with swinging rights and lefts. He tired rapidly however and in the third round was fairly even. Bedell opened up in the fourth round and pounded his opponent mercilessly with short rights to the heart and head. Tauff was out on his feet practically defenseless when the referee stopped the bout. The weights were alik, 118 pounds.

In th opening bout Young Lavigne of the Sub Base knocked out Young Ilisan, Coast Guard Filipino, in the third round. Lavigne began working from the first bell pouring in a stream of lefts and rights from all angles. The referee stopped the bout in the third round when it became apparent that Ilisan could no longer defend himself.

Mays and Quintero Matched

Promoter Fakourey has signed up a real headliner for his next show which is to be held on Thursday evening, June 20, the night before the Yale-Harvard boat race. For his principals he has none other than Manuel Quintero of Miami, Fla., one of the leading lightweights of the country and Bobby Mays, New London favorite. Fans will see Mays up against a southpaw fighter the same as himself, something that has not happened before.

All the players of the Taftville American Legion junior team will be given tryouts tonight in the game at the Providence street grounds with the Baltic Social club team.

ATHLETICS BEAT UHLE IN THIRTEENTH INNING

PHILADELPHIA, June 3—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics breezed in ahead of the Detroit Tigers in thirteen innings today 3-2, thereby bringing to an end George Uhle's winning streak of nine straight games.

The end of the long tussle and Uhle's long row of victories came in the most undramatic way possible. In the home half of the thirteenth Foxx opened with a double and Dykes and Collins, pinch hitting, were intentionally passed, filling the bases. Uhle then forced home the winning run by walking Bishop.

Grove hung up his eighth triumph of the year and at the same time allowed the A's to run their present winning streak to six games, by outpitching Uhle when the game went into extra innings. He allowed only four hits altogether. Fifteen of the Macks were left on base. Score:

YANKS WIN THIRD STRAIGHT FROM CHICAGO

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—The Yankees made it three straight over the Chicago White Sox today 1 to 0 by virtue of a brilliant pitching performance by Ed Wells, young left hander. Wells gave the Sox but two hits to beat out Ted Lyons in a mound duel.

The Yanks got to Lyons for only six hits, three of them doubles by Gene Robertson, but two of them came in succession in the first inning for the only run. Robertson's first double brought in Coombs after the center fielder had opened the game with a single. Chicago lost a good scoring chance in the second when Clancy led off with a triple but was out trying to make it a homer. Cissell got the only other hit off Wells in the fourth. The game was played in the fast time of an hour and 20 minutes. Score:

CARDS INCREASE THEIR LEAD IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—(AP)—The Cardinals took a firmer grip on the National league lead today by defeating the Brooklyn Robins, 9 to 8, in the twice delayed opener of their series.

The Cards had a slight hitting margin in the ding-dong battle that was tied up four times and not decided until the eighth inning. They collected 13 hits off Dudley and Ballou while Sylvester Johnson and Sherdel yielded an even dozen.

Frederick, Brooklyn center fielder, led the sluggers with a homer, a double and a single in four times at bat. Hendrick also got a homer for the Robins. Roettger, who replaced Grantti in right field late in the game was the only Cardinal batter who did not get a hit.

POWERMEN TAKE LEAD BY BEATING BOXMAKERS

The Eastern Connecticut Power company took undisputed possession of first place in the Montville Industrial league by defeating the Robertson Paper Box company in a league game played on the Shelton field in Uncasville last night.

Airtight pitching by Morosky aided by hard-hitting by Dugas and Friars proved too big an obstacle for the Paperbox boys to jump in their quest for first place. Dugas and Brouillard made home runs. A large crowd of spectators was out to see the game. The score:

ACADEMY NEEDS STONINGTON GAME TO FINISH UNBEATEN

By defeating Stonington high in the game here Wednesday, the Academy will accomplish something that no representative of the local school has ever done—finish a league season undefeated. The Wildcats have but this game to play to finish out a ten-game league slate with an unmarred record. They have the pennant clinched for their nearest rival has lost three games and stands no chance of even tying.

Lott Not to Sail Wednesday

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP)—George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, will not sail on the Berengaria Wednesday with his Davis cup tennis mates, John Hennessey, Indianapolis; John Van Ryn, Orange, N. J., and Wilmer Allison, Fort Worth, Texas. Lott, who is a student at the University of Chicago, will not be able to sail until about June 15, it was announced today.

Susie Says

Another year of Republican rule. And who cares?

Looks like the people had been satisfied with the last republican administration or else the democrats didn't give a darn whether they won or not.

Say folks ain't these political candidates hot stuff? You'd think you was their best friend a coupla days before election and after the election they high hat you the same as ever.

They'll call you on the 'phone on election day and want to send a car after you to bring you to the polls—and the next day if they see you toiling up the hill they'll look the other way as they drive by in their car.

To hear some of them purr over the phone like a cat that's been in the cream you'd think that the election was being held for your special benefit and if you didn't vote the town would go to the dogs.

What they mean is that if you don't vote for them, they'll be out of a job and have to go to work, only they don't tell you so. They hand you a lotta honeyed words but you want to add a whole lot of salt to 'em before you digest them.

When I was up to vote yesterday one of the candidates saw me and beamed, saying in such a delightfully sweet voice, "How do you do Mrs. ——, I was wondering if you was going to vote today.' Say, folks, do you know that feller won't even nod to me on the street on any other day.

Well, I just chuckled up my sleeve and went in to vote. The joke is on him just the same—I didn't vote for him. That was a case where a lotta good boloney went to waste.

And when I came out did he say a word to me He did not. He had put on the old high hat again. But did I care? I did not. I was having a quiet little laugh all to myself. These secret ballots are a great thing.

I heard a good one up at the polls while I was there. It seems some feller who has just been made a voter cast his first vote When he came out a friend says, 'Did you vote on the charter?'

"By gosh," says the feller. "I saw that feller's name up in the corner there but I didn't know what he was running for so I didn't vote for him.'

Say if you wanta know who has a soft snap on election it's them machine tenders and fellers what sit around with their feet on the rails taking it easy. I don't know how much they get but whatever it is they are overpaid.

But elections is great things just the same. If it wasn't for elections the city would be run like any other big business Where we got a good man in a job he'd stay there and wouldn't get dumped out just when he was worth something.

Yep, elections is great things. It gives a lotta fellers a chance to pick up a lotta easy money, driving cars, tending booths and looking wise. It also gives a lot of the wiseacres a chance to say "I told you so."

N. F. A. JR. VARSITY TRIMS LYMAN HIGH BY 23 TO 0

The Academy Seconds slaughtered Lyman high of Lebanon Monday afternoon at the campus to the tune of 23 to 0. The Wildcat junior varsity scored at will, running up the big total by their own heavy hitting and Lyman errors.

Karkutt did the hurling for the locals while Les Crowell, Bill McGuinniss and Goldberg caught, Whitmarsh was at first, Flather at second, Fitzgerald at third, Riordan at short, Gil McGuinniss and Mike Abusle in left field, Bob Geer in center and Dickerman and Nylen in right.

This was the fourth victory in five starts for the locals.

LEO JARVIS TO MANAGE TAFTVILLE A. A. THIS SEASON

At a meeting of the Taftville Baseball association held Monday evening Leo Jarvis was appointed manager of the baseball club for the coming year. Arthur Roy was made chairman of the association. The team was promised the backing of the mill. It is planned to open the season next week with a twilight game or two before putting on Saturday afternoon games. The team will be composed wholly of local players.

BOXING DOPESTERS PREDICT THAT DEMPSEY WILL RETURN TO THE RING

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—The great guessing game is on again. Livening up the dull spring season for fisticuffers and their faithful followers, and featuring as usual the big "will and won't" man from California, Jack Dempsey.

With a snort that ruffled the lather of his morning shave in tiny wavelets, the one-time ruler of the heavyweight roost told The Associated Press just a few days ago that he had no idea of ever fighting again. He held out but two reservations as he hid behind the soapsuds and neither seemed important at the time.

But the developments of the meantime have brought those reservations back into the picture with new significance. Dempsey shattered his promotional partnership with Humbert J. Fugazy, took a two year lease as promoter at the Chicago coliseum, held secret confab with Big Bill Carey, new overlord of Madison Square Garden, and hustled out of the town.

Today he ended up by flying to Los Angeles and word drifted from the coast, supposedly dropped unintentionally by his wife, Estelle Taylor, that the next few weeks will find the big slugger training again in the Ojai hills for his second comeback.

Jack prepped there for his first return to the leather wars, the campaign that ended in the $3,000,000 spectacle of the long count in Chicago two years ago.

Working along the lines that "where there is smoke there is fire", diagnosticians of the knuckle mart have decided that Dempsey had something in mind when he tagged two reservations to his articles of retirement.

"If some responsible party offered me a million dollars I'd have to consider it," was reservation No. 1. "If someone would guarantee me training expenses, say $50,000, and not consider it a binding promise for me to fight again, I might try to get in condition for another fling at the title," was No. 2.

Coming out point blank with their conclusions the diagnosticians are now ready to assert that the old mauler will try again, possibly next winter in Madison Square Garden's second invasion of Florida. They believe Dempsey, once he gets the smell of rosin in his nostrils again, can't be kept out of another crack at a million dollar gate.

The preparatory line-up seems to be made to order, Max Schmelling, the German bomber, and squat Paulino Uscudun will do battle to the Yankee stadium June 27. The winner will tackle Jack Sharkey here in September with nothing to bar a final tilt between Dempsey and the survivor in Miami next February.

Bill Carey, Dempsey's partner in staging the Shrakey-Stribling muss after Tex Rickard's death in Miami beach last winter, and the man who should know most of all about the situation says he has not discussed the matter officially with Dempsey.

"He doesn't know his own mind," Carey said today. "I think he wants to fight. He'd certainly look great in there next winter. And I'm certain of this, if he fights again it will be for me and I'm more than willing to talk in generous terms with him."

Add to this Dempsey's private belief that Schmelling will be knocked out by Paulino, that Paulino is just "made" for him, that Sharkey is past his peak and could be knocked out again—and you seem to have all the ingredients for another Dempsey comeback.

PIRATES COME OUT OF SLUMP TO SWAMP PHILLIES

PITTSBURGH, June 3.—(AP)— The Pittsburgh Pirates, after losing two straight to Philadelphia, wrecked vengeance on the Quakers today by beating them 14 to 2. It was the ninth consecutive win for Burleigh Grimes, spitball artist who has not dropped a contest this season.

A triple play, Thompson to Hurst to Friberg, featured in the fourth after the Buccaneers had made four runs. Grimes lined to the Philadelphia second baseman with first and second occupied and the fast work of the Quaker infield killed off the Pirate rally.

The Phillies only runs resulted from Lerian's homer with Friberg on. Grantham and P. Waner made circuit hits for the home team. P. Waner also had two doubles.

Pittsburgh pounded Sweetland and Roy for 15 hits, totaling 27 bases. Score:

Callahan Beats Clark

HOLYOKE, Mass., June 3—(AP)—Andy Callahan, sensational Lawrence southpaw, won his 20th consecutive victory here tonight over Clicky Clark, of Holyoke, in a snappy 10 round out. Callahan won six of the ten rounds while two sessions were even. The Lawrence lad's harder punching and clever boxing brought him through. Callahan weighed 141 to 142 1-2 for Clark.

In another ten rounder Jack Keily, of Waterbury, Conn., won a technical knockout over Frank Morris, of New York, in the third round. A bad cut over Morris' left eye forced the referee to halt the bout. Kelly weighed 170 and Morris 173.

GIANTS HANG THIRD DEFEAT ON CUBS

CHICAGO, June 3—(AP)— The New York Giants made it three in a row over the Cubs today, winning 8 to 1 behind the steady pitching of Carl Hubbell. It was the fourth straight defeat for Chicago and the Giants' eleventh victory in the last twelve games played. Coupled with the defeat of the Phillies it put New York into the first division.

Pat Malone was driven from mound in the sixth inning under a barrage of Giant base hits which netted three runs. Hal Carlson and Claude Jonnard hurled the rest of the game for the Cubs. The Giants got twelve hits off the three pitchers.

Mel Ott, with three singles and a walk in four trips to the plate and Freddy Lindstrom, with a home run and a single, led the Giant attack. Singles by English, Cuyler and Stephenson, got a run for the Cubs in the ninth after Hubbell had pitched eight innings of shutout ball.

REDS SWAMP BRAVES IN EASY CONTEST

CINCINNATI, June 3.—(AP) — Six hits off Cantwell three of them doubles, and an error in the first inning which produced six runs, gave the Reds a lead which they never relinquished and Boston dropped its second straight game to Cincinnati 12 to 3 here today. Acting Manager Johnny Evers changed the Braves batting order placing Richbourg in the leadoff position but the combination failed to check the Braves downward slide.

FINAL ORGANIZATION OF JR. TWILIGHT LEAGUE TONIGHT

Final organization of the Norwich Junior Twilight league for the season will be made at a meeting at the Duwell club rooms this evening at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is expected by the Duwell club, sponsors of the league.

There is considerable interest in the league this year and the teams that will make up its membership have been showing up well in the practice sessions. Indications are that fast baseball will be the watchword during the season. Elaborate plans have been made for opening night.

WESTERLY

COUNCIL HEARS SUGGESTION REGARDING G. A S. TERMINUS

At the June meeting of Westerly Town council Monday morning with Councilman Isaac G. Smith the only absentee, on motion of Councilman Farquhar Smith the council went into executive session at 11:20 to take up postponed matters. A Rocket street resident asked for the installation of an electric light. Chairman Broughton of the lighting committee assured her that the matter would be taken care of in a manner to lighten that dark street. F. E. Hobart of Mystic, superintendent of Groton-Stonington Traction company which operates motor busses between Pawcatuck and Clarkville and New London proposed having the busses come into Westerly and by way of Broad and Granite streets, Grove avenue, High street, and Railroad avenue, proceed to the Westerly station of the New Haven railroad. The council went on record as unopposed, with stops to be made by incoming busses at the Rhode Island hotel property and outgoing from the railroad station at the St. Clair corner.

For Thomas Salimeno's petition for a pool license in the Grille block, on Canal street, Attorney M. Walter Flynn urged that the council use its discressionary power in granting the permit. He said the petitioner was willing to cooperate with the police and council. Landlord Joseph S. Grille in a word for the petitioner stated that he had received application from a small out of town concern to hire the store, but when it was learned that a large chain store was to come the idea was given up. "the big fish eat the small fish," you know. At the executive session the petition was denied.

Henry D. Havens stated to the council that he had secured the signatures of all the abutting property owners for the establishing of a new 10-foot back, instead of the present 30-foot set back building line under the zoning ordinance in the 400-foot strip of business section near the Atlantic Beach casino. The only one who had refused to sign was John Neild, Jr., owner of a two-year longer lease for a business building that is now on the distant set-back line. On the Havens' property at the present time a business building right on the sidewalk line and this property Mr. Havens said he was willing to move back, it being his desire to erect a large building in which patrons could be seated instead of standing on the sidewalk as is done under present conditions. At the executive meeting the council voted to sustain the Westerly zoning board in making no change in the present building line.

Angelo Sposato, 12 Pond street, presented a claim for damage to his property resulting from the burning of his property from a fire started in the adjoining Charles Dortch dumping ground. Inasmuch as the dump is not town-owned Mr. Sposato was referred to Mr. Dortch to collect his damage claim. The matter was also referred to Council Dump Committeeman Joseph Fraser for investigation.

The bill of Sheffield Greene, Forest Fire Warden of Westerly, was voted paid.

The May report of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown showed 10 arrests, only one for intoxication, three being for the passing of a red semaphore signal.

A pool license was voted F. Capizzano, 55 Pierce street.

The fee for the Atlantic Beach casino was fixed at $100, as last year.

Dr. Samuel Webster, Westerly health officer, in his report for May, stated that the smallpox scare, emanating from the town of Stonington, had passed. A large number of Westerly residents had been vaccinated, but no case of smallpox had been reported within the town. One case of measles was reported within the month.

Bradford Athletic association, Frank Ward, secretary, was voted a permit to play Sunday baseball at Douglas park, Bradford under same conditions as last year.

In the matter of licensing the sale of fireworks for Fourth of July, the council went on record as approving the same conditions for sale permits as a year ago.

Building Inspector Thomas Wills' report for May showed 50 application received, 17 for frame buildings, 14 granted; 1 brick or stone, 1 granted; 38 for additions, 38 granted. Two permits were not granted as one did not have specifications and the other had no plans or specifications.

Before the executive session adjourned the council voted an increase in the pay of members of the police force as follows: Police patrolman, an increase of 25c a day for each 2 and 1-2 years on the force up to and including 10 years. Police Chief an increase of 50c to base pay.

Chimney Fire and False Alarm

The Pawcatuck fire alarm whistle sounded shortly after 2 p. m. Monday from Box No. 65, Stillman avenue and Brick mill for a chimney fire on Robinson street. Two pieces of fire apparatus responded. The fire was in the chimney of a house owned by William Roever and occupied by John Keegan. Chemical was poured down the chimney until the fire was out without damage to the interior of the house. The recall sounded at 3:05 p. m.

While the Pawcatuck firemen were fighting the fire in the chimney an alarm was sounded from Box No. 35 on the Westerly side of the Pawcatuck river, the box being at the corner of School and George streets. Three pieces of Westerly fire department apparatus answered the call, to find the alarm a false one. It was reported that a Polish child, who undoubtedly heard the Pawcatuck alarm, pulled in the box. In sounding the alarm from this box of older type the hammer was not pulled all the way down, simply tripped and but one round of the alarm was turned in.

A dress rehearsal was held Sunday afternoon at the United theatre by players from Westerly Italian Welfare society for presentation by amateurs this week end. Another rehearsal is scheduled for Wednesday. The proceeds from the production are to be used for the charitable work of the organization in and about Westerly. The players are being coached by Miss Jessie Hughes. Frank La Pere is the chairman of the general committee on arrangements. Other members of the general committee are Edward Reguci, Louis Murano, Jr., Gerardo Russo, James Salimeno, Michael Vacca, Joseph Orlando, Charles Acolina, John Gencarella, Samuel DeBartolo, Tony Pucci, George Quattromani, Michael Ferendo, Fred Gabrielle, Joseph Salimeno and Joseph LaPere.

REV. ARTHUR C. ADAMS SPEAKER AT MEETING

The May meeting of the Congregational Missionary society was held Tuesday afternoon at the church, the Baptist Missionary society having been invited to meet with them. The speaker was Rev. Arthur C. Adams of Norwich, a returned missionary from Africa who told in a pleasing manner of the customs of the African people. He also favored the audience with songs in the language of the African. Cake and coffee were served and a social time was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burdick of Danielson visited relatives in town Thursday.

The Ladies' Bible class of the Baptist Sunday school was very pleasantly entertained by Mrs. John Smith Wednesday afternoon. An interesting program in charge of Mrs. Albert Bennett and Mrs. George Pendleton consisted of readings by Mrs. Nellie Main and Mrs. Appleton Main; vocal duet with encore, Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Smith.

Memorial Exercises.

Memorial day exercises were largely attended by citizens and children who came to pay homage to the soldier dead. The assembly met on the green, in front of the Congregational church, where the line was formed. Jared Benjamin and Donald Zabriskie were flag bearers and led the march to the cemetery. Prayer was offered by Rev. G. W. Clark. After a recitation by Carrie Benjamin and the singing of two stanzas of America, the graves were decorated with a bouquet and a flag. The procession proceeded to the library where the Gettysburg address was read by Mrs. Edith Muttart, a recitation by Peter Nieronska, salute to the flag. After prayer by Rev. J. A. Smith, the exercises concluded with the singing of the last stanza of America. Rev. J. A. Smith made two handsome floral pieces, one of which was used at the entrance to the cemetery and the other at the monument at the libary.

Rev. and Mrs. N. B. Prindle and Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Hall spent Thursday at their camp by the lake.

Herbert Johnson and family were callers in town Wednesday.

Crowning May Queen.

At the Congregational church Friday evening a play "Crowning the May Queen" was given by members of the junior and primary departments of the Sunday school. The stage was effectively decorated to represent a woodland scene. The parts were taken as follows: Old Hagar, the gypsy, Elsie Fritz; four woodland elves, Richard Benjamin, Charles Arthur and Barbara Geisthardt, Minalo Thornton; "Rose," the queen, Leona Zundel; Winnie, Janis Crary; Helen, Carrie Benjamin; Grace, Mildred Slater; Doris, Ellen Abrahamson; Ellie, Ruth Abrahamson; Percy, Arthur Dawley; Cecil, Charles Crary; Arthur, Morgan Dawley; Frank, Leslie Staubley; Guy, Henry Bagley; Harold, Clarence Zundel. Mrs. Frank Crary assisted at the piano. Cake and coffee were served. Many compliments were paid to the teachers of the various classes and others who helped to make the evening a success.

Only Cadillac and La Salle provide this Safety and Handling Ease

The indispensable protection of the Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission, Duplex-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes, and non-shattering Security-Plate Glass in all windows, doors and windshields, is standard equipment with every Cadillac and La Salle

THE exclusive safety and handling ease factors cited above almost compel the choice of Cadillac or La Salle. They place these cars so far in the forefront that the selection of Cadillac or La Salle becomes only a matter of the elimination of cars not so equipped.

The Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission has won enthusiastic, nationwide approval—for the very excellent reason that it eliminates one of the most annoying phases of driving.

With this new transmission gear-shifting becomes almost an unconscious act. There is never any clashing—no noise. With your finger-tips you make just one gentle movement from gear to gear with the lever. You can shift from high to second as readily as from second to high—at any speed—a feature you will especially appreciate on steep hills.

Experts are finding it a revelation; it is indispensable to the inexperienced; and women in particular acclaim it a welcome boon from the old method of "rugging" and "timing" to keep from clashing the gears. This transmission is exclusively Cadillac's and it is protected by basic patents.

The Cadillac-La Salle Duplex-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes (also exclusive because of basic patents) are of inestimable value in any traffic emergency. No other car has brakes so powerful, so positive in action, or that operate with so little pedal pressure. The lightest touch of the toe on the brake pedal gives instantaneous, velvet-like deceleration. Increased pressure enables you to stop your car in the shortest possible space. Also, a thorough examination would reveal that when the brake pedal is released there is never any tendency to drag—the cause of much needless friction and wear in cars not so equipped.

The protection afforded by Security Plate Glass, with which all Cadillac-La Salle windows, doors and windshields are equipped, is of too great importance to be lightly brushed aside. This glass remains intact if broken through impact or collision. It will not fly into fragments. It is Cadillac's conscientious conviction that every motorist is entitled to this protection in these days of high speed and congested streets and highways.

These three safety factors are standard equipment in every Cadillac and La Salle and are offered at no extra charge.

LA SALLE $2295

La Salle is just as easy to purchase as many cars of far less value and far less prestige. And it is far more economical to operate. It is priced from $2295 to $2873. Cadillac $3295 to $3995. All prices f. o. b. Detroit. The General Motors Deferred Payment Plan makes it possible for you to enjoy your Cadillac or La Salle at once and pay out of income.

. . . Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing automobile values. Cadillac-La Salle delivered prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing.

NORWICH AND NEW LONDON

BUILDING OPERATIONS FOR MAY SHOW INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

May proved to be a very good month for building in Norwich as there were 31 permits granted by Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft for a value of $44,600. The past month exceeded the same month in 1928 by eight permits and the valuation was $14,000 more than last year. The permits were issued as follows:

New frame houses	5
New frame garages	10
New frame barns	1
New stone garages	1
Alterations to frame buildings	11
Alterations to brick buildings	2
Stagings	1
Totals	31

Estimated cost as given by applicants $44,600.

During the last week in May there were eight permits granted at the office of the fire marshal as follows:

To Gustave Dick to erect a one-car stone garage at 56 Spruce street for himself. The garage will be 12x16 feet. The estimated cost is $2,000.

To Axel E. Johnson to erect for himself a frame one-car garage at 46 Geer avenue. The garage will be 12x20 feet and will have a concrete foundation and floor. The estimated cost is $200.

To Samuel W. Lacy to alter and rebuild the front of the present frame dwelling at 169 Mt. Pleasant street. A frame veranda will replace the old one. The estimated cost is $125.

To James Fraser to remodel he present building at 280 Hamilton avenue into a two apartment house. The apartments will have six rooms and bath each. The interior finish will be in hard wood and plaster and the exterior will be finished in clapboards and shingles. The estimated cost is $3,950.

To Mrs. Theodora A. Barber to alter the present frame barn on Laurel Hill avenue into a three-car garage. The estimated cost is $100.

To Harry M. Land to remodel the front of the building at 16 Broadway. The entire brick front of the building will be removed and the brick piers will be rebuilt. New I-beams will be used to reinforce the building. New plate-glass fronts will be put in the two stores. On the interior several partitions will be removed and the interior changed to some extent. The estimated cost is $6,000.

To Jacob Slosberg to alter and extend the present stone and brick garage at 135 Franklin street. The addition will be of brick construction and will be 32x16 feet. The floor will be of cement. The estimated cost is $300.

To Harry Varaunick to erect a frame garage at 61 Roosevelt avenue for himself. The foundation will be of cement and the superstructure of frame. The garage will be 12x18. The estimated cost is $400.

There has been much progress made on local building projects during the past month and there is every indication that building will keep up during the summer. There has been more dwelling houses built in the past six months in the town than for any other period in the history of Norwich. Certain sections of the city are fast building up and many of the new houses are ready for occupation.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were seven sales of real estate as compared to seven sales for the corresponding week in 1928. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $20,100 and $7,160.

There were five sales of real estate in New London during the week just passed as compared to six sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $21,330 and $37,280.

New London.

Work on the new buildings for the new Coast Guard academy off Mohegan avenue will probably get under way much sooner now that the city council has voted to pay the $50,000 demanded for the Payne property instead of going ahead with condemnation proceedings which it is estimated might have dragged through the courts for a year or more and thus halt work for at least that length of time. As things stand now the city council and other city officials are rushing the acquisition of the Payne and Allyn properties as fast as possible so that the land can be turned over to the federal government for use of the coast guard. Plans for the various buildings to be erected have been virtually completed and as soon as the land is available it is expected that bids will be received and the contract awarded. Indications at present are that the work will be well under way within a few months.

In preparation for the construction of the proposed million dollar museum to be built, as provided in the will of the late Harriet U. Allyn, bids for grading work are now being received. The proposed site is located at the junction of Mohegan avenue and the Norwich road. Plans for the new building were shown to local citizens this week and provide for a beautiful building which will greatly enhance the attractiveness and beauty of College hill. It is expected definite steps toward construction will be taken in the near future.

Plans are being prepared for the proposed new Roman Catholic Syrian Chapel to be located at the corner of West Colt street and Connecticut avenue. The chapel will be 36x70 feet, with a seating capacity of 300 persons. There will be hardwood floors, plumbing, heating and electric wiring. Rev. Anthony Aneed will have charge of the construction arrangements.

The permit has been issued for a dairy building to be erected at 73 Jefferson avenue by the Mohegan Dairy Co., Inc. There will be a concrete foundation, concrete block walls, steel frame, steel mesh concrete ceiling over basement, steel trusses and a roof of wood and roll roofing.

Work has been started on a dwelling to be built at 122 Thames street. The house will be 24x28 feet, with a sun porch 7x15 feet. It will be arranged for one family and will be built by day labor at a cost of about $8,500.

Plans have been drawn for alterations to the dwelling at 51 Federal street for Dr. E. A. Henkle of that address. The house will be re-arranged for apartments, the work to include new plumbing, re-decorating, partition and stair changes and new electric wiring.

Building Permits.

Mohegan Dairy Co., Inc., dairy building, 73 Jefferson avenue, $4,000.

Carlo Cecchini, dwelling, 23 Ashcraft road, $9,000.

E. I. Raymond, Thames street, frame dwelling, 122 Thames street, $8,500.

G. H. Young, raze barn and erect garage, 156 Willetts avenue, $500.

Ellsworth Horton, store alterations, 684 Bank street, $6,000.

Gager-Crawford Co., store alterations, 13 Main street, $1,750.

Dr. E. A. Henkle, alterations for apartments, 51 Federal street, $7,000.

J. D. Pettigrew, Ocean avenue, garage alterations, Alewife avenue, $1,000.

Number of permits for the week, 11; estimated cost of buildings, $38,450.

Westerly.

For the last of May Westerly Building Inspector Thomas Wills and Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi have issued the following building and zoning permits:

May 22—Mrs. Agnes G. Curran, 57 Atlantic avenue, Misquamicut. Two-story cottage, 24 feet by 21 feet at 57 Atlantic avenue.

P. F. SWENEY GETS CONTRACT FOR BALTIC CONVENT ADDITION

Contractor P. F. Sweeney was awarded the contract for the new addition to the Baltic convent on Monday. The contract calls for a building 32x65 feet to be erected at an approximate cost of $50,000. The plans call for a three story building with basement and a wing, 15x30 feet, one story and basement. The exterior is to be in tapestry brick. The first floor of the addition will be used as a recreation hall. In the basement will be bathrooms, boiler room and storage rooms. The second and third floors will be used as dormitories. The bathrooms will be finished in tile while the other rooms will have hardwood floors and plastered walls. Work will start on the addition within the near future.

Pleasant New Norwich Town Home

HOUSE BUILT BY P. F. SWEENEY FOR J. C. MARA

NEW HOME OF J. C. MARA ON LEE AVE. IS ATTRACTIVE AND COMPLETE HOUSE

One of the most attractive of the Dutch Colonial dwelling houses in Norwich is that of James C. Mara on Lee avenue, recently completed by Contractor Patrick F. Sweney. The house is pleasantly situated on an attractive lot facing the Mason monument.

The exterior of the house is attractively finished in clapboards and shingles. The first story is in wide white clapboards while the second story is finished in dark green shingles. The roof is in a lighter shade of green stained shingles. The gutter and leaders are of copper. The lamps at each side of the colonial doorway are of bronze.

The interior of the house is very nicely appointed. There are seven rooms and a bath, all finished in oak and hard finish plaster with the exception of the bathroom which is done in tile. On the first floor is the large living room, dining room, breakfast nook, sun-parlor and kitchen. In the living room is a colonial fireplace built of tapestry brick with a tile hearth. Leading to the second floor is an attractive open staircase of oak.

On the second floor are four bedchambers and the bathroom. The chambers are finished in oak and hard finish plaster walls. The walls of all the rooms are tinted in harmonizing tones with the furnishings.

In the basement is a furnace room and laundry. The heating system is steam. Brass plumbing has been used throughout the house and the electrical fixtures are very attractive. The house is 24x38 feet.

In the rear is a single car garage built to conform to the construction of the house. A driveway leads to the garage along the south side of the house.

TEN TIMES REPRIEVED, CONVICT AWAITS DEATH

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., (AP)—Texas' "most reprieved" prisoner is awaiting death in the electric chair, but he is farther from death now than he was several times last year.

Juan Flores has been granted ten stays of execution by Gov. Dan Moody. Twice the electric chair in the state penitentiary here has been rewired to receive the Mexican before the governor issued a reprieve. Rewiring was necessary because Flore's left leg is artificial.

July 30 is the latest date set for his electrocution. He was sentenced in connection with the killing of a 15-year-old boy in San Antonio.

Macon, Ga., Airport Lighted

MACON, Ga., (AP)—Miller field, Macon airport, soon will be completely lighted for night flying. A contract has been awarded for a large flood light and 23 border lights in addition to the beacon light already installed.

Arizona Leads in Copper

NEW YORK, (AP)—A history of copper prepared by H. Hentz & company says: "During the early era of copper mining Michigan held first place in production, but toward the latter part of the nineteenth century Montana took a leading position. It maintained the lead until 1907, when Arizona became the most important producing state."

Roses from Antarctica

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Red roses for her birthday came to Mrs. A. F. Rubier from her husband, an airplane mechanic with the Byrd expedition to the South Pole. A radiogram to a Washington florist made the gift possible.

FOREIGN MISSION BOARD NAMES NEW LONDON MAN

Announcement was made in Boston Saturday by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions (Congregationalist) of the appointment to its executive staff of Rev. Harwood B. Catlin of Johannesburg, South Africa, as candidate secretary for men, and Miss Grace E. McConnaughey of Fenchow, Shansi, China, as secretary of the home department.

Everybody avoided Bill.. until he overcame "B.O." (Body Odor)

BILL was no mind-reader. But he could see that Joan wasn't enjoying this trip into town.

Why is she edging away? he wondered. Then he saw the newspaper headline—"Hotter weather here—lookout for 'B. O.'"

Body odor—was that his trouble? Read Bill's own answer.

Keeps perspiration odorless

"Tricky 'B. O.' It fooled me all right.

"Yes, I perspired. But in a healthy, normal way. I didn't notice any unpleasantness.

"Now I realize that we become insensitive to ever-present odors; that pores constantly give off odor-causing waste—as much as a quart a day; and the hotter the weather the more we offend.

"So it's Lifebuoy for me always—and no 'B. O.' worries. Its purifying lather keeps the body fresher. Even removes cigarette odors from the fingers.

"We all think Lifebuoy's a fine skin soap, too—and a real safeguard against disease germs. Lifebuoy's pleasant, extra-clean scent that vanishes as you rinse, tells you it purifies."

BRISK RESUMPTION OF OPERATIONS FOR ADVANCE IN THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—A striking recovery of the grain markets set the signal on today's stock market for short covering in the farm implement and mail order issues, which stimulated a brisk resumption of operations for the advance throughout the list.

Call money, however, began to show signs of the long predicted June drain, and the public declined to be drawn into the market. Total sales barely crossed the 3,000,000 share mark. Call loans, having held at 6 per cent. since May 22, moved up to 7 per cent. Time money, on the other hand, eased further, with the longer maturities loaning at 8 1-4 per cent.

The tightening of call money was attributed to the return of the June 1 payment checks to the banks for collection, and it was feared that this may make for further stringency during the next few days. It was recalled that the peak of the previous month end requirements was not felt until the second week of the month.

The New York stock exchange announced after the close of the market that total member borrowings on May 31 were $6,665,137,925, a decrease of but $109,792,470, from April 30. While the exchange commission is not strictly comparable to the federal reserve weekly figures, as it includes more sources of funds and is not computed on corresponding dates, it was rather disappointing in view of the greater reduction in federal reserve loans, which declined $244,000,000 from May 1 to May 29. The exchange loan total has been reduced but approximately $140,000,000 from its record total reported as of March 30.

Although the recent improvement in time money rates has been interpreted as indicating rather less stringent credit conditions in June than were forecast before the severe stock market decline, the monthly review of the New York federal reserve bank indicated continued dissatisfaction over the absorption of funds by the stock market, stating that the recent ease in call money appears to be the result of a flow of funds to this center from other federal reserve districts, causing an increase in member bank borrowings in those districts. "It does not reflect any general easing of the situation," The review declares.

The improvement in the grain markets, and the week end announcement of the reparations agreement, were the chief items of the day's news influencing the market. A contributory factor was another assortment of satisfactory earnings and May sales reports. Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck reported May sales about 25 and 50 per cent. respectively, above May, 1928.

Case Threshing rallied 23 points, and closed 15 up, net. International Harvester, Advance Rumely, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck mounted 4 or 5 points. Other strong points included Burroughs Adding, Allied Chemical, General Electric and F. Gas Shattuck, up 6 to 10 points. Oils were generally firm on expectations of more gasoline and crude oil price increases. Atlantic Refining made an extreme gain of nearly 5 points, and Simms reached new high ground.

Rails and utilities encountered some profit taking on last week's sharp advances. Atchison dropped about 4 points on President Storey's statement that there is no near prospect of a stock dividend. Erie and Norfolk and Western, however, reached new high ground. American Water Works and North American gained 2 or 3 points, while Philadelphia Co. and Commonwealth Power jumped 10 and 14 points, the latter to a new top at 199.

Westvaco Chlorine, which broke severely Saturday on failure of a Chicago investment house said to be interested in the stock, rallied 16 points. Chrysler made an extreme gain of 4 points, as liquidation of the holdings of an unsuccessful pool was said to have been completed. Notable soft spots were Paris & Tilford and Shubert Theatre, which dropped about 6 and 4 points to new lows.

Bullish factors influencing the rise in wheat were expectations of frost tonight, a bullish Argentine crop estimate, and the prospect of farm relief legislation. The rise was from 5 to 6 cents a bushel, taking all positions above the $1 mark, corn likewise improved, cotton mounted about $1.50 a bale.

Foreign exchanges were heavy, the Japanese yen dropping 1-3 of a cent to 48.60, a new 1929 low, which was attributed to Japan's large excess of imports over exports. The Spanish peseta and sterling demand rates also reached new 1929 minimums.

After Edward Johnson, the tenor, had been singing with the Metropolitan Opera for seven years, he sang at a Syracuse, N. Y., concert. Two ladies took a prominent business man to hear him. After Johnson had finished singing, this musical recruit said: "He's very good, but I don't think he will make good in New York."

POETRY

Things Green Things Grow

I planted the spring a garden,
(Yes, that I did, I my hand was low,)
And my heart was troubled sorely
To see the green things grow!

And all thro' the long summer
I labored with spade and hoe—
Nature and I together—
To make the green things grow.

Planted and hoed and watered
In the morning's cheerful glow
And the noontides flaming fervor
To make the green things grow.

Planted and hoed and tended
With joy, they only know
Who share in the inspiration
Of seeing green things grow.

Beetle and mouse and cutworm,
Perished under my heel;
I did not spare my effort—
I did not flag in my zeal.

Duly the earth responded
To the toil of hand and hoe;
And fully I sensed the pleasure
Of seeing green things grow.

And I know no thrill that's keener,
In all this world below,
Than the hope and the inspiration
Of seeing green things grow.

"The Lord God planted a garden"
In the infinite long ago.—
Perhaps for the very pleasure
Of seeing green things grow!
—Arthur Goodenough in Brattleboro Reformer.

Souls

My soul goes clad in gorgeous things,
Scarlet and gold and blue.
And at her shoulder sudden wings
Like long flames flicker through.

And she is swallow-fleet, and free
From mortal bonds and bars.
She laughs, because eternity
Blossoms for her with stars!

O folk who scorn my stiff gray gown,
My dull and foolish face,
Can ye not see my soul flash down,
A singing flame through space?

And folk, whose earth-stained looks I hate,
Why, may I not divine
Your souls, that must be passionate,
Shining and swift, as mine?
—Fannie Stearns Gifford.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

The weary magistrate said: "Can't this case be settled out of court?"

"Jes' what we's trying to do, yo' honor, when the policeman interfered."—Clipped.

"Has the trolley car gone yet?" the swaying gentleman asked earnestly.

"No, not yet."

"Must have gone. Can see its tracks plain as anything."—The Wampus.

"Little boy, don't you know what becomes of boys who use such bad language when they play marbles?"

"Yes'm, they grow up and play golf. Your shot, Jimmy."—Tenney Magazine.

"'Tis a hard world," said Timothy, as he quit his task for the day.

"It is that!" said Michael, "and I think so the more every time I put me pick in it!"—U. P. Magazine.

"Willie, big sister has a little baby, and Daddy is grandfather and Mummie is grandmother and you'll be its uncle and Jane will be its aunt. Isn't that wonderful?"

"Gee, yes! And they fixed all that up so quick!"—London Answers.

"Gretel, vill you marry mit me?"

"Sure ting, Ole."

A long, dead silence; no word, no look, no motion.

"Why don't you say something, Ole?"

"By golly, Ay tinky I say too much already."—Baltimore Sun.

"What are you smiling about?" the trolley rider asked his neighbor.

"Well," said his friend, as he surveyed the young ladies across the aisle, "I wonder what the author of 'her little feet, like mice, peeped in and out' would find to say in these days."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Fiances—Mother told me to object to the use of the word obey in the marriage ceremony.

Fiance—And what did you tell her?

Fiance—I said I wouldn't.

Fiance—You darling!

Fiance—Yes, I said you could take a joke as well as any man.—Nottingham News.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Whether or not there is any connection, President H. L. Ermantinger of the National Horseshoe Pitching association says no active member of that organization within ten years has suffered from or been operated upon for appendicitis.

The joke is on a Gardiner, Me., baker whose hours at the shop are from 1 a. m. to 1 p. m. Forgetting that he had not set his alarm clock properly, he was awakened at 5.30 p. m., thought it was 5.30 in the morning, rushed to the bakery and started making doughnuts before the joke was out.

The combined United States fleet has recently completed extensive maneuvers in Central American waters. During these exercises the total number of planes participating was 247; total number of pilots 259; total number of flights 1,612; number landings on aircraft carriers 1,150; hours flown 4,339; total mileage flown 297,292; number catapult shot 187. All this was accomplished without loss of life or injury to personnel.

Due to a rainstorm and its effects, a woman driver at Plainville, Conn., rammed a tree head on with her car. She was not badly injured, but when she attempted to back out from the tree the car wouldn't move. She called for a wrecking crew and they found that the car was held fast by the crank which had been left in the front of her car. It had been driven into the tree as far as the end of the handle and the wrecking crew had to saw off the handle before they could separate the tree and the car.

FERRY PROPOSITION OPPOSED BEFORE NEW LONDON CITY COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 3.—At the meeting of the city council tonight petitions were presented from Messrs. Crandall and Lawrence for the establishment of a ferry line between New London and Groton. A power boat with capacity of 25 passengers would be used. What action the council will take is uncertain, for the petition was referred to the committee on public works. The Groton and Stonington Traction Co. offered objection to the establishment of the ferry line, their spokesman, Mr. Perry, representing that the Traction Co. was under charter by the state and was regulated by the public utilities commission in every respect, furnishing a bond for liability in the sum of $100,000, the company running cars regularly and daily from the early hours of the morning until midnight, while the service of the petitioners would be but from June 1 to Nov. 1, from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Mr. Perry said that the traction company could not withdraw their service, or raise or lower rates without the sanction of the utilities commission. He held that the petitioners wanted to come in and take all the cream off the milk, leaving what was left for the Traction Co. He also held that the proposed ferry line had not been proved a necessity or convenience.

The council decided to defer passing an ordinance for a bond issue. A proposed fireworks ordinance was given its second hearing. By its provisions fireworks would be sold for four days prior to the Fourth and on the Fourth fireworks would be discharged from 7 to 10 o'clock.

Fourteen applications for building permits were granted.

The bonds of four city sheriffs were approved.

Tax Collector Alexander made his report of taxes collected for the month.

At a previous meeting M. J. Moriarty put in a claim for $150 damage to his property by a crowd that attended a boxing match at the arena in Hamilton street. The city manager reported that police officers were there to preserve order and that boys went on the roof and did damage. The director of law's opinion was that the city was not liable and no damages will be paid.

The council adopted resolutions expressing its intention to make improvements on Grove street to the extent of $10,905; on Addison street, $1,940; Waldon avenue, $9,540, and on Main street, from State to Shapley street, $54,840. Abutting property is to pay the entire expense except in the case of Main street, where the Conn. Co. pays $1,500 for the re-laying of its tracks.

The council voted to lay sewers on Coleman and Ledyard streets and Cedar Grove avenue. The Young Women's Christian Association was given permission to hold Rose day June 8.

The director of law gave an opinion as to the authority of the council to remove buildings that were decayed, a fire menace and unsafe. The council is to pass opinion that the property is unsafe, the owner is to be notified to make improvements and if that is not done, the city has the authority to raze the property.

The building zone ordinance was amended, providing for a setback of 15 feet in No. 1 Business zone. Three-family houses are to be of fire-resisting construction. Only 70 per cent of the lot area can be occupied. It provides for 125 feet of floor space for one-family houses and 250 square floor-space. The buildings must have a corridor three feet wide and seven feet high.

Adjournment was made taken to Friday evening at 7:30.

JAMES R. MAY SUFFERS A SLIGHT SHOCK MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 3— James R. May, well known resident of New London suffered a slight shock affecting the right side today. He is unable to use his right arm.

ARRESTED IN DANIELSON CHARGED WITH FRAUD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 3.—Mrs. Evelyn Mendez, Schoolhouse lane, was arrested in Danielson this afternoon and turned over to the custody of Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh charged with fraud. Mrs. Mendez purchased an automobile, paying for it on conditional bill of sale, then selling the automobile while she did not have title on it. Mrs. Mendez was locked up and will be presented in the police court tomorrow.

STATE POLICE TRAP NUMEROUS OFFENDERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 3.—The state police in a further endeavor to curtail accidents, caused many arrests to be made over the week end. A Dodge sedan owned and driven by Edward A. Clark, Old Saybrook, and a truck owned by the state highway department and driven by Herman Hildebrand, 313 Boswell avenue, Norwich, collided on the shore road, Waterford, when Clark was attempting to turn his car around. Both drivers were found guilty of reckless driving by State Police Officer William MacKenzie, who investigated the crash and Clark and Hildebrand were arrested.

Stephen Volinsky and John W. Finnegan, both of Old Mystic, and employed by the Bergman Ice company, Mystic, were arrested charged with violation of the state motor vehicle laws, Volinsky with reckless driving and Finnegan with illegal parking. Volinsky parked his truck on a grade and, while it was motionless there the auto driven by Volinsky crashed against it. The collision caused Volinsky's car to collide with a machine driven by Doris E. Bell, Providence. The truck and both pleasure cars were damaged. Volinsky and Finnegan were arrested by State Police Officer William MacKenzie.

George J. Marceau, Fall River, was arrested in Waterford by State Police Officer Peter Busch charged with reckless driving.

Hosea Kawashita, Essex, was arrested in East Lyme by Officer Bush, the charge, reckless driving.

Fred H. Gage, St. James, L. I., was arrested in Waterford by Officer John Smith, charged with speeding. Officer Smith also arrested James W. Donnan, Frederick, Md., and Fergus McOsker, Providence, charged with reckless driving in Waterford.

Russell Rogers, Hartford, was arrested by Officer James Dygert, in Salem, charged with reckless driving.

Julius Shalen, Hartford, was arrested in Montville and on the Hartford turnpike by Officer Donald Brown, the charge, reckless driving.

Albert A. Tibbits, East Greenwich, R. I., was arrested in Waterford by Officer John Smith, charge, speeding.

Merle Bradley, 57 Pearl street, Mystic, was arrested by Officer Arthur Whitmarsh, charged with evasion of responsibility, having been taken into custody in Stonington. He will be in the Stonington town court tomorrow. The automobile Bradley was driving collided with a car driven by William J. Brady, 135 Boulevard place, this city. Both autos were damaged.

FUNERAL
Richard C. Shea

The funeral of Richard C. Shea, of 43 Williams street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners, including a delegation of members of the Knights of Columbus. The high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. George Clark. The bearers were John Holland, Frank Fitzmaurice, Jerome J. Collins, James T. Drea, Thomas McElarney and David P. Condon. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Real Estate Sales

Fannie Braxton has sold a house and lot on Bayonet street to Joseph S. Sanchez.

Ernest E. Rogers has sold a building lot on Glenwood avenue to Angelina T. Douglass.

Theodore Bodenwein and Alton T. Miner, the latter trustee of the estate of Bryan F. Mahan, have sold undivided one-half interests in two building lots, corner of Norwood avenue and Whittlesey street, to Fred Onuparik.

Patrolman Walter O'Neill was unable to perform patrol duty Sunday night, being confined to his home on Ashcraft road suffering from the effects of his recent vaccination.

The New England Oil Refining company, Boston, has assigned its lease of property on Pequot avenue to the Shell Eastern Products, Inc., a Delaware corporation.

Mrs. David Nickerson and infant son, Waterford: Gordon MacIntosh, 31 Bittman street; Mrs. Amos Landry and infant daughter, Montville, Mrs. Joseph Gaetano and infant daughter, 26 Starr street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

OBITUARY
Charles F. Stillwagon

Charles F. Stillwagon, 20, U. S., Coast Guard, state pier, died Sunday at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, death following a surgical operation performed a few days ago. Stillwagon's home was in Chicago and the body will be forwarded to that city for the funeral and burial.

MACFARLANE PROPERTY BOUGHT BY MOHICAN CO.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 3—The Hotel Mohican company has acquired additional property interests in New London for today it purchased the real estate on Washington street, owned by Archibald S. MacFarlane. The property adjoins other real estate owned by the hotel and is north of the Monte Cristo garage, owned by the hotel a house and lot the company purchased a few weeks ago from Fannie Rogers, Elizabeth Rogers and George Gorton. The property acquired today abuts the Plant building, which is also owned by the hotel.

DISGRACEFUL AUTO CASE CONTINUED TO TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 3—Francis D. Gilbert, 42, a salesman residing in New York, was in the police court today charged with indecent assault. At the request of Gilbert a continuance until tomorrow was granted. He furnished a surety on his bond of $200 for his court appearance. Gilbert was arrested at 3:30 Sunday morning while in his automobile off the highway of Jefferson avenue and entertaining a sailor, the position of the car attracting the attention of Sergeant Samuel Hick and Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey.

Stephen Dieturco, New Haven, was charged with reckless driving. The case was continued to Saturday next. He was arrested Saturday when he failed to heed a danger signal and his auto collided with another machine.

Stephen Jackett, a sailor, was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication and was fined $10. Jackett went to the union station Saturday night and when he created a disturbance he was arrested by Special Agent Leslie Peabody.

Jackson Woodruff, 51 Fremont street, charged with driving without a license, was discharged. He was arrested Saturday by Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell.

Dorrance Cochran, 9 Waldo street and Ronald Donovan, 13 Ocean avenue, charged with speeding, had their cases continued to next Saturday. Cochran and Donovan were arrested on Ocean avenue Saturday night and Sunday by Automobile Patrol Officer Cockell.

James Connell, 38 Waldan avenue and John L. Paganoni, Uncasville, were charged with speeding on Williams street, having been arrested Saturday. Each was fined $5.

Joseph Francioni, 61 Hamilton avenue, Groton, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. The charge was amended to driving with defective brakes. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10. Francioni was arrested Saturday night on Potter street by Patrolman Dennis Murphy.

Forfeited $2 Bonds

Mrs. Violet Hare, Groton; Donald R. Connor, 49 Winter street, Willimantic; Sam Santanello, Ocean avenue; Bernard Glassman, Squire street and William A. Devine, Uncasville, were charged with violation of the city's parking ordinance. As none of the drivers appeared in court their respective bonds of $2 were declared forfeited.

OVERLOADED TRUCK WITH GRANITE—FINED $25

Frank Pollard, employed by the Bottinelli Monumental company, was charged with driving an overloaded truck and was fined $25. He was arrested this morning by State Police Officer John Smith when the truck was discovered being driven through the streets with an excessive load of granite.

Thomas Burton, Connecticut avenue, was charged with reckless driving. He entered a demurrer to the complaint, which motion was overruled and a fine of $25 and costs was imposed. Burton was arrested Sunday morning at 2:30 o'clock on the New London-Norwich turnpike by State Police Officer Joseph King.

Edward Williams, of 91 Bayonet St., employed as a barber, was charged with breach of the peace and was discharged. Williams was seen to emerge from between two buildings on North Bank street late Saturday night by Patrolman Dennis Murphy and to all appearances carried an article secreted beneath his coat. When Patrolman Dennis Murphy ordered Williams to stop the latter refused to do so, and attempted to run, but he was overtaken by the officer and arrested. There was no evidence in possession of the prosecutor that Williams had violated the law, which resulted in the case being thrown out of court.

The other cases to claim the attention of the court were those of a half dozen men charged with intoxication. Some were given nominal fines, while others received a suspended sentence of 10 days in jail.

Two women, arrested on State street at 3:30 this morning were charged with intoxication, but they were discharged without being presented in court. The women were given their freedom for it became known that they were employed at one of the city's largest institutions.

TEAM TIES FOR 3RD PLACE IN NORWALK TRACK MEET

Four members of the Town and Country Branch Y. M. C. A. Athletic association took part in the state Y. M. C. A. outdoor track meet, Saturday afternoon in Norwalk, making the trip in the care of executive secretary of the branch, Herbert W. Hicks. The team had the satisfaction of tying for third place.

This track meet is open to all associations in the state, both county and city, and the contests are quite severe, so that the record of the local team is considered very fine. The Town and Country Branch has not had a team before in this meet, which in other years has been open only to the city associations. Those making the trip, besides Mr. Hicks, were William S. Maggs, Jr., and Roy Gavitt, Pawcatuck, Paul Bergel, Stonington, and Courtland Miner, Poquonoc.

FRAUDULENT CHECK PASSER TO MAKE GOOD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 3. — Peter B. Bridgett, Dorchester, Mass., was in the Stonington town court this morning charged with passing fraudulent checks. The case was disposed of by nolle by Bridgett agreeing to pay back the money he received by the negotiation of two checks Saturday. The face amount of the checks was not large.

Savannah Driver In Trouble

An automobile driven by E. S. Stowe, Savannah, Ga., and a truck driven by leaders Tytla, East Lyme, collided this morning, corner of Bank street and Montauk avenue. Both vehicles were damaged. Stowe was arrested by Patrolman Lawrence Fardy charged with reckless driving and was held in bail of $33 for his presentation in the police court tomorrow. The crash was the result of Stowe failing to heed an automatic traffic signal.

MRS. MARIA CROOKER MAL DIE FROM GAS FUMES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 3.—Mrs. Maria Crooker, Bank street, is a patient at Home Memorial hospital tonight suffering from gas asphyxiation, her recovery doubtful. She is of advanced years and has not recovered consciousness. Mrs. Crooker had a gas heating range going and in some manner the fumes entered the room, probably the connection becoming dislodged. She inhaled the fumes and was overcome. She was discovered in an unconscious condition by roomers and the police was summoned. When the woman could not be revived by the police she was taken to the hospital.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

Values

The things you love have value far
Beyond what money values are.

Love is the world's most sorry dearth—
The lonely souls know best its worth.

The things you love have their own place,
Through love, to bring your mind more grace.

More gentleness of thought and deed—
And thus fulfill a spiritual need.

My dog and cat have many a trait
My spirit well may emulate.

Unswerving loyalty they show . . .
(And that's the rarest trait I know)

They know I love them. May their trust
Make me more merciful and just.

Things loved bring out the Best in you—
They have important work to do.
—Ethel Fairmont.

Will and Testament

If it's in summer that I go,
Or late in spring,
I bid a slip of a wren I know
To halt at my door and sing.
Her voice is as thin as a flute,
But the notes are silver pure,
And she's so sure about something,
So utterly sure!

Or if I go in autumn,
I charge a friendly cricket
In a familiar thicket
To tune his fiddle and play
His piece about September
(Quick, with a lilting close).
I have forgotten the way it goes,
But he will remember.

It may be wintry weather,
Hickory, then, and pine
Kindle upon my hearth and shine,
Flames weaving together!
Till such a light will be on the wall,
Such a loveliness in the room,
I presently shall not know at all —Or wonder, even—
Whether it's Heaven,
Or still home.
—Nancy Byrd Turner.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO WIDE-AWAKES

The elephant is said to be the longest-lived animal in the world. Some people give to the parrot the honors for long life.

The elephant matures at about 25 years of age and, according to the rule that creatures live five times the period of their growth, his average age should be 125. As a matter of fact, very few live longer than that.

There seems to be plenty of evidence that parrots have lived 100 years—though this is exceptional. A definite record exists of a gray parrot living 93 years, and another of a sulphur-crested cockatoo that survived for 81 years. The average age attained by birds in captivity is probably between two and four years.

The real patriarch among living creatures is the Galapagos tortoise, which very likely does attain an authentic span of two centuries of life. Scientists have estimated that specimens were 400 years old; but it is safe to say that a tortoise 300 years old is phenomenally aged.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

A Proud Monkey

Dear Uncle Jed: One time I was living in a small town south of Los Angeles. There were some monkeys in a park near where we lived. My brother and I went down to see the monkeys with my mother one day. We took some pumpkin seeds to see if they would like them. I put one through the hole in the wire. The monkey bit a place in the shell and peeled the rest off and ate it. They liked them.

Once I got my head a little too near the hole and one of the monkeys pulled my hat off and into the cage before anybody could get it. He looked it all over to see if he could find anything. Then he put it on his head and went walking around as if he felt very big of himself. It came down over his eyes so he could hardly see anything. He ran into a post and bumped his head.

There was a small looking glass up near the top of the cage hanging on a post. He went up and looked in the glass to see how he looked, then he tipped the hat over on one side to see how he looked that way.

Some of the other monkeys chased him around the cage and tried to get it away from him, but he wouldn't let them have it.

The man who took care of them went in there and tried to get it, but he couldn't.

So I had to go home without my hat and I never saw it since.

BERNICE WATROUS, Age 13.
Mystic, R. D. No. 1.

Likes Fishing

Dear Uncle Jed: I am a little boy who is in the second grade and will be 8 years old June 11th. I love to play ball and go fishing, but my mother don't want me to go fishing. She is afraid I will fall into the water and get drowned. So I have to stay in the yard and play ball with my little brother.

WILFRED ALLARD, Age 7
Plainfield.

Costume Needed

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the third time I have written to you. I hope you and the Wide-Awakes will enjoy my story.

I didn't think our teacher would choose me to be in the play, but she has. I am to be a fairy. I need a pure whitie dress, and all I have is one with stripes. Now mother says that she must make me a pure white dress.

IRENE ALLARD, Age 10.
Plainfield.

My Doll

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a doll. Her name is Detty Dimple. I call her that because she has two dimples in her cheeks. Her eyes are blue. She has a white dress, coat, hat and stockings. Her booties are pink. The ribbons on her hat and dress are pink. My sister is writing this because I cannot write in ink.

LUCILLE BRUNELLE, Age 6.
Norwich.

Three Kittens

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my kittens. I have three kittens. They are all black. My mother's cat's name is Whitey. She has three kittens. They are all very cute.

GLADYS TEDFORD, Age 7.
Highland Park, Ct.

My Rabbits

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my pet rabbits. They are both brown and white. One is a mother rabbit and the other is a father rabbit. When I go to feed them they jump up for something to eat. I like my rabbits. I think my rabbits like me.

OLGA ALBASI, Age 8.
Highland Park, Ct.

Saw Two Robins

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you. I will tell you about the birds. The birds have begun to build their nests in the barns and trees. They will lay eggs in the nests. This morning I saw two robins hopping about looking for something to eat. One of them found a worm. They have pretty red breasts. In the winter time the robins go south where it is warm. The snowbirds stay here. The robins do not build nests or lay eggs in the south. They do that here in the spring.

STANLEY NIEWIAROSKI, Age 9.
Preston.

Building a Nest

Dear Uncle Jed: It was a beautiful morning in May when I noticed in my back yard a wonderful sight. Two little grayish-brown birds were perched in a crack of the porch. They were talking about something in their bird language that I did not understand, but I suppose it was about building a nest in the crack. The next morning came, and what do you think I saw? The birds had determined to make their nest in the crack and were already bringing straw and hay. Then they brought little twigs and cotton and lined it with horsehair. Then they brought some mud and patted it down hard with their little bills. When they had done this the mother bird sat down to see if the nest was just right for her. Now she will lay some little eggs and we will see what will happen next.

My Trip to Hartford

Dear Uncle Jed: In my Sunday school every year ten or eleven children are chosen to go to Hartford. This year I was among them. We leave Norwich in automobiles about 10 o'clock. We go for the Lenten offerings. After the service we are allowed to go around the city and, if desired, into the stores. I bought a teddy bear and a few postals, also some candy.

VIRGINIA MEECH, Age 11.

The Dog and Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: Here is a story I made up: It is a fairy story. "Let us go out for a hike in the woods," said the dog. "Yes, let's go," said the cat. So they went out to the woods. They had not gone very far when they met a lady. She came toward them and said: "I have come to take you to fairyland." "Oh!" said the cat and dog. "Yes, I will take you to fairyland."

First they saw the village where the mother fairies live. The fairies gave them food to eat. "This food tastes good. I like this soft, fleecy kind of food. Will you please tell me the name of it?" said the cat. "That is called ice cream in our land," said a fairy. "Let us go on," continued the lady.

They came to the fairies' workshop. They saw a horse. It was a little toy horse. "Oh! isn't that lovely? I know my master would like it!" said the dog. The fairy said that he could take it home to his master. Suddenly the cat said: "By my beautiful wrist watch that my friend gave me it is 4 o'clock. Our master and mistress will wonder where we are. We had better go. Don't you think so?" said the dog.

When they got home they had their milk and went to bed.

MILDRED BROWN, Age 10.

The River's Story

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the river's story: I was born in a little mountain lake, a rocky basin which was filled with rain water from the clouds which hung above it.

One winter, as water changed into ice, it expanded with such force that many fissures were made in the rocks. When spring came the icy sheet melted and I, a tiny stream, pushed through one of the crevices and started out to see the world.

My journey was not pleasant at first, on account of the ridges of ground and rocks which were in my way. "I shall make no progress unless I overcome these obstacles," I thought, so I pushed with all my might when there was something in my way.

As I got farther down I was joined by many rivulets and soon became quite a large stream. Then how I worked, grinding away particles of rocks, scratching, rubbing and rolling them into small pebbles. I soon became a mighty river, carving a deep gorge in the rock.

ADAM LABENSKI, Age 11.
Norwich.

The Cherry Tree

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and the Wide-Awakes. I hope you will enjoy my story.

I was a little kernel lying on the street. I was the size of a marble. After a time a little boy came, picked me up and threw me into a little knothole made in the ground of his own orchard. It was very dark here. I wished to see the sun and the bright heavens. For about a year I lifted my little head out of the ground, and what a surprise! I saw the bright world and the sun began to shine on my head. The little boy was surprised also when he saw my little limbs. He began to water me every day until I became as big as he. I grew bigger every year. For about five years after I became as big as any other tree in the orchard. In the early spring little flowers were beginning to show on my limbs. Oh, how sweet it was to smell these flowers. About a half month later the little flowers fell off and little green things began to show in the place of these flowers. Every day I saw robins looking anxiously at the green fruit. But at last in the early summer the little green fruit turned to a dark red color and were called cherries. Robins from all sides came and ate my fruit. Oh, how happy I was when I saw so many visitors in my branches. But, alas! next day I woke up and knew it was only a dream. Oh, how unhappy I was!

VALENTINE KULESZA, Age 12.

A Good Lesson

Dear Uncle Jed: One day I took a trip to Hartford on a train. Beside me was sitting a man with a boy about four years old. The boy was always looking out of the window. His father said to him: "Do not look out of the window, because the wind will blow your hat off." The boy kept looking out of the window. When he was not aware, his father took his hat off. The boy, thinking the wind blew it off, began to cry. Then his father said: "Do not cry. I will just whistle and the hat will come back again." The man whistled and when the boy was waiting for the hat to come back his father put it on his head. The boy was glad to get his hat again, but began looking out of the window. This time the wind did blow it off, and the boy said: "Dad, whistle again." The father replied: "Now, son, you whistle this time."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

"Burton's Agency Sells Another."

Patrick F. Sweeney has sold to William and Florence Bailey of Taftville a new six-room house, all modern, located on Fanning avenue.

The sale was negotiated through the real estate agency of Mrs. Rosa E. Burton.

Broadway Theatre

One of the most moving romances ever told on the screen, as well as one of the most spectacular productions ever made, will be offered patrons of the Broadway theatre when Universal's $1,000,000 sound and dialogue super film, "Show Boat," begins its run on next Sunday for a full week.

This colorful epic of the Mississippi valley and of Chicago in the last generation, embodying the glamorous love story of Magnolia, the young showboat girl played by Laura LaPlante, and Ravenal, the romantic young gambler, is based upon the internationally famous novel of the same name by Edna Ferber.

Included in the presentation are the movietoned highlights of the celebrated New York musical production, "Show Boat," staged by Florenz Ziegfeld with noted Broadway stars. This interpolation, which enables theatre-goers actually to see and hear the New York production in their own theatre, was made possible only by special arrangement between Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, and Mr. Ziegfeld. Helen Morgan and Jules Bledsoe are the outstanding Ziegfeld stars heard.

"Show Boat" itself, which also is superbly presented in sound and dialogue, was made by Harry Pollard, the famous director who was responsible for the Universal masterpiece, "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The company supporting Miss La Plante and Schildkraut includes such favorites as Otis Harlan, Emily Fitzroy, Alma Rubens, Jack McDonald, Jane La Verne, Neely Edwards, Elise Bartlett and many others.

In its music "Show Boat" is a veritable anthology of America's popular music of the last half century. From the old fashioned favorites of the '80s, rendered by a strident steam calliope, and by melodious darky voices, down through the "coon song" and "ragtime" age to the present negro spiritual era, the music is well played or sung and gloriously reproduced.

Breed Theatre

First National's production, "Dancing Vienna," which comes to the Breed theatre tomorrow, has a musical romance as its theme, the opposition between the old and the new schools of music as represented by the waltz and jazz, Mitzi Zirsky, young Viennese countess, is the exponent of the waltz, while Johnny Konzaga, born in New York, is the devotee of jazz and the saxophone. The clash in the kind of music they love finds no echo in the love they feel for each other.

But there is enmity between the Konzaga and the Zirsky families and the elder Konzaga arrives in Vienna to break off the love affair between his son and the granddaughter of his enemies. His plottings might have succeeded save for the power and charm of the waltz. Youthful Mitzi has such a resounding triumph as she dances the waltz in her first appearance in a revue that the hostile families are charmed into forgetting their differences. The waltz triumphs over jazz and over old enmities.

Ben Lyon, popular and handsome young American leading man, and Lya Mara, beautiful dancer and screen actress with an international reputation, play the leads, while Arnold Korff is the boy's father and Julius Falkenstein and Olga Engel are the girl's grandparents.

The Academy Orchestra.

The Academy orchestra, assisted by Reginald and Gladys Laubin, will give their twenty-fourth annual concert in Slater hall on Wednesday evening, June 5th, at 8.30.

The program is an interesting one. The orchestra has a diversified assortment of numbers ready for presentation; the Indian dances will be artistic; Miss Krause at the piano playing a Rondo Brilliant will please many, and, altogether, the evening should afford folks fond of music an enjoyable evening.

Tickets may be secured at Cranston's store, of members of the orchestra, or at the door.

ST. MALO ONCE A PIRATE STRONGHOLD

St. Malo, Brittany, once a pirate stronghold, was the point of departure for the Breton cod fishers who sailed recently for the Grand Banks and the Iceland seas. Banners and pageantry marked the celebration which accompanies the annual sailing of the vessels. The Archbishop of Rennes blessed the fleet with solemn rites. Rennes was the capital of old Brittany and its archbishop visits St. Malo annually to perform this service.

"Situated in northwestern France on the English Channel coast, St. Malo dates from ancient times," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society. "It was for years a thorn of dissension among the French kings, Breton dukes and the English. The city is built on an island of granite in the Bay of St. Malo and is joined to the mainland by a causeway.

"Despite its age, the appellation of 'a medieval town' cannot exactly describe St. Malo. Parts of it date from the twelfth century, but the majority of its buildings are monuments of seventeenth century industry. The town proper is entirely inclosed by a wall of medieval construction. Inside its ramparts the houses of the Malouins are packed together like sardines. Space and modern sanitation are lacking. The Rue Grande, St. Malo's main street, starts out as a noble thoroughfare about twelve feet wide, but it reverts to type and assumes the narrowness common to other streets. Quaint and picturesque are some of the so-called streets which barely allow passing of a heavy person with any degree of comfort.

"The medley of architectural types found in the town has its counterpart in St. Malo's cathedral, which was begun by Bishop Jean de Chatill in 1152. The choir belongs to the fourteenth century, the right aisle is fifteenth century and the left aisle is seventeenth. Topping it all is the spire which Napoleon III ordered erected about eighty years ago. The emperor had been visiting the Breton city of Dinag when he saw that the cathedral dedicated to St. Malo needed a new spire. Through some misunderstanding the spire was allotted to the cathedral in St. Malo's. The Malouins topped their medieval church with a modern spire!

"Some four hundred years ago Brittany had a Duchess Anne, a spirited ruler who wished a residence in St. Malo. The Bishop of St. Malo disliked the idea of the duchess living there and probably interfering with his revenue, so he forbade the work. Undaunted, Anne built the chateau which is today a capital attraction in St. Malo and had inserted in the masonry of St. Thomas' tower an inscription which read: 'Whosever shall grumble at it, so shall it be. It is my pleasure.' Anne's retort to the doughty Blanco became a byword among the Malouins and tourists still flock to read the martyr-erased inscription.

"The Maison de Cheval Blanc—the house of the white horse, where Anne stayed on her trip to the channel port is also a spot of interest for visitors to St. Malo. Another interesting place is Periwinkle Castle, an ancient structure so named because local legend has it that the facade is covered with periwinkles, shining and artistically arranged, during the midnight mass of Christmas. This supernatural adornment, the Malouins say, is only apparent to those who have never committed mortal sin.

"St. Malo is kind to her great men and commemorates their deeds with monuments. Chateaubriand, the famous philosopher who was born there, is honored by a statue and a public square and a hotel are named for him. Lamennais, the religious writer, and Jacques Cartier, the Canadian explorer, are memorialized by statues which adorn the city. The real hero of St. Malo is none of these but the famous corsair, Duguay-Trouin, who in his forty years of piracy captured Rio de Janeiro, and contributed much to the glory of St. Malo during the regime of its supremacy as a pirate stronghold. Duguay-Trouin's house, still an attraction for tourists, has lost most of the evidences of its former splendor. Many of the old houses of St. Malo, which once harbored treasures plundered on the seas by the Malouin pirates, have been cut up into offices and apartments."

MOTHERS ARE LEARNING USES OF MAGNESIA

From the beginning of expectancy until baby is weaned. That's the time Phillips Milk of Magnesia performs the greatest service for many women. It relieves the expectant mother's nausea, heartburn, "morning sickness," inclination to vomit; helps her digestion. Its mild but effective laxative action assures regular bowel movement.

Phillips Milk of Magnesia is better than lime water for neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding. A teaspoonful of it does the work of a half pint of lime water. It is a mild laxative; harmless, almost tasteless.

All drug stores have Phillips Milk of Magnesia in generous 25c and 50c bottles. Always insist on the genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

FREE: to young mothers and prospective mothers: "Useful Information," an invaluable little book on the health of mother and child. Write the Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent absolutely free of charge.

Piles Go Quick

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause. That's why salves and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds, because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has given quick, safe and lasting relief to thousands of Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

REQUIEM MASSES OFFERED AT ST. MARY'S MEM. CH.

Requiem masses offered the past week at St. Mary's Memorial church were the following: Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock, the second anniversary mass for the soul of Mrs. Nellie Doyle O'Connor, offered by the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe; Wednesday morning at 7:30 o'clock, a month's mind for James Cormier, by the curate, Rev. Frederick M. Coholan. The musical program at the masses were in charge of the church organist, Mrs. Michael J. Farrell.

Michael Breen has returned to his home at New York city after spending several days at the home of relatives on North Main street.

Joseph Delaney has returned to New York after spending a few days at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Delaney on Eighth street.

The eight o'clock mass at St. Mary's Memorial church on Thursday morning, offered by the rector, Rev. William A. Keefe, contained a mass intention for the soldier dead of the country in all wars as well as an intention for the living service men and women of the World War and there were a number of communicants. Following the mass there was a reception of new members into the various church societies. The Young Ladies Sodality added 30 new members, Immaculate Conception 50, and Boys of the Sacred Heart, 20. Rev. Fr. Keefe received the new members into the various societies as they made known their intentions at the altar railing. He also addressed the candidates. The exercises closed with benediction of the blessed sacrament, given by Father Keefe. The day on the church calendar was the Feast of Corpus Christi. A large congregation was present at the mass.

Miss Nellie Enright and Bernard Enright have returned to their home on Fourth street, after spending a few days recently at Hartford.

George Swanton has returned to Providence after spending a few days with relatives on North Main street.

WATERFORD VISITOR SECURES DIVORCE FROM DOCTOR

Divorce was granted Friday at Hartford by Judge Edward M. Yeomans of the superior court to Nellie A. Wilson from Dr. James C. Wilson of Wethersfield, formerly police surgeon of Hartford. The family since 1921 has owned and part of the time occupied a shore cottage in Waterford. The decree followed a stipulation by both parties that the report and additional report of Judge Leonard J. Nickerson of the superior court should be accepted.

The judgment does not give alimony nor give order as to custody of a son, who is being educated by Dr. Wilson.

Judge Nickerson's reports relate an unusual domestic story. He found that Nellie B. Armstrong and Dr. Wilson were married at St. John's, New Brunswick, Dec. 15, 1908. She was resident there but had come to Hartford in October, 1905, trained as a nurse and was graduated from the Hartford hospital school Nov. 1, 1908.

Dr. Wilson, now 47, began the practice of his profession in Hartford in 1906. He entered the service of the United States in October, 1917, and went overseas, remaining until May, 1919, when he returned and took up the practice of medicine in Hartford.

DAVID CAMPION STARS STOPPING RUNAWAY HORSES

Of a former Norwich man the Pelham (N. Y.) Sun says in its issue of May 23:

David Campion, genial proprietor of a Fifth Avenue stationery establishment, stopped another runaway horse on Fifth avenue Monday evening.

The horse, which was hitched to a wagon of Dugan's bakery, had been standing at Fifth avenue opposite the town hall, when it bolted. Campion, who had been standing in front of his store, started off in pursuit and caught the reins, but was dragged several yards before the horse was subdued. Traffic, which was heavy, due to automobiles of returning commuters from the trains, caused a dangerous situation.

This is the third time Campion has stopped runaway horses within the last year.

Honeymooners Visiting Here

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fauth of Brooklyn, N. Y., are spending their honeymoon trip at the home of Mrs. Fauth's aunt, Mrs. C. E. Otto Hoelck, of Hamilton avenue. Mrs. Fauth, who before her marriage last Saturday was Miss Rosine Weller, is the daughter of Mrs. Carl Weller, formerly of this city, and is well known in town.

Discharged at St. Teresa Hospital

The following were discharged at St. Teresa hospital over the week end: Mrs. Oscar Poirier and infant son of Montville, Mrs. Mike Morosky and infant son of 43 Spring street.

AUTOMOBILE TURNED OVER AFTER RUNNING INTO PARKED MACHINE

Edward C. McSheffrey of No. 344 Central avenue was quite badly hurt shortly after 11:30 o'clock Monday night when the Reo roadster he was driving collided with a parked machine on Laurel Hill avenue and turned over. The accident happened near the park on Laurel Hill.

McSheffrey was driving the roadster towards the city, evidently on his way home, when his machine collided with the left rear of a Buick closed car parked by the curb and owned by Dr. John W. Suplicki of No. 167 Cliff street. McSheffrey's car turned completely over and landed back on the wheels in the middle of the road.

The driver of a public service car who had just passed Dr. Suplicki's machine, heard the crash and immediately stopped. The public service driver, with the aid of Herbert W. Lumis and Henry Metcalf, who were passengers in the public service car and were on their way home, placed McSheffrey in the machine and rushed him to the W. W. Backus hospital. He was quite badly cut and bleeding freely. He is suffering from several scalp lacerations, a lacceration over the right eye, and other lacerations about the body and lost quite a lot of blood.

As far as known, no one saw the accident. Several of the neighbors heard the crash and an emergency call was sent to police headquarters by telephone. Officers Patrick Shahan, Michael Dewire and Clifford Crary were sent to the scene in the patrol wagon.

McSheffrey's car was pushed by the officers to the curb from the center of the highway where it was blocking traffic. Glass was scattered over the highway for some feet. McSheffrey's car was practically demolished. The top was torn off and ripped, the rear and smashed, one wheel torn off completely, another smashed, fenders damaged, steering wheel ripped from the steering pole and the front end badly damaged. Dr. Suplicki's machine suffered considerable damage on the left side. The left rear wheel was smashed, left rear fender ripped from the body, rear springs twisted and the rear axle thrown out of line. The front end of the machine was pushed over the high curbing and the right front wheel was on the sidewalk.

UNDERNOURISHED SOULS FATHER REILLY'S THEME

Laying down the proposition that life cannot continue except through communion with another, higher form of life, and the universal law that life is impossible without food, Rev. John J. Reilly, preaching in St. Patrick's church Sunday at the 9 o'clock mass chose his text from the gospel for the feast of Corpus Christi, just passed, John 6.56-59. "This is the bread that came down from heaven. He that eateth this bread shall live forever." Earlier in the same gospel the Saviour had declared, "My flesh is meat indeed, and my blood is drink indeed."

It is the fundamental law of life that everything that would exist must find food, he said. Citing the requirements in the mineral and vegetable kingdoms, the preacher brought out the fact that man is subject to the same law. But joy in living comes only through communion with a higher form of life. This is the universal law. The body needs nourishment; the soul requires a higher form of nourishment. Every living thing demands that kind of food adapted to its nature.

Each human nature craves spiritual refreshment. Christ, who knew the needs of human nature provided for our needs—gave us bread: "This is my body, this is my blood. Take ye and eat." Christ is the spiritual food of man. It is not the church, nor the pulpit, nor the organ, that satisfies the craving of the soul. "My flesh is meat indeed and my blood is drink indeed."

"Don't deprive the soul of spiritual food," besought the preacher. There is no need for a Catholic to be undernourished spiritually. "Take ye and eat." The world has a God that was nourishment, a God that was food. Four hundred years ago this from many was taken away.

"It is the realization and the belief of the Roman Catholic that Christ has provided spiritual food—the bread that has come down from heaven, the nourishment that satisfies the soul's hunger. The lesson of the eloquent and practical sermon was the folly of neglecting this heaven-given opportunity of making true the promise of the gospel, "He that eateth my flesh and drinketh my blood abideth in me, and I in him." Attention was directed to the fact that the Redeemer whose gift is prized here on earth must have in store for His faithful followers unguessed beatitude. "If the spark can burn so bright, what, oh, what, must be the flame?"

Father Reilly waited to aid Rev. Myles P. Galvin in giving holy communion to a great number of penitents. The hymns during the service were sung by the junior choir. At the consecration, the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine accompanied his own beautiful singing of "Veni, Creator."

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS TO CONVENE IN HARTFORD

Thames Valley council of the United Commercial Travelers, which has membership in this city and New London, will have many of its members in Hartford this week to attend the 34th annual grand council convention, June 5-8. It is expected that about 3,000 delegates and their friends from the 30 councils of the order in New England will attend the convention.

The convention will open Wednesday with headquarters at the Hotel Bond. The day will be given over to registration and for a general get-together of visiting members.

The grand council session will commence Thursday morning at 9 o'clock to which all members are invited. Offsetting the business session a heavy program of entertainment is planned for Thursday. A golf tournament at Rockledge Country club in West Hartford—reserved for U. C. T. men and women during the convention, will be one attraction. A corps of motor cars will take the members and their ladies for sightseeing trips about the city. At noon a visit will be made to the Fuller Brush company factory where luncheon will be served in the cafeteria.

Following the luncheon the party will be whisked to the municipal dock for a boat trip to Middletown with return to Hartford by bus. A theater party at the Capitol theater will be the feature of the evening entertainment.

Friday the grand council session will again inaugurate the day's activities. The second series of the golf tournaments will be held at the Rockledge Country club. For the ladies an afternoon of bridge and dancing has been arranged. Later in the afternoon the U. C. T. visitors will attend a league ball game between Hartford and Bridgeport. The Bagmen of Bagdad, the playboys of the U. C. T., will hold a ceremonial in Foot Guard hall Friday at 2 p. m., followed by a banquet at the Hotel Garde at 6:30 p. m. A parade of the Bagmen in fantastic costume will be held at Midnight followed by a stag party and entertainment.

Friday night there will be a reception to the grand counselor and the grand ball will be given. Dress will be informal.

The final day of the convention—Saturday—will witness the big convention parade. Beautiful silver loving cups have been offered for the visiting delegations in line. The cups will be awarded to the delegation making the best appearance, the largest number in line, the council coming from the longest distance and to the council having the largest percentage of its membership in line.

Luncheon will be served at the Hotel Bond. The afternoon will be devoted to golf and the convention will come to a glorious close with an informal dance Saturday night in the ballroom of the Hotel Bond.

In some suburban places the school terms and year will end with this week.

ALLYN SAYS HE IS NOT AFTER COLE'S PLACE

Prospect of a three-cornered race for the adjutant-generalship of Connecticut disappeared Saturday, temporarily at least, with announcement by Colonel W. Ellery Allyn of Waterford that he is not a candidate for the office. His withdrawal was unexpected in some military circles, where it had been generally thought in the last few weeks that Colonel Allyn had resigned as chief field deputy for the Connecticut district of the United States internal revenue department in contemplation of possible appointment to succeed Adjutant-General George M. Cole.

General Cole, it is generally understood, is to ask for his retirement next fall after many years of service to the state. Since it has been known that he plans to retire there has been considerable discussion as to candidates to fill the vacancy. Colonel James W. Gilson of Hartford, the assistant adjutant-general, and Colonel Harry B. Bissell of Manchester, assistant quartermaster general of the state, have been spoken of more widely than any other persons, with the exception, possibly, of Colonel Allyn, a former assistant adjutant-general. It is admitted in military circles that both Colonel Bissell and Colonel Gilson have strong support and desire the appointment. Brigadier General James A. Haggerty of New Haven has also been considered a possible aspirant for the place.

NORWICH GRANGE HAS FILED INCORPORATION PAPERS

Incorporation papers of Norwich Grange, Inc., with Albert W. Lillibridge, Ida E. Richardson and Ralph H. Marsh as the incorporators, have been filed with Town Clerk Harold S. Burt, the decision to incorporate having been made because the grange is to own the old West Town street school house for a grange home.

The purpose and scope of the corporation is stated as follows: "To acquire land, buildings and premises and to own, hold, maintain and mortgage the same; furnish the inside and outside of buildings, hall and convenient rooms for the meetings and welfare of the Grange; promote the agricultural interest of the town of Norwich and this state; hold meetings promoting social and business welfare of said Grange and of its members; to lease said hall and other portion of said building and premises to help defray the current expenses thereon; to solicit and receive donations and funds and use the same to promote the interest of agriculture and said Grange; to elect officers and adopt a constitution and by-laws; and do any and all acts appertaining to the welfare of said Grange and agricultural interests."

FINED $25 ON CHARGE OF RECKLESS DRIVING

Found guilty of reckless driving Angelo Montalto, 23, of Westerly, was fined $25 and costs in the city court Monday morning. He paid $35.46. A charge of operating without a driver's license, was dropped. Accused was arrested Saturday night by State Police Officer Arthur Whitmarsh after he had forced the officer's machine off the road on Main street, across Preston bridge.

On a charge of evading responsibility after backing his automobile into the one-way sign on Church street at Union square, Albert Unger was discharged on payment of $5.

CONTINUANCE IN BALTIC STREET LIQUOR CASE

Mrs. Angelina Tramontozzi, 40, of No. 26 Baltic street, was presented in the city court Monday morning on a charge of violation of the liquor laws. Her case was continued until Wednesday at the request of her counsel, Thomas J. Kelly. She is at liberty under bonds of $1,000. The woman was arrested late Saturday night by state and local police who raided her house and found a large quantity of liquor and beer.

FREAK WEATHER HANDICAPS FARM WORK IN STATE

Freakish weather is handicapping farm work in Connecticut and has caused many upsets in the normal marketing of native fruits and vegetables, according to the bureau of markets of the state department of agriculture.

The warm weather of March resulted in many vegetables getting an abnormal start only to be nipped by April's successive frosts or stunted by its numerous cold rains. The recent unseasonable heat spell has caused an abundance of many native vegetables on the market.

The outlook for the hay crop is good, especially on land that is not naturally wet or sour. However, many farmers who usually plan to have their cultivation of corn and potatoes completed will probably find it necessary to intersperse their haying operations and much cultivation this year. Corn and potatoes have been hampered by the cold, wet weather during the early part of May and will probably be somewhat late; however, many changes can take place before the crop is harvested.

Strawberries from Connecticut farms are expected to be in market during the coming week. Early blossoms were damaged in some places by frost but the last few days have greatly accelerated ripening. Such fruits as peaches and apples are showing little frost damage, although the cold, rainy weather during the blooming period not only handicapped effectual spraying but also hampered the activity of bees in their work of pollination which is vitally important and which may result in a slight loss to some orchards.

Native asparagus is now in the height of its season. Rhubarb is passing its prime point and native vegetables such as spinach, radishes, and lettuce are being plentifully supplied to all Connecticut markets.

Eggs have shown a steady but moderate increase during the past month. It is expected that this gradual increase will continue until after Thanksgiving. Many hens that have been shelling out eggs aplenty during the past few months are beginning to feel that familiar vacation urge with the coming of hot weather and production is dropping.

60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED AT LISBON

Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Smith quietly celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday at the home of their son, Wilmer P. Smith, in Lisbon, with whom they have been making their home for the past eight years. Following a motor trip to New London and Watch Hill with their grandson and granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. Smith of Lisbon, a delicious supper was served at their home by their granddaughter, Mrs. Fred E. Thurber of Central Falls. A wedding cake adorned the dining table, together with beautiful cut flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were married in Chesham, N. H., on June 2, 1869, and lived there and in Pepperell, Mass., until 1891, when they came to Norwich, residing in Greeneville. During his residence in Greeneville Mr. Smith worked for 25 years with the trolley company as a motorman. From Greeneville Mr. and Mrs. Smith moved to Lisbon. He has been leading a retired life for a number of years. They are both natives of New Hampshire, Mr. Smith being 79 and his wife, 77.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith have three sons living, Wilmer P. Smith of Lisbon, Herbert A. Smith of St. Johnsbury, Vt., and Ervin Smith of New York city. There are also five grandchildren and one great granddaughter.

NEW LONDON MAN TO SUCCEED CLARK BELDEN

According to an announcement made Monday by the state chamber of commerce, Clark Belden, who has been executive vice-president, secretary and director, has resigned and is to be succeeded by Harry E. Hasty of New London.

Mr. Hasty has been resident manager of the Thames River division of The Robert Gair company, box manufacturers, for five years and was previously assistant treasurer at the New York headquarters of the company. At one time, Mr. Hasty was for several years assistant treasurer of Wellesley college in connection with other financial work in Boston.

Mr. Belden is to become public relations director of The National Electric Power company which serves 1900 communities in 17 states from Maine to Florida and west to Michigan and Indiana. His resignation is to be effective June 15.

Mr. Belden became associated with the state chamber in November 1924, and was elected to succeed George B. Chandler as the active head of the state chamber when the latter became secretary of the Ohio chamber in March, 1926.

V. F. W. COUNCIL WILL HAVE SUMMER PICNIC

A picnic of the New London county council, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be held sometime during the summer. It will take in members of posts in this city, Pawcatuck, Putnam, and New London and a committee has been appointed to make the arrangements.

The committee consists of County Commander John A. Connor, chairman; Hollis Perkins, Joseph Perrone, Clifford L. Douglass and Clarence Hall all of this city; Lewis Hull and Leo Jacques of Norwich, Harry Bricca and Charles Opie of Pawcatuck.

The council has voted to support the re-election of Post Commander Leo Jacques of Richard E. Hourigan post of Norwich to the council of administration of the state and also Charles Opie of Harley P. Chase post, Pawcatuck, to the same body.

DAUGHTERS OF FOUNDERS HAVE OUTING PLANNED

Miss Mary Swift Whittlesey, state president of Connecticut chapter, Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, Inc., announces that Tuesday, June 25, has been selected as the day for the June outing of the organization, to occur at Simsbury Manor, Simsbury. Mrs. John Laidlaw Buel, the national president, will be there to greet those attending and reports will be given of the general court held in Washington last April.

The paper of the afternoon will be given by Mrs. James K. Crofut, her subject being The Witch of Simsbury.

PAYS $200 FINE FOR AUTO LAW VIOLATIONS

In the city court Monday morning John Wisneske, 26, of No. 102 Roath street, was fined $100 and costs on a reckless driving charge and $100 and costs on a charge of evading responsibility. Accused was arrested on the night of May 27 after the truck he was driving crashed into a telegraph pole at Taftville and failed to stop. Wisneske was found asleep at the wheel of the truck in his garage. He had also been charged with driving while under the influence of liquor but this charge was dropped.

Business in certain lines is feeling the stimulus of June gift-buying for weddings, graduations, and the like.

FIVE EASTERN CONNECTICUT BOYS IN EDISON TEST

Five boys from the eastern part of the state were included in the 27 Connecticut high school youths who took a test at Hartford Saturday for the Edison scholarship. The one who wins the examination will be the Connecticut representative among 49 high school boys who will meet with Thomas A. Edison on July 1 at his laboratories in Orange N. J. to take the examination for the Edison scholarship.

The five eastern Connecticut boys were James W. Eastham, Killingly high school, Danielson; Wilber D. Welker, Chapman Technical high school, New London; Roman Jarosz, Plainfield high school; John Frederick Ash, Jr., Putnam high school, and William E. Witinok, Rockville high school.

The Connecticut test examination, which was taken in writing in the hall of the house of representatives at the capitol, was a difficult test in physics, made up by a committee of leading Connecticut educators under the supervision of the state board of education. Out of the 27 will be chosen the two receiving the highest grades, one to act as alternate in case the winner cannot go to Orange, to prepare for the final test.

The scholarship was announced by Mr. Edison some weeks ago. It is open to high school boys graduating this June with high honors and approved by the school principals, and is to be awarded in competition which is being carried on in every state and the District of Columbia under the auspices of state boards of education, state universities and other agencies. The boy selected by the inventor after the examination in Orange will be sent through college, a technical college, at the expense of Mr. Edison. It is understood that upon completing the college training the young man will go to the Edison laboratories to work.

NAMED TO SELL FORECLOSED MACHINERY

Judgment in favor of the plaintiff was awarded in the amount of $2,000 by Judge Charles Waller in the court of common pleas at New London Saturday morning in the foreclosure on personal property brought by Ada Levine against Friedman & Ralph company of Garfield avenue, New London. The property in question is machinery.

Deputy Sheriff Manuel Martin was appointed a committee of one to sell the property in question on June 13.

TO HOLD OPEN HEARINGS ON HOUSE TARIFF BILL

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—The senate finance committee agreed unanimously today to hold open hearings on the house tariff bill beginning June 17 and ending July 10.

To speed the committee work and assure final congressional disposition of the measure with time to spare before the regular December session starts, it was decided to allot the taking of testimony on various levies to three or four subcommittees of three republicans and two democrats.

DIPLOMAS WERE AWARDED UNDER COURT INJUNCTION

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 3—(AP)—Sixty seniors of Des Moines university were granted diplomas today, under a court injunction which restrained trustees from closing the institution and thus halting issuance of the sheepskins.

The exercises were in charge of Dr. Harry C. Wayman, president, who, with his entire faculty was dismissed by the trustees. Under terms of the injunction, however, the dismissal does not become effective until tomorrow.

TWO LEBANON SUITS WITHDRAWN FROM COURT

Withdrawal without costs from the docket of the superior court has been filed with Clerk John H. Walker in the $1,500 civil action brought by Abraham Aspinall and Henry Aspinall of Lebanon against Mary F. Yerrington of Preston, executrix of the estate of George H. Parkhurst, late of Lebanon. The Aspinalls claim that on or about Oct. 30, 1926, they sold personal property, cattle, silage, etc., to the defendant, Parkhurst.

The estate maintains that the Aspinalls were employed as farm hands on the Parkhurst property and that a deal was made relative to the personal property. Damages were sought from the Aspinalls on a counterclaim.

Henry Aspinall in another separate action sued the Parkhurst estate for $2,000 for personal services rendered as a farm hand. This action has also been withdrawn from the docket of court without costs to either party.

HOUSE PASSED BILL 165-124 FOR ITS REAPPORTIONMENT

Measure Would Automatically Reapportion House Representation Among the States Should Congress Fail to Act Upon the New Census Figures—Also Adopted 165 to 124 a Proposal to Exclude Aliens From the Count Upon Which a New Allotment of Seats Among the States is Made.

WASHINGTON, June 4—(AP)—After tentatively accepting amendments which would exclude from the count upon which house reapportionment is to be based aliens and persons over 21 who are not permitted to vote, the house adjourned late today without taking a final vote on the census reapportionment bill.

Both the amendments were opposed vigorously in debate and both are subject to another vote in the house before they are finally written into the measure. The alien proposal would affect the number of representatives allotted to eastern and industrial states and the second proposal was considered as aimed at southern states in which it has been contended that many Negroes are not permitted to vote.

Exclusion of aliens originated with the middle western republicans who have argued that if aliens were barred from the count, a reapportionment would have less effect upon the reduction of representation from their states. It was opposed by members from eastern and industrial states on the ground that such an amendment was unconstitutional.

In the form in which it was approved by the house, the amendment of Representative Hoch, republican, Kansas, would provide that aliens should not be considered in the count but that if any section of the measure should be declared unconstitutional, the validity of the remainder of the act should not be affected.

Previously the house had approved an amendment by Representative Bankhead, democrat, Alabama, calling for a count of the number of aliens in the country with a statement of whether they were in the United States legally.

The amendment relating to disfranchisement was offered by Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, long a contender that the Fourteenth amendment was not being enforced. One similar to it had been defeated previously. Some of the members have contended that the effect of the amendment would be to make large reductions in the number of representatives at May, 1930, instead of November, 1929. Still another would make the census takers exempt from civil service regulations.

Preceding the adoption of the Tinkham changes, the Massachusetts member contended that unless the provisions were incorporated in the bill the measure would be in violation of the constitution.

As the vote was taken, the southern democrats, joined by a sprinkling of middle western republicans and a few eastern republicans, passed between the tellers to oppose the proposal. Most of the republicans and a group of eastern democrats supported the amendment.

The announcement of the result threw the house in an uproar. Fox hunting yells arose from the republicans side of the chamber and Representative Laguardia, republican, New York, who had supported the proposal raced across the well in front of the speaker's rostrum to shake hands with the smiling Tinkham.

BID PRESENTED TO THE SHIPPING BOARD

WASHINGTON, June 4—(AP)—The United States Lines, Inc., recent purchasers of the Leviathan and ten other large passenger and combination passenger and freight ships in the North Atlantic trade today presented to the shipping board a bid for 18 of the 23 ships of the American Diamond lines and America-France line, which far exceeded all other bids opened.

Through its president, Paul W. Chapman, the company offered $2,981,242.75 for the ships, all to be operated in the North Atlantic cargo service. The bid was on a basis of $22.33 per ton.

The companies now operating the lines bid for their respective ships on a basis to $14 a ton. The Black Diamond Steamship corporation offered $1,587,314 for 13 of the 14 ships of the Diamond lines and the Cosmopolitan Shipping company offered $1,094,002 for the nine vessels of the France line. Moore and McCormack and Company, Inc., of New York, offered $1,706,135.50 for twelve of the fourteen Diamond ships, at a ton rate of $16.70.

These ships are steel cargo carriers ranging in weight from 7,825 to 9,789 deadweight tons, with an aggregate tonnage of 199,850.

The Chapman firm, if sucessful in purchasing these ships, would have more than $20,000,000 invested in the north Atlantic passenger and cargo trade, exclusive of the cost of constructing new passenger liners to which it is pledged under terms of its purchase of the United States lines.

GIRL'S BODY IN CLOSET WITH HEAD BATTERED

LOS ANGELES, June 4—(AP)—The body of Virginia Patty, of Los Angeles, was found with the head battered, hanging in the closet of an apartment house here today. Police ordered the arrest of Bill Tallman, radio technician of Station KPO, of San Francisco, in connection with the crime.

A telephone number found in the apartment where the body was discovered led police to the Asbery hotel where the manager, Mrs. E. Lowell, gave them information that led them to telegraph San Francisco requesting the arrest of Tallman.

It also was on information from Mrs. Lowell that the police identified the girl as one who had stayed at the Asbery hotel for some time.

Soon after identification of the woman, her husband, Frank Patty, said to be wealthy and connected with the Pacific Bank of Finance at Portland, Ore., was located by police. When told of the crime he collapsed.

Patty, who with his wife had been living here for three years, had gone north on business, returning only yesterday. This morning he went out to search for his missing wife.

REUNION OF UNITED CONFEDERATE VETERANS

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 4—(AP)—The thirty-ninth reunion of the United Confederate veterans opened formally here tonight amid a blaze of color, music and oratory and the valiant efforts of thousands of gray clad patriarchs to resurrect the rebel yell. Reunion officials estimated late this afternoon that 20,000 visitors were in the city with that number mounting hourly.

On the rostrum tonight at the armory auditorium, erected especially for the occasion, were Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Governor O. Max Gardner of North Carolina and Mayor George Wilson of Charlotte. A concert by the United States marine band opened the first reunion program.

FREED FOR KILLING MAN JAILED FOR CRUELTY TO COW

ALTUS, Okla., June 4—(AP)—Charlie Blair killed a man and went free. He failed to kill a cow and must go to the penitentiary for a year.

Blair was sentenced to the penitentiary today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty. He had shot and wounded a cow without dispatching the animal.

Earlier this year he was released at a preliminary hearing after pleading self defense in connection with the slaying of Hayes Wampler. Both men lived at Duke, Okla.

5,000 SHRINERS WERE IN PARADE IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, June 4—(AP)—Six thousand Shriners, garbed in all the colors of the rainbow, surged through sunlit streets today in a majestic parade to the Coliseum to open the fifty-fifth annual convention of the nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

In columns extending thirty blocks the fun makers of Free-Masonry, with banners flying, thrilled the throngs of spectators who lanked the avenue of march ten row deep.

A modern Arabia in all its glory had been transplanted into the heart of this southern California metropolis, and the thousands who came to watch roared the visitors a stirring welcome.

The parade swept every programmed event of the crowded schedule to the sidelines, despite the fact that the serious business of electing a mayor faced Los Angeles.

Leading it as grand marshal was General Robert Wankowski of Al Malaikah Temple, Los Angeles, followed by his escort of nobles in decorated automobiles.

A score of bands played weird oriental tunes and modern marches.

In the midst of the parade members of the council governing body of the Shrine rode behind Imperial Potentate Frank C. Jones of Houston, Tex., master of the 75,000 Shriners here.

The main body of temples executed intricate marching formations. An elephant led the column of Pittsburgh Shriners.

LAVA FROM VESUVIUS DESTROYING VINEYARDS

NAPLE, June 4—(AP)—Two walls of molten lava six feet high tonight streamed from Vesuvius toward its ancient prey, Pompeii, destroying woods and vineyards and threatening several towns.

The inhabitants had evacuated Barre and part of Terzigno and fled panic stricken, burdened by their household and personal effects to Torre Annunziata on the gulf of Naples. The glowing liquid rock tonight was only a few yards from the abandoned homes in Barre and destruction of the village seemed inevitable within a few hours unless rapid cooling halted the lava stream.

The eruption began yesterday. Predictions of experts that it would gradually wear itself out without causing serious damage were contradicted this morning by a sudden bursting forth of the molten mass at the tremendous velocity of ten feet a second. The eruptic cone was broken and the smoking stream poured through the "valley of hell". It then divided into two branches, one making directly for the gulf toward Boscotrecase and the other bearing down on the towns along the railroad skirting the eastern base of the volcano.

DANBURY MAN SENTENCED FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

BRIDGEPORT, June 4—(AP)—Edgar Hauch, of Danbury, accused of drunken driving causing the death on April 6 of Mrs. Arthur B. See, of Danbury, was found guilty by jury in criminal superior court here today and sentenced to nine months in jail and a fine of $500 by Judge Isaac Wolfe.

The jury had recommended leniency. State's Attorney W. H. Comley told the court, when discussion of the plea for leniency came up, that drunken driving was becoming one of the most serious problems with which the law has to deal.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Dr. Hubert Work resigned as chairman of the republican national committee.

A general outburst against "the orgy of stock market speculation" occurred in the senate.

The house neared a final vote on the census reapportionment bill.

Congressional leaders assured support of a move to make a half billion dollars available for price stabilization upon enactment of farm relief.

Dr. James Ewing, Cornell university pathologist, outlined a program for cancer control before state and provincial health officers.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 4—(AP)—The patriarch, Miron Cristea, member of the council of regency for little King Michael, suffered a hemorrhage of the brain late today. Physicians consider his condition serious in view of his advanced age.

LONDON, June 4—(AP)—The Herald, a labor news paper, today says that whatever his official title may be there will be a "minister of employment" in the labor cabinet. It says that the work of overcoming the extensive unemployment in the country will be entrusted to an important minister holding cabinet rank.

PARIS, June 4—(AP)—A conference for discussion of the protocol for American adherence to the world court of justice is expected to be convoked by the council of the league of nations during its meeting at Madrid, which begins June 10. The conference would be held during the next league of nations assembly and acceptance of the protocol is considered certain.

CHAIRMAN NAT'L REP. COMMITTEE RESIGNS

WASHINGTON, June 4—(AP)—Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the national republican committee, has submitted a letter to President Hoover and to members of the committee announcing his intention of resigning his post, effective in the early fall.

Receipts of the letter by President Hoover was announced late today at the white house. It also was announced that the chief executive was preparing a letter to Dr. Work expressing appreciation for his services and regret that he had found it necessary to withdraw.

Dr. Work, who became chairman of the national committee shortly after the Kansas City convention of last June, informed members of the committee in his letter that they would be called together early in the fall to select his successor.

EXPLOSION AND FIRE AT EAST BRAINTREE, MASS., REFINERIES CO.

EAST BRAINTREE, Mas., June 4—(AP)—A fire followed a terrific explosion at the Cities Service refineries company here at midnight tonight. One person was known to have been injured. He was taken to the Quincy hospital. The fire swept through a score of huge oil tanks and endangered the refinery.

The plant was on a point of land extending into the Fore river between Quincy and Weymouth. It consisted of a large refinery and office building and a score of tanks. Although each tank was mounted on a concrete base and the property was said to be equipped with fire-fighting apparatus it was believed that the plant was doomed.

The explosion occurred at midnight and sent a burst of flame into the air which was seen at Provincetown, 70 miles away. The force of the blast shook homes here, at Quincy, Weymouth and East Weymouth. Aid was sent by fire departments in all the surrounding towns.

AN OUTBURST IN SENATE AGAINST SPECULATION

WASHINGTON, June 4—(AP)—A general outburst against the orgy of speculation in the stock markets occurred today in the senate with the many critics prescribing almost as many different remedies for the situation.

The federal reserve board was singled out especially for attacks by President Hoover, Calvin Coolidge and various government officials also came in for condemnation.

Investigations, a tax on stock market speculations, raising of the rediscount rate and amendment of the federal reserve act were advanced as means of checking the flow of billions of dollars through the market.

Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, and Glass, democrat, Virginia, were the most outspoken. They insisted the stock market dealings had attracted an excessive amount of capital at the expense of legitimate business.

Senator Glass announced he would propose as an amendment to the pending tariff bill a five per cent tax on stock transactions which were held for less than sixty days. He announced he would favor repeal of the provision in the federal reserve act allowing loans on United States bonds for 15 days.

Senator Couzens contended a raising of the rediscount rate by the federal reserve board would have served to check the flow of money into the stock market. Senator Glass, however, opposed this move as a penalty to business and he congratulated the federal reserve board for resisting the "pounding" of the New York Federal Reserve bank for a raise in the rediscount rate.

SUICIDE ATTRIBUTED TO AN "INFERIORITY COMPLEX"

WELLESLEY, Mass., June 4—(AP)—The suicide of Miss Louise F. McBride, of Weston, W. Va., 18 year old sophomore at Wellesley college who took poison in her room Sunday night, was attributed to an "inferiority complex" today by Miss Ellen Fitz Pendleton, president of the college.

"No motive can be determined for Miss McBride's act unless it was due to an inferiority complex," said President Pendleton in a brief statement this afternoon, after an investigation of the student's death.

Henrietta H. Brannon, also of Weston and a chum of Miss McBride's, said the latter was subject to fits of despondency, although she had appeared cheerful and in excellent health during the week before her death.

It became known today that Miss McBride gave a party to several of her closest friends in her room Sunday night only a few hours before her death. Her body was discovered Monday morning after she failed to appear for breakfast.

KING GEORGE REMAINS IN UNCHANGED CONDITION

WINDSOR, June 4—(AP)—Despite the fact that he today received the resignation of the conservative government and summoned a labor leader to form a new one, the brief official statement issued from Windsor castle tonight said that the king had a quiet day and that there was no change in his condition to report.

RULING BY COUNCIL OF ACTORS' EQUITY ASS'N.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 4—(AP)—Frank Gillmore, president of the Actors' Equity association, tonight announced that the organization's council had ruled that members of equity may not engage in sound or talking motion pictures except under the standard equity contract, which prohibits them from appearing in casts with non-members.

Mrs. Cassler Admits Beating Miss Soutar

Testified at Coroner's Inquest Into Death of the Slain Woman.

CHICAGO, June 4—(AP)—Mrs. Catherine Cassler today testified at a coroner's inquest into the death of Miss Cameola Soutar that she had beaten the young woman severely. The hearing at Valparaiso, Ind., attracted a large crowd, the room being jammed as the heavy phlegmatic woman took the stand to tell her story.

Cool and indifferent, as she had been throughout her trial for the murder of William Lindstrom, she told how she had attacked the slim young divorcee because she had lived with Truman Cassler while Mrs. Cassler was in jail here.

The trouble began hardly more than a month ago, after Mrs. Cassler was freed after the state dismissed her case.

She was convicted at her trial and sentenced to hang, but was granted a new trial. Death of an important witness and refusal of another to testify made prosecution impossible.

Mrs. Cassler told the coroner she was willing to talk about anything but the parentage of her 19 year old son, Edward, whom she adopted when he was a baby. She refused to answer any questions in that vein.

The immediate cause of the fight with the girl, whose body was found last Thursday near Hebron, Ind., Mrs. Cassler said she did not wish to reveal. However, relations with Miss Soutar were much improved after the encounter, the witness said, and when the girl came to the Cassler home for her trunks the meeting was friendly.

The woman declared she had no animosity for "Cammie" although she knew her husband had been giving her money.

MURDER CHARGE AGAINST MRS. CATHERINE CASSLER

VALPARAISO, Ind., June 4—(AP)—A charge of first degree murder was placed against Mrs. Catherine Cassler tonight for the death of Cameola Soutar, her young rival for her husband's affections.

The woman's husband, Truman Cassler, their adopted son, Edward, and Chester Johnson, sweetheart of the slain girl, each was ordered held under bonds of $3,000 as material witnesses. They were remanded to jail until bonds were posted.

MRS. POWERS INDICTED FOR SLAYING J. W. PARKS

MACON, Ga., June 4—(AP)—Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Powers, 77 year old rooming house proprietress and Earl Manchester, 21 year old painter, today were indicted by a Bibb county grand jury for the slaying of James W. Parks, 38 year old Atlanta printer. The state charges Parks was slain as Mrs. Powers could collect $14,000 life insurance she carried on him. Solicitor General Charles H. Garrett announced after the true bills were returned that the pair would be brought to trial during the week of June 17.

Parks' body, two bullet holes in the back of the head was found a week ago on the bank of the Ocmulgee river here by a fisherman. Officers investigating the killing took Mrs. Powers and Manchester into custody for questioning a few hours after the body had been found. Later they announced that both had confessed.

Police after the first disclosure of the alleged "insurance plot" announced they had evidence that Mrs. Powers had planned several other crimes and that they believed she had collected policies on two other men, but so far have not announced definite progress.

NEW HOPE OF CONTROLLING CANCER IN UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, June 4—(AP)—New hope of controlling cancer in the United States was held out today by Doctor James Ewing, head of the pathology department of Cornell university and a student of the disease for more than 20 years.

Addressing the closing session of the annual convention of state and provincial health officers with the public health service, Doctor Ewing outlined a program of cancer control through "cancer institutions" located in all large cities, each equipped with one-half to one million dollars worth of radium treatment apparatus, a staff of surgeons and other scientific experts. He declared that such institutions must and will be established in a few years through state health departments with financial assistance from philanthropists.

MacDonald To Visit King George Today

May Submit Names of Men to Fill the Principal Ministerial Posts.

LONDON, June 4—(AP)—King George today disposed of the fears entertained a few months ago that it might be necessary to create a regency to deal with a change in the government, by the expedition with which his majesty accepted the resignation of the conservative government and sent for a new labor one.

Stanley Baldwin, prime minister of England since October 1924, placed the resignation of the conservative cabinet in the king's hands at Windsor Castle this morning. From his sick bed, his majesty accepted the resignation and, undoubtedly on the advice of Mr. Baldwin, forthwith summoned Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the labor party, by telephone.

Mr. MacDonald will be invited tomorrow at Windsor to attempt to form a new ministry.

It is customary for the seals of office to be exchanged in the presence of the king, but this formality will probably be postponed until next week on account of his majesty's illness.

The prospect of a labor government excites nothing of the wonder and apprehension among the British public today that it did six years ago. Then, for the first time, the man who had been vilified as a pacifist during the war, was called to be the prime minister of England.

People today are as much interested, or more interested, in the prospects for the Derby at Epsom Downs tomorrow.

When Mr. MacDonald sees the king tomorrow, it is presumed that he will be able to give his majesty at least the names of the men he is counting upon to fill the principal ministerial posts. But it may be the end of the week, or even later before the cabinet list is completed.

Perhaps the most significant thing about the present political situation is the unpopularity of the liberal party and David Lloyd George, which has developed since it was seen that the liberal party held the balance of power in the new house of commons. Neither of the two other major parties appeared willing to treat with the liberals.

The conservatives attribute their defeat in the general election May 30 to the election tactics of Mr. Lloyd George. On its part, the labor party insists in going its own independent way, regardless of the fact that Lloyd George disposes of enough votes to defeat the labor government in combination with the conservatives.

ACTION BY GOVERNMENT REVIVES GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 4—(AP)—The confused grain market received another dose of good medicine today and evinced a new interest in life.

Congressional intentions to stabilize agriculture with a preliminary $500,000,000 appropriation as an immediate probability was the remedial potion. Coming a half hour before the grain markets closed, the news pricked traders into action and wheat prices spurted to finish 3 7-8 to 6 1-8 cents above Monday's close, resting at the day's highest levels. Wheat for July delivery was quoted at $1.08 5-8 to 7-8 and for September at 1.13 to 1.13 1-2.

In two days—in fact, in less than an hour's trading at Monday's opening and today's close—wheat has scored the almost unprecedented advance of 10 1-2 to 12 cents a bushel, enhancing the value of the huge crop of surplus of 1928 by millions of dollars. In the same span of time corn values have moved up from 7 7-8 cents to 9 1-4 cents a bushel.

BURNS FROM POURING OIL ON STOVE FATAL

NEW HAVEN, June 4—(AP)—Burns received when her clothes caught fire while pouring kerosene on burning wood last Friday, in her home, proved fatal today to Mary T. Kling at the New Haven hospital. Her husband was arrested at the time charged with drunkenness.

LINDBERGH YACHT IN PROVINCETOWN HARBOR?

PROVINCETOWN, Mas., June 4—(AP)—A cabin cruiser which coast guard officials said was the same boat which left Woods Hole today and believed to be the honeymoon craft of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his bride, anchored in the harbor here tonight shortly before 11.30 o'clock.

REPARATIONS PAYMENTS REDUCED FROM 33 TO ABOUT NINE BILLION DOLLARS

PARIS, June 4—(AP)—Ten years of controversy over the payment by Germany of reparations for damages caused during the World war to the allies, ended today in a compromise which was due largely to the patient and skillful mediation of American delegates to the reparations conference.

From a formidable total of $125,000,000,000 claimed in the original allied demands filed with the peace conference at Versailles in 1918, the new settlement agreed upon today scales down what Germany must pay to approximately $9,000,000,000.

This sum is between a third and a fourth of the $33,000,000,000 fixed by the reparations commission in 1923.

The enormous reduction in the total amount to be paid the reparations creditors of Germany represents a change of sentiment and evolution of ideas regarding financial and economic possibilities that have taked place since Wilson, Clemenceau, Lloyd George and others signed the treaty of Versailles.

The reduction is almost a direct consequence of the celebrated Locarno pact, signed in 1925, which set going the idea of conciliation between the former enemies of the World war.

Out of the final settlement, the European associates of the United States in the war, will get enough from Germany to pay their war debts to the United States with a portion of their outlay for reconstruction.

France, the biggest reparations creditor and the biggest war debtor, will receive enough to pay both Great Britain and the United States with about a quarter of her outlay for the reconstruction of her devastated regions and for pensions.

The final settlement cannot be said to have satisfied everybody.

The French consider themselves losers by a big margin, if receipts are considered in comparison with outlay. But they, along with everybody else, apparently are ready to accept the decision as the best likely ever to be carried out.

It is recognized that Germany's capacity to transfer money is far below the original allied claims while the German deliveries in kind are proving a sort of economic boomerang which threatens the industrial prosperity of the creditor countries.

The points remaining to be completed in the report of the conference affect principally the proposed international bank and deliveries in kind. The British delegation has introduced the idea that payments in kind should be progressively diminished and abolished as soon as possible.

Complete understanding on this point remains to be reached, but it will have no effect on the general agreement.

It is now hoped that the report may be ready for signature by Thursday. In any case, all the members of the American delegation are sailing Saturday on the Cunard liner, Aquitania, so that the report must be signed for Wednesday at the latest.

MATTERS TO BE CONSIDERED BY LAW ENFORCEMENT BODY

Chairman Wickersham in Address to Graduates, Undergraduates and Faculty of Berkeley Divinity School Said the Commission Will Endeavor to Ascertain "the Price of Comparative Safety of Life and Property Which We Now Enjoy"—Called Attention to the Fact That the Restraining Influence of the Church Has Been Greatly Weakened, if Not Destroyed—Asserted That the Ministry No Longer Can Pretend Intellectual Leadership in Any Branch of Human Knowledge.

NEW HAVEN, June 4—(AP)—Among the matters which President Hoover's national commission on law observance and enforcement will investigate, is the amount which private interests pay for police protection in addition to that furnished by local, state and national governments, George W. Wickersham, chairman of the commission stated tonight in an address to the graduates, undergraduates and faculty of Berkeley Divinity school at their 75th anniversary dinner.

"Lawlessness is on the increase and with the increase comes a greater need for protection," he said. "I confess I cannot pass by in our city streets one of the armored cars which have become such a familiar sight without a sense of humiliation that it has come to pass that money and securities can be transported only in such vehicles, guarded by men with rifles and pistols in hand ready for use."

In its work, the commission will also endeavor to ascertain the "price of the comparative safety of life and property which we enjoy," the chairman said.

Mr. Wickersham declared that clergymen have a double task—not only to build up the fallen authority of the church, but of increasing and intensifying their contributions toward the problems of law enforcement, human safety and property protection.

"It is common knowledge," Mr. Wickersham said, "that the ministry which a century ago disputed with the bar the primacy in education, has fallen to the rear and no longer can pretend to intellectual leadership in any branch of human knowledge. One reason for this, he said, "may be that the development of knowledge in late years has been away from history and moral philosophy.

"While the confines of human knowledge of the universe, and of natural forces, are being pushed further and further back, all the certainties of knowledge seem crumbling away and the dogma of today is relegated to the ash heap of obsolete things tomorrow," he continued.

"No one can dispute the fact that an alarming disregard for law exists among the American people. The peculiar characteristics of the present conditions arise out of the fact that that part of the community who have most at stake in the preservation of law and order, themselves are preaching and practicing an open disregard for certain laws to which they object.

"The church formerly exercised a restraining influence upon the lawless tendencies of certain elements in communities. No one now can fail to realize that its authority has been greatly weakened if not destroyed. Because our increased knowledge of the history of this world of ours and the revelation through science of its infinitessimal importance in the vast universe, we no longer accept the idea of God sitting somewhere in the heavens dictating laws to men and especially interfering with their affairs, and meting out punishment, or conferring rewards."

CONN. GRAND COUNCIL, R. AND S. M., IN SESSION

NEW BRITAIN, June 4—(AP)—The Connecticut grand council, Royal and Select Masons, the oldest grand council in the world, opened its annual convention tonight at a banquet at the Hotel Burritt, with an attendance of over one hundred and fifty. Arthur H. Parker, of New Britain, most puissant grand master of Royal and Select Masons, presided.

A plea for stronger ties of brotherhood was made by George R. Sturges, of Woodbury, grand master of the Connecticut grand lodge, Free and Accepted Masons. The principal address of the evening was delivered by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, of New London, chaplain of the grand council. Greetings from the grand chapter were delivered by Lewis R. Hull, of Derby, grand high priest of the Connecticut grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons.

Among the gathering tonight were several Masons who have attained the 33rd degree. The election of officers and adoption of resolutions, the latter expected to contain changes in the ritual are scheduled for the business session at the new Masonic home tomorrow.

HOPES FOR TAKE-OFF ON OCEAN FLIGHT INCREASING

OLD ORCHARD, Me., June 4—(AP)—Hopes for a take-off for Europe before the end of the week of at least one of two planes which have rested on the sands here for two weeks increased today with the report of "rapidly clearing" weather over the path the flyers plan to follow.

Lewis A. Yancey, navigator of the Green Flash, the American plane which will head for Rome, said that Dr. James H. Kimball, of the New York weather bureau, had informed him the storm area over the Atlantic was clearing. There will be no hopoff tomorrow.

Meanwhile Yancey and Roger Q. Williams, second member of the crew of the American plane, devoted the day to completing arrangements for a dinner tonight in honor of Jean Assolant and Rene Lefevre of the crew of the Yellow Bird, the French monoplane which has Paris as its destination.

Armeno Lotti, sponsor of the French flight, is in New York but will return as soon as conditions indicate a flight may be made.

CHICAGO IRON WORKERS' STRIKE NOT SETTLED

CHICAGO, June 4—(AP)—Prospects for prompt settlement of the structural and ornamental iron workers strike which is hampering more than $100,000,000 in building projects and keeping approximately 3,000 men out of work, dimmed today as employer and union representatives adjourned their conference, with little accomplished.

Negotiations got off to a bad start when the Building Construction Employers association announced it withdrew its offer of 50 cents a day wage increase and would do no better than continue the old $12 a day scale.

This action was taken, said Edward M. Craig, executive secretary, because the workers last night voted to insist on $13 a day.

Then the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers International union countered with the announcement that it reverted to its original demand for $14 a day, and there the conference stuck. The meeting was attended by representatives of the employers association and the union.

WINTERS SENTENCED TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT

WOODSTOCK, Vt., June 4—(AP)—John C. Winters, Jr., who obtained a new trial through the efforts of Clarence Darrow, Chicago criminal lawyer, after he had been convicted of the murder of Miss Cecilia Gullivan at Windsor, in 1926, today was sentenced to life imprisonment. Winters reversed a plea of not guilty made at his first trial and entered plea of guilty to murder in the second degree, which the court accepted.

CHARGES AGAINST OWNER AND CREW OF THE VESTRIS

LONDON, June 4—(AP)—Grave charges against the owners and crew of the liner Vestris were contained in testimony before the British board of trade inquiry today into her sinking.

Much of the evidence was given through affidavits but some orally, in person.

Alfred Woods, general manager of the Lamport & Holt line owners of the ship, admitted personally that after an incident in 1926, when it was alleged that the Vestris sailed overloaded, he had taken no steps to supervise loading of the company's liners.

"In other words," said the attorney general, "Lamport & Holt left their vessels abroad free to break the law governing British ships?"

"Yes," Woods replied.

Very severe criticism of the crew's action, or alleged want of action, just before and just after the Vestris sank, was presented in affidavits on behalf of two passengers.

"Every person on board might have been saved had things not been left until the last moment," declared H. C. Johnstone, a Trinidad oil producer.

E. N. Walcott, general merchant, charged in his affidavit that the men engaged in launching the lifeboats did not appear to be familiar with their task. The boat he got into refused to go into the area where wreckage was thick to pick up women afloat.

The inquiry was adjourned by the court today until June 17.

WILL VOTE FOR $500,000,000 TO STABILIZE AGRICULTURE

WASHINGTON, June 4—(AP)—Assurance was given by responsible leaders in congress today that they would support a recommendation to make a half billion dollars available for the stabilization of agriculture as soon as the farm relief bill, which would authorize the proposed farm board to spend that amount, is enacted into law.

Among those who expressed the hope that President Hoover would send congress an estimate for that full amount was Senator McNary of Oregon, chairman of the senate agriculture committee. He said he thought it advisable to give the board every opportunity to take the fullest advantage of the benefits intended to be provided by the relief legislation which is nearing enactment.

Considerable interest was manifested at the capitol in the immediate reaction to this information on the Chicago grain market, where wheat closed buoyant at the day's top point, 3 7-8 to 6 1-8 cents per bushel higher than yesterday's finish.

FORMER PASTOR KILLED GIRL AND HIMSELF

HARRISON, N. J., June 4—(AP)—Paul Miedivinia, formerly pastor of the Church of the Lady of Sorrow here, was found dead and Helen Olyta, 25, of Kearny, seriously injured from two bullet wounds in the temple tonight in the home of Mrs. Rose Silkaitis, where the two were visiting.

Police said the former pastor was found on the floor of the front room of the house with a revolver in his right hand and a bullet wound in his brain. Miss Olyta was a few feet away with two bullet wounds through her head.

Mrs. Silkaitu told authorities that Miedivinia, who became demented about six months ago and left his pastorate to recover his health, returned today. He called at the Silkaitu home while Miss Olyta was present.

Mrs. Silkaitu said she went into the kitchen, leaving the priest and the young woman in the front room. Shortly after, she stated, she heard three shots. She found both Miedivinia and Miss Olyta on the floor of the room. The priest still grasped the gun.

Two shots had been fired into the temple of the young woman and one into the priest's head. He died instantly.

Police believed Miedivinia had been temporarily insane and shot the young woman and then himself in a moment of frenzy.

CLASS OF TEN RECEIVE DIPLOMAS AT ST. JOSEPH'S

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 4—A class of ten graduates received diplomas at the 19th annual graduation exercises of St. Joseph's hospital training school for nurses held in the chapel of the hospital in the presence of many relatives and friends at 4.30 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. John J. Reilly of Norwich delivered the commencement address. This was followed by a farewell song by the students, the conferring of diplomas by Rev. Henry E. Quinn, pastor of St. Joseph's church and the presentation of pins by Rev. Mother Geraldine. The alumni prize for the highest average was awarded to Miss Bernadette Messier of Danielson and the second award for general excellence went to Miss Mildred Loretta Bowers of Mansfield. The conclusion of the program follows: Sweet Savior, Bless Us by graduating class; benediction of the most blessed sacrament; Holy God, congregation and recessional.

Members of the class are: the Misses Beatrice Jean Bouchard of Danielson, Mary Ellen McEvoy of this city, Mildred Loretta Bowers of Mansfield, Florence Blanche Coutu of this city, Doris Amelia Mary Brown of Stafford Springs, Susan Williams of Philadelphia, Bernadette Messier of Danielson, Mildred Irene Merchant of this city, Mary Isabel Quinn of Stafford Springs and Marguerite Mary Anna Benoit of Taftville.

The exercises were immediately followed by a reception in the Nurses' Home from where members of the class motored to Brigham Tavern in Mansfield Depot where they were guests this evening of the alumni at a banquet.

The class day exercises were held at the Nurses' Home Monday evening, members of the class and student nurses being entertained at a banquet by the training school. The pretty decorations about the festive board were in the class colors of green and gold, tea roses and asparagus green being used for this purpose.

The program: Farewell address, Miss Florence B. Coutu; class will, Miss Beatrice Bouchard; class toast, Miss Mildred Bowers; class poem, "Training Days" Doris A. Brown; class creed, Mildred I. Merchant, class statistics, Susan Williams; class impersonations, Mary I. Quinn; class prophecy, Delia Beaulieu '31. Several alumni attended the event The class motto is Nisi Dominus Frustra (Unless God be with us; all labor is vain).

TO BUILD ADDITION AT ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 4—An addition to St. Joseph's hospital, to be built in the near future on the site of the present Nurses' Home, adjoining the institution, is now under consideration by the hospital directors. The plans are still in the preliminary stage, however, and nothing definite regarding them could be announced today. The directors have named an executive committee of seven to proceed with the arrangements for building and the doctors of the hospital staff have been met with to secure their views on the proposed addition and the method in which the project could be carried out. The definite statement that the hospital will be enlarged follows upon a number of such reports, some of which gained some headway during the past few years. These reports were based on realization that this city is direly in need of additional hospital facilities and St. Joseph's hospital was generally looked to to provide this.

Several substantial pledges have already been promised for the $12,000 industrial drive which opens here next week to defray moving and other expenses of the Willimantic Silk, Inc. Members of the executive committee of the drive point out that the new concern was secured for Willimantic only after meeting with strong competition from other cities which were also negotiating with the officials. In a statement made today by one of the officials of the company it was made known that a number of families are to move to this city in the near future with one or more members of each family to be employed at the silk plant. Considerable money has already been expended by the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company in the purchase of the mills where the new industry is located and in remodelling these buildings for modern use. The committee hopes to put the drive over in about two days.

Mrs. Minnie E. Mathieu of this city, newly elected department president of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War and her staff were given a reception in G. A. R hall Monday evening by Mary Todd Lincoln tent, No. 15. Prominent members of veteran organizations who were guests included State Commander James Haggerty of the G A R. and staff, Mrs. Mary Gregory of Milford, department president of the Woman's Relief corps, Morgan Haven of New London, division commander of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Mrs. Minnie Flynn, past department president of the United Spanish War Veterans' auxiliary, Mrs. Emma Snow, president of A. C. Tyler auxiliary, No 14, Robert O. Snow, representing the Spanish war veterans, Mrs. Lucy Champlin, president of the Woman's Relief corps and Miss Annie Smith, department chaplain. There were also present members of the New London camp of the Sons of Veterans.

A banquet and concert preceded the reception, the program of which follows: Address of welcome, Mrs. Lizetta Brebant, president of Mary Todd Lincoln tent; solo, Miss Celia Cohen; reading, Mrs Charles H. Beebe; solos, Miss Cohen; reading, Mrs. Beebe; solo, by Mrs. Helena M. T. Church of Norwich. Miss Magdalene Moriarty was accompanist. Mrs. Mathieu was presented with three baskets of flowers, one from the tent, one from Mrs. B. C. Hallock and Miss Hallock and a third from A. C. Tyler auxiliary, U. S. W. V., Mrs. Mary E. Lovett was chairman of the committee in charge of the evening's arrangements.

The man who made a world's record by climbing to the tower of the Woolworth building in New York city will scale the front of the Jordan building on Main street Wednesday afternoon and again in the evening. He is Dare-devil Johnnie Woods and he hails from New London. Besides climbing the Woodworth building in two hours and 45 minutes the human fly climbed 34 stories while blindfolded and without any assistance.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Albina Cote.

Mrs. Albina Cote, 69, wife of Louis Cote, died at her home, 20 Windham street, this morning after a short illness. MANSFIELD CENTER

Memorial day exercises were well attended and excellently conducted under the direction of Earl W. Green post, American Legion, and auxiliary. Carlton King was general chairman and Sergeant Milam, marshal. The parade was led by a car carrying three veterans of the Civil war, Melvin Nichols, Richard M. Johnson and Charles Pelske, with Spanish war veterans. Participating in the program were the Junior Y band of Marlborough, Nathan Hale drum corps firing squad from the national guard, Willimantic, 30 members of Earl W. Green post and 25 members of the auxiliary, the Men's Social club of Coventry and a large group of school children from Mansfield and Coventry. The address was given at the new cemetery by Horace J. Fenton. A salute was fired, after which the graves of the soldiers of the Revolutionary, Civil and Spanish wars were decorated by the children. There were songs by the children. Salute was fired by the squad from the national guard and taps sounded with a triple resound. Prayer was offered by Philip Linderson, chaplain of the post. Later the cemetery at Spring Hill was visited, with a short address by R. L. Hahn. At the Pink cemetery Ralph Reynolds was in charge and the Legion ritual was observed.

At Echo grange whist the past week the prizes were won by Mrs. Rathbun, Isidor Tannenstock, Norma Rathbun, Edgar Manning, Mrs. Tonkin, George Little. The door award went to Samuel Chappell.

you can't substitute adjectives for engineering

When somebody invents a car that will run on superlative adjectives, the motoring millennium will surely be with us.

Up to date, however, the efforts to substitute adjectives for engineering have been such dismal failures that the verbally-operated car still seems a long way off.

So until the "hot-air" motor is perfected, the Chrysler-built De Soto Six will continue to depend on its engineering and leave the adjectives to the other fellow.

Because it is typically Chrysler-engineered, De Soto Six already has achieved an admirable record of economy and durability. It has earned the praise of thousands upon thousands of owners by its gratifying performance, its handling ease and its low cost of operation and maintenance.

In addition to its ability to perform and keep on performing, it is handsome and comfortable. Chrysler-designed weather-proof brakes give it exceptional safety.

Here is a six-cylinder car priced well below $1,000 that inspires real pride of ownership in any company. The purchase of a De Soto Six is the kind of economy dictated by wisdom and not necessity.

Choice of Color at No extra cost

A Special Show of Motor Car Color Designs

The smartness and distinction of your chosen color design—at no extra cost. Come to our Special Color Show and see the great variety of color combinations from which you may choose.

An exclusive manufacturing achievement makes this wide selection, at no extra cost, absolutely exclusive to the Super-Sixes. And it caps the great array of values with which Essex the Challenger has swept the six-cylinder field.

Last month, for instance, more that 225 different color combinations on various models were supplied to Essex buyers. In this territory any Hudson-Essex dealer is prepared to show and to give you a wide choice. Your individual selection, from among the options, will be shipped from the factory within 48 hours of the receipt of your order, at no extra cost.

And color is but one point of Essex advantage. The conviction of greatest value which Essex gives on sight is borne out in performance of brilliant range and smoothness, and a wealth of fine car detail, never before associated with this price class.

Its smooth and dashing power; its large, roomy, fine bodies; its 76 outstanding new features; its Speed challenging up to 70 miles an hour; with Reliability that permits 60 miles an hour for hour after hour; and Economy of 18 to 20 miles per gallon and upward—all these make Essex a formidable challenger of any car the market offers.

The Bonfire

The leaves, the shadows fall: the end
Of our long sojourn's drawing near;
We'll kindle one more bonfire, friend,
To burn the dross of many a year.
Loose crumbling walls, and rafters low,
Soon they shall be forsaken quite,
And a far journey we shall go.
And we must travel light!

Strange hoards we bring from attic gray!
The dusty dreams of wealth and fame
That long ago we did away
At last we fling into the flame.
Old wrongs, still craving for redress,
Old feuds—how slowly they ignite!
The fumes are acrid. None the less,
We two shall travel light.

Fling in the final arrogance,
Fling in the wayward will of youth,
Fling in, without one rueful glance,
The hard, clear formulae of Truth
Whereby we meted blame and praise;
They have grown dim, that shone so bright!
Buffeted now one simple phrase—
For we must travel light!

Fling in the selfish hopes and vain
We guarded with such jealous breath,
Fling in the old, old fear of pain,
Fling in the love less strong than death!
And when the last gale, dark and blind,
Shall summon us into the night,
We'll leave no precious thing behind,
Yet we shall travel light!
—May Kendall, in London Chronicle.

Clear Windows

The world has washed its windows,
With April riding by,
March clouds have turned to thinned rows
Of silver-fluted sky.
Joy's cavalcades where heralds run
Are jeweled splendors in the sun.

I see them going, going,
The eager hearts and strong,
Their banners flying, flowing,
Like ribboned wings of song;
Across the hills their bugles blow;
Far, far away their tent lines show.

The pageantry of beauty
The far horizon fills.
Life's toil of burdened duty
Is lost beyond the hills;
And I shall go and hear once more
The waves lap in on some far shore

The world has washed its windows;
My heart is out of doors.
I care no more for binned rows
Of corn my granary stores.
I know how large earth's verge may be,
How much perhaps there is to see.
—Lewis Worthington Smith in Boston Transcript.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Tommy, can you tell me one of the uses of cowhide?"

"Er, yessir. It keeps the cow together."—Detroit News.

"Yes," giggled the bride-to-be, "I accepted John the first time he proposed."

"Oh, no, you didn't, darling," said her dear friend. "No, you didn't. You weren't there."—Washington Star.

Lady—Oh, I do like our new minister. It seems he's always bringing home to you something you never saw before.

Neighbor—Yes, I know. Our laundryman is like that.—Humorist.

"What I liked about the hotel was the way they treated the livestock. Why, they treated the poultry better than they did the guests."

"How's that?"

"Well, they don't pluck the poultry while they're still alive."—Dorfbarbier.

Father—So you're finding that married life can be difficult?

Daughter—Yes, but it wouldn't be except for Ted. He won't listen to reason.

Father—Why, the fool! Not every married man has the chance—Montreal Star.

The Glasgow man was in town and wanted to see a play. Used to provincial prices, he innocently asked for an orchestra seat. "Five fifty," said the man in the box office.

"Na, na," said Angus. "I dinna care for these crook plays."—Boston Transcript.

The Filipino houseboy came into the living room and made believe fuss with the plants. Finally he turned and said:

"Missy remember hundred-piece dinner set?"

"Yes, Chan, a hundred pieces, what about it?"

He disappeared and came back with his hat.

"Think Chan go along. Two hundred pieces now, missy!"—The Salvo.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The number who died from cancer in this ocuntry last year equalled the number of deaths from accidents, suicide and homicides combined.

In 1928 there was a lower death rate than ever before recorded in this country for typhoid fever, diphtheria, scarlet fever and tuberculosis.

Ed Lawson, painter at Woodland, Cal., chose a good place to fall downstairs and sprain his back. He was painting in the Woodland hospital. He is now a guest of that institution.

Mrs. C. F. Perkins of Katy, Tex., has a chicken that came equipped with spare parts. The bird has four legs and twenty toes, all well developed. The chicken is hardy and seems to be normal in other respects.

W. G. Daubenberger of Des Moines has designed and built a combination automobile and motor boat. Tests already made, Daubenberger said, show the machine will make 75 miles an hour on land and 20 miles on water. It is equipped with water tanks and will not sink, he said. He plans to manufacture the machine in both open and closed models.

The Schiff trophy, awarded to aviators who have flown the greatest number of hours without accident throughout a calendar year, is regarded by naval aviators as one of the most valuable trophies competed for. The following officers have won the trophy: 1925, Lieut. Reginald Thomas U. S. N., 882 hours and 45 minutes; 1926, Capt. Harold C. Campbell, U. S. M. C., 839 hours; 1927, Lieut. Arthur Bavin, U. S. N., 865 hours; 1928, Lieut. James E. Dyer, U. S. N. 1,251 hours and 15 minutes.

Another was added to the list of freak radio receptions when at the home of James Brown at Wilson's Beach, N. B., they heard music while sitting in the kitchen. Mr. Brown has no radio set and there isn't one in any house near the Browns. To their bewilderment, the music they heard apparently issued from the drain pipe in the kitchen sink. It could be traced to no other source and continued without interruption throughout the evening. The pipe is an ordinary lead conduit running through the side of the house and ending in a ditch of water not far away.

WE NEED A NEW CHARTER.

If there are any regrets over the failure to ratify the charter revision that was submitted to the people at this weeks' city election, those who hold them can appreciate feelings of those who have been connected with previous efforts to provide a new charter for the city in place of the fossilized instrument under which we, as a city, are doing business.

In the past quarter of a century there have been recommendations and efforts put forth in behalf of a new charter on at least four occasions. They have taken time and involved much work and yet the need for a new charter still exists.

It has been repeatedly pointed out that we are working under serious handicaps, that our charter was drawn up to meet conditions which prevailed a half century or more ago, that we ought to be under an efficient budget system, that methods of doing business are out of date and costly and that in the interest of the proper administration of the municipality we should engage in a complete overhauling.

We have continued to stand pat while other cities have insisted upon being up to date. We have clung to an antique but instead of it becoming valuable with age it has decreased in value and we are experiencing the results.

We need a new city charter and in providing it there is need of giving consideration to the defects that exist in the light of present day conditions. Meeting such a need is not and should not be a partisan matter. In years gone by it has unquestionably been treated in that light and made a political issue, but whatever the errors of the past or failure of accomplishment there still remains the fact that Norwich continues to burden itself as long as it fails to face this charter need and to make a thorough and complete job of it.

It may be said that this is an old cry.

It is, it is so old that it is time it was heeded and the problem eliminated. We need a new charter.

CUT PRICE STAMPS.

Attention has been called recently to the running down of a group of men who have been engaged in washing and re-selling cancelled stamps, and in the resale of precancelled stamps which have been removed from mail matter and sent to the cities from which they were originally sent to be used over again.

How extensive this business has been is indicated by the estimate that it has meant a loss of about $4,500,000 to the government.

In connection with this business it is to be realized that there would be little or no chance to engage in this business except that such stamps could be marketed. The logical place to buy stamps is at the postoffice. There, there are no cut rates and no bargain days. The stamps are the same price every day in the year and when anyone engaged in the sale of stamps at a cut rate, the method employed by those who washed them, there was good reason for those who were approached to feel suspicious that something was decidedly wrong. A dollar's worth of honest to goodness stamps is not being sold for 85 cents in large quantities by good business men.

It is claimed that many persons were not aware that they were using washed or stolen stamps, but it is always fair to presume that when stamps are being obtained at less than their face value that either something is the matter with them or else they have not been legitimately acquired.

Well may the government indicate that it is determined to prosecute those involved to the fullest extent of the law and it has equally good reason for making a thorough investigation as to the circumstances under which the users of such stamps contributed to the success of the scheme.

MORE SAFETY AT SEA.

Whenever nations get together for the purpose of creating safer conditions at sea the accomplishments of such a conference are invariably increased if there has been a disaster at sea.

The sinking of the Vestris disclosed the need of better regulations concerning steamship inspection, the need of better regulations concerning the inspection of steamships, the need of having more vessels equipped with wireless and the importance of ending conditions which were found to exist on that ship.

The conference has been at work for several weeks and the representatives of the 18 maritime nations represented have approved the recommendations made by the conference, and there are reasons for believing that they should be ratified by the nations themselves.

Of no slight importance is the requirement that all vessels of 1600 tons which are engaged in international commerce must be equipped with wireless. It will be remembered at the time of the loss of the Vestris a tramp steamer was within a short distance of the vessel in distress and could have rendered most valuable service in taking off the passengers had it received the call for help. It was ignorant of what was going on and the race to reach the Vestris because it had no wireless.

Such is only what can happen under present day requirements for there are many vessels which are without the means of either summoning aid in case of trouble or of receiving distress calls from other ships. If all vessels were in a position to communicate with each other and to know what is going on there would be an opportunity for being of much service. In the past the chief reason for not having such equipment on all vessels has been the expense involved. In the interest of safety at sea the time has come when this may well be given secondary consideration. There is no telling when serious trouble is going to be experienced by any vessel and it is of the greatest importance that any and all within a reasonable distance of such a ship should lend their assistance. There is no more effective method of bringing this about than by means of wireless.

COURTESIES OF PORT.

New orders have been put into effect concerning the matter of customs examination of baggage and persons at ports of entry, and in view of the conditions which have existed it would appear to be a needed change.

When it is disclosed that through pull or some other means it has been possible for as many as a third of a passenger list to leave the ship without any delay incident to the cutsoms examination it can be realized that it was distinctly unfair to the remaining two thirds. They were subjected to the delays which go with the usual examinations. Those examinations may be short or long, depending upon the number of examiners and the trouble they encounter. But when a large part of the passengers are admitted with a wave of the hand there is no good reason why others should not have been similarly treated, all things being equal.

The idea of having all treated alike doesn't involve needless delay. It simply means a square deal for those who are entitled to it. Making flesh of one and fish of another has never been ppoular. It creates feeling and resentment.

There are times when it is evident that certain cases should be helped along, and such it would seem was the case of the 70-year-old woman, traveling alone, who had fallen on the deck of the liner and broken her leg and was waiting on a cot to be taken to a hospital. To require her to wait and take her turn with her baggage as she left the steamer in her helpless condition was an act of injustice and, according to the reading of the orders recently issued it was contrary to their spirit. She should easily have been included among the "seriously ill or infirm" who are expected to be numbered among the exceptions to the rule. It is the admission of those who do not need expedited entry and the holding up of such cases that subjects the service to serious criticism.

BUSSES VS. TROLLEYS.

While the trolley situation has been undergoing a decided change in the last two decades, forcing many new economies and the abandonment of many lines, it is apparent from action being taken or projected that the situation is far from being adjusted.

At the session of the Chicopee common council this week its attention was called to a statement by the manager of the trolley lines that it is operating on the policy of substituting bus service on all its suburban lines as rapidly as it can be accomplished economically.

The story at Chicopee is the same as elsewhere, the steady dropping of the daily operating income. When patronage is such that the running of electric cars does not pay it must be expected that there will be a resort to the one man cars and when that doesn't meet the situation that the cars will be replaced by busses. The inference is that the substitution of busses means greater economy in operation. At the same time it is not improbable that the motor vehicle transportation comes more nearly to satisfying the requirements of the public in this motorized age.

But it is not alone the suburban lines that are being affected. Lines which have been doing business in cities are giving way to the bus system, and while such a possibility has not been indicated at Chicopee, it has taken place at Woonsocket and the successful working out of the arrangement there is bound to get serious consideration elsewhere. It means the elimination of a big overhead expense in the maintenance of trolley road equipment, the wires, rails and cars, the upkeep of the streets and the keeping of it clear of snow in the winter time, and all that figures heavily in the operation of trolley cars. Busses are not without expense but they make possible large reduction in overhead and from the way in which they get patronage it would appear that they satisfied public requirements.

MOLLY'S AFTERNOON NAP

Seldom do we recognize the real causes behind the fortunate and the unfortunate things that happen to us. For instance, Molly Gray would laugh you out of countenance if you suggested that she and Ted, her husband, were driving a new car because Molly's mother had compelled her to take a nap when she was a little girl. But let's look into the matter.

Molly and Ted had been talking about a new car for some time, and they wanted it very badly, but, being prudent young persons they finally decided that they could not afford one. Ted sold real estate on commission and for the last two months had not done too well.

But on the day following their reluctant arrival at this important decision, Molly attended a bridge luncheon. Although Molly was a good player, on this particular day she held miserable hands, so that she had very close to the lowest score. In fact, only Mrs. Hanley was lower, and being lower was Mrs. Hanley's usual performance. However, in the final round Molly and Mrs. Hanley were playing against each other, and here the matter of Molly's mother and the afternoon nap comes into the story.

Because Molly had been quite delicate when a little girl, her mother had made her continue with her afternoon naps long after most children of her age had given them up. Thus a few "winks" about 4 o'clock in the afternoon became a habit that was most firmly established in Molly's daily routine. Of course, on some days such a nap was impossible, but ordinarily she had it, and it made no difference whether she had slept four hours or ten on the night before.

Now as Molly played that last round of bridge against Mrs. Hanley the hour of her nap arrived. She felt an irresistible drowsiness stealing over her, and she fought desperately against it. Then, just after Mrs. Hanley had made a rather reckless bid and started to play it, Molly's head dropped forward and she dropped off for a few seconds.

Nobody noticed, for Mrs. Hanley was a slow player, but when Molly abruptly jerked herself back to consciousness she found that she had lost all track of what had been played. As a result, although she held the cards that would have set Mrs. Hanley, she made such poor use of them that her opponent made a large score and beat Molly.

Whatever annoyance Molly might have felt at this occurrence was removed when the consolation prize was awarded to her. It was a clever little clock, lacquered in her favorite tone of green. She gasped with delight when she saw it and displayed it proudly to Ted that evening.

"Isn't it dicky?" she cried. "And look—it has an alarm. Now we can throw out that terrible wreck of a tin timepiece that we've been using."

"Well, the tin timepiece may be a terrible wreck, but it's got me to the office on time every morning for years," Ted replied.

Now, the little green clock had a busy tick and a handsome exterior, but its alarm mechanism was far from efficient. As a result instead of arising at 7.15 on the following morning Ted awoke with a start at ten minutes to 8. He immediately shook Molly into sleepy activity and began to dress feverishly. But all of his efforts at haste and all his reviling of the treacherous new alarm clock could not regain the lost minutes and he had to be content with catching the 8.42 to town. Ordinarily he took the 8.27.

But J. D. Sanders, man of money from an adjoining suburb, with whom Ted was slightly acquainted, customarily caught the 8.42. The seat beside him happened to be unoccupied that morning and Ted dropped into it. Before they reached the city Ted learned that Mr. Sanders was looking for a new home and got the wealthy man interested in a fine plate on the lake shore.

The deal was completed within a week, for Ted was a good salesman. The commission on the sale was a handsome one—so handsome that Ted and Molly reconsidered the new-car proposition.

Now as they speed out the boulevard they often remark that it was nothing but sheer luck that made Ted meet Mr. Sanders that morning and so get the money for the new car. Neither of them thinks back to the little green clock and the way in which Molly won it. And they get all the more pleasure out of the shining automobile because they regard it as a gift of the gods instead of something that Molly's mother provided for them by teaching Molly to take an afternoon nap!—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Whatever else may be said about the rules of the senate, they certainly operate to make that body a great national center of public interest.

Not since the days of republican insurgency, when autocratic control of proceedings by the speaker was overthrown, has the house bulked in the public eye to anything like the extent the senate continuously does.

The reason is that the house insurrection only served to swap a one-man domination for a triumvirate. The powers once exercised by the speaker now are shared by him with the majority leader and the chairman of the rules committee.

The Even Tenor

In the circumstances, proceedings of the house can be reasonably well forecast for any day. Nothing unexpected and thrillingly interesting is apt to happen there. Nobody can get the floor to start an independent verbal riot except by unanimous consent.

Debate on a pending bill is carried forward under a division of time schedule between the majority and minority, and applications for allotment of time must be filed in advance by members wishing to speak.

Probably the house would transact little business without some such arrangement and the use of the special rule machinery to cram essential measures through.

With a membership of 435 potential speakers to be considered, it could not be allowed to proceed on go-as-you-please lines in senate fashion.

As a direct result of this, however, the public generally, as well as the press, recognizes that the place to go for excitement is the senate, not the house.

House galleries yawn vacantly down on procedings most of the time. A mere handful of spectators is the usual thing, and only a fringe of reporters dozing on the front benches of a press gallery built to accommodate a hundred or two.

Senate Is Popular

It is quite a different matter in the senate. Public galleries usually are well filled, frequently crowded with queues of folks waiting at the various doors for a chance to get in.

Only the white house row in the gallery, reserved for invited guests of senators, and the diplomatic gallery are vacant as a regular thing.

There always are many reporters in the actual press gallery or in the press work rooms behind it. And every time an unusual flurry starts on the senate floor, which may be at any moment, word of it seems to travel all over Washington in some mysterious fashion. More reporters come in a matter of minutes and additional throngs flock into the public galleries.

The special session of the seventy-first congress has been no exception to the rule of chief interest in the senate.

Senate adoption of the debenture amendment to the farm bill was one illustration of the greater potentialities of that body.

The house roared and rocked with tariff debate, but on a showdown on a special rule not many republican dissenters went the length of bolting the majority program.

If there is to be a real insurrection against majority tariff plans, it will have to come in the senate.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Experience with G. & E. Department

Mr. Editor: It is quite amusing to read on the gas and electrical department trucks the slogan "At Your Service." Let me tell about the service rendered in my particular case. Some time since I came to my place of business one morning and found I had no light, so I called up the gas and electrical works. The party at the other end of the line informed me right off the reel that the trouble was inside and it was up to me to fix it. I replied all right. In about 15 minutes the telephone rang and I was informed by the same voice that they had investigated the matter and found the trouble was inside and it was up to me so I thanked him and telephoned the Eaton Chase Co. to send a man over as I needed the light. They sent one right away and after a careful examination he informed me that there was no trouble on my part and he would telephone the right party and explain the circumstances, he thought, better than I could. After his conversation over the telephone he informed me the electrical people would come right over and look over the situation. I waited until after 11 o'clock and called them up. They informed me they would be over after lunch. About 2 o'clock (I presume they went to lunch at 1 o'clock) a gas and electric truck appeared with 3 men attached. One of them came in and I said: "Howdy do," but he was in a hurry I suppose and did not have time to reply to my salutation. Well he monkeyed around awhile and then he sang out to Bill to bring in a test light, but Bill and the other fellow were busy holding down the running board and Bill did not come as requested. So the inside man after awhile got down and went out and got the test light and after an examination of affairs on the inside with the test light went outside and fixed the wire from the pole in the street to the building and behold there was light and then it was nearly supper time.

In due time the Eaton Chase Co. rendered me a bill for finding out that the trouble was not mine but up to the "at your service" people. I paid the bill knowing it would be less time and trouble for me then trying to get any satisfaction out of the gas and electrical department and it makes me grin every time I see the sign go by attached to a gas and electric bus. I presume very likely if I bought a gas range or refrigerator with a commission attached to it things would have been different than looking for service on a repair job.

I am in receipt of a circular adv. by mail from the gas and electrical department inviting me to call and see a demonstration of a Rudd automatic gas water heater. I don't understand whether it is sarcasm or otherwise. Twenty years ago I had a nice business in the Rudd line but the municipal gas and electric plant has knocked the far out of that business and left me only with the realization that I am paying taxes to furnish the money to run the merchandising end of the department that has not only killed me but every other taxpaying merchant in that line.

As I read the report of Martin Cohen, was very thankful I had been privileged to contribute my share in the way of taxation to make good the $5401. lost in the merchandising department of the gas and electrical department in the past 11 months that was used to put me out of the gas hot water heating business at 89 cents down and $2.00 a month for 12 months.

A short time ago I also received a postcard advising me if I would write my name across the address side of the post card and mail it to them "our experienced fitter would install a Rex heater for me at my home at 181 Broadway and collect the down payment of 89 cents and I could pay them the balance $2 a month for 12 months," but owing to having a first class landlord who has furnished all the necessary arrangements for good housekeeping I was unable to take advantage of their very liberal offer but as I think it over it looks to me as though they were trying to add insult to injury. What do you think Susie?

LETTER TO ED

What Is The Attraction?

Mr. Editor:— I always read with great interest the letters of C. H. "Dad" Shaw and believe him to be a fair-minded, intelligent man. Speaking of the problem of empty churches, has he ever wondered why the Catholic church has no such problem? On the contrary, in order to accommodate the crowds, three and four services are held every Sunday in each church! And this applies to the country church, as well. What is the attraction? Movies? Amusements? Anyone who has ever entered a Catholic church during services is impressed by the utter silence, even though the church be crowded to the doors.

What, then, is the mysterious attraction? In the words of the Master, "Seek and ye shall find."

ONE OF THE "CROWD."

YOUR HEALTH

Call of the "Fast Moving World Influencing Food and Best Habits.

By J. C. Anderson, State Health Officer, Austin Texas.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Lloyd George is of the opinion that "the most important worshop in the land is the home," and we know from observation that communities where individual homes exist produce a thriving, dependable people. The home is the backbone of a nation. But modern tendencies are so driving people away from their homes that such a caption as "Sweet to whom?" is not amiss.

Mother, father and children must follow the long long trail of the automobile, and when that is safely tucked in the garage there is the call of the rest—what time for keeping tab on health?

Note what Dr. Theodore B. Appe, secretary of health of Pennsylvania, has to say:

"Today's high speed with its night allurements is constantly taking an increase toll among the pupils of high and pre-high school age. Thus, fatigue steps in and health walks out.

"Recent figures tabulated by the department's bureau of child health show that of 42,515 pupils in the fourth class school districts in fifteen different countries more than 10 per cent were found to be ten per cent or more under weight. Eliminating the comparatively small number of children who are naturally under weight because of their size, the majority of deficients showed unmistakable signs of under-nourishment and fatigue. Subsequent investigation indicated that most of these young people's food and rest habits had been practically self-determined.

"It follows that parents must be made to realize that the body, whether young or mature, must be subjected to certain fundamental rules rather than to the whims of this fast moving world. Until they do so, neither they nor their children are likely to get out of life in terms of health, happiness and joy what nature intended they should get.

"Fatigue and under-nourishment are evidences of extreme foolishness on the part of grown-ups, but where children are concerned, they almost assume the proportion of a crime.

"If people are distinterested regarding their own health, they should at least protect that of their children, for they cannot protect themselves."

Burgess Bedtime Story

Welcome Robin Bumps His Head

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Who wrong of others always thinks
From self-examination shrinks.
—Old Mother Nature.

Welcome Robin was losing his appetite. He could think of nothing but that stranger he had seen several times. This strange Robin had a curious way of appearing and disappearing, and Welcome Robin was so jealous that he had made up his mind that the next time that stranger appeared he should be taught a lesson he never would forget. Welcome sat close by the nest that Mrs. Robin was building and waited and waited and waited. And while he waited his impatience and his anger grew. But he wafted in vain. Not a glimpse of that stranger did he get.

"It's your imagination," declared Mrs. Robin, as she continued the work of building the nest.

"There's no imagination about it," retorted Welcome Robin. "I've seen that fellow as plainly as I see you."

"Then where is he now?" asked Mrs. Robin, who was beginning to lose patience.

"I don't know," replied Welcome. "I don't know. I wish I did. If I knew where he was I wouldn't be sitting here, waiting. I would drive that fellow so far that he would never come back. Yes, sir, that is what I would do."

"Huh!" exclaimed Mrs. Robin, and went for some more material.

It was then that Welcome Robin changed his position. He flew over to the spot where he had been when he last saw the stranger. Every time he had seen the stranger Welcome Robin had been sitting on this particular branch. He hadn't noticed this but it was a fact. Now the instant he alighted he saw the stranger. Welcome puffed out his feathers and glared. But he didn't puff out his feathers and he didn't glare any more than did the stranger. Welcome wasted no time. He flew at that stranger in a fury. If he expected to see that stranger turn tail and fly away, he was disappointed. The stranger did nothing of the kind. It was clear that he was willing to meet Welcome Robin half way. He flew straight at Welcome as furiously as Welcome was flying at him.

Bang! Welcome Robin had bumped his head. He didn't know what had happened. He was too confused to know what had happened. All he knew was that he had received a dreadful bump on the head. It had been such a hard bump that he had fallen to the ground, but it had done him no serious harm, and in a few minutes he had quite recovered. Then he looked for that stranger. But the stranger wasn't to be seen.

"I guess I taught that fellow a lesson that time!" declared Welcome as he flew over to sit where Mrs. Robin was so busily at work. "I don't believe we'll see him around again. He certainly hit me an awful blow on the head. But I guess I hit him just as hard."

"What are you talking about?" asked Mrs. Robin, who was beginning to lose patience. "You must be crazy. Welcome Robin. There isn't any stranger around here, and there hasn't been."

"Then how did I get such a blow on the head?" demanded Welcome. "Tell me that, if you please. My head aches this very minute."

But this was something that Mrs. Robin couldn't tell him, so she went off to look for some soft, dead grass that she needed in the building of that nest.

A FIVE-YEAR-OLD FORECAST MORE THAN REALIZED

JUNE 7 1924

"+ + + the Chrysler is, in reality, the first step in the general revision of motor car design which is bound to follow its advent. + + + For it is an entirely new type of car, built on a new kind of engineering, which produces results radically different from any heretofore registered in the industry."

CHRYSLER'S INFLUENCE ON YOUR CAR

It has become an axiom of the motor car industry that much of what comes tomorrow originates in what Chrysler engineering does today.

For five years, Chrysler has been the acknowledged leader in thrilling performance. For five years, Chrysler has led the way in individuality and modern smartness of design.

Those in possession of the facts know that there is scarcely a motor car today that does not owe some improvement in its make-up to Chrysler—and has not become a better car by reason of Chrysler engineering achievement.

Emulation is a nice compliment to Chrysler leadership, of course. But the mere copying of features cannot equal the complete Chrysler results.

To you who are about to choose a new car, a natural question arises: Why not enjoy a Chrysler itself, so long as Chrysler smartness, comfort, performance and quality are the goals to which other cars are striving? Let us show you in a test of your own choosing the superiority of Chrysler to anything aspiring to compete with Chrysler.

CHRYSLER "75"—$1535 to $1795—Eight Body Styles. + CHRYSLER "65"—$1040 to $1145—Six Body Styles. All prices f. o. b. factory. Chrysler dealers extend convenient time payments.

Custom Eight wins wide approval

PACKARD now builds three complete lines of the famous Packard Straight-Eight—the Standard, the Custom and the De Luxe.

The Packard Custom Eight is proving widely popular with those motorists who desire Packard beauty, distinction and performance combined with the added comfort and roominess of a 140-inch wheelbase chassis.

Nine models are offered in the Custom Eight line—three open and six enclosed. With a wide choice in color combinations and upholstery available, your individual tastes may be gratified in full in this fine and luxurious car.

All Custom Eight models include the new and exclusive Packard Shock Absorbing System, which, combined with deeper, more luxurious cushions, provides divan-like comfort over all roads. A unique device for eliminating front wheel "shimmy" and steering wheel "whip" assures safe, easy steering at all speeds.

Custom Eight prices range from $3175 to $3850 at the factory. When will you take the model of your choice for a demonstration drive? A telephone call will bring it to your door.

If you prefer to buy out of income you will find the Packard Payment Plan most attractive. Many take possession of their new cars without any cash outlay because the used car allowance equals or exceeds the down payment.

BOSWELL AVENUE HOUSE RUINED BY FIRE

A two story residence, nearly completed, and located on Boswell avenue, near the end of the trolley line, was completely destroyed by fire shortly after 5 o'clock Tuesday morning. The house, erected by Gottfried Zachae at a reputed cost of $16,000, and covered by insurance to the extent of $8,000, is a mass of ruins.

Mrs. Rose Karkutt, who resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zachae on Pratt street, directly in the rear of the burned house, was awakened by the crackling of the flames. Looking through the window she discovered the house was on fire. Ernest Zachae sent in a telephone call to the fire department and his brother, Fred pulled in box 213, Boswell avenue and Pratt street.

As soon as the firemen arrived at the scene, a second alarm was pulled in, calling out Engine No. 3. Three lines of 2 1-2 inch hose and an inch and a half line were laid. Owing to low water pressure Engine No. 2 was called into service to pump water on the flames.

It was impossible to save the building as it was practically a mass of ruins when the first call was sent in for the firemen. Several surrounding buildings were scorched and grapevines, trees and shrubbery located within a radius of 75 feet destroyed by the intense heat.

It is thought that the fire started in shavings in a floor planer and smouldered throughout the night, finally setting fire to the building. The floor planer was operated by electricity and the electric plug pulled from the socket each night. This was done Monday night when the men quit work in the house. The fire started in the room where the planer was left.

It was at first thought that the fire might have started from paint left in the building but Mr. Zachae stated that on Monday morning both floors of the house had been cleared and the paint cans stored in the cellar. Mr. and Mrs. Zachae planned to move into the new house in 10 days or two weeks time.

NORWICH SCOUT COUNCIL TO COOPERATE WITH N. L.

In accordance with a request of H. D. Larrabee of the Norwich council of Boy Scouts, President C. Hadlai Hull of the New London council has appointed a committee of five to meet with a Norwich committee of the same number in the near future for the purpose of promoting scouting in eastern Connecticut in a more co-operative manner than ever attempted before.

This move on the part of the Norwich and New London scout councils is the result of a desire on the part of national headquarters of scouting to bring councils in close proximity to a more uniform program, each of the councils gaining benefits from the experiences of others in a mutual way.

For the past few weeks the regional office at Boston has had a field executive working in and north of Norwich in an effort to promote scouting here.

FUNERALS

Speed Evans

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the funeral of Speed Evans, held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the A. M. E. Zion church. Rev. Mr. Gantt, pastor of the church, conducted the service. Mrs. Gantt sang Abide With Me. Rev. Mr. Wallace read the scripture, Rev. Mr. Gantt offered the prayer, and Mrs. Gantt then sang Rock of Ages. Rev. Dixon A. Brown gave the eulogy which was followed by the colored Odd Fellow's service, the colored Elk's service and St. Luke's service. The hymn, Jesus Lover of My Soul, brought the services to a close.

The burial was in Yantic cemetery where Rev. Mr. Gantt conducted the committal service. Friends acted as bearers and there was a wealth of floral tributes testifying to the esteem and high regard in which Mr. Evans was held by his numerous friends and acquaintances. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Barbara Bellows

Funeral services for Barbara, one month and 28 days old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bellows, were held at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the home of her parents, No. 307 Washington street. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Hourigan Bros.

James B. Rogers.

The funeral of James B. Rogers of West Town street was held at the parlors of Undertakers Church and Allen at 2.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. George Warren Potter, pastor of the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, conducted the service. The burial was in Maplewood cemetery and Rev. Mr. Potter conducted the committal service.

The bearers were William Burdick, Thomas Marra, Joseph Hunter and Arthur Fullerton.

William H. Murray

At 8 o'clock on Monday morning the funeral of William H. Murray was held from his home in Leffingwell with requiem high mass at 9 o'clock at St. John's church, Montville, which was celebrated by Rev. James A. O'Meara. Miss Helen B. Ganey was at the organ and the choir sang Lead, Kindly Light. The bearers were Jeremiah Norton, Gilbert Murray, Albert Murray, Russell Murray, Frank Pacquette and William Herzog. Burial was in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery this city.

NORWICH TAXPAYERS' ASSOCIATION FOR ECONOMY IN CITY FINANCES

According to action taken by the Norwich Taxpayers' association, on the 17 "extras" in the city budget, Tuesday evening at a meeting at Odd Fellows' hall, economy will be the watch word at the annual city meeting scheduled for Monday night next. The association, after completing its choice of officers held a mock city meeting during which practically all of the long list of extras were discussed at length. Most of the extras were either indefinitely postponed or voted down.

With an attendance of about 75 members, all property holders, the meeting, the second held by the new organization was called to order at about 8.15 by President Daniel T. Shea. Mr. Shea, noticing Mayor Lee Roy Robbins in the audience, invited the mayor to a seat on the platform.

Mr. Shea suggested as a slogan for the new association, "Everybody Welcome, Everything Free." He said there will be no salaries paid to the officers of the association and there will be no graft. The president announced that it was decided to limit the membership in the association to real estate holders, because the real estate owners bear the tax burden to a great extent.

List Of Officers Completed.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Secretary James F. Flemming and accepted, after which a short recess was taken while the nominating committee completed its list of candidates for officers. The nominating committee, after the meeting had been reconvened, submitted the following list of names for election:

Directors for each of the city departments: board of selectmen, Patrick T. Connell; board of assessors, Fred G. Prothero; board of relief, Edward Kirby; school committee, Walter F. Lester; recreation committee, William J. Fitzgerald; public works, no choice; fire department, Acting Chief Henry R. Taft; police commissioners, no choice; gas and electric commissioners, Archibald Torrance; park department, Henry F. Parker; water department, Charles A. Hagberg.

City and town districts—Occum, no choice; Taftville, J. C. Marsan; East Side, Bruno Pedace; Laurel Hill, Arthur E. Story; Thamesville, P. J. Battersby; West Side, Dr. Ier J. Manwaring; Falls, John A Holland; Norwich Town, Grosvenor Ely.

For third vice president, Miss Nancy Lucas.

The report was accepted and the directors recommended were elected.

George E. Pitcher inquired if all the names read were members of the association and was informed that they were or have signified their intention of being members.

The report of the membership committee was made as follows: Members at first meeting, 45, paid; present membership, 213, a gain of 168.

Mayor Robbins Speaks.

President Shea then called on Mayor Robbins. It is a pleasure to be called upon, said the mayor, and a pleasure to be a member of this organization. I think there has been need of an organization of this kind for a long time, he said. Mayor Robbins said he understood that the effort of the organization is not to stifle progress, but to see that the city's money is wisely spent.

Mayor Robbins said that the organization has a splendid opportunity to take hold of the guiding wheel of the whole tax problem. There will be order and system where there is now chaos, he said. With reference to the "extras" in the city budget, the mayor said he understood that there will be no effort on the part of the association to stifle any necessary improvements for the good of the community.

Former Mayor H. M. Lerou, first vice president of the association, was then called on. He said he is satisfied that the association is a big success. We are not to cry down but to build up, he said. We should have a guiding hand to investigate appropriations, he added.

E. O. Rodier, second vice president of the association, said: "We want to see everything done as near right as it can possibly be done. That is what we are here for. What I like about this organization is that it is cosmopolitan. We are open to suggestions. There is no doubt about the uccess of this organization. I don't know of any place that looks better to me than the city of Norwich."

James P. Sheridan asked if the association had made any plans for participation in the annual city meeting next Monday night.

President Shea asked Mr. Sheridan if he had any suggestions as to such a plan.

Mr. Sheridan stated that he thought the list of "extras" in the city budget should be brought up at the meeting for discussion and that some decision should be made at the meeting on the various appropriations.

President Shea, in answer, said that inasmuch as the directorate of the association has been practically completed, that it might be possible to arrange a meeting of the officers and directors with the city's finance committee to discuss the various appropriations. He expressed the opinion that such a meeting would accomplish the sa meresult.

Discussion On Extras.

Judge Nelson J. Ayling suggested that the secretary read the list of "extras". Let's hold a little city meeting right here tonight, he added.

The secretary then read the list of 17 "extras" after which they were taken up, one by one, for general discussion and action.

What About Sidewalks?

The first "extra" on the list calls for an appropriation of $5,000 for repairs to sidewalks. This is a new item in the "extras." Are they city owned sidewalks? Are they sidewalks around city owned property? asked Mr. Sheridan.

Mayor Robbins said they were not. He spoke of the dangerous condition of many sidewalks in the city and stated that the street commissioner has the authority to order property owners to repair their sidewalks, and that if the walks are not repaired, the street commissioner can repair them and place a lien on the owner's property. This $5,000 is to provide the street commissioner with available funds to do this work, the mayor said.

Dr. N. B. Lewis said the money used for this purpose ought to come back to the city.

"We've got to start now and nip expenses in the bud," said Edward Finby of the board of relief.

"I am opposed to all 'extras' on principle," said President Shea. "If they had any merit they would be placed in the regular list," he said. He suggested that a good plan would be to cut out all these "extras" and take them up anew through the finance committee.

A member of the audience suggested that instead of cutting the "extras" that the regular appropriations might be cut down.

Mr. Sheridan stated that he took exception to the remarks made by President Shea that if the "extras" had any merit they would be included in the regular estimates.

"Prove it," said President Shea.

"I will," was Mr. Sheridan's answer. "The budget," said Mr. Sheridan, "is made up to fit a certain taxation rate. Anything else is in the 'extras.'" Mr. Sheridan said that there have been only a few improvements made in the city that have been recommended by the finance committee. The majority of the improvements, Mr. Sheridan said, have been petitioned for by the people. This is a great organization, Mr. Sheridan said, but I want to see the cards on the table. The budget is made up to fix the tax rate and that is what we are trying to get away from.

Edwin W. Higgins said he didn't believe this was the proper way to handle the sidewalk question. The credit of the city is good enough, he said, so that the city can borrow $100,000 at 5 per cent or less. That would be only $5,000 interest year. The city would save money if it borrowed $100,000 for new sidewalks, was a suggestion made by Mr. Higgins. He expressed the opinion that it would be more economical to pass this item in anticipation of a bond issue on the sidewalk question. Meet the sidewalk situation as a whole through long term notes, said Mr. Higgins.

I move this item be indefinitely postponed. The motion prevailed.

"I still think I am right about the 'extras,'" said President Shea before the second item was brought up for discussion.

City Treasurer Charles Colt, said that the budget is not drawn up to fit a taxation rate, as Mr. Sheridan stated.

Action on Extras

Action on the remaining 16 items was as follows:

Parks and trees, $1,500, indefinitely postponed, on motion of Dr. N. B. Lewis.

Enactment of building, plumbing and electric codes, as ordinances, $1,500, indefinitely postponed.

New chassis for police patrol, $1,000 approved.

Additional pay to give each regular police officer one day a week off duty, $4,800, disapproved. Motion by Mr. Kirby that police have one day off with pay, through arrangement with the police commissioners, without extra cost to the city, approved.

Hamilton avenue, Corning road to city line, macadam, $3,200, disapproved.

Smith avenue, bridge to Hamilton avenue, macadam, $13,000 disapproved.

Asylum street, Newton street to Almshouse, macadam, $10,000, disapproved.

Joseph Perkins road, fire station to McKinley avenue extension, macadam, $3,000, disapproved; $1,000 favored for providing for stone bottom in road.

Seventh street, Prospect street to Durfey street extension, macadam, $2,500, disapproved.

Rockwell street, McKinley avenue, to Mohegan park entrance, macadam, $11,500, cut to $2,000 for improvements to the street.

Hickory street, Prospect street to Boswell avenue, macadam, $13,000, disapproved; suggestion that it be included in list next year and voted at that time.

Talman street, Laurel Hill bridge to Preston bridge, macadem, $15,000, disapproved.

Elizabeth street school to Whipple avenue, widening, $4,000, disapproved.

Hobart avenue, Oak street, northerly, sewer, $4,000, laid on the table.

Smith avenue, County Home to Hamilton avenue, sewer, $6,000, laid on the table.

Removing ledge opposite No. 30 Spruce street, $1,500, laid on table.

Following the lengthy discussion on the "extras" the meeting proceeded to hear the reading of bills which were approved.

On Gas And Electric

Secretary Fleming read to the meeting a letter from the board of gas and electrical commissioners asking for a meeting with the taxpayers association at which the situation with regard to the municipal gas and electric plant might be explained.

After hearing the letter read the meeting voted to make its adjournment to next Friday evening at 8 o'clock at Odd Fellows hall for the purpose of such a meeting as the gas and electrical commissioners asked for.

The letter was dated June 3rd and was directed to the President and Vice President of the Norwich Taxpayers Protective association. It read as follows:

"The board of gas and electrical commissioners respectfully request that your association consider the situation that confronts the only net revenue producer of the city by holding a public hearing or otherwise with a view to protecting property of the city that is of great value and that should be conserved.

"A great deal of misinformation seems to be widespread with regard to the operation, ownership, management and control of the city's gas and electric plant and with a view of securing for your membership the "story" of the city's ownership of its light and power plant, we request before the annual city meeting an opportunity to present to your members certain facts, figures and conclusions of the board of gas and electrical commissioners with the purpose of getting a better understanding of the problems and conditions which face this important department of the city.

"As taxpayers the fact that this department during the last fiscal year paid into the general treasury of the city $50,000 towards the general expense, you should and no doubt will be interested in the consideration and discussion of factors and conditions which will make it possible to increase the earnings of the plant without damage to any private interests but with advantage to all of the taxpayers of the community served by this utility. This plant has in a leading editorial of our morning paper been denominated as a "joke" and such for years. A bonded indebtedness of $858,000 with an invested sinking fund of $201,748.72 and net earnings during the past year of $227,147.97, employing 110 persons and serving the city with a necessity, can hardly be regarded as a joke.

"Your commissioners have taken their duties and responsibilities seriously and have believed and do believe that this property should be administered as a business proposition and that well accepted and approved business methods and principles should and must be applied to make the city's investment safe and the interest of the taxpayers secure."

The letter had on it the signature of four members of the board of gas and electrical commissioners, Joseph P. Connor, president; Samuel Goldberg, William H. Cruickshank, and Jacob Munz. The name of the fifth member, Archibald Torrance, a recent appointee to the commission, was missing.

After taking action on the letter from the commissioners the taxpayers meeting adjourned at 11:15.

NATURALIZATION SESSION MAKES 113 NEW CITIZENS

One hundred thirteen applicants for naturalization, most of them men but a few of them women, qualified before Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court naturalization session here Tuesday, renounced allegiance to their former national sovereigns or states, took the oath of allegiance to the United States and were admitted as citizens. These new citizens came from Great Britain, Germany, Greece, Italy, Lithuania and Russia.

The naturalization session is to be continued today (Wednesday), when applicants from other countries will come before the court.

John F. Davis, a federal examiner from Boston, was here to conduct the examinations, and the business of the court moved forward expeditiously under the plan arranged for and carried out under direction of John F. Walker, clerk of the court. Under direction from Judge Brown each applicant was asked if he had paid a personal tax and Miss Nellie Harrington, personal tax collector in the town of Norwich, was on hand to keep track of the Norwich cases.

On the wall behind the judge's desk a big American flag was displayed. To the newly made citizens flag codes and manuals were presented by Mrs. Frank I. Royce and Mrs. Albert J. Bailey, representing the Daughters of the Revolution, and Mrs. E. Grace Fovier, patriotic instructor of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, assisted by Mrs. Jayne Seed and Mrs. Iola Bjurstrom, presented them small flags and copies of the flag salute and the American creed.

Judge Waller Reserves Decision

Following a trial of a half day in the court of common pleas at New London Tuesday, Judge Charles B. Waller took the papers and reserved decision in the $475 damage action brought by the Continental Finance Co. against L. Hathaz of New London. The suit was based on the common counts.

EXPECT FAIR WEATHER FOR COMMUNITY PICNIC

The ninth annual community picnic, under the auspices of Norwich Rural association, will be held Friday afternoon from 5 o'clock on, in Lowthorpe Meadows, Norwich Town. As the date draws near, all who generally participate, are manifesting great interest in what has proven in past years to be most enjoyable to both young and old. There is no restriction as to age, or creed, and the people of Norwich in all its surrounding area will be welcome to attend. The basket lunch usually informally opens the picnic, as from the appointed hour on, people assemble on the hillside where the picnic is held. A feature of the picnic this year will be a quartette of male voices comprising members of the former Bass Clef club, a singing organization well and favorably known in Norwich for several years. It is the arrangement of the committee in charge that the quartette will lead in the community singing, also favor with special numbers, etc. This part of the programme is carried out in the closing, which is at a seasonable hour to afford people an opportunity of going elsewhere for the evening. Lowthorpe Meadows may be reached from three different entrances. For those who come by trolley the attractive arch-way on Washington street, which adjourns the Gilman mansion; that entrance on Town street near the brook and the one on Schoolhouse lane, which is not far from the car line. For those who wish to come in automobiles, especially to listen to the singing, the Town street approach perhaps would be more preferable.

Should the day be stormy, wet ground, etc., the picnic will be held the next pleasant day, not including Sunday.

With the musical programme nearly completed all that is hoped for, is ideal weather for an out-of-door gathering at this time of day, with a large company of townspeople in attendance.

The new officers of the Rural association are: President, Willard Haughy; vice president, Bartholomew Sullivan; secretary and treasurer, Donald Brigham. Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb are the committee in charge, having been re-elected at the association annual meeting Friday last. Citizens of Norwich who are not unmindful of this generous gift of Lowthorpe Meadows to the Lowthorpe association from which it derives its name, recall with pleasant associations the donors, Miss Emily S. Gilman and Miss Louise G. Lane, (now deceased), who in memory of their sister, Miss Maria Perit Gilman and their ancestry, gave this as an expression of their love and good will toward the inhabitants of Norwich, for recreation purposes.

PLANE MAKES FLIGHTS OVER CITY CENTER

It took but a flight or two over the city after the plane of the Red Wing Flying Service, Inc., reached here late Tuesday afternoon to announce that the plane was flying from the Beebe farm on the Gallows hill road. Until darkness came the flights were kept up, bringing the plane droning over the center of the city, and hundreds of motorists drove to the flying field to look things over.

Before Pilot Ahearn was allowed to use the field for flights it was inspected and approved by Lieut. Prenatis of the state aviation department, who came here from Hartford to see that all the requirements were fulfilled. The lieutenant gave approval to the landing field as suitable for use with a plane of the size which Pilot Ahearn uses.

The airplane company was to have reached here Monday, but its arrival was delayed a day owing to a flight which was made from Wonsocket to Montreal and back with a passenger.

DRESSMAKING CONTEST AT BROADWAY SCHOOL

For Norwich, Putnam, Pomfret Center, Taftville and Hampton, the preliminary contests in the Connecticut Junior Achievement are to be held today (Wednesday) at Broadway school, this city.

Dresses may be entered in seven different classes making it possible for 28 dresses to win places in the finals since 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th places are awarded ribbons and permitted to enter the finals at New Haven on June 15. In addition to these ribbon awards an excellent workmanship ribbon will be granted to each dress measuring to the required standard.

Cash prizes are offered in four places in each class, totaling $100.

ATTENDED FUNERAL OF STATE'S OLDEST MASON

Three members of Wooster lodge, No. 10, F. and A. M., of Colchester, were in Jersey City on Saturday to represent Connecticut at the funeral of Edwin P. Hanks, 92, the oldest Connecticut Mason and a member of Wooster lodge for over 71 years.

The Connecticut delegation at the funeral comprised W. T. Curry, Nathan Gilman and E. W. Jones.

H. M. LEROU RE-ELECTED STATE PHARMACY SECRETARY

Officers were elected as follows at the annual meeting of the state pharmacy commission held Tuesday in the capitol at Hartford: President, J. W. Marsland, New Britain; vice president, C. T. Gilbert, Noroton; secretary, H. M. Lerou of this city.

Mr. Lerou's election as secretary was for the twelfth time in this office, but this year for the first time there is a salary of $3,000 attaching to the office.

GOVERNOR SAYS WILLIMANTIC NEEDS MUNICIPAL AIRPORT

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 4. — "New England's great future lies in the development of commercial aviation," said Governor John H. Trumbull in an extemporaneous talk given here tonight at a meeting of the Exchange club with the Rotary club as guests. Some 90 members of the organizations and friends attended. Governor Trumbull, who was introduced as the flying governor, a distinction which he alone holds in this country, by Allen B. Lincoln of Hartford and Westford, stated that he had dual interest in aviation. The first, he said, was because of its value to the commercial side of New England in providing speedy transportation to southern and western consumers and foreign markets. He claimed that this transportation, which is yet to be fully realized, is necessary ow

DAN CHUBBUCK, AGGIE TRACK STAR, IS HOLDER OF FIVE COLLEGE RECORDS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., June 4—Dan Chubbuck, 19 year old sophomore at Connecticut Agricultural college, in his first season of varsity track competition, broke two Eastern Intercollegiate and five college records to score 106 points in four dual meets and the Easterns. In making his record breaking performances he took 16 first places, seven seconds, and five thirds as his contribution to the best track season enjoyed at the State college in years, only one meet being lost and that by a two point margin.

The records Chubbuck broke at the Eastern Intercollegiate track meet at Worcester, Mass., May 18, were in the shot put and discus. He set a new mark in the former event when he hurled the shot 43 feet, 7 5-8 inches and easily won the discus with a record throw of 130 feet, 2 inches. He later broke the discus mark again with a toss of 137 feet, 9 inches against Trinity at Hartford.

The college records Chubbuck now holds are as follows: 100 yard dash, 10 seconds; broad jump, 21 feet 6 inches; discus, 137 feet 9 inches; shot put, 43 feet, 7 5-8 inches; and 220 yard low hurdles, 26 3-5 seconds.

Coach Paul E. Bitgood is now working Chubbuck in the pole vault and high jump to prepare him for the decathalon events at the Penn. relays next April. Coach Bitgood and others who have seen the Connecticut marvel in action are sure Chubbuck will be Olympic material and a possible champion in 1932.

Chubbuck prepared for college at Tourtellotte Memorial high school in North Grosvenordale, a small town in eastern Connecticut. The school did not have a track team but gained fame in this part of the state by winning 27 straight basketball games. Chubbuck played center and was the leading scorer during his four years in high school. Last winter he played center on the Connecticut Aggie varsity basketball quintet and until forced out of action with a broken ankle was leading the team by more than 50 points in individual scoring. He should be one of the best basketball players to represent the Aggies in history. Chubbuck also played football last fall with the varsity but did not play enough to win his letter because of an injured knee which kept him out of competition for the major portion of the season.

He stands six feet, three inches in height and weighs 205 pounds, led the freshman class last year in studies, and is one of the most popular men at the Connecticut Agricultural college.

TWO PLAYERS HURT IN PACO VICTORY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 4—The P. and A. team won their first twilight league game tonight over the Quinebaug Indians by a score of 11 to 2. Although the cute Curtainmakers won the game their bad luck was still on hand. Bee who started in the box for P. and A. received a cut over the eye and was forced to leave the game. Burke, one of Paco's best outfielders, was also injured and he will remain out of twilight league games for about a month.

The big innings for the Paco's was the third, when they scored seven runs. Taylor was a big hitter in the game, hitting for an average of 1.000.

BOXMEN TAKE LOOSE GAME FROM SHELTON

The Unasville-Shelton Co. ball club joined a soccer league in three innings of its game with the Robertson Paper Box last night when it made enough boots on the Shelton field in Unicasville to insure the visitors an easy 18 to 4 victory in a Montville Twilight Industrial league game, the worst offenders being McDermott and Habovecky. The Paper Box men hit the ball hard especially McKinney and Tephley, the first named getting a home run and a single and Tephley a brace of two baggers.

ELM CITY GIANTS TO PLAY VELVETMEN SUNDAY

At the J. B. Martin diamond on Sunday afternoon the J. B. Martin club will clash with the fast Elm City Colored Giants of New Haven. The Giants are no strangers in this section of the state and local fans know that they always bring a strong team. The Giants have an exceptionally hard hitting club and should give the Velvetmen a busy afternoon. West or Fisher will pitch for the J. B. Martin club.

CARDS DROP HALF GAME IN SPLIT WITH ROBINS

ST. LOUIS, June 4—(AP)—The Cardinals lost a half game of their lead to the victorious Pirates and Cubs by dividing a double header against Brooklyn here today, but nevertheless remained in first place by a comfortable margin. The National league champions took the first game behind the firm pitching of Jess Haines 3 to 1 but permitted Brooklyn to romp off with the decision by 11 to 8 in the nightcap.

Douthit's single and Bottomley's home run decided the first game against Watson Clark in the seventh inning. The second clash saw the rout of Alexander and Moss rival starting pitchers and netted Chick Hafey his twelfth home run as Harvey Hendricks twice hit over the right field barrier to drive home six runs.

Johnny Fredericks, whose homer was the only Brooklyn run against Haines, hit safely in both games, running his string to 17 games in succession. Babe Herman got four hits out of four times at bat in the second game.

HOME RUNS FEATURE CUBS' VICTORY OVER GIANTS

CHICAGO, June 4—(AP)—The Cubs shook off their batting lethargy here today, and although they failed by one hit to match the Giant total of fourteen, they sent enough of their drives over the fence to win the final game of the series from the New York team by 10 to 9. Hack Wilson led the Chicago attack with two home runs as Hornsby, Grimm and Grace got one apiece, Ed. Roush and Bill Terry hit for the circuit in behalf of John McGraw.

Art Nehf cracked under the strain but Charlie Root finished in an acceptable manner, the victory nevertheless going officially to Nehf. The New York pitching was split four ways among Fitzsimmons, Scott, Judd and Henry.

The victory was the first for the Cubs in the series after three defeats. It enabled them to hold third place in the pennant race. For the Giants, the defeat ended a run of five straight victories. Score:

PLEA OF IOWA IS DENIED BY COMMITTEE

CHICAGO, June 4—(AP)—A special sub-committee today denied the University of Iowa's plea for immediate reinstatement into the Big Ten athletics.

"The committee's opinion is that it is premature to grant this petition at this time," the brief statement handed out by Chairman James Paige of the University of Minnesota said. "Time must elapse. This will afford Iowa an opportunity to demonstrate her ability to make the resolutions of her governing bodies effective and to demonstrate to the conference that she can correct present abuses."

By present abuses the committee referred to subsiding athletes and proselating. These were the charges made by the conference faculty committee when it expelled Iowa from the conference 10 days ago.

Reds Sign College Star

CINCINNATI, June 4—(AP)— Jack Hendricks, manager of the Reds announced today that Paul Harrell, University of Indiana, baseball player, who led the Western conference in batting this year, has been signed and would report here after his graduation June 8. Harrell is a third baseman.

Have you had your hunburn yet?

Well, if you haven't don't get it all at once like a girl friend of mine did last Sunday.

The only thing the poor kid can do now in comfort is to sit down. She had her bathing suit on and you know how these modern bathing suits do let the sunshine in.

The proverbial boiled lobster is a delicate shade of pink compared to her. Why, she's so red that she glows like an open hearth furnace.

You can't come within a mile of her without she hollers to look out for her sunburn. Goodness knows why she did it but you know girls will be girls.

Why that kid radiates so much heat that you positively have to open the windows when she's in the room. And the cold cream and sunburn lotions she uses would supply the chorus of a musical comedy for a month.

Didja hear about our tax collector turning down a guy who went to pay his taxes? No? Well, I know that sounds funny but it's a fact about anybody turning down money.

Seems a feller who had a tax bill of nearly 30 bucks comes up to the office and shoves in his bill along with $27 in nickels and dimes. It made quite some heap of money.

The collector gives a look at the money and at the feller what's giving it over. The collector says that the feller better go down to the bank and get some real money. Can you beat it?

One of them political candidates says to me yesterday: "Didja mean me when you wrote about the election?" I says: "Do you do them things?" You should have seen him. It was funny.

He hems ayd haws and finally says: "Why no, I always speak to my friends when I see them." So I says, "Then I didn't mean you?"

I wonder if that guy has a guilty conscience.

FONSECA'S HITTING WINS GAME FOR INDIANS

BOSTON, June 4—(AP)—Lou Fonseca's batting gave Cleveland four runs while Jeff Zinn was allowing the Red Sox only five hits today and the Indians defeated the Bostonians 4 to 0.

In the first inning Fonseca drove the ball over the left field fence after Jamieson had doubled. In the fourth Tavener and Zinn singled. After an infield out Fonseca singled scoring the two runners.

Zinn was in rare form and no Red Sox player reached third base. The Boston team failed to get two of its hits in the same inning. The game was held up half an hour by rain. Score:

FRAZEE, FORMER OWNER OF RED SOX, DIES AT HIS HOME IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 4—(AP)—Harry H. Frazee, who as owner of the Boston Red Sox sold Babe Ruth to the Yankees in 1920 for the record price of $137,000, died at his Park avenue home today after an illness of more than a year. He was 48 years old.

Frazee bought the Red Sox, then world champions, after the close of the 1916 season for $300,000, and sold them seven years later for $1,250,000.

He was widely known in the theatrical world and had produced a number of successful shows.

Several months ago Frazee went to Europe to try to regain his health, and on his return was considered improving. This morning he became critically ill. He was in a coma all afternoon and died without rallying.

Mayor James J. Walker, long a close personal friend, was at his bedside when he expired. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Margaret Frazee, and a son, Harry Jr.

Mr. Frazee was born in Peoria, Ills. He began his theatrical career at the age of 16 as an agent, and in 1902 he produced his first road show, "Uncle Josh Perkins." Subsequent shows included "Madame Sherry," "Ready Money," "Fine Feathers," "A Pair of Sixes," "Nothing But the Truth," "No, No, Nanette" and "Yes, Yes, Yvette." He built the Cort theater in Chicago in 1907 and the Longacre theater here in 1913.

His first venture into organized baseball was the purchase of the Boston Red Sox, for which he was said to have paid out of the gate receipts.

The club under the ownership of the late Joseph J. Lanning had won the world title in 1915 and in 1916 and was doing well at the gate.

Bill Carrigan resigned as manager soon afterward, but Jack Barry was signed to lead the club and he piloted the club home in second place in 1917. The season was a financial success. But the World war made further inroads into baseball in 1918, and the Red Sox made no money, even though they won the American league pennant and the world championship.

At this point Frazee, began meeting his obligations by converting star Boston players into cash, mainly New York Yankees cash. His first big deal included the transfer of Duffy Lewis, Dutch Leonard and Ernie Shore to New York for Ray Caldwell, Slim Love, Al Walters, Frank Gilhooley and a Yankee check. Next Carl Mays was sold to the Yanks for $50,000 cash in mid-season of 1919 while the pitcher was under indefinite suspension by Ban Johnson, then president of the American league.

This deal precipitated a row which threatened for a time to disrupt the younger major league. Johnson never fully regained the power which he held, the clubs of New York, Boston and Chicago opposing him in the fight.

Frazee next made, in January of 1920 his greatest single sale to the Yankees, he obtained the record price of $137,000 for Babe Ruth.

Other sales to New York followed annually or oftener. Among the Boston stars sold for cash and the transfer of Yankee players not nearly so good were Waite Hoyt, Wally Schang, Mike McNally, Everett Scott, Joe Dugan, Elmer Smith, Joe Bush, Sam Jones and Herbert Pennock.

Frazee had put very little cash into the Boston club to begin with, had paid for it by the sale of world championship players and then began casting about for a purchaser. He bought the Red Sox from Joe Lannin for about $500,000 in 1916 and sold them to a Columbus, Ohio syndicate headed by Robert Quinn, for $1,250,000 less than seven years later in midseason of 1923.

PIRATES TAKE FREE-HITTING GAME FROM PHILLIES

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 4—(AP)—Steve Swetonic kept Philadelphia's hits scattered until late in the game and Pittsburgh won a free hitting affair today 9 to 5. The Phillies took the first two contests of the series and the Pirates the last two.

Ten doubles, two triples and homers by P. Waner and Comorosky were registered during the fray. It was Waner's second circuit clout on consecutive days.

The Buccaneers made a total of 15 hits and the Phillies 13.

DANIELSON

TWO IN HOSPITAL AS RESULT OF AUTO CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, June 4—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Schulman of 2194 Barnes avenue, the Bronx, went to the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam just after noon today to receive treatment for injuries they received when their nearly new Graham-Paige sedan was wrecked against a telephone pole near the Walsh property at Attawaugan. Mr. Schulman received a gash in his scalp that exposed the skull, bruises and abrasions, while his wife, Rae, age 25, had a cut over the right eye and an ankle injury that might indicate a fracture, this to be determined by an X-ray at the hospital. Dr. C. R. Garcia of Dayville gave Mr. and Mrs. Schulman attention at the scene of the accident.

A very unusual circumstance caused the wrecking of the Schulman car. Mr. Schulman was traveling north in the direction of Putnam and had hauled up almost to the rear of a Ford truck operated by Alcide Page of Dayville, also traveling north, when the left rear wheel came off the truck just as the Schulman car was about to pass it. The detached wheel started zig-zagging along the highway in a crazy quilt course, and in trying to avoid hitting it, Schulman steered his car into the pole. The Schulman car was badly damaged.

All exhibition space, a total of 40 booths, has been let for the third biennial textile exhibit and style show to be held at the state armory next week, it was stated this afternoon by Secretary Prentice W. Chase of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association, under the auspices of which the event is being arranged. Secretary Chase says that the show will be more diversified than ever before, and that the exhibits are so varied that there will be features to interest and enthuse everyone—manufacturer, textile operative, merchants, age and youth of both sexes. There are to be 40 booths and 42 exhibitors, Secretary Chase having accomplished the very considerable task of interesting and signing the exhibitors has now completed that phase of the preparations for the big event, scheduled for June 13, 14 and 15, and will make no further effort for additional displays. However, experience of the past has shown that there are generally some strangers who wish a place in the show and in the event that there is such this year some arrangement will be made to find a place for them.

Mrs. Alexinia Rounds, 33, died late last night at the home of Mrs. Noe Provoost on South Main street. She had been in failing health for several years, and in a precarious condition for the past year or more. Mrs. Rounds died on the anniversary of her birth. She was born here, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rocque Breault, and had lived all of her life in this vicinity. She leaves her husband and four children, her father and brothers and sisters.

A death this morning at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry St. Germain, was that of Henry St. Germain, 12 years of age. He is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters.

The funeral of Mrs. Denise Brunet was held from the home here with funeral services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock, Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., Rev. Joseph A. Demers, M. S., and Rev. Joseph Bergin, M. S., being officers of the solemn high mass of requiem. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery at Wauregan, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. J. H. Quinn. The bearers were Julian Dignault, Albert Dignault, Joseph Dignault, Francis Chenail, John Chenail and Hormidas Vanasse. L. E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Officers and members of the Killingly High School Alumni association, following a meeting, announced today the plans of the organization for Commencement week. This year the board is making a special appeal to alumni members to interest themselves in the activities planned for next week, and to assist and encourage and enthuse the work to be done if the desired success is to be achieved.

The annual reception to be tendered by the association in honor of the class of 1929 will be held at the dance pavilion at Wildwood park on Friday evening, June 14. The reception will be from 8:30 to 9:00, and will be followed by a grand march and then dancing until 1.00 a. m. During the intermission on the night of the reception the annual business meeting of the Alumni association will be held and officers elected for the ensuing year. The association announces that the annual Alumni-K. H. S. baseball game is to be played on the afternoon of Tuesday, June 14, at P. and A. field. William Reddy and C. Clinton Cleveland are signing up the Alumni players, and are asking for the grads who can play ball to step forth and offer their services. The official board of the Alumni association this year is made up of Capt. Harold E. Greene, '11, president; Miss Adah Danielson, '03, vice-president; Miss Beatrice Maynard, '13, secretary-treasurer; Miss Lucile Caron, '20, Miss Katherine Heneault, '21, Linder W. Gallup, '20, Gordon Cunneen, '27, members of the executive committee.

18 h2k dv d3G3ETAOIN SHRDLU—

Friday evening of this week the woman's degree team of Killingly grange will confer the third and fourth degrees on a class of candidates of Lisbon grange. A large delegation of members of Killingly grange will accompany the degree team. Last evening was Artists night in Killingly grange, and the program given was very pleasing. It included selections by the Highland grange orchestra, South Killingly; a reading by Frank Mell, master of Lisbon grange; a vocal solo by Evla A. Stone of Brooklyn, a cornet solo by Miss Louise Oatley of East Killingly, a reading by Myra Frink of Brooklyn and a reading by Frank L. Bennett of Hallouville. Following the program refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. A period of dancing followed.

Between 30 and 35 of their friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eldridge on the Providence road for a surprise June box party in honor of Mr. Eldridge on the occasion of his birthday. Mr. Eldridge was presented with a number of gifts and the guests brought a bountiful supply of good things for the refreshment period. The visitors were representatives of Holyoke, Indian Orchard, Westfield, Springfield, and Sturbridge, Mass., Putnam, Danielson and various places in Rhode Island.

Dr. William H. Bennett, chairman of the health board of Taunton, Mass., was stricken with small pox while engaged in fighting the epidemic of that disease in that city. He was placed in strict quarantine. The matter is of local interest because Dr. Bennett was born in Danielson about 27 years ago, while his father, William Bennett, was manager of the Danielson office of the Southern New England Telephone Co. Dr. Bennett received his early education in local schools.

He is a graduate of Tufts college, received his degree of doctor of medicine about three years ago, and has been doing exceptionally well in the practice of his profession in Taunton.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Conklin and daughter, Anna, were at Hartford to attend annual New England Bowling tournament and banquet at Hartford.

MISS MAGNANT BECOMES BRIDE OF ARTHUR H. PLESSIS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 4—Miss Leosa Corinne Magnant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Magnant of 172 Church street was married to Arthur Hector Plessis, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Plessis of this city this morning at St. Mary's church at 9:15 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Albert E. Paquette of Chicopee Falls, Mass., a classmate of the groom. He was also celebrant at a nuptial high mass. Father Paquette was assisted by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's as deacon and by Rev. Joseph D. Casey, curate at St. Mary's as subdeacon.

Miss Rose Metras, organist at St. Mary's was at the organ, assisted by Lionel Beausoliel, trombonist and by Merle Fish, Henry Gazne and Gilbert Perrault, violinists. The processional was the wedding march from Lohengrin and the recessional was Mendelssohn's wedding march. Mrs. Henry Vadnais soloist sang the "Ava Maria" at the offertory.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was dressed in a gown of white celanese moire cut entrain. Her veil of plain tulle was of a Juliet cap effect and was caught at either side with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a spray of white calla lilies.

Miss Bertha Plessis, a sister of the groom was the only attendant. She was charming in a frock of rose tulle trimmed with changeable taffeta. She wore a rose picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of blue larkspur.

Theodore J. Bartolomie of Webster was best man.

A wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride following the ceremony, at which only members of the immediate families were guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Plessis left early this afternoon on an extended wedding trip. They will be at home after August 1 at 135 Woodstock avenue. For her traveling dress Mrs. Plessis wore a brown flat crepe ensemble and a tweed panel coat. Her hat was of a brown baku straw.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Plessis are widely known in Putnam. Mrs. Plessis is a graduate of St. Vincent's training school for nurses in Worcester and for the past two years has been attached to the nursing staff of the Day Kimball hospital in this city, her resignation taking effect May 1.

Mr. Plessis is a graduate of Putnam high school class of 1918 and a graduate of Assumption college class of 1922. Later he attended and graduated from Boston university law school. He is now engaged in the insurance business in this city and is head of the Joseph A. Plessis Insurance agency, one of the oldest firms in the city.

Police in two neighboring Massachusetts cities of Webster and Southbridge are cooperating with Captain William J. Jarvis of this city in an effort to track down a group of rum runners who escaped the clutches of the local police in a wild chase Monday. Until a late hour tonight a combine of both cities had revealed no trace of the alleged liquor smugglers.

While on duty in the north end of the city Monday forenoon the attention of Officer Joseph Page was drawn to a Chrysler coupe bearing two well known personalities in the liquor smuggling rings of Southbridge and Webster, whose names are withheld at the request of Capt. Jarvis. Officer Page whistled at the passing vehicle, ordering it to draw up to the curb. The driver ignored the patrolman's summons and proceeded to drive up Woodstock avenue at a terrific pace. Officer Page commandeered a public service vehicle and gave immediate chase. The bootleggers' car proved to be far superior in speed qualities to the pursuing vehicle and he soon passed from sight.

A number of local officers and a corps of policemen from Webster searched every highway in Woodstock and Dudley Monday and continued their work today but their efforts up to tonight had proved futile.

The case against Leo Thompson, arrested Sunday evening by Officer Alpheris Sponcey of the local police on a charge of indecent assault upon a minor female child was dropped when he was re-arraigned before Judge M. H. Geissler in a session of city court held in chambers this morning.

The monoplane which was seen early Monday afternoon over Willimantic alighted on a field in the Gary district about three miles from here late Monday afternoon. A person, who happened to be in the vicinity of the field at the time and saw the ship land, said it was of a cabin design capable of seating four passengers. A pilot and a woman were riding in the ship. The aviator examined the engine of the plane and shortly afterwards took off in the direction of Norwich. No definite reason for the landing was given by the ship's pilot, who shunned questions lired at him by two onlookers.

An Associated Press dispatch of Monday said that George D. Langdon, assistant to Rev. Wm. Beach Olmstead, headmaster at Pomfret school, together with a professor at Yale university, was ordained a minister of the Protestant Episcopal church, Saturday, in Kent, Conn. The ordination of the two clergymen was officiated at by Bishop E. C. Acheson at Kent school in Kent, Conn. The announcement is of unusual interest to friends of Rev. Mr. Langdon in Pomfret and Putnam.

Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Farrin announced this afternoon that the summer term of school which is now in its final stage will officially come to a close on Thursday, June 20, at which time the annual vacation will begin. Final examinations in Putnam high school will commence on the week previous.

Other announcements made today by Supt. Farrin were: That a dinner will be served to the members of the Putnam Teachers' club at Arnold's Sea Grill Tuesday June 4, followed by a theatre party at the Bradley theatre.

Suitable exercises having reference to the adoption of the National Flag are to be held in the public schools on Flag Day June 14, by order of a proclamation of His Excellency John H. Trumbull, governor.

Mrs. Margarite Tetreault of Green street, wife of the late Timothy Tetreault, died late Monday evening following a prolonged period of illness. Mrs. Tetreault is a native of Canada but has lived for many years in Putnam. She was a member of St. Mary's church and was connected with the various church societies. She is survived by her daughter Mrs. G. Rivard of Green street.

The annual meeting of the Women's Union of the Congregational church was held this afternoon in the church chapel. Reports of the various officers for the year were read and accepted. Officers for the ensuing year were named and elected. The hostesses were Mrs. Walter N. Phillips, Mrs. Charles A. Thayer, and Mrs. George D. Clarke.

It has been learned here that W. S. Grant, a member of the junior class of Amherst college has been named editor of the "Amherst Student" for the next college year. Mr. Grant is the son of J. Hiram Grant who was graduated from Putnam high school in 1887.

Chandler Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Morse of this city, who for the past year has been teaching at Dartmouth college has returned to his home in this city.

Miss Rachel Hurlburt, a student nurse at a Hartford hospital is spending a short vacation at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hurlburt of Woodstock avenue.

Officer Frank Lenahan of the New London police department was the guest of Captain of Police William J. Jarvis today.

The police report for the month of May as submitted to the common council tonight by Capt. of Police W. J. Jarvis, showed a total of 26 arrests for the month and were for the following violations: Intoxication 10, non-support 1, fornication 1, motor law 8, immoral prefaces 1, liquor law violation 2.

Honorary members—P. G. M. Bertha G. Haines, grand secretary; P. G. P. Joseph A. Haines, P. G. M. Harriet G. Bullock.

MATTERS IN PROBATE COURT AT TUESDAY'S SESSION

Judge Edward M. Burke in Westerly probate court Tuesday afternoon considered the following matters:

Estate of Courtland M. Chase. Petition received from Rowse E. Chase as creditor of estate of deceased, who died a resident of Westerly on Jan. 21, 1929, intestate, leaving heirs at law, Amy I. Chase, Ida M. C. Randall and Howard M. Chase, asking that Amy I. Chase be named administratrix. Attorney John F. Gallagher appeared to represent the widow. Howard Randall and Mrs. Randall and asked to have the fact established that the petitioner was a creditor. Attorney C. E. Roche, representing the petitioner, said that he was not aware the issue was to be raised and did not have the petitioner in court, but the claim was for labor furnished the deceased amounting to over $100. Judge Burke continued the case to June 18th.

Estate of Annette K. Stillman. Petition received from James P. Kenyon Ruyl, Jr., grandson, of deceased, residing at Pelham Wood, Brooklyn, N. Y., with other heirs Louis G. Stillman; John C. Stillman, Rudolph Ruyl and Ethel Ruyl, that he be appointed administrator. He was so named. Bond was made $2,500 with surety. Everett E. Whipple was named appraiser.

Estate of Merrill J. Wilcox. Inventory received, examined, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate of Harlan P. Hakes. Petition received from Jesse P. Hakes, son, and executor for leave to sell certain stock and the same was granted.

Estate of Kathrina Bakzook, alias. Administratrix's account received from Anna H. Saddow from March 20, 1927 to May 8, 1929, in which claims of heirs were receipted for. Legacies of four minor heirs were reported by the administratrix as to be deposited in their several names until their majorities were attained in Bank Gospodarstwa at Kolomyja, Poland. The court allowed the account and directed an order of distribution entered.

GOOD VIEW OF LOS ANGELES TWICE DURING TUESDAY

The U. S. Navy dirigible Los Angeles sailed majestically over the center of Westerly twice Tuesday afternoon, first headed in a northeasterly direction and later in a southwesterly course. The first visit was shortly before 1:30 and the second soon after 5 p. m. The presence of the aerial visitor caused an outpouring of people from stores and business blocks and children returning for the afternoon school session had a splendid view of the big blimp. In the strong sunlight the silvery sides shone brightly and the lettering on the sides was plainly visible. On its westward voyage the air craft proceeded more over the center of the town and at a much lower altitude, than on the eastbound trip. Sailing westward the course of the craft was changed from southwest to more nearly west and apparently the aircraft was headed for a trip over the submarine base on the Thames river above Groton.

Fire at Johnson Farm

The Westerly fire department responded soon after 4 p. m. Tuesday to alarm 33 for an out of the district fire on the old Potter Hill road. The Seagraves pumper with Fire Chief George E. Egger, Driver Henry G. Cottrell and men speeded to a brush and grass fire on the E. E. Johnson farm, formerly the property of Eugene Stillman. The fire was extinguished without delay.

Miss Grace Fowler, R. N., of Landburg Dept Stores, Inc., Washington, D. C., has returned to Washington, after a ten days' vacation visit in Westerly and Providence.

David Mitchell, a patient at the New Haven hospital is reported as more comfortable.

George B. Spargo was a business visitor in Providence Tuesday.

Joseph C. Keefe of New London was a Pawcatuck business caller Tuesday.

Fire Chief's Report.

At the meeting of Pawcatuck fire district Monday evening, the report of Fire Chief F. J. McMahon showed equipment of 41 hydrants and 16 fire alarm boxes, one new one installed during the year. The company responded to 26 alarms, nine out of the district.

Treasurer Claude I. Spencer's report showed tax collection of $25,302.16, $7,000 received from the sale of the old building and an expenditure of $46,566.75 for the new fire station. The district indebtedness June 3 was $100,937.50, an increase of $75,799.33 over a year ago.

Tax Collector Charles J. Norris reported on the 1928 levy $25,095.06 collected and on previous levies for a total collection of $25,302.76. Alberti R. Stillman, for the P. S. Barber Memorial fund, moved that a note of $687.50 be surrendered to the school committee for the library fund, transferred from the P. S. Barber Memorial fund since the P. S. Barber Hose Company has ceased to exist.

Karl G. Stillman reported for the zoning board, 78 building permits issued during the year, 11 for new residences, 15 for new business buildings, 32 garages, 26 alterations and 6 miscellaneous. For the garbage collections, Alexander Marr reported 20,864 collections made for the year. On building the new fire station, Chairman Alberti R. Stillman presented his third and final report, concluding with the purchase of an Ahrens-Fox 750-gallon pumper and city service truck. The building and equipment committee was discharged with a vote of thanks. A new lighting contract for five years was voted accepted with the Mystic Power Co. showing slight reductions over previous years. The following salaries were voted: Tax collector, $250; treasurer, $200; the bond of the treasurer and collector increased to $10,000 each; chief engineer, $300; three assistant engineers, $100; janitor, $50 a month; six truck drivers, $150 each; appropriations to the fire company, $100 and to the fire police, $50. In the election of officers, with James F. Shea and Alexander Marr, tellers, a contest developed for moderator. Alberi G. Martin was named by Thomas L. Donahue and George R. McKenna, by Alexander Marr. The ballot showed: Total cast 378; Martin, 265; McKenna, 113. This is Martin's 22nd year as moderator of the fire district and it was the first time he was opposed.

JEWETT CITY

P. W. CHASE PREDICTS BIG SHOW OF E. CONN MILLS ASS'N.

(Special to The Bulletin)

Prentice W. Chase, secretary-treasurer of the Eastern Conn. Mills association reports that the space has all been allotted and that the show will present the most varied display of textile fabrics, textile machinery and products of allied industries which the association has ever been able to secure for a similar promotion.

The Danielson chamber of commerce is backing the exhibit to the limit and its latest offering is that of door awards each night of the show.

Frederick L. Babcock, editor of Fibre and Fabric, leading textile journal, visited Mr. Chase at Jewett City Tuesday and together they worked out the details of the style show which will be conducted in connection with the exhibit. Already there is some activity in Danielson on the part of exhibitors; machinery and display matter having started to arrive. The most distant exhibitor comes from Milwaukee, Wis., and this particular concern will present one of the attractive machinery in motion displays.

NO MORE CARNIVALS TO GET BOROUGH PERMIT

At a meeting of the board of warden and burgesses Monday evening it was voted that this year there shall be no permits issued to any carnival or exhibition of its class to open in Jewett City. This ruling is to apply whether such exhibition is sponsored by local insitutions or otherwise.

This action by the board of borough government was mainly in answer to a petition of 50 or more local business concerns and borough taxpayers. It is not believed that such carnivals are a benefit to the community. On the contrary, the petition declares such shows act against the moral and business interests of Jewett City.

Must Have Sidewalks

The board had learned from the post office department relative to the proposed inauguration of regular letter carrier service, that a sidewalk must be maintained over all routes in which this service shall become operative.

The office body believed that, at once, all property owners within the borough limits should provide a suitable curb where their holdings abut the highway. In event of this conformity, a filling of cinders makes the required sidewalk.

Permits were issued to build a house and two garages on Talcott avenue.

Tryout On Diamond Tonight

Manager Barnett and Blake have sent telegrams to the members of the borough All Stars, that a tryout will take place this (Wednesday) evening. This time the Holy Name crack nine will be the victims.

Two more dark horses are slated to appear. Arrangements are in the making for the most wonderful parade, which will take place when the Bachelor-Benedict series begins. Eye has never seen the like of the unique specialties that are being prepared.

Weather Affects Tomatoes

Farmers are admitting that the freak weather conditions are knocking out the regular planting plans with a view to later harvest results. At a low estimate there are 25,000 tomato plants set out in the outlying farming district and borough gardens. One plot of 500, all Stone's, seen Tuesday, have withstood 4 days of sizzling heat, with the temperature over 90. Now the same plants have had to face 4 nights, when there was narrow escape from frost. As a result the whole lot has changed from green to a reddish blue, with the stems as hard as sticks.

People in Jewett City and Glasgo saw the big navy dirigible Los Angeles when it flew over this section about 1 p. m. Tuesday. The big airship was flying high and at times appeared to remain stationary.

WITH TRADING LARGELY PROFESSIONAL SOME STOCKS GAINED ABOUT 10 POINTS

NEW YORK, June 4—(AP)—The stock market again rallied swiftly in moderate trading today. About two score issues were sent up 4 to more than 10 points but total transactions were but 2,814,210 shares, exceeding yesterday's small turnover by only about 400,000.

Comparatively easy call money, removal of the last obstacle in the way of the signing of the reparations agreement, proposal of a large appropriation to stabilize grain prices, further recovery of the grain markets, revived foreign buying of copper, and a resumption of the gold movement from London for the first time since early February, were factors promoting the rise.

Trading, however, remained largely professional, with the public showing little disposition to come back into the market, after the unpleasant experiences of the past month.

Call money was but slightly firmer than yesterday, opening at 7 per cent, and holding at that rate all day. Rumors were again heard in bullish circles that federal reserve authorities were considering a relaxation of their grip upon credit, but these rumors were without confirmation, and bankers were inclined to the belief that any broad resumption of bullish operations would result in even firmer measures to keep credit from flowing into the stock market.

It was pointed out that the renewed flow of gold from London may again bring a higher discount rate at the Bank of England, which would remove one of the obstacles of a higher rediscount rate at New York. The London rate was raised early in February to check the flow of gold to New York then in progress.

While it is widely believed that the present federal reserve policy of rationing credit may be more effective than a higher rate, it would have a serious psychological effect upon the market.

Fears that Monday's short covering may have weakened the market's technical position, and disappointment over the stock exchange's member loan statement caused some hesitancy during the morning, but the market turned sharply upward during the afternoon. Copper, chemical, farm and office equipment, aviation and mail order shares were prominent in the rise. The recent buying movement in the rails and utilities, however, appeared largely to have spent itself for the moment.

Commercial Solvents, which has developed a considerable following as a result of its newly developed products, shot up 29 points to 365, returning to within five points of its record price. Case Threshing, Radio, American Machine and Foundry, Du Pont, Curtiss, Aero, United Aircraft, Wright, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, National Cash Register, International Business Machine, and Westvaco Chlorine were among the issues mounting from 6 to 10 points.

Worthington Pump and Ingersoll Rand sold up about 6 points each on merger rumors. Optimistic estimates of steel earnings from the sustained demand during the second quarter sent U. S. Steel and Bethlehem up about 3 points each. Among the coppers, American Smelting, Kennecott, Greene Cananea and Mazma gained about 3 points to 4 points.

In the rails Atchison fell back 3 points more on President Storey's statement that there is no near prospect of a stock dividend.

Erie sold up to a new record price above 79, then lost its gain in realizing. Among the few soft spots, American Snuff and Motor Products each dropped 4 points to new lows. Atlas Power and Crex Carpet lost 2 and 3 points.

On the commodity markets, wheat sold up 5 to 6 cents a bushel on the proposals of farm relief and bullish crop reports from the central west, and corn mounted nearly as much in sympathy and on unfavorable weather reports. Cotton surged for a time in the morning, but moved up more than $1 a bale in the afternoon. Raw sugar, however, dropped 1-32 of a cent to 2.49 cents a pound, duty paid, the lowest level since 1922, and futures were likewise depressed, July contracts dropping to 1.63 cents, the lowest since the inauguration of futures trading on this market.

In the foreign exchanges the yen made up most of its 1-2 cent drop of yesterday, on reports that financial conditions have so improved in Japan that the government may lift the ban on gold exports which has been in effect the past 18 months. The Spanish peseta, however, continued its decline, reaching another new low for the year at 12.74 cents. Marks and francs were firm, and sterling held steady.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE

Of our Dear Wife and Mother
EMMA PURCELL
Who Died May 5, 1929

Gone, dear wife and mother,
How we miss your smiling face.
But you left us to remember
None on earth can fill your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memories cling
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by your loving husband and children.

AUCTION

AUCTION SACRIFICE PRESENTS OPPORTUNITY

Foresight is all that is requisite to gain a real profit. If you possess that qualification you will have a chance to commercialize it on June 8, 1929, when a desirable tract of land, together with three buildings thereon located in Central Village will be disposed of at Public Auction. This property adjoins railroad station property in Central Village and is most desirably located for any business purpose. A portion of this tract would make excellent gasoline station site being on Main highway to Worcester and Boston.

The present owner must sell and this presents a real opportunity. Let his sacrifice be your GAIN. See this property and appreciate real value.

Auction will be held on the premises on June 8, 1929, at 2 o'clock D. S. T. in the afternoon. Terms: 10 per cent on day of auction; balance to be arranged for date of closing.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theatre

The international star, Lya Mara, has quickly become recognized as one of the great favorites among film actresses throughout Europe and has gained a large following in America. Her latest success, "Dancing Vienna," made by First National-Defu, will be seen at the Breed theatre for two days beginning today, with our own Ben Lyon co-featured with her coming to this town.

"Dancing Vienna" is a delightful romance in which the clash of modern jazz and the old-time waltz form the main theme. Lya Mara was selected as the most suitable actress to typify the Viennese sentiment of the waltz, while Ben Lyon typifies the modern jazz.

Again the admirers of canine beauty and talent will have an opportunity of seeing Ranger on the screen in this city today and Thursday, when the popular FBO dog-star will open in his latest production, "The Law of Fear."

The last of his 1927-28 series for FBO, "The Law of Fear" is said to be the most powerful and gripping story in which Ranger has yet been featured. Differing from most dog stories, it has a mystery plot that serves to hold an audience in tense suspense, in the end, only the astuteness of the dog solves what appears to be a baffling problem of identity.

RUM-RUNNING SCHOONER SEIZED— $40,000 CARGO SAFE AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 4—Schooner John M. Hathaway, hailing from New Bedford, Mass., was seized as a rum-runner late last night and during the early hours of this morning. She was brought into port by U. S. Coast Guard destroyer Wilkes, together with the Hathaway's crew of six, other than her master, who is missing and a cargo of 1,000 cases of liquor valued at $40,000. An attempt was made to fire the schooner, but the crew of the raider subdued the flames before damage of great consequence resulted. This afternoon the crew was given a hearing before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran. The case was continued to the 15th inst. The six men, Vincent Powers, John Kelly, Edward Hanson, George Hanson, Edward Bruce and Edward Murrin, were released upon furnishing a surety on their respective bonds of $2000.

The Hathaway, presumably headed for a Rhode Island or a Massachusetts port, was sighted by the crew of the Wilkes when the schooner was about 10 miles off Nantucket light. Giving chase, the destroyer was observed as she approached the rum-runner and when but a short distance in the wake of the Hathaway smoke was observed to pour from the latter's hold. The destroyer quickly overtook the schooner and the crew of the former boarding the rum-runner the fire was quickly subdued. It was then discovered that the master was missing. The schooner was then headed for this port and arrived in the upper harbor between 3 and 4 o'clock.

While the crew denies all knowledge of the origin of the fire, the coast guard officers are confident that the destruction of the boat was planned in an endeavor to prevent the seizure of the whiskey.

Fined at Montville

Stephen Giard, 575 Bank street, was in the justice court at Montville last night charged with failing to grant right of way and was fined $5 and costs. Giard was arrested by state police officers yesterday upon a recent complaint because of the erratic driving of Giard on a Montville highway.

Porter Smith, 114 Vauxhall street; Miss Lillian Talmadge, Waterford; James Delayne, U. S. Coast Guard, state pier; Waldo Clark, 675 Pequot avenue; Miss Minnie Carter, 189 Howard street; Mrs. Solomon Manheimer and infant daughter, Hotel Mohican; Mrs. John Dayton, Waterford; Mrs. Mary Crocker, Waterford, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered suspension of the drivers' licenses of Arthur J. Page, 99 Union street and John J. Jacklin, 26 Sherman street.

Blocked Traffic

A careless auto driver was the cause of a serious blockade of traffic on Main street last evening. The driver allowed his machine to be parked in such a manner as to prevent the passage of a Norwich trolley car with the result that the car and numerous automobiles were held up. The trolley car was held up 25 minutes and when the owner of the automobile could not be located, the auto was towed to a garage where to await being claimed by the owner.

GILBERT FORFEITS $200— ASHAMED TO APPEAR

Francis Gilbert, New York salesman, preferred to forfeit his bond of $200 rather than appear in the police court today and defend a charge of indecent assault. When his case, which was continued from yesterday was called, as was expected, Gilbert was not on hand and the bond, which had been furnished by a New London merchant, was called. Gilbert was arrested at 3:30 o'clock Sunday morning when found in his automobile with a sailor off the highway on a secluded spot off Jefferson avenue, by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey.

At the meeting of the Women's club of this city, at the Hotel Mohican Friday night, Mrs. Percy Allen will give a report on the recent convention of the Connecticut federation.

Members of the Saying society of the First Baptist church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon by Mrs. Herbert L. Dunn, 172 Willetts avenue.

Mrs. John R. Gray of Willetts avenue will entertain members and friends of Osprey Rebekah lodge tomorrow night at a whist party.

Members of the Crowley club will attend seven o'clock mass at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, in a body June 16, receiving holy communion, according to arrangements made at a meeting held last night in the club rooms.

P. T. Passo, coast guardsman, was arrested in Waterford last night by Trooper James Dygert of the Groton state police barracks, on a charge of intoxication. He was causing a disturbance in the vicinity of Station 7 and residents complained of his actions. This morning he was turned over to the coast guard shore patrol, pending trial in Waterford town court Monday next.

Members of the police and fire departments today were given instruction in the use of the new inhalator which the city recently purchased for the joint use of both departments. The inhalator will be used in reviving persons overcome by smoke or gasses electrical shock or drowning.

BIG LOS ANGELES FLIES OVER CITY TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 4—The navy dirigible Los Angeles, Lieut.-Commander H. V. Oliey, well known here, passed over the center of the city one o'clock this afternoon. The giant craft was flying exceptionally low and passe dover the center of the city. She was on a training cruise and sometime today she will return to her hangar at Lakehurst, N. J.

COMMENCEMENT TODAY AT SUBMARINE SCHOOL

Thirty-seven students at the submarine school will have completed their six moths' course of study tomorrow, and will receive diplomas. The graduation ceremonies will be held at the base theatre.

GUARDSMEN GO FREE IN POTTER ST. RAID

Charles Blount, colored, was arrested at his home, 50 Potter street, last night charged with conducting a house of ill fame. Two Negresses and six white men, were arrested on charges of frequenting. In the police court today, Blount was fined $100 and costs, the two women were fined $10 and costs but the men, all U. S. Coast Guardsmen were discharged. Blount was arrested by raiding squad consisting of Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and Harry Watterson and Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey. He had been observed roaming about Potter street and approaching sailors. Soon afterwards the sailors would be seen entering the Potter street house. The raiding force also entered and coralled the entire gang.

George Cranker, New Haven, who described himself as a coal shoveler, was charged with driving while under the influence of the liquor. He was discharged.

Felix Dezardo, charged with train riding, was discharged. He was arrested by Special Agent Leslie Peabody early today when stealing a ride on a freight.

Bonds Forfeited

C. W. Bailey, 19 Alger street and William F. Habekotte, 157 Thames street, Groton, were charged with violation of the city's laws in parking overtime on State street. The latter had a double charge, for he was arrested twice within 10 hours. Neither Bailey nor Habekotte appeared in court so their bonds were forfeited.

E. S. Stowe, Savannah, Ga., charged with reckless driving, was discharged. In driving by an automatic danger signal, Stowe was the cause of a near-crash.

SYRIAN CATHOLICS HERE TO ERECT A NEW CHURCH

James P., John H., Annie H., and Lillian Newman, the last named of Hartford and Elizabeth A. Harrigan, have sold a two-family house and lot, corner of West Colt street and Connecticut avenue to the Hartford Roman Catholic Diocesan corporation.

The property will be used by Syrian Catholics of New London as a site for a place of worship. It has not been decided whether the house will be moved and a church erected on the site, or whether the church will be erected on the lot included in the sale. The Syrian population has increased rapidly in New London within several years and a separate church is required to meet their spiritual needs. Rev. Anthony Aneed, Syrian priest recently came to New London from New York and has been designated by Bishop John J. Nilan of the Hartford diocese to take charge of Syrian activities here, as persons of this nationality are now in a position to maintain their own church.

THAMES CLUB TO SELL TO MOHICAN CO. FOR $125,000

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 4—Members of the Thames club have voted to accept the offer from the Mohican Hotel company for their property in State street, to the amount of $125,000. Many offers for the property had been received but resident members considered the one accepted as the most advantageous. As soon as the papers of sale are drawn up the club will receive $25,000 in cash and ten thousand dollars a year for a period of ten years.

MRS. OWEN O'NEILL'S COTTAGE SET AFIRE BY SPARKS

Late yesterday afternoon fire broke out on the roof of the cottage at 4 Mott avenue owned by Mrs. Owen O'Neill, of Willimantic. The blaze was started by sparks from a fireplace. The Pequot Hose company responded to a still alarm and had little difficulty in extinguishing the blaze.

Earle E. Murphy has resigned as senior vice commander of Murphy Rathburn post, No. 189, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The resignation was accepted with regret at a meeting of the organization last night.

MRS. MENDEZ ARRANGES TO SETTLE FOR AUTOMOBILE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 4.— Evelyn Mendez of Central Village, formerly of New London, charged with fraud, had her case continued to July 5th, in the city court today. Mrs. Mendez purchased a Chrysler automobile of the C. F. Klinger company several weeks ago and after two payments had been made, for the car was bought on a conditional bill of sale, Mrs. Mendez moved to Central Village where she had obtained employment as a mill worker. She took the car and stopped payments on it. Complaint was made to the police of Mrs. Mendez's act and a warrant for her arrest was issued. She was taken into custody yesterday afternoon and last night was returned to New London by Detective Sergeant John J. Cavanaugh. She has agreed to settle for the car.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Broadway theatre announces that "Show Boat," the super talking and singing version of the famous Edna Ferber novel, is coming to the screen of that theatre next Sunday for seven days. This should be interesting news for theatregoers here, as "Show Boat" is reported to be one of the most entertaining films ever made.

It is a Universal production, sponsored by Carl Laemmle, and directed by Harry Pollard, with Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut in the leading roles. Such favorites as Otis Harlan, Emily Fitzroy and Alma Rubens are featured in the strong cast.

The screen production is rich in music, from the strident steam calliope tunes of long ago down to the Negro spirituals so popular today. The glittering show boat band, the groups of darkies on the wharves, the coon-shouters of the Chicago music halls, all contribute to make this picture an epic of the development of America's popular music.

Much of the action and gripping drama of this production takes place on a real Mississippi river show boat, constructed especially for the picture. The romance and young love amid these bizarre surroundings makes one of the most touching sweetheart stories ever filmed.

Broadway Theatre

In her first comedy role on the screen, Dolores Costello, Warner Brothers' beautiful star, is reported to have one of her biggest successes. The picture, "The Glad Rag Doll," which comes to the Broadway theatre on Thursday for a three days' engagement, is a Vitaphone all-talking production, written by Harvey Gates and adapted by G. Graham Baker. Michael Curtiz, who directed Miss Costello in two of her recent dramatic roles, in "Noah's Ark" and "Madonna of Avenue A," was in charge of the filming of "The Glad Rag Doll."

Miss Costello's role is that of Annabel Lee, a Broadway musical comedy actress, who has become engaged to Jimmy Fairchild, younger son of a proud and wealthy family which objects to an actress for his wife. When John Fairchild, the elder brother, gets Annabel discharged from the show in which she is appearing when she refuses to give Jimmy up, she arms herself with Jimmy's burning love letters and goes to the family home in Philadelphia.

The supporting cast is one of the best that Miss Costello has ever had and consists of Ralph Graves as John Fairchild, Arthur Rankin as his younger brother, Audrey Ferris as his sister, Albert Gran as his uncle, Maude Turner Gordon as his aunt, Claude Gillingwater as his attorney, and such other well-known players as Tom Ricketts, Douglas Gerrard, Dale Fuller, Andre Beranger, Louise Beaver, Lee Moran, Tom Kennedy and Stanley Taylor.

The Academy Orchestra

The Academy Orchestra will present the program given below at their twenty-fourth annual concert in Slater Hall this evening. The orchestra is going good, and the specialties will be attractive.

Flag day, Schramm; Valse Pathetique, Lake; Adagio Pathetique, Godard; Andante, Hadyn, from Surprise Symphony; Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna, V. Suppe; The Devil Dance, Reginald and Gladys Laubin, Mr. Henry LaFontaine at the piano, Miss Gertrude N. Church, reader; Rondo Brilliant, ous 62, von Weber, Miss Eileen Krause; The Ghost Dance, Reginald and Gladys Laubin; Spanish Dance No. 1, Moszkowski; Ballet from Faust, Gounod; Parade of the Wooden Soldiers, Jessel; Blue Danube Waltz, Strauss.

For the first time since copper trading was introduced on the National Metal exchange the number of copper contracts exceeded tin contracts. Five lots of copper compared to three of tin changed hands. Copper sales totaled 250,000 pounds, the best day on the exchange.

TAFTVILLE SHOOTERS WIN THREE-CORNERED MATCH

Shooting in their usual good form, the Taftville American Legion team won a three-cornered rifle match at New London Tuesday evening, from the New London teams, Pioneer Hose and American Legion. The locals headed the nearest competitors, Pioneer Hose, by 49, and led the New London Legion by the lop-sided margin of 207 points. Honors were taken by Al Dugas with 179 and Benoit with 176 of the Taftville squad winners of the Mohegan league. The scores were as follows.

Fined in Salem Court.

George B. Congdon of Montville was fined $100 and costs on a reckless driving charge when he pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Charles I. Beebe of Salem on Monday. He paid. The arrest was made by State Policemen Fred Johnson and the case was prosecuted by Grand Juror Edgar J. Scanlon.

GOOD WILL TOUR TO REACH TO SEVERAL SUMMER CAMPS IN THIS VICINITY

Over 40 members of the Norwich chamber of commerce are starting on the Good Will tour of the summer camps around Norwich this (Wednesday) afternoon, according to an announcement made by John P. Lyston, chairman of the committee in charge.

The party will leave the court house on Union square at 1.30 p. m. in automobiles. The first stop will be made at Gardner lake where Camp Cadaho and Tahacl and Camp Juanita and Adajuan will be visited. At Camp Cadaho the National Coordinated Council of Nature activities is conducting a nature school during the month of June to train counsellors for other camps.

After visiting Camp Cadaho the party will journey to the New London Y. M. C. A. camp, which is used quite extensively by Norwich boys and girls. After which they will drive to Schiller's Farm and Country club in Colchester.

The next stop will be Camp Moween and the party will conclude its trip at Spruce Lodge, Fitchville where Mr. Kin Nadelson is to provide a luncheon. At each of the points visited, the members will have an opportunity to review the equipment and facilities provided for the convenience and comfort of the summer campers.

New England is rapidly becoming the playground of America. Norwich is located in one of the most beautiful sections of New England and there is no good reason why the recreational facilities should not be promoted to the fullest of their ability. While the city is considered to be industrial in character, there is no doubt that every dollar invested in recreational facilities would be returned tenfold to the city.

The object of this good will tour is to better acquaint business men of this city with the developments to date, so that they may have a keener appreciation and interest in the contributions made by those who have sponsored the camps. The committee estimates conservatively that a total of over 2,000 campers are located in and around Norwich during the months of July and August, that they leave a considerable amount of cash business there can be no doubt. Business also benefits materially by the supplies purchased by the camp owners. It is therefore believed that a tour of this character will create good will and mutual understanding between the proprietors of the camps and the business interests of the city.

Any members of the chamber of commerce who would like to join the party are urged to communicate with the chamber office for reservations.

No. 2, Putnam, unregistered car (Mass.); Aldore Benoit, 18 Buck street, Putnam, conference; Reuben Jenkins, 50 Vine street, Waterbury, evading responsibility, reckless driving, no operator's license; Sanfrid B. Benson, Railroad street, Baltic, operating under suspension.

MOHEGAN RIFLE LEAGUE WILL PLAN FOR OUTING

A meeting of members and officials of the Mohegan Rifle league, which created no little interest among rifle teams in this section in the winter, has been called for Tuesday, June 18, at Norwich armory, at which time arrangements are to be formulated for an outing. It is planned to have the outing sometime in August at a site suitable for holding practice rifle matches, it was announced.

An effort will also be made at the meeting to stimulate greater interest among the present team members and endeavor to devise ways and means by which to interest other rifle teams in the league. Plans will also be discussed relative to having a league next year.

The Taftville American Legion team won the championship of the league the past season.

AYRSHIRES AT STORRS RANK IN FOURTH PLACE

By averaging 945 pounds of 3.82 per cent. milk, 36.06 pounds of butterfat during April, the ten Ayrshires owned by Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, ranked fourth among all herds in the United States, tested according to the rules of the Ayrshire Herd test, reports Advanced Registry Superintendent W. A. Kyle of the National Ayrshire Breeders' association at Brandon, Vermont.

The outstanding production for an individual in the herd was that of Woodbine Anne, a 9-year-old, that produced 1846 pounds of milk, 70.82 pounds of butterfat.

Women Voters to Study Finances.

County chairmen, local league presidents, and program chairmen are receiving this week from the state League of Women Voters the league's suggested program for the coming year. It has been decided to make public finance the center of the year's study, so that a state-wide survey of the way public money is collected and the purposes for which it is spent will be made. Local and state finance will be studied and attention given to the question of federal aid in Connecticut.

For use with the new program of work and activity, the league has just issued its revised list of the pamphlets published by headquarters.

NORWICH MOOSE GOING TO STATE FIELD DAY

Norwich lodge, No. 950, L. O. O. M., will be represented by a band of 25 pieces at the parade and field day to be held at New Haven this month, according to an announcement made Tuesday evening by Dictator Bernard Wunderlich. The uniforms have been ordered and are expected to arrive at Moose home shortly, so that when the Moose members, in company with the women and children, go to New Haven, all details will have been completed relative to the band.

The festivities are to be held at Arrigoni park and includes, besides the parade, drill work and numbers of races. In the parade men, women and children from all parts of the state will be represented. A large delegation from Norwich is expected to attend.

DIRIGIBLE LOS ANGELES PASSES OVER CITY

Out on a training flight, the dirigible Los Angeles, which left its hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., Tuesday morning, was sighted by many residents in Norwich and vicinity during the day, as it lazily made its way through the ether. It was first reported sighted at 1 o'clock, flying over Preston in the direction of Rhode Island, after having come up over the Thames river.

Several hours later, in the neighborhood of 5.30 o'clock, it was again seen making its way over the city and for some time appeared as though it were maneuvering about for a landing place at the fairgrounds. At the time it was heading in a westerly direction, but later changed its course and flew towards New London. At 6.15 o'clock it was noticed over the submarine base, evidently on its way back to Lakehurst.

NORWICH TOWN

MISSIONARY DIALOG GIVEN AT FIRST CHURCH

A missionary dialog, entitled "Waiting For the Doctor," was given by several members of the Junior and Intermediate society assisted by the chairman of the Young Peoples department of the League of Service, at the chapel of the First Congregational church, Sunday afternoon, at three o'clock. This was a union meeting with the juniors and intermediates of the Norwich Town Methodist church, and was in charge of Miss Florence Bennett. After the opening exercises the dialog was presented by the following young ladies, in costume: Two American girls, Mary and Jane, Beatrice Riccetti and Una Birch; Chinese girl, Betty Browning; Japanese girl and her little sister, Mrs. B. W. Jopson and Natalie Browning; Korean girl, Rachel Avery; Mohammedan girl, Ruth Avery; girl from India, Geraldine Waldo. A solo was sung by Miss Virginia Ward, after which Mrs. Potter told a very interesting story. The meeting closed with a hymn and the Mizpah benediction. During the Sunday school hour at the First Congregational church this dialog was given by the same girls in costume. This play was presented under the auspices of the Children's department and the Young People's department of the League of Service, assisted by Miss Sadie J. Dawson.

Members of the cast of the one act Bible drama "The Return Of The Prodigal," presented twice at Norwich Town Congregational church, went over to Saybrook, Sunday evening and gave the play at the Old Saybrook Congregational church, Dr. H. P. Woodin is pastor. The participants comprised Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey, James F. Connolly, Reginald Avery, Arthur Avery, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barber, Frank E. Sterry, Miss Lucile Browning, Crosby Peck and Herbert L. Yerrington, who accompanied for the singing. Mr. Sterry substituted for the regular soloist, Arthur R. Blackledge. Miss Sadie J. Dawson, the efficient coach was in the party, which also included Mrs. Connolly and daughter, Margaret, Edwin Scott, Miss Scott, Frank Avery, Beverly Usher and Rev. Frank A. Fuller, of Putnam, who was the guest of relatives over the week end. The Norwich Town cast went to Saybrook upon invitation of Supervisor of Schools James F. Connolly, who, with other members of his family were members of that parish, prior to locating in Norwich Town, where the Connolly family united with the parish of the First Congregational church.

The last meeting for the season of the Woman's Department of the League of Service of the Congregational church is to be held Friday at 3 o'clock in the chapel. The program to be prepared by Mrs. Carlos Ricker, will be followed by a social hour.

Rev. Frank A. Fuller of Putnam occupied the pulpit at Norwich Town Congregational church Sunday morning, preaching from I Peter 5-7. Casting all your care upon Him; for He careth for you.

Miss Margarete Suck, for the past year or more a resident of Norwich Town, having occupied the lower apartment in the General Harland house at 357 Washington street, moved Saturday morning to the former Dr. L. B. Almy house on Washington street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dwyer of Webster, Mass., motored to Norwich Town Sunday to visit the latter's relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Kennedy and family.

Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver of Huntington Green recently had as an overnight guest the latter's niece, Mrs. Fred Whipple of Providence. Memorial day callers at the the Weaver home, included Mr. and Mrs. William J. Smith of Willimantic, who motored to Norwich Town, accompanied by Mrs. Eugene Randall and Miss Hattie Randall, mother and aunt respectively of Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Whipple returned to Willimantic with them for a visit, before going to her home in Providence.

There is to be a meeting of the Norwich Town club of New London County Home and Farm bureau, Mrs. William Weaver director, Friday at 10.30 in the vestry of Norwich Town Methodist church. Miss Van Clef sent out from Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, is to give a demonstration on dressmaking. Each member is expected to carry her own luncheon.

At Gales Ferry Meeting.

Mrs. Albert Miner and Mrs. William Weaver, delegate from Dorcas Home Missionary society attended the all-day session Tuesday at Gales Ferry Methodist church, of the district meeting of Woman's Home Missionary society of the New England southern conference.

THE SCOUTS OF TROOP 10 HAVE LIVELY MEETING

When the Boy Scouts of the Sacred Heart church, Troop 10, met Friday evening, in the basement of the church, the activities followed the regular schedule. Several plans for the betterment of the troop were brought up for discussion. A short drill in marching was given by Scoutmaster William Burns. Then followed a song period in which several Scout songs were sung.

During the game period, novel stunts were expected of each Scout. Expectations were fulfilled, each contributing to the enjoyment of the period. The meeting closed with the bugler playing Taps.

The Scouts will meet this (Wednesday) evening instead of Friday, this week.

Against the First and the Last Cold Days

THE man who puts off buying his coal until cold weather, and then tries to buy just enough to see him through, needs to be a good weather-prophet.

Just when Winter comes is an eternal question. It is easy enough to find an answer in the almanac, but the thermometer doesn't always co-operate.

And when Summer comes and goes is equally debatable. In 1928 we had temperatures below 45° in May and below 60° in June; then below 45° again in September.

The best plan is to lay in your coal now, while the price is at its lowest, and to lay in enough so that there is some margin for emergencies.

Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite is a fuel that does not deteriorate. Its high heating-power remains the same whether it is stored for a month, a year, or a century.

The early buyer is protected against the first cold days, and the last; against seasonal price increases; against delayed delivery because of the snow and ice storms of Winter; against disappointment and worry.

FARM RELIEF BILL MADE ACCEPTABLE TO HOOVER

Elimination of the Export Debenture Plan Has Been Agreed Upon by the Farm Relief Conference Committee—Both Senate and House Will Be Asked Promptly to Approve It—Leaders at the Capitol Hope That the Bill Can Be Sent to the White House Before Saturday.

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—A farm relief bill made acceptable to President Hoover by the elimination of the export debenture plan was agreed upon by the farm relief conference committee today and both senate and house will be asked promptly to approve it.

Leaders at the capitol hope that the bill can be sent to the white house before Saturday but conflicting week end plans of members may delay final congressional action until next week.

Approval of the bill reported by the conference is expected to be given virtually without debate by the house, which must act first. Disappointment of the debenture extremists in the senate, however, promises to occasion some spirited debate before a vote on the conference committee. Senators Norris, republican, Nebraska, and Smith, democrat, South Carolina, voted against the motion to eliminate the debenture section. These members, who demanded a report of disagreement on debentures so the house would be required to vote upon them, will join the group asking rejection of the conference report but administration leaders are convinced they have sufficient votes to defeat such a move.

Both Senator McNary of Oregon and Representative Haugen of Iowa, chairman respectively of the senate and house agriculture committees, expressed confidence that the farm bill as agreed upon would be approved speedily and would prove efficacious. Senator McNary described the measure as "a fine well rounded out bill," while Mr. Haugen said he expected it to accomplish its purpose.

As now prepared for final congressional action, "the agricultural marketing act," would set up a federal farm board of nine members, including the secretary of agriculture, who would serve ex-officio. The eight other members would be appointed by the president to serve for six years at $12,000 annually, the chairman to be designated by the president.

The measure contains the provisions of both house and senate farm bills for commodity advisory councils and stabilization corporations, the latter charged with buying up and marketing surplus crops in an attempt to stabilize prices.

A revolving fund of $500,000,000 would be provided for the board to use as it sees fit, and an additional $1,500,000 would be authorized for administrative expense.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION APPOINTED

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—An advisory committee on education appointed today by Secretary Wilbur is to meet here Friday to inaugurate a study of the relations of the national government to education.

The committee, which is composed of 46 representatives of educational institutions and of organizations interested in education from every section of the country, has been divided by the interior secretary into three sections. Federal activities in education will be studied by the first, federal grants to colleges by the second, and federal grants to schools of less than college grade by the third.

Secretary Wilbur named Charles R. Mann, director of the American council of education, as general chairman of the entire committee. J. W. Crabtree, secretary of the national education association, will serve as general secretary.

Evidence pertaining to the three phases of the inquiry will be presented to the committee at the opening session, after which the respective groups will meet each to tackle its phase. As defined by Secretary Wilbur, the aim is to return recommendations as to a future educational program by the federal government.

REPARATIONS CONFERENCE NEARING ADJOURNMENT

PARIS, June 5—(AP)—Conclusion of the reparations conference before Saturday is the hope of the experts who have finally brought to agreement the ten year old problem of German war reparations to the allies. They worked overtime today to get the conference report ready for signature.

If the work has progressed sufficiently it will be signed late tomorrow, but it seems probable that it will be signed Friday. The American experts leave for the United States on Saturday, and this will bring to a close four months of work on one of Europe's greatest post-war problems.

The experts' report is being more compressed as the work of drafting continues, although the annex, into which are thrown schedules, bank statutes and subsidiary matter, has grown in volume.

The plan for the "bank for international settlements," which is the keystone of the new machinery for reparations payments, has undergone numerous modifications.

ELOPEMENT BEGUN IN PLANE CULMINATES IN MARRIAGE

ALBANY, N. Y., June 5—(AP)—An elopement begun by airplane from Lowell, Mass, culminated here today in the marriage of Miss Catherine Bagshaw, of Lowell, and Richard Lee Brook, of Simcoe, Ontario.

Miss Bagshaw, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bagshaw, of Lowell, was graduated from the Roger Hall day school yesterday. Mr. Brook is the son of Richard Lee Brook, president of the Brook Woolen company, of Simcoe. The bride gave her age as 18 and the bridegroom gave his as 20 in obtaining the license here. The ceremony, performed by the Rev. John Romey, took place in the Cathedral of All Saints, here. It followed, the couple said, a civil marriage last March.

The plane in which they took off from Ontario yesterday, they said, ran into bad weather at Worcester, Mass., and they abandoned it to come here by train.

HAD SEEN DRINKING BY TWO BOYS AND TWO GIRLS

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—Speaking on what he described as the evil of amending the constitution, Senator Blease, democrat, South Carolina, told the senate today recently he had seen two boys and two girls drinking liquor in a restaurant.

One of the boys, Blease said, drew a flask from his hip pocket and passed it to the waiter, who soon returned with four cocktails. The performance was repeated, he said, and after the four, who came from "respectable families," finished dinner, they staggered from the restaurant.

"I never saw that before the constitution was amended," he declared.

TEN MEN INJURED BY GAS WELL EXPLOSION

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 5—(AP)—Ten men were injured, two so seriously that they are expected to die, when a gas well caught fire and exploded tonight seven miles south of East Aurora, in the town of Colden, Erie county. Andrew Bell, Hamburg, N. Y., and Frank Eckert, Ebenezer, were removed to the Lackawanna hospital, burned from head to foot.

1,200 MILE INSPECTION BY RAILROAD OFFICIALS

NEW YORK, June 5—(AP)—A special train of five Pullman cars and a New Haven diner tonight pulled into the Pennsylvania station after completing a 1,200 mile inspection trip made by directors and officers of the New Haven and Boston and Maine railroads over the principal points of both systems and which consumed three days.

The party started out from Boston Monday morning and spent all that day and part of Tuesday visiting portions of the Boston and Maine, arriving in Springfield Tuesday afternoon where the joint facilities of the two roads were inspected. Today was spent entirely on the New Haven railroad, with visits to Hartford, Cedar Hill, Maybrook, Danbury, South Norwalk and New York.

New Haven officials of the road who were on the trip included: E. G. Buckland, chairman of the board, J. J. Pelley, president, A. P. Russell, executive vice president, B. Campbell, vice president, C. E. Smith, vice president, J. A. Droege, general manager, H. S. Palmer, comptroller, G. M. Wood, freight traffic manager and Arthur E. Clark, secretary.

TO ARREST TALLMAN FOR MURDER OF MRS. PATTY

LOS ANGELES, June 5—(AP)—While police in San Francisco awaited the arrival there of the steamer Admiral Benson to take into custody William L. Tallman, a passenger, Los Angeles authorities continued to round up evidence which they alleged will prove that he was the slayer of Mrs. Virginia Patty, whose body was found hanging in an apartment house closet here yesterday.

Tallman, 24 year old radio operator of Oakland, was arrested on the Admiral Benson yesterday afternoon and confined to his state room at the request of Los Angeles police. He insisted he was innocent.

DALLAS, Texas, June 5—(AP)—Chairmen of two major committees of Rotary International were announced today prior to adjournment of the annual assembly of Rotary's 73 district governors from all parts of the world.

M. Eugene Newsom, recently chosen international president, announced Crawford C. McCullough, of Fort William, Ontario, as chairman of the silver jubilee convention of Rotary at Chicago next year. McCulough was president of Rotary in 1921-22.

Donald Adams, New Haven, Conn., international president in 1925-26, was named chairman of the aims and objects committee.

FATAL EXPLOSION FEW MILES ABOVE NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, June 5—(AP)—One man was killed and fifteen others were injured, some seriously, in an explosion at noon today in the secret process chemical plant of the Gulf and Valley Cotton Oil company, a few miles above New Orleans.

The blast rocked the villages of Gretna and shattered windows in a half mile area. The force of the explosion hurled a large steel boiler through the roof and 400 feet into the air to crash through a waterfront warehouse and imbed itself in the earth.

CHICAGO IRON WORKERS STRIKE HAS BEEN SETTLED

CHICAGO, June 5—(AP)—Work on many big building projects here, tied up since last week when structural and ornamental iron workers went on strike, was resumed today following agreement of the Chicago Steel Erectors' association to pay the $13 a day scale demanded by the unions.

GUARANTY TRUST TO OFFER 200,000 NEW SHARES OF STOCK

NEW YORK, June 5—(AP)—Directors of the Guaranty Trust company of New York today proposed an offer of 200,000 additional shares of stock to stockholders at $500 a share, which, on the basis of present market quotations, is equivalent to cutting a melon of nearly $90,000,000.

ANESTHETIC TALKING COST MAN HIS WIFE

FREEPORT, Ill., June 5—(AP)—Talking he did while under an anesthetic on an operating table cost Ralph T. Calam his wife.

The wife's name was Gertrude but the name he murmured endearingly was Florence.

Mrs. Calam investigated the situation and today she got her divorce.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BERLIN, June 5—(AP)—With the experts in Paris reaching an agreement, German officialdom now is focusing its attention upon the steps necessary to give effect to the recommendations of the reparations committee.

VIENNA, June 5—(AP)—Dr. Hugo Symann, a high official of the government savings bank, gave sleeping draughts to his young wife, his son, 11, and his baby boy, six months, and shot them and himself dead. Unsuccessful speculations were said to have motivated his act.

PARIS, June 5—(AP)—Premier Raymond Poincare promised the chamber of deputies that it would have full opportunity to discuss the Washington debt settlement but he strongly indicated that afterward the government will prefer to ratify the Mellon-Berenger agreement by decree rather than by a vote of the deputies.

THREE DEATHS FROM BRAINTREE EXPLOSION

EAST BRAINTREE, Mass., June 5—(AP)—With the death of Frank Ford today the death toll resulting from the explosion of an oil still at the Cities Service Refining company, here, during the night, was brought to three. The other dead were Grant Chase and Wallace Minot, whose charred bodies were found in the wreckage. Ford died at the Quincy hospital. All the dead had lived in Weymouth.

Three separate investigations were started to determine the cause for the explosion which resulted in a fire loss of over $200,000. George C. Neal, state fire marshal, went to the scene today with inspectors. Local fire officials and officials of the company also sought the cause of the blast.

More than 100 employes were on the premises when the explosion happened at midnight. Four were injured and were treated at hospitals. Chase and Minot were trapped and their bodies not found until several hours after the accident. Ford was taken to the hospital where he died shortly before noon.

There were 10,000 gallons of oil in the tank that blew up. The flaming oil endangered the buildings on the plant and the occupants of houses near the property were ordered to seek safety while fire apparatus from several towns and cities fought the fire.

ANOTHER BREAK IN THE GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, June 5—(AP)—Wheat slipped down today from the heights it had won in two days of optimism over farm relief prospects.

Fresh news from congressional halls telling of a conference agreement on the farm bill without the export debenture plan, lifted grain values from an earlier slump but at the finish wheat was 1 5-8 to 3 1-8 cents a bushel under Tuesday's closing prices and corn was down 1 3-8 to 2 7-8 cents.

July wheat contracts closed at $1.06 7-8 to $1.07 a bushel and September at $1.11 to 1-8, while corn for July delivery ended at 83 to 83 1-8 cents and September corn at 83 3-8 to 5-8.

The recessions were in contrast with the spectacular fireworks displayed Monday and Tuesday, when predictions of quick government action to check price declines had resulted in a two day advance of 10 to 12 cents in wheat value. But there was heavy profit taking today, commission houses sold grain aggressively, and the feeling prevailed that the market had rebounded too quickly from the bottom of the pit. Heavy selling by the Canadian pool was reported from Winnipeg, and the trade began to take account of underselling by Argentine exporters.

BINGHAM IN CHARGE OF COTTON AND WOOL TARIFF

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)— The senate finance committee today completed organization of the four subcommittees which will begin public hearings next week on the house tariff bill.

The hearings will start June 12 and end July 10.

Three republicans and two democrats will serve on each sub-committee to take testimony on from three to five of the 15 rate sections of the bill. A majority member will act as chairman as each of the 15 schedules are taken up.

The sub-committees will sit six hours daily, from 9:30 a. m., to 12:30 p. m., and from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Senators Bingham, Connecticut; Greene, Vermont, and Sackett, Kentucky, republicans, and George, Georgia, and Simmons, North Carolina, democrats, will make up the sub-committee on cotton, flax, hemp and jute; wool, silk and rayon. Bingham will have charge of the cotton and wool schedules; Greene the flax, hemp and jute, and Sackett the silk and rayon.

AWARDED THE PRIX DE ROME IN ARCHITECTURE

NEW YORK, June 5—(AP)—B. Kenneth Johnson, 22, of Chicago a student of Yale university, today was announced as winner of the annual award of the Prix de Rome in architecture.

Competition for the award, which is known as the William Rutherford Mead fellowship, was based on the working out of a design for an institute of fine arts to be erected theoretically in Washington, D. C. Seven contestants, selected from a previous contest, competed.

The fellowship, which carries an annual cash income of $1,500 a year for three years with residence and studio at the academy in Rome and transportation to and from the Italian capital, is estimated to be worth $5,000.

The competition is open to unmarried men, citizens of the United States who are not over 30 years of age.

LAVA FROM VESUVIUS DIMINISHING IN VOLUME

NAPLES, Italy, June 5—(AP)—The waves of molten lava pouring down the sides of Mount Vesuvius like water from a burst dam since Monday diminished in strength and volume today.

An official bulletin tonight said the flow, which was investing the villages of Barre and Pagani outside Terzigno, had decreased, but it still was sufficient to throw thousands of the inhabitants of the countryside into a panic.

Terzigno, which is a flourishing town, was virtually surrounded by streams of liquid burning rock.

More than 100 dwellings already have been destroyed and hundreds more still are threatened.

MacDonald To Form New British Cabinet

Announcement of the Labor Ministry is Expected Friday or Saturday.

LONDON, June 5—(AP)—Ramsay MacDonald, for the second time labor prime minister of England, accepted today from King George at Windsor Castle the mission to form a new government and submitted the names of the principal members of his cabinet to his majesty.

Announcement of the labor ministry is expected Friday or Saturday. The filling of the minor cabinet posts usually takes a few days after the principal portfolios have been allotted.

Rumor continued busy with these today in political circles, but nothing is known definitely. One report tonight said that Premier MacDonald himself would after all take the ministry of foreign affairs, considering the labor foreign policy to be the cornerstone for success of his second government.

The actual ceremony of Mr. MacDonald's visit to the king today was as simple and as short as that in which Stanley Baldwin yesterday resigned his high office. There was one difference, for his majesty was able today to receive Mr. MacDonald sitting up in a chair, whereas he had accepted Mr. Baldwin's resignation from his sickbed.

It is understood that the resigning conservative ministers will surrender their seals of office to the king at Windsor castle on Friday.

Members of the new ministry were expected to attend on Saturday at the castle to receive the seals at the hands of his majesty in person, this being a function in which only the king is entitled to act.

The coming session of parliament will begin June 25 with the swearing in of the members, no business will be transacted, however, until after July 1, and the session will last only a few weeks.

The labor party's main legislative programme will not be presented until the autumn session.

It was reported tonight that Sir John Sankey, lord justice of the appeal court, might be named as lord chancellor in the new government. Justice Sankey called on Mr. MacDonald at Hampstead today. He headed a royal commission appointed in 1919 to investigate the coal mining problem. If he is called to a high post in the labor government, it might indicate an intention to take strong measures in dealing with the difficult situation of the coal industry.

In labor party circles tonight it was generally assumed that J. H. Thomas would head a new department created to deal with the unemployment problem. In that event Mr. Thomas would have cabinet rank.

The Sanky coal commission report included a recommendation for nationalization of the mines, a project which was a leading feature of the labor party campaign program. His appointment, therefore, would be taken to indicate an intention by Premier MacDonald to try for legislation looking toward national ownership of the coal pits.

CASSLER YOUTH DENIES KNOWLEDGE OF MURDER

VALPARAISO, Indiana, June 5—(AP)—Eddie Cassler, 19 year old Chicago boy, withstood five hours of intensive questioning by authorities here today and remained firm in his assertion that he knew nothing about the murdar of Miss Cameola Soutar, for which his mother, Mrs. Catherine Cassler, stands accused.

The questlining began at the old abandoned Cassler home in Hebron, Indiana, was continued at the spot where Miss Soutar's body, shot through the heart, was found last week and ended on side roads in the vicinity with officials urging him to "tell the truth."

Coroner E. H. Miller tonight said the only important point obtained from young Cassler was that he had been caught telling numerous lies. The authorities held the theory that Cassler aided his mother to hide Miss Soutar's body.

INCREASE IN STATE POLICE FORCE FROM 100 TO 125 MEN

HARTFORD, June 5—(AP)—Changes in titles rather than in personnel, will come with the 1929 state police reorganization law, signed by the governor on Monday, it was indicated today. The new law increases the state police force from 100 to 125 men and provides for a major, a captain, a first lieutenant, an inspector of weights and measures, eight lieutenants and nine sergeants to be appointed from the force. Frank M. Nichols, now superintendent, is slated for appointment as major. Walter F. Stiles, whose present rank is captain, is expected to retain that rank and Lieut. Albert S. Field, at present inspector-instructor in charge of the state police school at Ridgefield, is expected to be named to the first lieutenancy. It is expected the other lieutenants and the sergeants will be reappointed to their present ratings. The status of Commissioner Robert T. Hurley is not changed by the new law.

MAY WITHDRAWN AMERICAN FILMS FROM FRENCH MARKET

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—The state department at the request of domestic film interests, has informed the French government that American films will be completely withdrawn from the French market if the four to one quota on imported films is established in France.

Will H. Hayes, czar of the American film interests, has informed the state department that the American companies will be unable to financially meet the requirements of the proposed quota, which would provide for the purchase by American interests of one French film for every four shown in France.

CELEBRATED GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

WATERBURY, June 6.—(AP)— Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bulkeley Hubbell, of New York city, and Williamstown, Mass., celebrated their golden wedding anniversary here today at the home of their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Tyler Adams. Mr. Hubbell is the nationally known author, lawyer and scholar. The celebration was attended by only relatives and closest friends of the couple. Mr. Hubbell wrote several books a few years ago and brought fame to Williams college of which institution he is now a trustee. Accompanied by his wife he plans to leave this city next week to attend the 55th reunion of his class at Williamstown.

Southern Democrats Showing Discontent

Several Senators Will Not Attend the Raskob "Harmonious" Dinner.

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—Calling of a dinner for democrats here next week in honor of Jouett Shouse, newly named assistant to Chairman John J. Raskob of the national committee has developed some signs of discontent in the party ranks in the southland.

Several democratic senators from the south have said they have "other engagements" on the night of the dinner.

Mr. Raskob will be one of the speakers at the affair, which has been organized by the Jefferson Democratic association of Washington.

Few of the senators who will be absent at the dinner have given any reason for their absence. Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who resigned as democratic national committeeman for his state after Raskob was named chairman, did describe the dinner, however, as "very inopportune and instead of bringing about the desired aired, harmony is likely to have the contrary effect."

Senator Smith of South Carolina, whose state was in the democratic column again in the presidential election, said he was not going to the dinner and did not "care to make a statement about it, in the interests of party harmony."

Senators Swanson and Glass of Virginia have made other arrangements for the night on which the dinner will be held. The same is true of Senator Harris of Georgia.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader and the running mate of Alfred E. Smith, is not in the city and it is not known whether he will be here for the dinner.

Other democratic leaders are making no comment.

LOS ANGELES, June 5—(AP)—After electing Walter S. Sudzen, Osiris Temple, Wheeling, W. Va., to the post of outer guard, the imperial council of the Ancient Arabic order, the main body of Shriners, in convention here, on a sightseeing tour of southern California. The election was the principal business of today's session.

The successful candidate, a past potentate of his temple and prominent in Shrine affairs for a score of years, defeated three other leading nominees, A. A. D. Rahn of Zuhrah Temple, Minneapolis; Ernest C. Hueter, Islam Temple, San Francisco, and J. T. Fields, El Hasa Temple, Ashland, Ky.

The council, which is composed of 12 officers, makes a contest only of its lowest post, the outer guard. The remaining offices with the exception of the imperial treasurer and imperial reporter progresses to the next office above each year with the retirement of the imperial potentate. Leo V. Youngworth, deputy imperial potentate, Al Malaikah Temple, Los Angeles, succeeds Imperial Potentate Frank C. Jones of Arabia Temple, Houston, Texas.

Individual donations of $165,000 toward the Shrine hospitals for crippled children were announced by the board of trustees. A recommendation to the imperial council that $600,000 additional appropriations for the extension of hospital facilities be added to the $1,250,000 annual appropriation was made by the trustees.

The last mass parade was the feature tonight. Tomorrow at the closing meeting of the council, the 1930 convention city will be selected from a list including Toronto, Canada; Minneapolis and Atlantic City.

DANBURY HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR TO REPRESENT CONN.

HARTFORD, June 5.—(AP)—Charles H. Brunnissen, of West Redding, a senior at the Danbury high school, will represent Connecticut at Thomas A. Edison's laboratories at East Orange, N. J., to take an examination prepared by the inventor having received a mark of 91.83 in the physics examination contest, it was announced tonight by Franklin E. Pierce, supervisor of secondary education for the state board of education. John C. Turnbull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Turnbull, Hartford, ranked second with a mark of 89.83 and has been chosen as alternate for the final physics quiz, which will be given by Thomas A. Edison, August 1. Examinations to select a state candidate were held at the state capitol last Saturday.

Paul U. Sunderland, Jr., 160 Deerhill street, Danbury, a senior at Loomis institute at Windsor, won third place with a mark of 87.8 and R. Austin Battles, a senior at the Bulkeley school for boys at New London, won fourth place with a mark of 86.8. Mr. Pierce said that several other boys taking the examination received marks of 80 or better and that all the papers submitted were good.

RESIGNS AS COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS AT DETROIT

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—Carey D. Ferguson has resigned as collector of cutsoms at Detroit.

The resignation was announced today by Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury.

Ferguson who has served since 1923, was in charge of the office at the time 21 of the border patrol were indicted for conspiring with bootleggers to permit liquor to be smuggled into this country.

It has been said at the treasury that Ferguson apparently was unable to stop the illegal entry of rum across the Detroit river. The border patrol, was taken from Ferguson's control in April and placed under charge of a special agent, since which time treasury officials said the work of the patrol has improved greatly.

ENORMOUS EXPORTATION OF CANADIAN LIQUOR

OTTAWA, Ont., June 5.—(AP)— Figures showing relatively enormous exportation of Canadian liquor to islands south and east of Canada were called to the house of commons attention today.

Dr. T. E. Kaiser, conservative, Ont., said the island of Miquelon, off the New Foundland coast, last year imported 5151 tank gallons of assorted Canadian liquors for every one of its 3,000 inhabitants over school age.

He said people on the Canadian mainland consumed only .31 per cent of a gallon each per year.

MUSSOLINI'S STATEMENTS DISPLEASING TO THE POPE

His Holiness Finds in the Duce's Speeches "Worse Than Heretical Expressions as to the Very Essence of Christianity and Catholicity"—Statements Were Made by Mussolini on the Lateran Treaties Before the Italian Chamber and Senate—The Pontiff Criticized the Premier's Statement That Italy Was Not "A Catholic State, But a Fascist State"—Asserted That the State Had Nothing to Fear From Education Under Direction of the Church.

VATICAN CITY, June 5—(AP)—Pope Pius XI, in an open letter to Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, today admitted that he was frankly displeased with several statements in speeches made by Premier Mussolini on the lateran treaties before the Italian chamber and senate.

The duce's speeches in question were delivered May 13 in the chamber of deputies and May 25 in the senate and urged the ratification of the lateran accords drawn up between the Italian government and the vatican.

His holiness replied to both these speeches in an open letter to Cardinal Gasparri which was published tonight in the Observatore Romano, finding in them "worse than heretical expressions as to the very essence of Christianity and Catholicism".

The pontiff deplored the rift in the understanding between the Fascist government and the holy se, which had come after such laborious discussions. He termed it "an unwelcome and dolorous interruption."

He concluded, however, that peace between Italy and the holy see would last because of his own faith in the fidelity and the good will of men, but above all because of his "greater faith in the help of God."

The pope reasserted the primordial claim of the Catholic church to supervise the education of youth and the church's preeminence in Italy as the state religion.

He stoutly defended the church from any inputation of encroaching upon the legitimate sovereignty of the state, but insisted that the church's rights must be scrupulously respected.

Taking up statements by Premier Mussolini about liberty of conscience and full liberty for discussion, the pope said this was a delicate question but it was inadmissable that there could be absolute liberty of discussion because it might easily damage the faith of the slightly educated "and might easily become a dissimulated form of propaganda dangerous both to the state and to religion."

He reiterated his demand for "a full and perfect mandate for education for the church" and declared that the state cannot either hinder or change the exercise of that mandate.

Pope Pius said the state had nothing to fear from education under direction of the church.

"It is this education which has produced the good and higher aspects of modern civilization. From the first days of Christianity up to the present fathers and mothers have sent or brought their millions of sons to educational institutions founded directly by the church."

The pontiff criticized the premier's statement that Italy was not "a Catholic state, but a Fascist state." He said:

"No one wishes to admit that the Fascist state is not in accord with the Catholic doctrine and practice in regard to its order of ideas as well as its order of practical action. Otherwise the state could not be Catholic."

TILSON FEARS FOR THE REAPPORTIONMENT BILL

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP)—Fear that the alien and disfranchisement amendments that have been attached to the census bill would defeat reapportionment was expressed today as house leaders abandoned efforts to work out a plan for taking the two proposals out of the measure. The house adjourned to give the republican steering committee an opportunity to work out a method of coping with the situation, but after a series of meetings leaders said they were no closer to a solution.

Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the majority leader, said after the conference that he felt each of the amendments could muster enough votes to remain in the bill. If they remain in the measure, he added, the bill might be defeated.

The Connecticut representative believes that if the two proposals were combined they both probably could be beaten. The only way they could be voted upon together would be through the adoption of a special rule, however, and this is not considered feasible.

TREMENDOUS STAMP SALES AT COTTAGE POSTOFFICE

MENLO PARK, N. J., June 5.—(AP)—The post office in the cottage of Postmaster James F. Shepard in this small borough today did more business than it would normally do in thirty years.

The natives of this community, which consists of not more than 35 houses, stood around in wonderment as thousands of persons from all over the United States swarmed in and around the post office to purchase some of the new Edison Electric light fiftieth anniversary memorial stamps.

Coming from as far away as Boston and Palo Alto, Calif., hundreds of stamp collectors, amateurs and dealers concentrated in front of the small building before 8 o'clock this morning.

As soon as the doors opened the crowd flocked in laden with bundles of letters, post cards and air mail to be sent to Hadley airport.

During the first half hour of the public sale more than $1,000 worth of stamps were sold.

FIRE THREATENS TOWN OF CRANBERRY PORTAGE

THE PAS, Man., June 5.—(AP)—The fire at Cranberry Portage, 51 miles north of here on the Flin Flon railway, got beyond control again today and threatened the town with total destruction.

Forest fires, which, after wiping out half of the town yesterday were brought under partial control, gained in fury this afternoon and swept toward the remaining part of the old townsite. A strong east wind was fanning the blaze.

Later advices said that Mile 83, a town of 600 situated two miles southeast of Flin Flon, was threatened with destruction by a fire which was said to have started in the home of a resident. Sixteen homes were reported to have been destroyed and that towns folk and construction workers were fighing desperately to save the remaining houses.

AGAINST REDUCTION OF OCEAN FREIGHT RATES

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—The shipping board today decided against a reduction of ocean freight rates on cargoes shipped via Boston to British and northern European ports, which had been proposed by the maritime association of the Boston chamber of commerce.

A majority of the board held the reduction would not achieve the desired result of placing Boston on a par with Montreal and Philadelphia in the matter of through rates on export traffic from interior points. Rail rates from interior to latter ports are lower than to Boston. An investigation had been conducted in the matter by the shipping board over a period of virtually two years.

CROWE MURDER TRIAL WILL GO TO JURY TODAY

ABINGDON, Va., June 5.—(AP)—The case of J. W. Crowe, Washington county deputy sheriff, on trial here charged with the murder of J. W. Kendrick, 16, Emory and Henry college student, will be given to the jury tomorrow afternoon.

All testimony was completed this afternoon, and after three and a half hours of argument behind closed doors, instructions were read to the jury and court was suspended until tomorrow at which time four arguments before the jury is scheduled.

Three rebuttal witnesses for the state testified during the afternoon that Crowe's reputation for veracity in the community was bad while five witnesses placed on the stand by the defense, testified that Crowe was known for truthfulness.

The defendant himself related the events of the night of May 6, when young Kendrick was killed, and his part in the firing on an automobile on the highway, just before the defense rested its case at noon today. The commonwealth charged that shots fired by Crowe, W. D. Worley, another deputy, and James McReynolds, a policeman, caused the death of Kendrick, alleged to have been riding with Paul Phelps and Sterling Dutton. All three officers were indicted for murder.

ELECTED PRESIDENT OF UNITED LUTHERAN SYNOD

ALBANY, N. Y., June 5.—(AP)—Dr. Samuel Trexler, of New York city, today was elected president of the United Lutheran synod of New York, formed by the merging of the New York ministerium, the synod of New York and New England, and the synod of New York. With 218 votes necessary for choice, Dr. Trexler received 227 and Rev. Herman Brezing, of Niagara Falls, president of the New York ministerium, 209. Dr. Trexler for years was president of the New York and New England synod.

The second convention of the United synod will meet in 1930 in Rochester.

Today the secretaries of the three merging synods filed with the secretary of the state the resolution of merger and dissolution of these synods. The United synod, the largest Protestant governing organization in northeastern United States, has 390 congregations with a total membership of 203,008.

The convention today established eight conferences of congregations, including the New England conference, comprising western Massachusetts and the eastern counties of New York state.

KING GEORGE MAKING SATISFACTORY PROGRESS

WINDSOR, England, June 5.—(AP)—King George suffered no ill effects from the excitement of receiving the outgoing and incoming prime ministers on successive days. He was sitting up when Ramsay MacDonald came to the castle to receive the invitation to form a cabinet and exhibited no undue fatigue through the rest of the day.

Three physicians visited the monarch this morning and issued a bulletin showing satisfactory progress.

It was stated that the king would now be able to pass a portion of each day sitting up in a chair.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Allan G. Ridge

The funeral of Mrs. Bertha A. Paine Ridge, wife of Allan G. Ridge of 28 Crescent street, Hartford, was held Tuesday afternoon in Hartford with Rev. Dr. Sherrod Soule officiating. Burial was in Spring Grove cemetery, Hartford.

Evidently losing control of his sedan to avoid a collision with a touring car operated by Police Officer John A. Lutton who had given a signal with the intention of turning into the Wet Wash driveway on Bricktop road about 9:30 o'clock this morning, Aime Joly of 68 Jackson street drove his machine into a tree on the left side of the road. Joly's car was quite badly wrecked but Joly and a companion escaped injury. Officer Lutton had noted that the Joly car was approaching with terrific speed and in view of this circumstance placed the man under arrest on a charge of reckless driving. Owing to the speed of the approaching car Officer Lutton, who was on police business at the time, did not turn his car into the driveway as previously intended. The case is scheduled for police court Thursday morning.

Henry Allen, 26 a mechanic at the Leonard Brothers Garage, Inc., is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital suffering from painful chest injuries sustained this morning when a coupe on which he was working slipped off the jack and pinned the young mechanic to the floor. The muffler of the car rested against the man's chest and it was believed for a time that he was suffering from severe fractures but an X-ray photograph failed to reveal such a condition and good recovery is expected.

The Windham County Poultry, Pigeon and Small Stock association will hold its outing at the A. E. Anthony farm in Mansfield Hollow in connection with the regular meeting Saturday afternoon, June 15. The outing will start at 1 o'clock.

Honoring her house guest, Mrs. M. L. Mason of Pelham, N. Y., and Mrs. W. R. Britland and Mrs. Carl Oman of Pleasant street, recent arrivals from Holyoke, Mass., Mrs. Albert E. Welch entertained at a bridge party at her home Tuesday evening. Luncheon was served by the hostess. The prizes were awarded to Miss Margaret Thompson of Windham, first; Mrs. John A. Hargreaves, second and Mrs. Leo T. Oehrig, third. The guests also received prizes.

After voicing his appreciation for the co-operation of public officials and the citizens, "Daredevil Johnnie" Woods of New London climbed the side of the Jordan block on Main street this afternoon in the presence of several hundred people. The daredevil had the occasion to reprimand certain young men in no uncertain terms for "hooting" his act as he reached the third story. The four stories and the precarious cornice were surmounted by the human fly in 11 minutes, the performance concluding with a dangling act from the cornice and a hand-stand on the top of the building. The climb in the evening was made blind-folded and proved quite a thriller.

DEATH OF CHARLES FOOTE—OLDEST WAGON-MAKER

Charles Foote, 86, died at his home on North Main street early Wednesday morning after a few months illness resulting from a complication of diseases. He was born in Colchester February 17, 1843, the son of Dan T. and Lucretia Kellogg Foote. After leaving school he learned the wagon-makers trade at the old Whiteman wagon shop in the Unionville section of town and later went into business for himself. He had followed the wagon-makers trade all his life and up to a few months ago he went regularly to his work-shop. A few years ago he was severely injured about the body when hit by a passing automobile and since then he had gradually failed in health. In 1910 he married Eugenia Richer of New York who died last year. He is survived by a sister Kate Foote of Colchester with whom he had lived for many years.

Mr. Foote was a descendant of Nathaniel Foote, one of the founders of the town of Colchester. He was endowed with a genial and quiet disposition which had won for him many friends.

DANIELSON

KILLINGLY TRUST CO. TAKES LEASE ON PHOENIX BLOCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 6.—It was announced today that the Killingly Trust company has taken a ten-year lease on the quarters in the Phoenix block vacated at the beginning of April by the Brooklyn Savings bank, and will occupy the premises for banking purposes. Date when occupancy of the new quarters will begin has not been given out, but it is intimated that it will be in the near future.

Since its incorporation the Killingly Trust company has had quarters with the Windham County National bank, with which it is closely allied. The trust company capital is $25,000, and its surplus now amounts to considerably more than $10,000.

Whereas the trust company has been doing strictly a trust and custodian business for the years past, together with operating a savings department, it now plans the further expansion of its activities to engage in the lines of practical banking and investments. It is stated that the capital of the company will soon be increased, and that the par value will be reduced. If this company takes steps to reduce its par value of shares, it will be one of the first institutions in Connecticut to take advantage of the law recently passed by the general assembly authorizing banks to reduce the par value of their capital stock to an amount not less than $25 a share. It also was intimated today that a certain amount of the new stock will be made available for the public.

It is also intended that the Killingly company, which for some time has been a subsidiary of the Killingly Trust company, will be divorced from that connection and its capital likewise increased.

Only recently the Killingly Trust company announced that the next dividend to be paid on its savings will be at the rate of 6 per cent per annum. For the company it was said today that this has been made possible through the prosperity the institution has enjoyed during the past few years, and the disposition on the part of its officers and directors to recognize the support given them by their various clients. The dividend to stockholders recently declared and paid on May 1, showed that in addition to the regular dividend of 2 per cent an additional one of 3 per cent was paid.

While the Killingly Trust company has been doing business here for years, it will, in its new and separate quarters, be more outstanding than it has been in the past, and will give Danielson four different banking places.

The arrest of Harry Freeman of Canterbury in Sterling by state Officer Cyrus Chamberlin of the Danielson barracks becomes of more than passing interest because of the nature of the charge against him—operating a truck commercially under what are known as SX markers. It was pointed out this afternoon that only a dealer selling trucks can legally use SX markers on a truck and then only when the truck is being used for demonstration or similar purposes. Even a dealer, it is contended, has no right to use a truck commercially with SX numbers attached. It was indicated today the use of SX markers on trucks being used commercially will be carefully checked all through this territory. A second arrest for using SX markers on a truck was that of Samuel Steinman of Moosup, who was found operating in Plainfield yesterday. This truck is a new one, but was being used commercially.

Another present activity of state officers is checking for overloaded trucks. In this connection Joseph Glowacki of Jewett City, found operating in Plainfield, has been ordered to appear in court and likewise Irving Richards of Cranston, operating in Sterling.

Graduation exercises at which a class of the Junior high school and representatives of eight grades in Dayville, East Killingly and Attawaugan will receive their diplomas will be held on Friday of next week—Flag day—in the auditorium at Killingly high school. The outstanding feature of the program will be the operetta A Royal Princess, to be presented by a large cast that includes a number of the graduates. The coaching is being done by Miss M. Louise Perkins of Killingly staff of teachers. Declamations, musical and other numbers will be included in the program. Each graduate is to receive a diploma. The graduation exercises are to be held in the afternoon.

Holding the last meeting until fall, members of the chamber of commerce discussed various matters at the regular monthly gathering last evening. Among other things the meeting did was to vote to close the stores as usual on Thursday afternoons during July and August. Messrs. Nathan Blumenthal, G. Rene Caron and Sidney P. Marland gave reports on the convention of the state chamber of commerce which they recently attended in Hartford. It was reported to the meeting that the name Danielson has been painted on the roof of the Exchange block in the heart of the borough's business district as a guide to aviators. The sign is 84 feet in length. The chamber also took action to cooperate with the Eastern Connecticut Mills association, which is holding its biennial textile and style show here next week, and in doing this will arrange three Suburban days that are certain to be of interest to all visitors to Danielson, as well as profitable.

A matter discussed at the meeting, but on which no action was taken, was that of incorporating the chamber of commerce. One object of this plan is to relieve the members from personal liability in case of some unfortunate happening in connection with any public event it might arrange and sponsor. This matter will again be up for discussion in the fall.

This afternoon at the Line Store church in Foster funeral services for Charles S. Salisbury were conducted by Rev. A. E. McDougal of Greene, R. I. Burial was in the Line Store cemetery. PUTNAM

MILLION GALLON STEEL TANK TO BE ERECTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 5—A million gallon capacity steel tank will be erected on Oak hill adjoining the present tank of 250,000 gallon capacity if the plan of the water commissioners is approved by the common council and by the residents of the city of Putnam, according to Ralph E. Thurston, chairman of the board of water commissioners. The tank with new mains installed in various sections of the city will tend to increase the pressure in the fire district of the business section and an average increase throughout the city of about 22 pounds will result. This plan has been approved by Henry L. Symonds, an engineer of Boston, presently employed by the city as consulting engineer of the water department. No quorum was present at the city council chambers last evening and a more vivid account of the proposed changes to be made in the water system could not be related by the chairman of the board.

Because an insufficient number of members of the common council reported at their desks in the council chambers Tuesday evening Mayor Charles A. Richard was forced to call for an adjournment of the regular June meeting of the city governing body until next Tuesday evening, June 11. When the councilors convened only four answered their names as Clerk Thomas P. Ryan called roll. The chief executive of the city spent a few minutes at his desk scouring the city by telephone trying to locate the tardy councilors, but his efforts proved futile. This was the second time within two months that Mayor Richard has been forced to adjourn the scheduled council meeting because of the lack of a quorum.

The various heads of the city departments were all in their positions including Ralph E. Thurston chairman of the board of water commissioners. Mr. Thurston continued his silence on the subject as to when the commission would submit a detailed outline of the proposed reconstruction plans of the water mining system throughout the city.

Disobeying an officer's signal proved to be a costly offense in Judge M. H. Geissler's court this morning, when Peter Cournover of Webster paid a total of $130.14 on charges pertaining to the violation of rules of the highway.

A giant oil tank mounted on a large motor truck arrived in Putnam this morning with the first shipment of asphalt oil to be applied on the city streets. The work of making the application was began with the resurfacing of Providence street. The work will continue until all city highways have been oiled.

A Chevrolet coach owned and operated by Mrs. Lena M. Rouse of 265 School street was in a collision this noon time with a large Pierce Arrow motor truck owned by the Saxamore Manufacturing company of New Bedford, Mass., on North School street. The Rouse car received the impact of the crash when it cut across to the left hand side of the thoroughfare in making a turn. Damages to the smaller vehicle consisted of a crumpled running board and fenders and a wisted front left wheel. A number of body fractures were also noted. The moving van received no effects of the crash. Captain of Police William J. Jarvis checked up the accident but found no cause for criminal action.

At a meeting of the board of selectmen held Monday evening contracts for the construction of the new $40,000 state aid road to be constructed from the intersection of Grove street and Killingly avenue to Warren's four corners in Putnam Heights and thence north, across the Heights to intersect with the Thompson highway on the Providence pike, as voted at a meeting of the town two weeks ago were signed and directed to the state highway commission in Hartford. Selectman William P. Warren said this morning that he was uninformed as to when the state highway commissioner will award the contract for the construction of the new route Mr. Warren intimated that the board of selectmen hope to have the road open to travel before the arrival of the winter months.

A continuance of six days was granted to George Lenghram of Pomfret in city court this morning. Mr. Lenghram was summoned to court several weeks ago by State Officer Elton T. Nolan of Danielson barracks, following an auto collision on the Pomfret-Putnam town line.

John F. Ash, a senior at Putnam high school was one of five boys of eastern Connecticut to take part in the state examinations held Saturday in Hartford for the Thomas A. Edison scholarship. The examinations were written and were taken in the hall of representatives in general assembly at the state capital building.

Rev. James F. English, president, presided at the weekly noon-day luncheon and meeting of the Putnam Rotary club held today at the Putnam inn. Following the close of the executive session President English introduced Professor George H Haynes, a member of the faculty of Worcester Polytechnical institute at Worcester and present head of the department of civics at that institution, who addressed the members of the club. Professor Haynes is a former United States senator from Idaho and was a close and intimate friend of Senator William Borah of Idaho. Professor Haynes spoke on his experiences and extensive studies of the national law-making body in Washington, presenting an intimate and interesting word picture of the U. S. senate at work. He gave a detailed outline of the rules of the senate, both written and unwritten and talked extensively on the law of committee assignments, debate and filibustering in the higher house of congress.

Visitors at today's Rotary gathering were Professor Haynes and Oliver Dean of Worcester, Henry Dubuc, Louis P. Kennedy, Sidney P. Marland, and Henry Johnson all of Danielson, Arthur E. Smith, delegate to the international Rotary convention in Galveston, returned from the Texas metropolis yesterday and present at today's meeting of Rotary. Mr. Smith reported a delightful excursion to the west.

Elaborate plans for the observance of Flag day, Friday, June 14th, are now being formulated by a committee of the Putnam lodge, B. P. O. E., No. 874, fraternal body sponsoring the public observance of the holiday. A parade will form in Union square at 7.15 o'clock in the evening. Nearly every fraternal, civic, patriotic and boys organization in the city has signified its intention of taking part. The headquarters company of the 43rd division, under the command of Capt. John J. McGarry will escort the marching units through the principal streets of the city to St. Mary's parochial school grounds where the speaking and patriotic exercises will take place.

Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Congregational church of this city will deliver the address of the evening and L. Edwin Hill, county secretary of the Windham county Y. M. C. A. of Danielson will give the history and evolution of the flag of the United States. John H Butler, chairman of the flag day committee of the Elks extends to every fraternal body an invitation to turn out and take part in the parade.

"Miss Putnam" not a prize beauty contest winner, but the new dapple gray colt born to one of the city's new horses a month ago is now in pasture land with its mother and is reported by one of the city street commission as "doing fine".

Wednesday was baby day at Putnam high school, a privilege enjoyed only by the sophisticated seniors. The uppermost class surprised the balance of the student body this morning when they arrived on the campus gaily attired in costumes of their childhood days. The young ladies of the class became sunbonnet girls and carried their favorite dolls about with them while others were forced to withhold their silence throughout the day by reason of the presence of an all day sucker protruding from their mouths. The baby day presentation by the class of 1929 was one of the best witnessed since the custom was started in the local high school.

Miss Agnes Lowery and Mrs. Wilhelmina Boyle have returned to their homes in Providence after a visit with Miss Minnie Lowery of Pomfret.

Chandler Morse, son of Atty. and Mrs. E. C. Morse of Seward street will leave for New York shortly where he has accepted a position with the federal reserve bank there Mr. Morse is a member of the class of 1923 Putnam high school and graduated from Amherst college in 1927.

Now more than a MILLION FRIGIDAIRES have been built

With every department of the Frigidaire factories running at maximum capacity, with orders greater than at any time in the history of the business, on Thursday, May 16th, the Millionth Frigidaire was built

In both the Household and Commercial fields Frigidaire leads in sales to customers

THERE are definite reasons why more Frigidaires are in use than all other makes of electric refrigerators combined; why it is the choice of home owners, of builders, of apartment owners, of commercial refrigeration users throughout the world.

Beauty, power and convenience

Frigidaire has surplus power that meets every emergency in the hottest weather, and yet operates economically always.

Frigidaire cabinets are beautiful—they are finished in gleaming porcelain enamel, or white Duco—clean and easy to keep clean. The mechanical part is completely enclosed and so quiet that you don't hear it start, stop, or run. Food shelves are elevated so that stooping is unnecessary.

The famous "Cold Control"

And in addition to the standard temperature regulator which automatically maintains an ideal temperature in the food compartment, Frigidaire is equipped with the famous "Cold Control" that speeds the freezing of ice cubes and makes possible dozens of new and delicious desserts and salads.

Low Prices

Because Frigidaire has achieved the million mark—because it is the overwhelming choice of the majority—the economies of quantity production have made prices so low that every model represents a tremendous saving to the buyer.

The D-6 Frigidaire equipped with the "Cold Control" Only $195* complete, delivered and operating in your home

A JOKE.

The board of gas and electrical commissioners has called the attention of the Taxpayers' association to the fact that the gas and electrical department has been called "a joke" over a period of years.

It is 25 years ago that the gas and electrical department began business. It was the claim of the father of the department that in 25 years the gas and electrical department would make Norwich a taxless city. We have passed that quarter of a century and right on the eve of that anniversary we were paying as a community the largest tax in our history, about 5 1-2 per cent.

Isn't it a joke?

In the recent audit which was made by Accountant Cohen it was shown that one of the branches of the gas and electrical department was doing business at a loss of more than $5,000 a year.

Isn't it a joke?

The citizens of Norwich are the owners of the gas and electric plant. At recent city meetings, specially called, these owners have voted for changes in the gas and electrical department. Those changes have not been made. The owners are defied.

Isn't it a joke?

In the recent reduction in the rates for electricity under the guise of benefiting the consumers, the small consumers found that for the same consumption their bills were much larger instead of smaller.

Isn't it a joke?

The plant has been given an estimated valuation of about $3,000,000. The city is just now receiving from it $50,000 a year and no taxes and the small consumers are getting it in the neck through increased bills.

Isn't it a joke?

The Fact Finders uncovered some very interesting situations in the gas and electrical department. It disclosed some of them.

Isn't it a joke?

The gas and electrical department wanted to buy the city barn for an expensive office building. The citizens wouldn't let it. Soon after the small consumers are paying more for their electricity and the profits of the department are being touted.

Isn't it a joke?

Consider the position of the merchants.

Isn't it a joke? Or is it a disaster?

REPARATIONS.

From Paris comes nothing but encouraging prospects in connection with the reparations conference. What seemed at one time like the impossible has been accomplished and the completion of the work is indicated at no distant date.

Under the Young plan the annuities to be paid by Germany reach an approximate total of $9,000,000,000. This represents a marked reduction from the sum which was sought by the allies when the treaty of peace was signed and certainly from some of the claims that were made. It represents the difference in the manner of looking at the situation from immediately after the end of the war and at the present time. Much water has gone over the dam and of course Germany has been making payments. Germany even promised more ten years ago than it was willing to pay now. The allies look at the situation through different glasses. There has been manifested a disposition to get down to brass tacks and it is upon a basis of that character that the agreement has been reached at Paris.

For the first time it is definitely known what Germany must pay. Germany has agreed to the arrangement and there appears to be good reason for believing that the respective nations will uphold the work of their representatives.

The plan has been arranged in the belief that all concerned have been treated with fairness. It has been no easy task which the commission has accomplished and even though an agreement has been reached their work is not finished for they must get the support of their respective governments.

POLLUTED STREAMS.

River pollution is by no means peculiar to Connecticut. It prevails generally and the need of placing restrictions upon it is coming in for equally general recognition.

Even while this state is working upon the problem, getting cooperation from various communities and arousing interest in others, a state board for purification of waters is insisting upon action by cities of Rhode Island.

In a number of instances there has been a response which made orders unnecessary. Such communities have recognized the important contributions they were making to the impurities of the rivers and have instituted measures to prevent it. It means expense but they have begun operations in the belief that the sooner steps were taken the smaller the cost would be and the quicker the undesirable condition would be eliminated.

With the cities of Woonsocket and Pawtucket the board had found it necessary to take forma. action. In the former cases it seems probable that it will be the means of bringing that city to a quicker decision since it has been debating and delaying the matter for some time. In the latter case there has not been the same indication of willingness, though the need is equally great.

In both of these instances it means the construction of disposal plants in order to take care of the raw sewage. Evidently there has been an unwillingness on the part of one city to act for the improvement of conditions until the other did. Such an attitude can be appreciated, but the board believes that both should act and has so ordered.

Dumping sewage and waste matter into the rivers is the easiest solution of the sewage problem. Up to a certain point it is possible for the rivers to take care of such disposal but when the time comes that the rivers become little better than open sewers it is time for a change. It is time that there was a reduction of the pollution that is poured into them.

This problem is one that can be made easier by not waiting too long before applying the remedy. The communities which are establishing disposal plants are making the right kind of a move in a needed direction.

LEARN HOW TO SWIM.

References to the progress which is being made by the classes being instructed in swimming indicate that there is an interest on the part of those who cannot swim and an appreciation of the need of such instruction on the part of those who are responsible for the classes.

It is also at the season of the year when such lessons are certain to be extremely valuable for the vacation season is at hand and those of all ages will be making their way to the swimmin' holes, the rivers the ponds and the beaches for refreshing dips. It is also the time of the year when great numbers go on the water in boats and canoes and in one way or another are involved in an upset. Because they know how to swim doesn't give absolute assurance that they will not drown. There can be no such assurance but knowing how to swim provides protection under those circumstances which may easily be the means of saving the life of the individual or someone else in distress.

There is a temptation among those who go into the water to get out beyond their depth. This is true even though they cannot swim. Once they do that they become confused and panicky with the result that they are unable to take care of themselves. If they know how to swim they can easily meet that emergency, quite the same as if they are suddenly and unexpectedly thrown into the water from a boat.

Being able to swim is a protection with which each and everyone who is in good physical condition should surround himself. Anyone who likes to go into the water should insist upon knowing how to swim. Swimming is a good exercise, but it also helps to remove the hazard involved in going into deep water.

Last year there were many persons drowned because they did not know how to swim. If such persons could have kept afloat many times for a short period they could have been rescued but they were unable to do that and they were obliged to succumb to the inevitable, which might have been prevented at that time through learning to swim. It is far better that persons should know how to swim and use that knowledge than to take chances and lose their lives.

WHERE BLAME RESTS.

In the city of Washington there is a number of bridges carrying all kinds of traffic. They are not all for the purpose of eliminating railroad crossings but they carry many motor vehicles and many electric cars and many busses.

In the erection of bridges to overcome railroad crossings attention is invariably called to the increased safety that will result. In Washington attention is being called to the dangerous manner in which the bridge users are crossing them. Accidents have happened where cars have crashed through the guards on the bridges, where large sections of them have been carried away. For protection there have been rates of speed fixed for the users of the bridges and yet it is disclosed that slight attention is paid to them. Automobiles and electric cars are violators regardless of rules and regardless of the fact that conditions are such that should accidents happen while speeding serious results could be expected.

It all gets back to the fact that whether it is crossing a railroad track or crossing a bridge, there is need of observing due care for personal protection. If users ignore their own protection they can expect the results that too frequently happen. They can, if they will, reach the conclusion that safety in either situation rests largely upon their own shoulders and the judgment they use. The penalty for disregarding it is severe but in too large a number of instances it is self imposed. It is not the bridge, not the crossing, but the individual that is to blame.

BEST INTENTIONS.

Getting down before the rest of the family to start breakfast preparations Jane Whitcomb sniffed the fresh, crisp air appreciatively as she opened the back door. Grass glittering in the morning sun with the heavy dew, late phlox was still in bloom and a few vagrant birds still sang.

For an instant she had a wild desire to run out and let the family breakfast as they might. A whole day to loaf in the sun would be heaven. However, the coffee was on the table at the usual time. George had a holiday and the toast was an inspiration.

"We'll go on a picnic," he announced. "It will do you good. You ought to have a change and let-up from work, Jane, and this will be a grand day for it. Nothing to do but lounge in the sunshine and read or sleep. And Grace and Jimmie will enjoy it, too. What say?"

"It sounds lovely," agreed his wife diplomatically. There was not the spontaneous enthusiasm in her tone he felt should be there. "I had a lot of things I really should do."

"That's the trouble," her husband informed her shaking his head. "You work too much and play too little. What you need is to let things go once in a while and invite your soul. I think it would be nice to take fried chicken and potato salad and——"

"I'll have to take the car and go after the stuff," she told him.

"Send Grace to the stores," he suggested brightly. "I want Jimmy to wash the car up before we start. You can get busy at it right away, Jimmy, as soon as you finish breakfast. And it's time Grace was learning to shop. We should start as soon as we can."

Jane Whitcomb opened her mouth and then shut it. George looked so beaming and satisfied that he was planning a restful day for them that she did not have the heart to let words emerge. While he read the paper she hurried through the dishes, peeled and boiled potatoes for the salad, spent twenty minutes beating mayonnaise dressing, hunted out the paper plates and napkins and picnic table cloth and baskets and by this time Grace had returned.

"Oh, have you made the cake?" Grace besought her. "Do please, mother, make chocolate cake!"

"Where's the chamois?" Jimmie demanded at this instant. "Gee, that car's big to wash!" I wanted to play ball over at Johnnie's"

"How much longer are you going to be?" George called cheerfully. "The earlier we start the farther we can go. By the way, were those buckles ever sewed on my knickers? I think I'll be more comfortable in those."

Hurrying, Jane Witcomb got the cake in the oven and made chocolate icing. She unwrapped the chicken and found it in its original form with the exception of feathers. She had forgotten to tell Grace to have the butcher cut it up. By the time it was cleaned and disjointed dipped in egg and crumbs and in the pan Jimmie had completed the car and had been sent for a wrench. Grace was sewing on buckles and she herself was hot and nervous.

"If you would just make things simpler," George mourned, watching them rush around, "it would be just as enjoyable and so much more sensible. Let's take the croquet set—don't you know where it is? A picnic should be sort of extemporaneous——"

"Pluck the food off the trees, h'm?" inquired his wife, looking into the oven as she spoke. "Sort of drift into nature, as it were?"

George regarded her half suspiciously. No, Jane never was sarcastic, though when she was tired she could be sharp. What the girl needed was more good times. This day would be fine for her.

"Say," he cried, pausing in his tramp back and forth. "What do you say to roasting apples over a fire? Somebody get down those sticks we peeled last year. And dig out the tarpaulins to sit on. Might as well be comfortable. Better take some magazines, too. Aren't we almost ready? Oh, don't forget the big coffee pot. Nothing like coffee made over an open fire. I don't see why it should take so long to get a few simple things together—it'll be noon before you know it. Why, Jane your face is actually flushed! I tell you, a day like this out in the open with not a thing to do will be just what you need!"

"Yes, dear," agreed Jane Whitcomb mechanically, climbing into the car and trying to remember what she had forgotten. "It would. But it won't!"

Sometimes, George Whitcomb thought, as he threw in the clutch, he was dashed if he could understand what Jane was talking about.—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

Need A Rest?

By J. M. Kutrow, D. D. S., Lakeland, Fla.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

During the spring and summer months people are very apt to give less attention to their personal well being, particularly is this true in the summer when a trip to a dentist or physician is a task. The natural result of this inertia, which is rather common to all of us, is the tired feeling and seeming need for a rest.

Many people complain of bleeding gums and the unwholesome feeling to the mouth which, however, can be traced to an improper diet and improper care of the teeth and gums.

Many of the so-called spring and summer disorders can be overcome by a properly balanced diet. Green vegetables, oranges when possible, wholesome milk and very little meat should be the basis for the summer diet.

This food combination can be rather pleasantly had in salads of all descriptions, cooked vegetables and iced fruit desserts.

It is a well known fact that the character of the teeth and gums can be changed by an unwholesome diet. Dr. Percy Howe of Boston has produced pyorrhea in monkeys by eliminating certain vitamins from their diet. He has also restored their mouths to normalcy by the addition of this vitamin.

It is well to have the teeth and gums thoroughly examined in the spring and again in the summer. Your dentist may advise you to use salt and water or pure baking soda as a dentrifice. Vigorous brushing according to proper instructions will keep the mouth in the best of condition. The mouth is the gateway for many forms of infections, therefore it would seem logical to keep this important part of our body in the best of condition.

A reasonable amount of exercise taken regularly can be followed by those who seem to find life rather monotonous during the summer months. The general stimulation that follows is well worth the effort.

So the cardinal principles of health during the rather long summer months should be: Diet, exercise and rest.

If all three are combined in a sensible way, we should not feel the need for generous amounts of laxatives and tonics which the manufacturers of these drugs recommend for "that tired feeling."

Burgess Bedtime Story

A Strange Fight

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Suspicion is a hateful thing
And naught but trouble will it bring.
—Mrs. Robin.

Welcome Robin finally left Mrs. Robin at the nest and flew over to the same perch from which he had started his attack on the stranger. His head still ached from the bump he had received when they met. Hardly had he alighted when there was the stranger again. Once more rage filled the heart of Welcome Robin. But this time he didn't fly so headlong. He really took note of things this time. And he discovered that the stranger was over on the window sill of one of the windows at Farmer Brown's house.

Welcome flew over there and the instant he alighted on that window sill he struck and struck hard at the stranger. The stranger was ready and waiting for him and struck hard at the same time. For a second or two Welcome wondered if he hadn't broken his bill. At the same time his neck felt as if it had been almost snapped. He was almost dazed. Then he forgot it, for there was the stranger! And again Welcome Robin struck, his wings half spread as he did so. Again he hit something hard.

Now he made a discovery—a real discovery. There was something between that strange robin and himself. He hadn't hit the stranger and the stranger hadn't hit him. There was glass between them! It was the window pane! But this discovery didn't lessen Welcome Robin's jealousy or anger. He pecked and pecked and pecked at the glass. Every time he pecked the stranger did the same thing. Welcome beat at it with his wings. So did the stranger. Welcome actually forgot that there was anything between them. They just fought and fought until they were so tired that they couldn't fight any longer. And all the time neither had touched the other.

At last Welcome Robin just had to stop. He was tired out. He was exhausted. He sat on the sill with his wings drooping and panted for breath. But when he glanced at the stranger he saw that the latter was quite as badly off as he was. He, too, was sitting with his wings drooping and panting. Somehow, this encouraged Welcome Robin. When he had rested somewhat, he once more resumed the attack. The stranger on the other side of the glass was all ready. He moved the instant that Welcome moved. Then they went at it again until they could keep it up no longer.

There was something between that strange Robin and himself

Welcome was beginning to get discouraged. After he had rested a bit he flew back to the tree where the nest was being built. He looked back at the window. The stranger had left it.

"Anyway," declared Welcome, "I know where that fellow is. He is inside Farmer Brown's house."

"Who is inside Farmer Brown's house?" asked Mrs. Robin, coming up just then.

"That stranger," replied Welcome. "That stranger that I've been telling you about. He's in that house and he's afraid to come out. He knows what I would do to him if he did." Welcome was boasting now.

Mrs. Robin gave Welcome a queer look, but said nothing and flew about her business of hunting for soft grass for that nest. That was the thing that interested her most. She meant to have the best nest she had ever had. If Welcome wanted to be queer, why, he could be queer, and that was all there was to it. Welcome decided that he needed something to eat, so he went to hunt for worms. But all the time he was hunting for worms he was thinking about that stranger. He just couldn't help it.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 5—Strolling through the old house chamber in the west wing of the original capitol—now known as Statuary hall—you are startled these days to come face to face with the late Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin in a most lifelike pose.

His is the most recent statue added to the jumbled collection already overcrowding the hall—and it is also the only one having about it that odd touch of reality.

Despite the gleaming white marble, it seems as though the man it represents is there in the flesh, poised on the edge of his chair, about to launch into a senate debate.

The hands grip the chair arms nervously as the senator leans forward, face raised, and with a half whimsical smile toward his antagonist just dawning in eyes that even the blank white of the marble cannot rob of the semblance of life.

Dismal Place

Probably the place of the statue, well out on the floor of the old chamber, has something to do with it.

Most of the other heroic figures in marble and bronze are ranked about the walls in a triple row. And nearly all of them are done in conventional poses.

Until the La Follette marble came to that gathering, it was a ghostly place in the shadows of a dark day or of night.

The average person would feel an impulse to hurry on to less chilling surroundings if he passed alone through the chamber under such conditions.

The La Follette statue is different. Any press gallery veteran must recall having seen him in just that pose in his place in the center aisle, front, in the senate chamber on hundreds of occasions. And it always meant that he was eager to join battle in debate. It is a very striking bit of work.

During the senate row over executive session secrecy Senator "Young Bob" La Follette, who has filled his father's seat since 1925, was the particular thorn in the path of ultra-conservatives who would retain that secrecy.

In the face of talk of discipline for senators who revealed executive session proceedings or even their own votes in ballots secretly taken, the son defiantly reiterated the father's challenge to that rule—and invited the senate to make the most of it.

Same Old Fire

"I have taken the position of my illustrious predecessor," he said. "It was he who was first to assert in recent times the right of a senator to tell how he voted upon any specific nomination, even though that vote was taken in executive session.

"I have followed that course. If this body should decide that is ground for expulsion, I welcome the submission of that issue to the electorate of the state of Wisconsin."

Why not? Since his father's death Young Bob has been twice elected. His present term runs to 1935.

And last year, with no democratic opponent, he was given a vote of some 635,000 as compared to a mere 81,000 cast for his "regular republican" rival.

Why should he worry about what Wisconsin would think of his flouting of a senate secrecy rule?

Stories That Recall Others

Bacon

While conducting a recitation in spelling in the fourth grade the teacher called for some one to use the word bacon in a sentence to show the meaning of the word.

Frank, a timid little fellow, arose and said: "Mother is 'bacon' a cake."

Exhibit A.

The flower show had been a great success and the next morning Alfd. Smith, who had performed the opening ceremony, was reading the newspaper and read:

"As Mr. Smith mounted the stage all eyes were fixed on the large red nose he displayed. Only years of patient cultivation could have produced an object of such brilliance."

Cuers, Where Graf Zeppelin Landed

Cuers, French village where the Graf Zeppelin sought refuge when several of its engines were crippled, possesses one of the principal aviation fields of France. It is the site of a French aviation school.

"Cuers was the last chance for a safe landing for such a large craft in many miles," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Just east of the town rises the Montes des Maures, the Mountains of the Moors, a wild granite jumble running up to 2,556 feet in height. There is little level land from Cuers east until the Ligurian sea has been crossed and Pisa reached. The Riviera is famous for its crags and headlands, but not for airplane landing fields.

"Situated eleven miles from the great French naval base, Toulon, Cuers could readily draw on that port's sailors for sufficient trained men to pull the airship down to earth. There is also at Cuers a mast once used to anchor the ill-fated French dirigible, Dixmude, and the hangar which housed that great airship.

"In passing down the Rhone valley from Valence, the Zeppelin traversed a narrow path fraught with perils. The Rhone cuts through hills to reach the Mediterranean. Peaks from 1,500 to 1,800 feet in the foothills of the Alps rise only forty miles east of the river.

"The population of Cuers is approximately 3,000.

"In the vicinity palm trees flourish and the fields abound in peach and almond trees. Collobrieres, twelve miles east in the mountains is an important center of the cork industry.

"Toulon, of which Cuers is practically a suburb, is a large city with a population of more than 100,000. It is the gateway to the French Riviera. Cannes, St. Raphael, Grasse and Nice, capitals of pleasure and winter vacations, lie near by and to the east."

Arm Chair Journeys To Other Lands

Folk Lore Surrounds Turkish Children to Other Lands

GAZI-AINTAB, Turkey (AP)—Anatolian Turks still swaddle their children with ancient superstitions and ceremonies as tightly as they bind their babies' legs with linen bands or casts of baked mud.

Babies come from Grandfather Moon, in the tale told all Anatolian children, and are dropped on a basket swung on a moonbeam to the mother who get her "ring wish." On the night of Hidrilliz, the festival of spring, families and neighbors bury their rings beneath a rose bush in some garden.

Traditional verses are chanted while the rings are dug up, one by one, and the person whose ring appears with the chanting of a certain verse will get the wish expressed in that verse.

Childless women wait breathlessly for the lines, "Grandfather Moon, you have so many babies grazing grass in paradise—send me one!" while lovelorn maidens pray for their rings to appear when the chant is "Blue waistcoat and purblue beads are tied on the mother's pie buttons, come to my heart!"

When a child is born, garlic and bed to ward off the evil eye, and red ribbons to banish malevolent Peris, who are frightened also by the red sherbet always served the neighbors who crowd in.

Magic rites combat a baby's ailments. One method is to lay a sick child naked in the exact center of the central room of the house and to pour over it water gathered from nine waves of the ocean and nine fountains.

But the surest cure is to exercise the evil eye. When a mother suspects someone of casting the evil eye on a baby fallen sick, she puts a clove on a pin and burns it in a candle's flame.

If the clove burns with a spurt, her suspicions are confirmed and she steals a hair from the head of the culprit, burns it over a charcoal brazier, and waves it, still smoking, before her baby's nose. This charms away the evil eye.

The person who discovers a baby's first tooth must make a gift of a fine silk shirt. The mother boils wheat with sugar and water and sprinkles some of it over the child with the incantation, "May thy teeth grow sweet and plentiful as Allah's grains of wheat." The rest of the "tooth wheat" is sent to the neighbors as a dessert.

To ensure table etiquet, Turkish children are taught that bread is the gift of Allah, and that if one morsel drops to the floor it must be kissed and pressed to the forehead. On every grain of rice is the name of Allah, so the traditional meal of pilaff must be eaten meticulously.

Great ceremonies attend a child's first day at school with processions, music and the distribution of gifts to the other pupils. When a child completes his first reading of the Koran, the family holds a miniature wedding feast with the child dressed like a regular bride or groom.

Catarrh Breathed Away

Eucalyptus Vapors Reach Hidden Sores—Positively Ends Trouble.

At last stubborn catarrh yields to modern science. Now, by simply breathing the vapor of heated eucalyptus and other marvelous antiseptic and healing oils, the deep seated, raw, tender infected spots hidden away in the innermost recesses of nose, throat, and lungs are reached, the germs killed, and inflamed membranes restored to health.

For a generation past, Dennis' Eucalyptus Ointment (known as "DEO" among the trade) has been performing seeming miracles in overcoming malignant catarrhal troubles in the West. Not a single case is on record where "DEO" failed to give instant relief—and permanent relief whenever the treatment was continued over the proper period.

Now, "DEO" is here to end your catarrh. Try it. Sold on money-back basis—30c—at all good dealers.

FERACOS CLAIM LIQUOR WAS LEFT-OVER LOT

Pleas of not guilty to violation of the liquor laws were entered by Frank and Mary Feraco, husband and wife, when they were presented in the city court Wednesday morning. The Feracos who live at No. 120 Talman street, claimed that the liquor found in their house May 31st was some that had been overlooked in a previous raid. Deputy Judge H. H. Pettis, found both accused guilty. Mrs. Feraco was fined $200 and costs and sent to jail for 30 days, as a second offender, and her husband was fined $200 and costs and sent up for 10 days. He appealed and was released on bonds of $1,000. Mrs. Feraco may have to serve an additional 30 day sentence, imposed in the court of common pleas and suspended at that time.

Mrs. Feraco claimed that neither she nor her husband had sold any liquor since the previous raid on their speakeasy, May 1st. She stated that the hard liquor found in the place was some that had been overlooked in the May 1st raid and stated that the beer was some she had made to serve to company expected for the Fourth of July.

Police testified that they found 18 empty beer bottles on a table in the house and 36 full bottles on ice. The woman explained this by stating that a neighbor drank the 18 bottles found on the table and that the 36 bottles on ice were for his consumption in the morning.

ROTARY SECRETARY MADE REPORT ON CONVENTION

GOODWILL TOUR REVEALS MAGNITUDE OF SUMMER CAMPS AROUND NORWICH

The good-will tour of the members of the Norwich chamber of commerce to the principal summer hotels and camps adjacent to Norwich, was made on Wednesday afternoon and proved a tremendous success. The tour, besides offering an afternoon of outdoor recreation, was of material educational value and the members who attended the party were greatly impressed with the natural beauty of the surrounding country and the great possibility of recreational developments in the immediate vicinity of Norwich. The outing was arranged by John P. Lyston and the members gathered at Union square from which they left for camp in a body. The first camp visited was Camp Massapeag, owned by Brooklyn, N. Y., Y. M. C. A. on Gardner lake. The camp is situated in a beautiful location on high ground with about 25 spacious and sanitary open camp lodges arranged in a circle upon a high elevation, sloping down into a basin, affording very fine drainage. The administration building, which was not as yet opened for the season, is an imposing stone building which would dignify any wealthy estate. The mess hall is also a large and pretentious building. The camp also has bathing, boating and athletic facilities on a large scale.

The second camp to be visited was a camp which provides training in nature study camp organization and management to young men and women who take up this study as a profession. This camp is one of four of a similar nature that have recently been established in the United States and which are the pioneers of a movement which has great possibility of developing camp recreation in the United States. The camp is composed of four separate unites, for both men and women and is supervised by a large and competent staff of teachers connected with the foremost colleges and universities in the United States. The four camps are under the directorship of Milo Light, M. A. of University of Pennsylvania and are named: Tahoica, Cadano, Juanita and Adajuan. The course is a very comprehensive one and consists of astronomy, nature study, dramatics, athletics, swimming, camp, nursing, basketry, music, study of flora and fauna, geology, weaving, horse back riding, life guard and a number of other courses which are provided during the entire month of June, so that by the opening of the summer season, on July 1, the graduates are able to take up their duties as camp director and teachers. The visitors were escorted through the various buildings by Director Light who gave a very lucid description of the nature and art object which are used for educational purposes. An exhibition of live snakes and a talk on their habits and habitation was given by one of the women teachers of the camp and the gathering listened to it with great interest.

The next place to be visited was Dembor hotel, Colchester, which takes care of about 250 guests during the summer season and part of which is open all year.

George Schiller's place on the road to Colchester was the next place visited by the party. This summer resort consists of a main building and 12 small buildings. It is provided with a dining room which accommodates 250 guests. The main building has running water in the rooms also other modern sanitary conveniences. A large hall for athletic and other recreation purposes is located in the center of the grounds; but the outstanding feature of this resort is a very fine nine hole golf course which occupies an area of 97 acres of land. The place also has a fine ball field, several tennis courts, hand ball courts, and swimming lake.

Adjoining the Schiller property is Camp Moween, where the visitors were greatly surprised by its magnitude. The camp is situated in a most beautiful high spot on Red Cedar lake near Deep River reservoir. It is spread over an area of over 1,000 acres of land. Cedar Lake is over 1 1-2 miles long and one mile wide. The camp has a very large administration building on the lake front, several other large buildings used for various athletic and housing purposes and 30 open sleeping lodges built of most modern construction. The main buildings have running water provided by a 10,000 gallon tank, which is automatically filled by an electric pump drawing the water from Red Cedar lake which is of the finest quality obtainable. There is also a well on the premises, the water of which is ice cold in the hottest days. An outstanding feature of Camp Moween is that none of the sleeping quarters or other buildings are screened, as they are all situated among tall cedars and there is not a fly or mosquito to be found in the camp at any time of the year. The mess hall of the camp can easily accommodate 350 people. The athletic facilities consist of a large boat house, with diving rafts and 3 boats of various construction, a large ball field, a number of tennis courts and hand ball courts. The camp is served by 60 employes, including directors, supervisors, athletic instructors who take care of the boys attending camp and the discipline is of military precision—the entire daily routine is carried out in answer to the camp bugler whose call is law in Camp Moween.

The Prospect House, facing the highway, on the way between Colchester and Norwich was the next place visited by the party. This country hotel is situated on a high spot in a most beautiful country. It is solidly built, the main building containing 26 modernly built rooms provided with hot and cold water, steam heat, and shower baths. Its main hall can easily accommodate 250 people and is adorned with an artistic tile ceiling studded with elaborate electric lighting display. The premises are provided with cement walks and driveway, a large dance hall, a roaming house containing 18 rooms and varied athletic facilities.

The culmination of the trip was at Nadelson's Spruce Lodge at Fitchville, which is known as the show place, among the summer hotels in the vicinity of Norwich.

This consists of a series of seven buildings having a total of 102 large rooms, constructed on the most modern hotel style. The rooms are provided with hot and cold water and bath room accommodations, and are very neatly and sanitarily furnished. There are also 18 hot and cold showers on the premises. The buildings are fronted by a lake about one mile long and half a mile wide, surrounded by beautiful scenery. The lake has a boat house and numerous sporting and recreation facilities. There is a large dance hall on the premises and spacious office building, a large ball field, several tennis courts and hand ball courts. Among the outstanding features of the place is a dining hall of artistic construction, tastefully furnished accommodating over 450 people.

Kim Nadelson, the owner of Spruce lodge, received the chamber of commerce delegation as his guest and provided a fine luncheon. The visitors on entering the hall were agreeably surprised to see a large cake on which was the inscription in confection, "Welcome Members of Norwich Chamber of Commerce." It was the work of the Spruce lodge baker Hans Veithaus, who took great pride in his accomplishment—which was indeed a work of art. The luncheon took place at 6 p. m. and consisted of the following menu:

Fruit Cocktail la Meine
Salorama Olives
Mountain Pickles
Egg Salad Sandwich de Russo
Cheese Sandwich American
Salmon Sandwich Irl
Lettuce Sandwich Hogie Style
Chopped Egg Sandwich Ala Bitt-Nad
Special Chamber of Commerce Cake served by the Pastry Chef
Coffee Haak Tea China

The view from the dining room windows elicited the greatest admiration of the guests for its natural beauty and the general comment was that Norwich and its surroundings possess a beautiful country which is hard to surpass in any part of the United States.

The luncheon was under supervision of Henry Rithmeyer, the lodge steward, who was very diligent in his attention to the visitors. The chamber of commerce summer camp quartet, consisting of Joe Worth, Abner Schwartz, Frank Murdy and Russell Smith led in song and the lodge social director, Lou Nadel, entertained the guests with humorous songs and impersonations, which were received with applause.

Kim Nadelson extended greetings to the Norwich chamber of commerce and offered thanks in the name of all the camps and recreation establishments in the vicinity for the interest manifested by the members of the chamber. Mr. Nadelson invited the guests to visit the camps during July and August when the summer hotels and camp are in working order and he emphasized that only then will they form a conception of the recreational wealth and possibilities of this beautiful section of the country. President Worth in appropriate words responded in the name of the gathering and offered a vote of thanks and to George Schiller for acting as guide to the party and he expressed the appreciation of the party for the courtesies extended to them by Mr. Nadelson and his staff.

Secretary Walter H. Plicher made the announcement that the next tour will be a visit to the farms in the vicinity of Norwich. It will take place some time in August with Abner Schwartz in charge. Another tour in charge of Francis T. Diggins, consisting of a tour to the towns adjacent to Norwich will be arranged in the near future. The party left Spruce lodge at 7 p. m. having enjoyed a memorable afternoon.

Automobiles for the trip were provided by Abner Schwartz Francis T. Diggins, L. M. Crandall, Walter H. Plicher, Joseph C. Worth, Rudolph Henschel, and J. B. Caron, with the following making the tour with them: C. Edward Smith, Max Hanover, Alex Pasnik, J. A. Crawford, C. A. Rathbone, John P. Lyston, A. P. Hardy, Charles Jacobson, James Nadelson, George Schiller, John H. Bell, Frank Leonard, P. J. Morley, Frank R. Murdy, F. Russell Smith, Charles J. Twist, E. B. Taylor, Marcus Leith, Carl Kellner, Herbert W. Gallup, George R. Fellows.

GIRLS WIN PRIZES FOR MAKING DRESSES

Twenty-four girls who represented Norwich, Taftville, Pomfret Center and Montville had dresses entered in the dressmaking contest Wednesday afternoon in the kindergarten room at Broadway school, which was under the auspices of Connecticut Junior Achievement. This was one of eight contests held around the state from which the winners will go to New Haven, June 15, for the finals. The state entry list has numbered about 500 girls.

The contest here Wednesday was conducted by Frank W. Barber of Middletown, state director, with Miss Laura H. Sprague, clothing specialist with Junior Achievement, as judge of the dresses.

The following were the prize winners: Division B, girls 11 to 12 years—class 1—Anna Mulcahey, 15 Cedar street, first; Lillian Kyle, 57 Summit street, second; Lucile Seddon, 6 Norwich avenue, Taftville, third.

Division C, girls 13 to 15—Class 1, school dress—Muriel Johnson, Pomfret Center, first; Helen Lichwell, 77 Fountain street, second. Class 2—Afternoon dress—No first; Marion Krohn, 267 Boswell avenue, second; Anna Shillo, 212 Boswell avenue, third; Helen Wolinsky, 174 Hickory street, fourth.

All these dresses on which prizes were awarded are to be taken to New Haven to be entered in the final competition and the promoters of the enterprise are anxious that the girls themselves shall go as they are to be entertained there. So many prizes have been donated by business concerns in the state that it is believed that about 50 per cent of the girls in the contest will receive a prize of some kind for their work.

WOMAN FINED $600 ON THREE LIQUOR COUNTS

Pleas of guilty to three violations of the liquor law were entered in city court Wednesday morning by Antonia Tramontozzi, 40, of No. 26 Baltic street, and a fine of $600 and costs was imposed by Deputy Judge H. H. Pettis. Accused was also given a 30 day jail sentence, suspended for a year.

The woman was arrested in a midnight raid Saturday by state and local police who unearthed 540 bottles of beer, a quantity of cider and hooch and a 50 gallon barrel of wine. Three actual sales were secured by the state police as evidence that the woman was violating the liquor law.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Walter Trumbull Camp gave a largely attended and very beautiful reception Tuesday at her home, 420 Washington street for her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frederick Sewell Camp, a bride of the past month. The house was a bower of June blossoms. Receiving with Mrs. Camp were Mrs. Frederick S. Camp and Mrs. Elliot Brown Grover. The hostess wore orchid chiffon, Mrs. Camp, junior, was in blue and silver brocade, while Mrs. Grover's frock was chiffon in a beige tint. They carried quaint Colonial nosegays. In the dining room, pouring coffee and tea and serving ices were: Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins, Mrs. Philip T. Welles, Mrs. Flint Brayton, Mrs. Elita Davenport Wallace, Mrs. Joseph C. Worth and Mrs. F. Russell Smith. From the house the guests went to the garden, now at the height of its beauty.

Mrs. Donald H. Hemingway has returned to New Haven following a brief visit with Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Chase.

The meeting of the Monday Sewing club was held with Mrs. William W. Leonard, of Julian street.

Gilbert Dimock Lamb, who passed the week end at his summer estate, Beech Spring farm, Franklin, was the dinner guest, Monday evening of his sister,

ACADEMY BEATS STONINGTON TO END LEAGUE SEASON WITHOUT A DEFEAT

Timely hitting behind some good pitching by Louie Green gave the Academy a 9 to 3 victory over Stonington high Wednesday afternoon at the campus. It enabled the Wildcats to finish their league season undefeated, the first time this has ever been accomplished and this victory was also their seventeenth in nineteen starts.

Twelve Hits For Academy

Godomsky, Stonington hurler, was found for 12 safeties by the locals and they made most of them count for tallies. They scored one each in the second, fourth and sixth and three apiece in the seventh and eighth. Stonington scored twice in the fifth and once in the eighth.

The Academy gave Green almost flawless support with Buck LaCroix and Chubby Gibbs featuring. Jackson and Bryer around the keystone sack, played well afield for Stonington.

Buck LaCroix led the hitters with a triple and two singles in four trips to the plate while Hal Cummings, Bud Fontaine and Jack Marks had two hits apiece on the Wildcat side. Jackson was the leading Stonington sticker with a double and a single in four attempts.

The Academy scored in the second on a pass to Fagan, his stolen base and Fontaine' double to left. They got another in the fourth on LaCroix's triple to the fire escapes and an infield out.

Stonington Knots Count

Stonington tied it up in the fifth on Bryer's single, passes to Foote and Jackson and Cummings' error on Goyette's roller, letting in two runs.

The Academy took the lead in the sixth on Cummings' hit, his stolen base and LaCroix's single. They added three more in the seventh on Tombari's double, singles by Fontaine, Marks, a stolen base and two errors by Goyette. In the eighth the Academy scored three more times on singles by Cummings, LaCroix and Fagan, a pass to Tombari, two stolen bases and a squeeze bunt by Marks.

WILDCAT SCRATCHES

Runs were scored by: N. F. A.—Cummings, 2, LaCroix, 1, Fagan, 2, Tombari, 2, Fontaine, 1, Flather, 1 (running for Fagan). Stonington—Goyette, 1, Bryer, 1, Foote, 1.

Only a small crowd attended, probably around 400.

This was probably Green's finale as an Academy player for he graduates this month.

The Academy had but three men left on bases while seven Stonington runners were stranded.

Buck LaCroix has hit safely in every game this year and has but the Naugatuck game to hit in to establish some kind of a record.

A big crowd is looked for Saturday, Butsy Weisgraber is all primed for Pete Foley's team from the other end of the state. Finley will probably pitch for Naugy.

BEAUREGARD LOSES VERDICT TO VACCA IN FAST ROUND

HARTFORD, June 5—(AP)—Bat Battalino, of Hartford, won a ten round decision over Eddie Lord, of Waterbury, in the feature bout held at Bulkeley stadium tonight. Battalino floored Lord in the sixth round for a nine count with a right to the jaw this being the only knockdown of the bout, and the only time Lord has been sent to the canvas in all his ring career. Lord won only one round and two were even. Lord weighed 125 3-4, while Battalino weighed 125.

In the eight round semi-final, which turned out to be the best bout of the evening, Johnny Vacca, Boston boxing cleverly and punching cleaner finished strong to gain the decision over Al Beauregard, of Taftville. Vacca weighed 120, Beauregard 119.

Al Delmont, Boston, 131 3-4, knocked out Lester Oberheim, Springfield, 131, in the fourth and last round of the bout. In the fourth round Delmont caught Oberheim with a hard right to the jaw against the ropes and spilled him for a nine count and when he arose he was caught with a left hook to the jaw and was down for another count then he got up and Al repeated with the left to the jaw and the bout was over.

Joe Marto, Boston, 128 3-4, knocked out Al Rickard, Middletown, 135, in the first round of the opening four rounder.

Mickey Fiahive, Hartford, 134, knocked out Whitey Dawson, Brooklyn, 131 3-4, in the second round of a scheduled six round bout.

NUTMEGS TAKE LOOSE GAME FROM STEAMROLLERS

Tuesday afternoon at the Hollyhock diamond the Nutmegs defeated the Rollers 9-3. Phillip Russillo allowed four well scattered hits, while Englehart of the losers was nicked for 9. "Pierrass" Lyons doubled with the bases loaded in the third inning scoring three men ahead of him, thus retiring Englehart and Zigimire pitched the last four innings. Well, anyhow, the Nutmegs proved too hard a nut for the Steamrollers to crack. The score:

									R	H	E
Nutmegs	1	0	6	0	1	1	x	—9	9	3

TRIGO, 33 TO 1 SHOT, CAPTURES ENGLISH DERBY

By P. H. LIPSEY

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

EPSOM DOWNS, Eng., June 5—(AP)—Fortune turned her back on the experts today and sent Trigo, an unacclaimed Irish colt, out to win the derby, the world's greatest horse race, before vast multitudes on Epsom Downs.

Scantily backed at 33 to 1, this courageous colt, owned by an Irish merchant from Ulster, William Barnett, triumphed over a field of 26 of Britains' choicest three-year-olds. The three joint favorites — Cragadour, Hunter's Moon and Mr. Jinks—and many other more fancied horses failed in the exhausting test for premier turf honors over the famous mile and a half irregular course.

A length and a half behind Trigo came Walter Gay, Lord Woolavington's colt, which almost until the hour of the race was counted a doubtful starter and was quoted at odds of 100 to 8. Two more lengths behind came Brienz, another comparative unknown, which dashed home to take down third money. Brienz, Somerville Tettersalls' candidate went to the post at long odds of 50 to 1.

The Prince of Wales with his sister and brother-in-law was among the host of spectators who saw the favorites finish behind Trigo's flying feet. Hunter's Moon, Lord Derby's colt, made the best showing of the highly touted candidates but after leading the field past the six-furlong pole, he fell back as the downhill drive began and finished fourth.

Other great disapointments to the spectators were Gay Day, the clever speedster ridden by Steven Donohue and Kopi, which wore the colors of Sol Joel. Donoghue, still hailed and backed by Cockney race lovers for his former derby glories, could not get his temperamental mount out of the mass.

Kopi, which rated perhaps the finest stamina of the field, got away badly at the rise of the barrier and then fell just before taking "Tattenham's Corner." Jockey F. Winter was unhurt and Kopi finished the race alone.

Americans at the celebrated Brit sh event were hoping that Posterity, beautiful colt owned by Mrs. Corlette Glorney of the United States, would realize on his excellent breeding. But Posterity could do no better than sixth in the race, which was won in the non-record time of 2:36 2-5.

YANKS NOSE OUT INDIANS IN 12-INNING TUSSLE

NEW YORK, June 5—(AP)— The Yankees opened their series against Cleveland by pulling out a 6 to 5 victory in the twelfth. It was the first New York victory over the Indians this year, and gave the champions a record of five straight against the west in the current stand at the stadium.

Waite Hoyt opposed Joe Shaute at the start, but both of these luminaries gave way to less prominent boxmen, Fred Heimach for New York and John Miljus for Cleveland, who fought the game out to its finish.

Miljus relieved Shaute with nobody out, two on base and the score tied in the seventh, and after walking Robertson to make a play at every base, retired the side without further scoring. He got into trouble in the twelfth, however, when the bases were filled with none out on scratch singles by Robertson and Durst and a pass to Gehrig. Lazzari who had made three hits, then won the game with a sacrifice fly to Morgan.

The score.

GIANTS PULL CARDINALS OUT OF FIRST PLACE

ST. LOUIS, June 5—(AP)—The Giants dropped the Cardinals from first place today by defeating the National league champions, 6 to 4, while the Pirates were idle in the rain. Carl Mays and Bill Walker divided the Giant pitching, credit for the victory going to Walker, while the veteran Clarence Mitchell went the route for the home team.

Chick Hafey's thirteenth home run with one on base helped the champions to score three runs in the second, but Melvin Ott's twelfth circuit blow, with two on in the fifth gave the Giants a lead which they never relinquished. Walker went to the mound in the fourth and held the home team scoreless except in the seventh when two hits and two sacrifices pushed one run home.

SOME POSITIONS STILL UNDECIDED IN LEAGUE

The Academy has finished its league season as unbeaten champions but the battle for other positions still goes on. The Wildcats won their ten games, completing that stunt by disposing of Stonington, the second-placers, Wednesday.

Stonington still may be tied by Chapman Tech for second place for Tech has another game to play, with Windham at New London Saturday. Stonington now has a half game lead over the New London club, which will be favorites to beat Windham, present cellar champs.

Bulkeley, by winning from Westerly Wednesday practically assured itself of the leadership of the second division or third place, while Westerly still may be tied or passed at Windham.

The present standing:

What is so irritating as a pessimist?

The only answer to that is two pessimists. And the Lord forbid that I meet two at the same time.

I met one of these pessimistic guys the other afternoon and believe me he had my coat in about two seconds with his grumbling and criticism of all and sundry.

I'm not going to call any names or even intimate what his business is, so don't try to figure out who he is. You have probably met just as pessimistic people as this bird so you know how I felt.

Why, that old grouch was so soured in his mind on everything that I believe he'd bite himself if he stubbed his toe. I believe that an X-ray of his head would reveal that his brain had curdled.

He was so pessimistic that he complained about the sunshine and thought that it might rain before night. There was nothing that was good and everything was going to the dogs.

If it rained it was too wet and if the sun shone it was too hot; if taxes were reduced the city would go bankrupt and if they raised them the people would go bankrupt; if the democrats were elected it meant hard times and if the republicans won out there'd be hard times just the same. Those were his sentiments.

But did he have a word of constructive criticism? He did not. He could tell you what was wrong with everything, but I'll be darned if he could tell you what to do to make things better.

It's those kind of guys that act like an anchor on any progressive movement. And believe me they do resemble an anchor in that they are always grabbing for the mud.

I suppose we've got to have them if for nothing more than to show the rest of us what a really good time we're having. Why this guy would drink vinegar and complain because it was too sweet.

And does it leave a mark on their faces? I'll say it does. Just look at one of your really pessimistic friends and note the drawn-down mouth and the sour expression that is ever present on his map.

This old life of ours is not so joyous that we can afford to go looking for the mean and sordid things. We'd much better spend our time looking for the beautiful and pleasant, for the others will come regardless.

The philosophers will tell you that the pessimist has his place in the world but I wish he would keep in his place and not try to convert me to his way of thinking.

If I don't get a laugh out of something every day I feel like my liver was out of order. Why I even got a laugh out of that old pessimist, he was so sour he was really funny.

The pessimist's a really funny guy,
Although there's not a twinkle in his eye.
He hems and haws about the cause,
And tells what's wrong with all the laws;
He never sees a thing that's right,
He looks at it in a gloomy light
And always asks the reason why.
Gosh, the pessimist's a funny guy.

Harding Wins Fifteenth Straight

The Warren Harding high school of Bridgeport, conquerors of the Academy, won its fifteenth straight victory yesterday afternoon when Greenwich high was beaten 10 to 5. Harding seems well on the road to a state championship this year, not having been beaten by a Connecticut team so far.

VICTORY OF TRIGO IN ENGLISH DERBY POURS WEALTH INTO MANY POCKETS

LONDON, Eng., June 5.—(AP)—The result of two minutes of wild dashing on Epsom Downs for the Derby Stakes today marked the turning point in the lives of scores of persons, who never saw a horse race.

Victory of Trigo, the placing of Walter Gay and the showing of Brienz suddenly dropped Golden Fortune into many pockets, while failure of the favorites dashed high hopes of many others, who seemed to be nominated for great wealth.

The Calcutta sweepstake with three first prizes totaling 135,000 pounds or about $675,000 each, the London Stock Exchange with two first prizes of 125,000 pounds or about $625,000 each and the Baltic sweep wherein first money totaled nearly 100,000 pounds or $500,000 were the pools into which millions tossed their spare change and from which scores will draw out riches.

So little was thought of Trigo that holders of his tickets were not heard of before the race and are slow in being discovered now that wealth has descended unexpectedly upon them.

Julian Cahn, Nottingham sportsman, who took the Allengland cricket team to the West Indies last winter, will cash in on his faith in the Irish colt. He paid his aunt 500 pounds ($2,500) for a half-share in a stock exchange ticket and will profit more than 62,000 sterling or in excess of $300,000.

Two widows are happy beneficiaries of Trigo's speed and power. Mrs. Chapman of Bournemouth—aunt of Cahn—drew Trigo in the stock exchange sweep but sold half-interest to her nephew. Mrs. Kathleen McGraw of Dublin, mother of four fatherless children, holds a Trigo ticket in the Baltic sweep worth 25,000 pounds or about $125,000. She was listening over the radio today when the good news smote her ears.

A clerk in Oudtshoorn, South Africa, is believed to have drawn Trigo's Caucutta ticket but what he did with it nobody knows. Another South African, Sam Weil, of Johannesburg, drew Brienz in the Calcutta sweep.

But the other side of the story must not be neglected. James Sutters of London formed a pool, which spent 50,000 pounds buying promising tickets from holders. His syndicate did not realize a penny from its investment. Only this morning Sutters purchased a ticket, which drew Le Voleur, Trigo's stable companion, in the Calcutta. Sutters' group also had interest in Hunter's Moon in the Calcutta pool but this sweepstake does not pay fourth prize.

Little Jimmie Greb, seven years old, however, is sitting pretty despite the fact that his horse, Cragadour, was a derby fizz. Jimmy held Cragadour in the stock exchange sweep but his sagacious father sold three-fourths interest for 12,000 pounds or $60,000.

Jimmie went to school as usual this afternoon while Cragadour was running on downs. He wrote with his usual neatness and his replies in geography and sums in arithmetic were prompt and accurate as usual. If his mind strayed to the pounding of hoofs on the green turf, he did not betray his thoughts to his master or fellow pupils.

J. Munsi, chief health inspector of Krugersdorp and M. H. Arniel, governor of the same South African municipality, who jointly drew Hunter's Moon in the Calcutta sweepstakes, half-share for 3,000 pounds ($15,000) to a syndicate with the stipulation that is the horse was unplaced they would still get their prize.

BULKELEY GIVES WESTERLY BAD BEATING BY 12 TO 1

NEW LONDON, June 5— Bulkeley high trounced Westerly in an Eastern Conn.-Western Rhode Island conference game here today, 12 to 1.

MARBERRY BEATS THE CLAN OF BUCKY HARRIS

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—Big Fred Marberry, who was only a relief pitcher when Bucky Harris was manager of the Senators, got his chance as a starting pitcher against his old boss today and Washington beat Detroit 8 to 2.

Marberry held the Tigers to five hits and Cronin's error and a passed ball paved the way for their only two runs. The Senators pounded Carroll from the mound in the fourth inning.

REDS GO ON SPREE AND SCORE 21 RUNS

CINCINNATI, June 5—(AP)— The Reds enjoyed their greatest run making spree of the season at the expense of the Phillies here today and assaulted four Philadelphia hurlers for a 21 to 4 score. Cincinnati failed to score in only one inning and more than batted around in the sixth when nine runs were hammered over the plate. Kelly and Walker, first two up in this inning, each singled and on their second appearance at bat in that inning smashed out consecutive triples. Score:

ASHLAND A. A. TO PLAY COAST GUARDS ON SUNDAY

At Ashland park this Sunday the Ashland A. A. will clash with the fast U. S. Coast Guards of Newport, R. I. This club has a good record and have defeated some of the best semi-pro teams in New England. They have played such teams as the Wolverines of New Bedford, Taunton town team of Taunton, Mass., and the K. of C's of Webster, Mass. Both lineups will be in Saturday's Bulletin.

RED SOX BOMBARD WHITE SOX WITH HITS

BOSTON, June 5—(AP)—Even Manager Lena Blackburne took the rubber today as the Red Sox hammered the White Sox pitchers for a 17 to 2 victory.

Each of the Red Sox hit safely and drove in at least one run. They made 23 hits for a total of 39 bases. The leaders in the onslaught were Berry with a homer a double and two singles; Todt with two singles, a double and a triple and Bill Barrett, formerly of the White Sox, with a homer and two doubles.

With two out in the eighth the Bostonians made nine consecutive safe hits and scored eight runs. Eight of the hits were off Dugan. Blackburne entered the box and was greeted by Rothrock with a single which scored two runs. Rothrock was thrown out trying to stretch the hit to a double.

HARTNETT'S HIT WINS GAME FOR CUBS

CHICAGO, June 5—(AP)— Gabby Hartnett's pinch single with the bases filled in the ninth drove in two runs, giving the Cubs a 4 to 3 decision in the first game of the Brooklyn series. Hartnett's blow capped a rally which saw the Bruins tag Doug McWeeny for four runs after being held scoreless for eight rounds. Three singles, a base on balls and Bancroft's error set the stage for Hartnett.

Berlyn Horne, recruit from the farm at Reading, started the game, but departed in the sixth in favor of Mike Cvengros after a spell of wildness Cvengros in turn stepped aside for a pinch batsman, and Hal Carlson entered the game in time to get credit for winning it.

Bancroft led the Brooklyn attack with three hits. He drove in two of the Robins' three runs. Johnny Frederick failed to hit after driving out safe hits in 17 successive games.

WESTERLY

STATE LIBRARY ASS'N. TO MEET IN TOWN TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 5.— The Rhode Island library association is to meet Thursday at Westerly Memorial and Public library. Miss Adele C. Martin, librarian of the Westerly library, is president of the association. The last number on the program is to be an address by Prof. Edward H. Dewey of the department of English at Harvard university. His subject will be "The Development and Influence of the Psychological Novel." The public will also be interested in the Bookmobile, which will be exhibited throughout the day on Broad street in front of Christ church. The machine, which is a cooperative book truck enterprise conducted by several library associations, is touring the east to present and demonstrate to the public things that are essential to the inner working of libraries and bookstores.

Mrs. Mary S. Peuch, librarian of the Rhode Island school of design, who was to give an address on "A Picture File for the Use of Art Students," will be unable to be present owing to illness and her place on the program will be filled by Miss Ruth Coombs of Providence Public library, who will give a report on the meeting in Washington of the American Library association. Owing to the inability of Miss Mary Newton of the Newark Museum association to be present as she was to have given an address on "Supplementing Books with Museum Objects and Pictures," this subject will be discussed by Miss Alice Haynes, branch librarian of Newark, N. J., Public library. The delegates representing practically all the public libraries of the state, will be welcomed to Westerly by James M. Pendleton, treasurer of Westerly Public library trustees who will open the program in the Library building at 10:30 a. m. At 11 o'clock John Chancellor, readers' advisor of the Free Public library of New Haven, will give an address on "Helping Readers With a Purpose." Luncheon will be served in the parlors of Christ church by the women members of the church and during the luncheon hour members of the association will be given an opportunity to view the Bookmobile. At the conclusion of the afternoon program the delegates will be entertained by the Westerly Memorial library association and transportation to the neighboring shore resorts has been arranged.

Washington County Superior court will resume sessions this (Thursday) morning at Kingston courthouse with Associate Justice Antonio A. Capotosto of Providence on the bench.

There are several divorce cases to be heard and then court will reconvene at Westerly to clear up the docket which was not completed when the last adjournment was taken.

During the first week in July President Horace E. Burdick of Westerly town council is under summons to appear at Kingston to represent the town of Westerly in the appeal by Broad and High street property owners on the new building lines ordered by Westerly town council.

Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T., of Westerly, David A. Lowry, commander, held a stated conclave in its asylum Wednesday night. A report was heard on the Narragansett Sir Knights' pilgrimage to Wakefield May 15. Adjournment was taken for the summer months.

Howard C. Davis, former Westerly boy and well known Dartmouth college man who annually takes the football team at his expense to New Haven to witness the Yale-Dartmouth game was a Westerly visitor Wednesday. He came to consult his attorney and Westerly representative John Ferguson, who has represented him in Westerly and Stonington land deals, the purchase of the Red Stone quarry property here and the Stoneridge Manor inn property, Stonington.

Harold C. Burdick of Newport, when a Westerly motor visitor Tuesday, stated that the dirigible Los Angeles progressed so slowly with motors throttled that he was able to keep the airship in close view all the way to Westerly.

Mrs. Julia G. Davis of Brookline, Mass., is visiting for several days with relatives and friends in Pawcatuck and Westerly.

Mrs. Adelaide Moll has returned from a visit in Hartford.

Judge Calvin A. Snyder of Pawcatuck is in a critical condition at a New London hospital following a major operation performed here.

SALE OF POPPIES BRINGS AUXILIARY TOTAL OF $65.53

When the auxiliary to Harrison Morton Ward post, American Legion met in the legion quarters Monday evening, there was a good attendance. The committee reported that $65.53 was realized from the poppy sale. The amount paid for the poppies was $20 and the remainder is to be divided between the legion and auxiliary for welfare work in the village. Praise was given the committee of the auxiliary, of which Mrs. John Tourjee, Mrs. Howard Palmer, Mrs. John Jenssen and Mrs. Fred Rafuse were the workers in charge. Also the school children assisted in the sale of the poppies. Plans were made by the legion and auxiliary to attend the fifth district meeting to be held in Groton, June 14.

Miss Annie C. Spicer is spending a few days in New York.

There is to be a rehearsal of St. Joseph's choir in the church this (Thursday) evening.

Mrs. Daisy Afflerbach has returned to Metuchen, N. J., after a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ellis of Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Sherwood have returned to their home in Glen Ridge, N. J., after a visit at their summer home on Groton Long Point.

Town Tax Collector Irving H. Poppe was collecting taxes at the third district hall Tuesday.

Fingers Gashed.

Neil Robertson severely cut two fingers while at his work in Mystic on Tuesday. He was painting and was removing a broken pane of glass when his hand slipped and hit the broken glass causing a deep cut on each finger. The cuts were dressed by Dr. A. L. Myers. He will be laid up for several weeks.

Edward Mahoney has returned from New York.

Mrs. Anna Jenssen is spending a few days with relatives in Philadelphia.

The Los Angeles passed over the village about 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. The dirigible was flying very low and the name on the side was plainly seen.

Clarence Spink of New York is spending a few days at his home on Front street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hemingway of New Haven are at their summer home on the point.

Mrs. Harry Hall and her guest Mrs. A. L. Armstrong have returned to New York, after several days spent at Groton Long Point.

E4 Schoonmaker has returned to home after visiting friends in Malden, Mass.

Miss Marion MacDonald is employed at P. J. Shandler's.

The following delegates have been appointed from the Baptist church to the Stonington Union association meeting to be held in the Baptist church, Old Mystic, June 12: Miss Gertrude Brown, Mrs. Alice Chester, Dr. E. P. Fitch, W. I. Spicer, A. V. Morgan, and R. P. Sawyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Winkle of New Jersey are spending a few days at their cottage on Mason's Island.

Jack Smith has returned to his studies at Harvard after a brief vacation spent at the home of his mother, Mrs. Albany Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Judd have returned to Holyoke, Mass., after several days at their cottage on the Point.

Arthur DeBiasi has returned after visiting Stamford friends.

Mrs. James Dermott, of Hartford, has been the guest of Mrs. R. S. Maloney at her cottage at the Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Hewitt have returned to New York after several days spent at their summer cottage at Lighthouse Point.

Chas. Tingley of Norwich was a business caller here Monday.

Hugh McLeod has returned to Providence after a visit with his mother, Mrs. Margaret McLeod.

Mrs. R. S. Losier and family have returned to Westfield after a visit at their home on the Point.

Charles DeBiasi of Willimantic has been a caller at his home on Riverside avenue.

MYSTIC

WORLD CRUSADE HAS A MEETING AND SOCIAL

The Children's World Crusade held a short business session Monday afternoon in the vestry of the Union Baptist church with 18 members present. A report of the work from September to June, given by Miss Susie Holdredge, showed that the children had raised $28. for missions, sent four White Cross boxes and had earned 2625 honor points. The children had planned to have a May basket social but due to the quarantine on account of the small pox scare, were unable to have this, but they held a social Monday afternoon following the meeting with games and refreshments. There were cheers and crusader songs. The children also sent a May basket each to two of the church shut-ins, which gifts were greatly appreciated.

Monday evening, at the Baptist church, 22 of the Workers' conference held their meeting. Due to the quarantine the usual supper was postponed. Reports of previous meetings were read by the secretary, Albert Neff. Discussions on church and school affairs followed. A committee was appointed to plan for the Sunday school picnic. The conference has been very active this year. Beginning with the next meeting, in September, the conference will meet on the second Thursday of the month, instead of on Monday.

Odd Fellows to Attend Church

Sunday morning next the Odd Fellows will attend services at the Methodist church. The children's day program, which was to have been given next Sunday evening, has been postponed until the following Sunday evening, June 16.

Mrs. William L. Main and Miss Hazel Main were in Providence Monday.

Garden Club Meeting

The first meeting of the Mystic Garden club is to be held this (Thursday) afternoon with the president, Mrs. Louis P. Allyn. Members have been asked to bring slips and small plants suitable for exchange.

Rev. Lyman G. Horton of Providence was in town Tuesday.

John Lucy, small son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lucy, has measles.

Randall Newbury and family have moved from New London to the house on Bay street, owned by Mrs. Ernest Bliven.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Meyers and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Meyers are moving from Park Place to a house at Poquonoc Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Devine have moved to their cottage at Mason's Island for the summer.

Local residents had a fine view of the Los Angeles, navy dirigible, as it passed over the town Tuesday. It was flying very low, so that people were able to read U. S. Navy on one side and Los Angeles on the other.

The Southern New England Telephone company has strung new lines on Pequot avenue, thus causing some of the numbers to be changed.

Louis P. Allyn has rented his cottage at Mason's Island to a party from New York for the summer.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY'S BIRTHDAY MEETING

The annual meeting of the Woman's Mission society of the Baptist church, was held Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Louis P. Allyn. The program was in charge of Miss Nellie Beebe. A large birthday cake on a table in the center of the room was inscribed "Happy Birthday". Each member whose birthday occurred the same day as that of a certain missionary had a small account to read about that missionary and then placed a lighted candle in the cake. There were 12 who took part for 12 missionaries. Mrs. L. P. Allyn then gave a talk on her interesting visit to the Mathere school, on her way home from the south. This school is for colored people and the local church is very much interested in it. She also gave a talk on her visit to the Penny estate in Florida, where aged ministers and their wives may stay for 9 months of the year. It is an up-to-date building and the rent is free. The election of officers followed: President, Mrs. L. P. Allyn; first vice president, Miss Harriett Fish; second, Mrs. L. J. Shepler; secretary, Mrs. Charles E. Wheeler; treasurer, Miss Helen Wilbur; assistant treasurer, Miss Emeline Fish. Ice cream, birthday cake and small cakes were served. Each person was given a place card with her birthday date and that of the missionary. She represented, printed on it and each was asked to write to the missionary, she represented, printed on ... and

The June meeting of Plus Ultra Bible class of the Baptist church, Old Mystic, was held with the president, George E. Robinson and family, Tuesday evening.

Games were played and a social time enjoyed. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. Twenty-four members were present and eight young people.

Amos Gallup of Westerly was in the village Tuesday evening.

Tribute to Army Nurse.

A bronze memorial tablet has been placed on the stone for Mrs. Raymond Holmes, in Elm Grove cemetery, Mystic. It reads: "Sarah Elizabeth Mc-Donald, wife of Raymond Morgan Holmes, May 10, 1888, June 1, 1928. Served in the World war with the army nurse corps, U. S. A., May 13, 1917 to April 2, 1919 at British base hospital, No. 2, Etretat, France; with mobile hospital, No. 2, American Expeditionary forces in France and with the American army of occupation in Germany." The tablet is a fine piece of work, a fitting remembrance of Mrs. Holmes who did her part in the World war.

Miss Helen Fish returned to New York, Monday after spending a few days with her cousins, Misses Emeline and Jessie Fish.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Holdredge returned Monday to Ansonia after visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Chapman.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wheeler of Ashaway were in town Sunday to attend the funeral of Martha Allyn Morgan. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Whalen.

Mystic grange is to meet Thursday evening.

Phoebe Packer Rathbun, tent, Daughter of Veterans meets this (Wednesday) evening.

Traffic Increasing

Traffic through Mystic is beginning to increase, a large number of cars went through Memorial day and almost as many on Sunday.

W. A. Phillips spent Tuesday with his brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Fred Phillips of Montville.

Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Dixon and two children of Norwich and Mr. and Mrs. William Hasler of Occum spent Saturday with Mrs. Minnie Campbell.

Mrs. C. F. Congdon has returned from a visit with Mrs. Jennie Plumb, of Colchester.

Captain Charles Reynolds of the steamer Capt. Elias F. Wilcox, spent the week end at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Burke and Miss Dorothy Shackley were in Boston over the week end and attended the funeral of a relative.

The rhododendrons in Elm Grove cemetery are beginning to blossom and are very beautiful.

NATIVE OF INDIA HEARD AT LOCAL CHURCH SERVICE

John Caesar, a native of southern India, near Madras, now a student at Hartford Theological seminary, occupied the pulpit in the Congregational church Sunday morning. He told in an interesting way about his native land, its customs and religion. The first sixteen verses of Paul's letter to the Romans was read by Nelson Schlegel, the pastor of the church, who offered prayer and pronounced the benediction.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Williams and family have returned to the Gallup homestead for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Williams have been living in Hartford during the winter.

Native strawberries and native peas have been picked and are finding their way to the Norwich market.

Local Pastor at Service

When the funeral of Martha Morgan, aged 10, was held from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Morgan, in Mystic, Sunday afternoon, the services were conducted by Rev. Byron G. Hatfield pastor of the Baptist church in that place, and Nelson Schlegel, pastor of Ledyard Congregational church. Thy Will Be Done and God Be With You Until We Meet Again were impressively sung by a choir of five of the Halleck family of New York, cousins of the deceased. There were beautiful flowers, it taking two hearses cars to transport the forms and set pieces to the cemetery. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Elm Grove cemetery. There were 77 automobiles at the house. Little Martha was the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Allyn of this town. She had such a sunny disposition she was loved by all who knew her. She was very capable in many ways and will be greatly missed not only by her grief stricken parents and other relatives but by a host of friends who loved her.

ROCKVILLE, R. I.

Gilbert Main and five other students from the Dudley Institute conducted the services at the Seventh Day Baptist church here last Sabbath day.

Gordon Greene post No. 37, American Legion, Hope Valley, conducted the Memorial day exercises at the church here, and cemetery. Rev. W. M. Simpson of Ashaway gave a fine address. Crompton band furnished music.

At the home of Orrin Richmond and Mrs. Lydia Palmer of Cosy Corners, a beautiful and bountiful May basket was hung by an auto party. It contained a quantity of luscious fruits and sweet confections.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank James and Mr. and Mrs. Leon James of Stonington were recent callers at Cosy Corners.

Stephen Hall, Miss Clara Kellogg and Miss Hall of Providence were callers on Mr. and Mrs. John F. Palmer last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Palmer and daughter of Westerly and Mrs. Ida Mylod of Harding, Mass., were callers at Elmer E. Kenyon's on Memorial day.

FALTERING STOCK MARKET WAS ALMOST ENTIRELY PROFESSIONAL YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP)— Prices again faltered on the stock market today, after having rallied for several days from the low levels reached last week. The technical position of the market appeared to have been weakened by completion of short covering, and operators for the advance hastened to take trading profits. Operations were again almost entirely professional, with total sales of but 3,343,560 shares, slightly less than yesterday's turnover.

Call money held at 7 per cent all day, but time money was slightly easier with some 30 day money loaning at 6 1-4 per cent. This was interpreted as indicating that bankers are looking for more comfortable credit conditions, with reduced stock market requirements, despite the heavy requirement for new financing and tax payments.

Renewed attacks upon the stock market in congress, however, were somewhat unsettling, and a meeting of the federal reserve board with Governor Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve bank, Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the National City bank, and other New York reserve directors, caused renewed uncertainty. The more bullish element, however, was inclined to regard the meeting as indicating a change of reserve policy, conceivably in the direction of lightening its pressure upon the banks, in view of the recent improvement in money conditions.

The Boston Federal Reserve bank made no change in its rediscount rate, and Wall street does not feel the misgivings over a possible change in the New York rate tomorrow that it has felt in previous weeks. With a renewed flow of gold from London, it is thought that a higher discount rate at the Bank of England would precede a higher rate at New York, and no action at London is regarded as likely before the new government comes into power.

Outside of the new downturn in wheat, there was little in the day's news to influence the market. The weekly steel trade reviews stressed the maintenance of ingot production near capacity, American metal market stating "the steel industry remains under pressure to make deliveries and is producing substantially as much steel as possible." Private estimates of U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage, as of May 31 to be announced next week, however, indicated a possible drop of 150,000 tons. The Guaranty Trust company cut a $90,000,000 melon through the offer of rights.

Copper, food, motor and some of the utility shares sold substantially higher during the major part of the session. Anaconda, Greene Cananea, and Kennecott made extreme gains of 2 to 5 points, much of which were lost in the final deals. General Motors and Hudson both sold up a point or so, and Auburn jumped a points to a new peak, only to fall back about 6 from the top. Coca Cola, Fleischmann, Royal Baking and National Biscuit made fair gains, the last jumping about 7 points.

Merchandising shares were irregular, Safeway Stores making an extreme gain of about 7 points, while Woolworth and Montgomery Ward dropped 3 and 4 points. Case Threshing mounted 10 points then lost its gain. Motor products sold up 8 1-2 points, regaining yesterday's loss, and General Cable A rose more than 8 points. Otis Elevator jumped 7 points to a new top, reflectin; the upturn in building contracts last week, oils were generally inclined to heaviness, although Transcontinental was well bought on reports of refinancing and the entrance of new interests into the company.

Some of the utilities encountered profit-taking, but Commonwealth Power jumped about 13 points to another new high, in sympathy with heavy buying of Commonwealth and Southern, and Public Service of New Jersey mounted 3 points. The Associated Press price index of 20 utilities was again carried to a new peak.

American Can, Atchison, Bendix Aviation, Burroughs Adding, Chesapeake and Ohio, Curtiss Aero, Wright, United Aircraft, General Electric, Houston Oil, International Harvester, Radio, and Westinghouse were among important issues falling back 2 to 4 points.

Commodity markets were generally heavy. Wheat fell back about 2 cents a bushel in profit-taking inspired by the failure of the Liverpool market to follow up the recent advances, and corn likewise sagged. Cotton sagged about 50 cents to $1 a bale, sugar was again depressed, raw sugar again dropping 1-32 of a cent to the lowest price since 1922. In the futures market, July made another new low.

Foreign exchanges were dull and irregular, with Sterling ending the day slightly higher. The rally in Japanese Yen yesterday failed to hold, and it fell back 1-3 of a cent to near the year's low.

NOYES DIVIDES HIS BIG BUSINESS WITH EMPLOYES AND ASSOCIATES

Charles F. Noyes company, incorporated, is probably the first real estate brokerage house in New York and possibly in the country to announce that its entire business has been mutualized and the shares of the corporation will be listed in the near future and publicly dealt in. Application to list Noyes company securities will probably be made to the listing committee of the real estate board exchange. The Noyes organization is about to have an outstanding capitalization of 10,000 shares of preferred stock and 120,000 shares of common stock with 50,000 shares of additional common stock in the treasury of the company for future expansion. The business was established in 1898 by Mr. Noyes with virtually no clients and has steadily grown until the gross volume today exceeds $200,000,000 in the aggregate and the thought is that within two years this annual business will increase to half a billion dollars.

Gives the Help a Split.

For the purpose of mutualization the corporation offered 20,000 shares of treasury stock to the employes at $30 a share—a price believed by the Noyes executives to be considerably less than actual value. The offering was largely over-subscribed with subscriptions aggregating 35,719 shares. Orders for approximately 15,000 additional shares came from associates and business friends of the company or friends of the employes who had heard of the proposed offering, although every effort was made to keep it confidential.

Every employe of "Noyes National," Chicago branch, subscribed, and 203 employes out of 225 in the New York city offices also put in their names for the stock. This is irrespective of the fact that some could not be reached on account of illness or absence from the city. The record shows that virtually every direct employ and executive of the corporation is a stockholder. The average holding of stock subscribed to would be 115 shares per employe. One hundred and one employes subscribed for ten shares or less; 31 wanted from ten to 100 shares; 14 asked for 100 to 200 shares; 14 for 200 to 500 shares; 12 for 500 to 1,000 shares; and six asked for more than 1,000 each. While allotments will necessarily be cut, yet all asking for 100 shares or less will probably be filled and the others reduced.

Short Shift for the Preferred.

William B. Falconer, senior vice-president of the Noyes organization, who has been associated with Mr. Noyes for twenty-eight years, states:

"On May 1, 1926, when the Noyes company was organized, the capital structure consisted of $2,400,000 of preferred stock, of which $1,200,000 was class A preferred. During the first three years of the company's corporate existence we will have retired out of earnings the entire class A, amounting to $1,200,000. Subject to our plans of mutualization the company's capital will be adjusted to $1,000,000 of outstanding preferred stock and 120,000 shares of common stock.

"The average earnings of the company for the four years ending April 30, 1929, before state and federal taxes, depreciation, employes' group insurance and employes' co-operative fund, were approximately $780,000 and during the year ending April 30, 1929, these profits were over $1,100,000. For the year just ended the net profits after state and federal taxes, depreciation, employes group insurance and employes' co-operative fund, were over $820,000, indicating an earning value of $5.50 a share after allowing dividends on the $1,000,000 of preferred stock to be outstanding and $100,000 per annum for the redemption of preferred stock."

Col. M. S. Keene, treasurer, believes the stock will sell, when listed, at much higher figures than paid by the employes; and the estimated earnings of the common stock, without expansion are expected to be anywhere between $3 and $6 a share. The average for the past four year period after state and federal taxes, depreciation, employes' group insurance and employes' co-operative fund, was $7.57 a share; and this, after setting aside $160,000 for the retirement of the outstanding preferred stock and paying preferred stock dividends, and for the past year $5.50 per share.

Big Money for Common Stock.

Paul B. Warner and Co., auditors and accountants, certified the following figures for the four years ending April 30, 1929. The 1926 year was reflected under present working conditions of the present company.

Before state and federal taxes, depreciation, employes' group insurance and employes' co-operative fund:

1926	$ 812,112.97
1927	616,754.42
1928	691,028.40
1929	1,104,496.19
Four-year average	$ 780,847.99

After state and federal taxes, depreciation, employes' group insurance and employes' co-operative fund:

1926	$ 679,635.45
1927	361,887.52
1928	492,089.00
1929	*821,791.20
Four-year average	$ 588,850.79

For the year ending April 30, 1929.

$1,104,496.19

Before taxes, depreciation, Insurance, etc.

$821,791.20*

After taxes, depreciation, insurance, etc.

*Subject to adjustment upon final audit.

$1,200,000 of class A preferred stock (the entire issue) was retired out of company profits during the first three years ending April 30, 1929.

After deducting $100,000 per annum for retirement of preferred stock to be presently outstanding (no retirement required until after August 1, 1932) the anticipated amount available for common stock dividends would be $428,850.79 computed as follows:

On the basis of average earnings for the last 4 years of $588,850.79; For dividends on preferred stock, $60,000; for redemption of preferred stock, $100,000—$160,000.

There would be available for dividends on common stock, $428,850.79, or $3.57 per share on 120,000 shares of common stock.

On the basis of earnings for the year ending April 30, 1929 of $821,791.20.

For dividends on preferred stock, $60,000.

For redemption of preferred stock, $100,000—$160,000.

There would available for dividends on common stock, $661,791.20*, or $5.50 per share on 120,000 shares of common stock.

*Not reflecting any benefits from $400,000 additional cash in the treasury.

As preferred stock is redeemed there will be increased earnings for common stock to the extent of any cumulative annual dividend saving of $6,000.

Norwich Man Tells How He Won.

The following statement in connection with the activities of the company was sent to the employes by Mr. Noyes with a letter setting forth the plans of the mutualization of the company:

The business of the Charles F. Noyes Co., Inc., was established in 1898; and I have been actively interested in its development from the inception.

With practically no initial business it has gradually grown until its gross volume now amounts to approximately $200,000,000 annually.

Offices are maintained at 225 Broadway and 500 Fifth Avenue, New York. Its wholly owned subsidiaries are C. F. Noyes National Realty corporation (known as "Noyes National") and C. F. Noyes National Realty corporation of Illinois. The Illinois corporation occupies well appointed offices at 134 North LaSalle street, Chicago. "Noyes National" has branch offices in other cities from coast to coast under very favorable arrangements with the United Cigar Stores company of America and over six hundred (600) representatives in the country's leading cities. The business outside of New York city is under the direction of Stanley K. Green, president of "Noyes National," and the Chicago office is under the direction of Leo Raemer, vice-president of the Illinois corporation.

On the Noyes companies' boards are William Baeder, George J. Wise and George Wattlay, all officers and directors of the United Cigar Stores company of America, and holding important executive positions in the "United."

Your president's services are assured with the corporation under a contract for a term of years; and his life is insured in favor of the corporation. Associated in the active management of the business is William B. Falconer, vice-president, who has been with the organization continuously for twenty-eight (28) years. Other Noyes executives, all trained real estate men, include Edwin C. Benedict, Harold S. Ford, Edward J. Crawford, Herman Arns, Alwin Ball, 3rd, Col. M. S. Keene, Walter J. Cashel, Walter A. Davis and Edward E. McNally. These men have been with the Noyes organization on an average of nine (9) years.

The personnel of the business consists of over 250 executive, office and sales employes, over two thousand employes in the management division in New York city alone and an increasing personnel outside of New York city and in the branch offices.

Generally speaking, in a brokerage business expenses can be reduced or increased so as to meet trading or brokerage conditions. The business has shown a profit each year. Its management division (a certain guaranteed source of income and the most important in any real estate brokerage enterprise) was twice as large in 1925 as in 1920 and three times greater in 1929 than 1925. The gross income to the company from this department alone is approximately $500,000 annually.

An important arrangement has been made by the corporation which it is expected will greatly increase its earning ability after July 1, 1929.

Noyes National Profits Jump.

An interesting feature of the Noyes business is the fact that many of its two thousand employes in New York city, exclusive of office and selling organization, applied for stock. The growth of the company's business has been very great during the past few years; and it is stated that Noyes National under the management of Stanley K. Green increased its profits 50 per cent in 1928 over 1927 and 150 per cent in 1929 over 1928. Every office of the Noyes company is profitable; and every year has shown a profit.

GIFTS FOR T. B. DUGGAN WHO RESIGNS AT ASHLAND CO.

Timothy B. Duggan has resigned as overseer of spinning for the Ashland Cotton Co. Mr. Duggan came to Jewett City in 1876, and entering the employ of the Ashland company, has been identified with the local cotton industry, with an unbroken record of 53 years. In point of actual service he is one of the oldest textile mill men in New England. Learning the business from the ground up, beginning when a boy as a "doffer," he has carried on so faithfully and well, that he has been boss spinner in the plant where he began for more than 10 years.

April 20th, his younger son William J. Duggan, resigned as superintendent of cotton for the Ashland company, to accept a very flattering offer from the big Gossett mills group, of South Carolina.

Timothy Duggan's record stands for itself, and has but few equals in the recent history of the textile world. The overseers of the plant, with P. W. Chase acting ably in their behalf, presented the retiring spinner, a beautiful floor lamp. Mr. Duggan in his words of acceptance, gave proof that he possesses accomplishments other than that of the trade. At the Ashland club house he was tendered a formal reception, with a fine orchestra, specially engaged for the event. Here, on behalf of the operatives of his own department, John Borda, presented the "Boss" a purse of gold.

Both Mr. Duggan's sons were present. The elder son James, of Dedham, Mass., has charge of the make-up department for the Dedham Finishing Co.

Casper Duxas has been assigned as overseer of spinning in Mr. Duggan's former department.

A Typographical Omission

The names of R. C. Plaut of Norwich and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McNicol, should have appeared Wednesday in the list of patrons and patronesses of the coming musical recital.

Shower for Miss Ruszenas

In honor of her approaching wedding, since Miss Josephine Ruszenas will next Monday become the bride of Joseph Bush, of Lawrence, Mass., sixty-five local friends gave her a most generous miscellaneous shower. The affair took place at her home, and each guests brought a fine gift. Included in the shower were money, glass, linen, china, with many other presents. During the evening games and music were a feature. A great bell of tinted crepe paper, was hung from the ceiling and filled with confetti. At a signal the silver cord was loosed, and all the company were showered with the bits of paper. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles Ruszenas, Miss Birdie Stanton, Miss Josephine Ambot and Miss Bertha Ruszenas. Miss Ruszenas has been employed in the office of the Glasco Finishing Co., of Glasco, and 14 girls, from that plant were in for a shower on their own account, at a few days earlier date. They, too, gave her a number of beautiful gifts. Mr. Bush, whose home town is Lawrence, Mass., is a Studebaker salesman in Norwich. Miss Ruszenas, is one of four sisters and is receiving the best wishes of a host of young friends.

BAPT. MISSION CIRCLE HOLDS JUNE MEETING

Fifteen women of the Baptist church met in the church parlor Tuesday afternoon for the June meeting of the Mission circle. Mrs. A. M. Brown conducted a missionary devotional service which included responsive scripture readings and sayings of great missionaries. Various matters of business were discussed and the reports of the secretary and treasurer were approved. A barrell of clothing was sent to Mather Industrial school, Beaufort, S. C., last week valued at close to $60 and another is to be sent in a few days. Gifts were brought to the meeting to be included in a Christmas box to be sent to China, in care of Miss Pauline Harris whose presence and talk at the Christmas party of the society last December were so greatly enjoyed. Dolls will be dressed and blotters made from sheets of blotting paper donated by Miss Edith Butts. Mrs. Chas. F. Gardner had charge of the program on "Victory Among the Indians." There were interesting accounts of the everyday work of the missionaries among Indians at Bacone college, at the Crow Indian Mission at Lodge Grass, Montana, among the Hopis at Sunlight Mission in Arizona, at the Kodiak Orphanage in Alaska, and among the Mono Indians. These letters testified to the advance the Indian people have made as a result largely of the preaching and teaching carried on among them and expressed thanks for supplies sent, especially mentioning White Cross gifts. Warm clothing saved the lives of many children during a recent measles epidemic. Very little pecuniary aid is given Indians by the government even when it is asked for and the students are practically all self-supporting. The attendance of children at school is regular and many are taking music lessons. All who were present took part in reading these interesting items. At the close of the program Mrs. Martin Davis served tea and cookies assisted by her daughter, Mrs. William Paton, of Westerly.

A FIRST GRADE PUPIL GETS GOODIES ON TICK

It was found recently that a small girl had been charging ice cream and candy to persons other than members of her family without their knowledge.

The wise storekeeper will take notice of this and give no child credit without a written order from the adult wishing to make the purchase.

This is the suggestion of a local teacher. A child in her first grade room has been doing this, using the teacher's name. On receiving a bill Wednesday, she investigated, located the child and has about a dozen names of storekeepers who have let the pupil have candy, cookies, ice cream, etc.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist church holds its meeting this (Thursday) afternoon at Mrs. E. H. Cheney's.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Sherman and son leave today (Thursday) for Providence, where they will make their home.

Willing Workers' class meets at Miss Frances Bugbee's Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Daboll and Misses Mary E. and Nancy R. Fuller were guests of their sister, Miss Harriett M. Fuller, in Columbia Sunday.

Sunday morning Rev. John H. Knott preached from Mark 11-22: And Jesus answering said unto them have faith in God.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Kennedy of Monson, Mass., and children, Edward and daughter Shirley, visited at the Liberty clubhouse over Sunday. Mrs. E. A. Stiles, who has been their guest over the holiday, returned to her home.

SOMERS

LIGHTNING'S PRANKS IN A RECENT STORM

In the thunder storm of last week Wednesday, Norman Wilson's barn was set afire but the blaze extinguished soon after. Edward Courtney had some cows shocked but not killed. Pipes on Charles Fuller's house were struck, a large pine tree at the West cemetery was shattered as were several other trees.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bliss of Hartford spent Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bliss.

Fred C. Davis while driving near the Manles at the center Memorial day was run into by people from Thompsonville, badly damaging his car. The family escaped injury.

Miss Mildred Gummo of Hartford recently visited her father Geo. Gummo.

Somers schools are to join in Field day sports at Somers Friday.

The June meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held with Mrs. Fred Field Monday afternoon. A paper on Forestry by Mrs. Valerus Kibbe was read. Mrs. Charles Loomis gave a talk on Flowers and Shrubs she had seen from New England to California.

The pulpit Sunday was occupied by a young man from the Hartford Seminary who has just been graduated, the regular pastor, Rev. E. T. Jones not having returned from the Detroit convention.

A community supper was served at Piedmont Hall Wednesday.

The Young People's society is to give a play entitled "The Variety Show," at Piedmont hall.

Miss Margaret Newsome entertained a party of girls at her home last Saturday afternoon in celebration of her eleventh birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. MacVarish have sold their home on Battle street and moved this week to the Rockville road, Ellington, with Mrs. MacVarish's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kibbe.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. Mary Collins and daughter Marjorie of Bristol, Conn., spent the holiday at the home of Misses Eva and Myrtle Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Abramson of East Orange, N. J., were guests at the home of Mrs. Abramson's daughter, Mrs. Ralph Buell, over the holiday, Mrs. Abramson remaining for a week's visit with her daughter.

Mrs. Rising of Wilson spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Newberry.

Mrs. Hayes is visiting her brother, Mr. Bond.

Miss Lila Seeley, who teaches at Groton, spent the week end at her home on Chestnut Hill.

Because of commencement exercises at Newton Theological seminary, the pastor of the local church, John Howell, was absent Sunday, he being a member of the graduating class at Newton. In his absence the pulpit was occupied by Prof. George William Brown of the Kennedy School of Missions connected with Hartford Theological seminary. He preached from the text "Be ye therefore perfect even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect."

Next Sunday Children's day will be observed, special exercises being prepared by Mr. Howell's class of young people. The service will be in place of the regular church service at 10 (standard time).

Tim—Aren't you going to invite your roommate to your wedding?

Jim—No, he's only got one dress suit.—Life.

WARRENVILLE

VISITORS AND TOURISTS DURING HOLIDAY WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. Homer P. Hopson, of New York, with friends spent the holiday at the home of Bert H. Gardner.

Among visitors at the Rak homestead over the week end, were Mrs. Nettie Baker of Hartford, George Rak of Worcester Polytechnic Institute and Charles Rak and family of New York.

Miss Gertrude Martin of Chaplin was with Mrs. Lena Durkee for the holiday.

Very Severe Itching Eczema For 2 Years. Healed by Cuticura.

"Eczema broke out on my hands in small pustules about the size of the head of a needle and seemed to contain water. The itching was very severe and I was tempted to scratch them continually. The irritation which resulted not only caused great discomfort but interfered with my work and sleep. The trouble spread to my forearms and prevailed for almost two years.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased more, and after using them two months my hands were healed." (Signed) Mrs. A. L. Graf, 97 Hancock St., Cambridge, Mass.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. 2L, Malden, Mass."

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of My Dear Mother

HELEN E. BUSHNELL

Who Passed On to the Above June 6, 1928

Gone are the days when I sat at mother's knee,
Gone to the Master of All Eternity.
Not gone the remembrance of her, lovingly,
In my dreams I always hear, and dear face see.
Love lives ever, knowing no word like good-bye,
Hearts may sever, true love will never die;
Love will be gained when all else is vain,
Guiding me on through the years, though it brings pain and we remain.

AUCTIONS

AUCTION SACRIFICE PRESENTS OPPORTUNITY

Foresight is all that is requisite to gain a real profit, if you possess that qualification you will have a chance to commemorate it on June 8, 1929, when a desirable tract of land, together with three buildings thereon located in Central Village will be disposed of at Public Auction. This property adjoins railroad station property in Central Village and is most desirably located for any business purpose. A portion of this tract would make excellent gasoline station site being on Main highway to Worcester and Boston.

The present owner must sell and this presents a rare opportunity. Let his sacrifice be your GAIN. See this property and appreciate real value.

Auction will be held on the premises on June 8, 1929, at 2 o'clock D. S. T. in the afternoon. Terms: 10 per cent down day of auction; balance to be arranged for date of closing.

RAY GARDINER TO SING AT BOSTON CONVENTION

Ray Gardiner of Stonington, a member of the choir of the Second Congregational church has been chosen one of the soloists to represent Rhode Island at the national convention of music clubs in Boston this week. Mr. Gardiner will sing the bass solo in "Andon" a composition of Wassul Leps, conductor of Providence College of Music.

Will Hear Reports.

Stonington League of Women Voters is to meet in the Free Library today, June 6 at 4 o'clock. Reports from the county convention and the county finance field day will be given.

Services in honor of the Sacred Heart are held each evening in St Mary's church at 8 o'clock and will continue every evening this month.

Many at Horse Auction.

Among well known horse dealers who attended the horse auction held at the Stonington Riding academy on Monday were Frank Paine of Franklin, Mass.; Michael Duggins, Providence, Ray Button, Giasco, L. P. Anthony, Ashaway and F. O. Browning of Colchester. About fifty saddle horses were sold by Auctioneer Alfred Witter of Danielson.

The streets of the borough have been given a coating of tar and sand.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Biddle have returned to Cambridge following a visit here at the Freeman Home, Ledward's Island.

Miss Wilhelmina Stanton of New York is visiting here with her parents.

William Doll of Pawtucket visited here Tuesday.

Twin daughters born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vars of 33 Bay View avenue have been named Doris May and Rose Anna.

The government dirigible Los Angeles passed over Stonington Tuesday afternoon about one o'clock and was the cause of lined streets to get a sight of the big craft. A short time later the U. S. navy blimp J-4 passed over going east, following the coast line.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Hammond entertained Frank Griswold of New Haven over the week end.

The eighth annual banquet of Nina circle, No. 149, Daughters of Isabella, was held at the Portuguese Society home Monday evening.

NORTH LYME

Miss Helen Baborsky and Miss Nanny Lund of New Jersey, formerly residents here, are spending a week or two with Mrs. Charles Peck, and on Monday visited at W. M. Sisson's and G. H. Strong's.

Miss Jennie Stark is recovering from scarlet fever contracted while at her school in New Britain.

Truman Ives, a former resident of this locality, lately residing in Hebron, died at the Willimantic hospital last Tuesday. He had been confined to the bed for five months in a plaster cast, suffering from tuberculosis of the hip, and had nearly recovered, but intestinal complications set in, causing his death. He leaves his wife and six children, three brothers and one sister. Mr. Ives was well known here and highly respected, and his passing in early life seems very sad.

Friends here of Mrs. James Welland were shocked to hear of her sudden death at the home of her mother in Cleveland, Ohio, last week. She had been in poor health for some time but of late was feeling better, and the family were expected at their summer home here about this time. Mrs. Welland was well known here and very highly esteemed by all. Her cheery smile and pleasant greeting will long be remembered by those who knew her.

M. J. Stark, Miss Emily Stark, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Sisson, Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Strong attended the funeral of Truman Ives in Hebron Friday.

Mrs. H. A. Rogers visited Mrs. Mary Sisson Sunday. Mrs. Sisson has been ill the past week but is slowly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Strong and Robert Strong were in Norwich Saturday.

Thomas Tucker and family attended the Memorial day parade in New London.

POETRY

Broom out the floor now, lay the fender
And stand this lee-scented bough of spring
And let the window down. The butterfly
Floats in upon the sunbeam, and the fair
Saucy face of June, the nomad gypsy, laughs
Above her, o'ispread waves, the white she tells
The farmers' fortunes in the fields, and quafts
The water from the spider-peopled wells.

The hedges are all drowned in green grass seas,
And bobbing poppies flare like Elmo's light.
While zoomike the pollen-stained bees
Drone in the clover depths. And up the night
The cuckoo's voice is hoarse and broke with joy,
And on the lowland crops the crows make raid.
Nor fear the clappers of the farmer's boy,
Who sleeps, like drunken Noah, in the shade.

And loop this red rose in that hazel ring
That snares your little ear, for June is short
And we must joy in it and dance and sing,
And from her bounty draw her rosy worth.
Ay! soon the swallows will be flying south,
The winds wheel north to gather in the snow,
Even the roses split on youth's red mouth
Will soon blow down the road all roses go.

—Francis Ledwidge.

Castilian

Velasquez took a pliant knife
And scraped his palette clean;
He said, "I lead a dog's own life
Painting a king and queen."

He cleaned his palette with oily rags
And oakum from Seville wharves:
"I am sick of painting painted hags
And bad ambiguous dwarfs.

"The sky is silver, the clouds are pearl,
Their locks are looped with rain,
I will not paint Maria's girl
For all the money in Spain."

He washed his face in water cold,
His hands in turpentine;
He squeezed out color like drops of gold
And color like drops of wine.

Each color lay like a little pool
On the polished cedar wood:
Clear and pale and ivory-cool
Or dark as solitude.

He burned the rags in the fireplace
And leaned from the window high:
He said, "I like that gentleman's face,
Who wears his cap awry."

This is the gentleman, there he stands,
Castilian, sombre-caped,
With arrogant eyes and narrow hands
Miraculously shaped.

—Elinor Wylie.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Angel," in the moonlight your teeth are just like pearls."

"Oh, indeed! And when were you in the moonlight with Pearl?"—Tid-Bits.

Cleric—Little boy, is that your cigarette stub there on the sidewalk?

Boy—No. Go ahead, pop. You saw it first.—Notre Dame Juggler.

"So long, Flossie. See you at the soda fountain for pickles for lunch?"

"No, for pickles for breakfast."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Wife (at breakfast)—Bob, I'm going to get canned grapefruit hereafter; it doesn't agree with me.

Hub—Very well, my dear; but it isn't spelling.—Boston Transcript.

"Angus, may I tell me you and Brother Donald were in a railway accident? Did you collect any damages?"

"We did. But never a shilling wud we have had, I no thocht to kick Donald in the face."—Exchange.

"I hear that the Ninth National bank is looking for a cashier."

"But I thought they just got a new one a month ago."

"They did. That's the one they're looking for."—Thunder.

"Only yesterday," said Jones, who was discussing philanthropy, "I refused a woman a small sum of money and in consequence I passed a sleepless night. The tones of her reproachful voice never left me for a moment."

"Dear me, what a kind heart! Who was the woman?"

"My wife."—Denver Post.

Dumas the younger was once recognized by a cabman he hired and when it came time to pay the fare the cabby refused, saying he could not accept payment from such a great artist.

"But what can I do for you, my good friend?"

"Well, I have here a little play I have written and if you could just read it over—"

Thereafter Dumas always paid.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The superstition about anything being done on a Friday led to a woman's death at Leicester, England, recently. She was taken ill on a Friday but refused, because of the superstition, to see a doctor until Saturday. It was then too late. She died on Monday from heart failure following influenza.

A plug of tobacco on which a bite had left a perfect imprint of teeth was among the clews officers led to more than forty unsolved burglaries at York, Neb.—unsolved until the sheriff at Aurora during a game of cards with prisoners invited them to "have a chew." Leon Hudson was the only one to accept. His teeth prints corresponded to those on the clew. Officers said he confessed.

An antique inlaid ivory mirror frame of the William and Mary period, bought recently in Virginia for $1, was valued at more than $1,000 in Minneapolis after it had been restored and its true worth revealed. The frame with its fine scroll-like inlay covered with several layers of paint, was discovered in an old cabin near Hanover, Va., by H. M. King, southern collector. King bought the piece for $1 and later sold it to Mrs. Charles S. Pillsbury, Minneapolis art lover. An expert there engaged to restore the frame removed the paint and found the exquisite "seaweed" design which proved the William and Mary origin. It was assumed that the frame was brought to America from England by some wealthy colonist.

NEW LONDON LATCH-STRING TO BE OUT TO 200 MISSISSIPPI VISITORS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 5.— An assemblage of 200 city officials and prominent citizens of the state of Mississippi will visit New London August 15th, the visit, which will be of but a few hours being for the purpose of relating the opportunities, possibilities and resources of the state of Mississippi and to learn and profit by the accomplishments and experiences of others. The visitors will arrive in New London by a special train known as the "Know Mississippi Better", the train to comprise eight Pullman cars, two exhibition cars and an observation and exhibition car. The Mississippians will be accompanied by a band of 20 pieces, a jazz band and a sextette of negro singers. The train will arrive in New London from Boston, making a stop at Providence and another at Westerly. During the afternoon and after a tour of the city and waterfront is made, the train will continue to New Haven. City Manager William A. Holt will make arrangements later for receiving the southerners

HARRY WOLFE, PEEVED, PUNCHES MAX ROGOVIN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, June 5.— Harry Wolfe, of Grand street, a local real estate agent, was arrested tonight by Automobile Patrol Officer George Cockell charged with breach of the peace. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $100 for his appearance in court tomorrow. Wolfe recently negotiated for the sale of a piece of real estate and it is claimed that he did not complete the transaction because of Max Rogovin, a Bevin Bank street merchant, interfering. Rogovin made the sale and received the agent's commission. When Wolfe and Rogovin met harsh words were exchanged and it is claimed that Wolfe struck Rogovin a blow on the face. The act was responsible for Wolfe's arrest. Wolfe made it known after his arrest that he intended to cause the arrest of Rogovin tomorrow on a counter-charge.

William Stanley, Hotel Griswold, was arrested tonight charged with passing an automatic danger signal on Bank street. He furnished a bond of $15 for appearance in the police court tomorrow.

STATE COP'S WIFE RUNS INTO GROTON BOY ON THAMES ST.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 5.— Joseph Formagio, 3, whose parents reside at 440 Thames street, Groton, was seriously injured early this evening when he sustained a possible fractured skull by being struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. William MacKenzie, wife of State Police Officer MacKenzie. The child is a patient at Lawrence Memorial hospital to which he was rushed immediately following the accident. Mrs. MacKenzie was driving on Thames street, Groton, when the child ran into the highway and was knocked down before the driver could reduce the speed of the car.

CONTRABAND BOOZE NOW IN CUSTOMS HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 5—The cargo of about 1000 cases of whiskey, seized aboard the New Bedford, Mass., fishing schooner, John M Hathaway, by the crew of the U. S. coast guard destroyer Wilkes, 30 miles off Nantucket Monday night, has been transferred from the schooner to the customs house. The schooner is still in port and will be held here until the cases of the six members of the crew have been disposed of. The case is scheduled to be tried before U. S. Commissioner Russell H Corcoran, the 25th inst.

Message About James Dolan.

Inspector John O'Brien, New York police department last night communicated with the New London police requesting that Marian Larkin, 227 Connecticut avenue be informed that James Dolan had attempted suicide by gas inhalatin and that he was now in a serious condition in Bellevue hospital. Patrolman Arthur Feeley was sent to the Connecticut avenue address, but neither Miss Larkin, nor Dolan was known there. Dolan was found yesterday in an unconscious condition in his room with gas flowing from a gas cock.

Wife Beater Warned.

Mike Shumko, 11 Harrison street, was in the police court today charged with breach of the peace and intoxication and was sentenced to three months in jail, but the execution of the sentence was suspended and Shumko was placed on probation for a year. Shumko has been estranged from his wife for a long time but he delights apparently in administering a beating to the woman, especially when he has been drinking. He resumed that practice last night and was arrested by Patrolmen John Foley and Henry Hick. Shumko was ordered by the court to remain away from the residence of his wife.

Forfeited $50 Bond.

Robert D. Williams, a sailor, was charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. He failed to appear in court, so his bond of $50 was forfeited. Williams went to police headquarters last night for no legitimate reason and as he was visibly affected by drink, Williams was ordered from the station, but when he became ugly and abusive he was locked up.

To Jail for Theft.

John Davidson was charged with theft and was sent to jail for 60 days. He was arrested last night by Patrolman George Labous upon complaint of Mrs. Augusta Lake, 21 Walbach street. Modern Tire Repairing

"The balloon tire made obsolete old repair equipment and methods," said Mr. Goldberg of the Goldberg R. T. Co., "yet time after time we still find them in use.

"Old methods of tire repairing add to the bulk and weight of the tire, unbalancing it. Heat is applied to a greater portion of the tire than is necessary, consequently part of the rubber is over-cured; also, the repaired section is less flexible than the rest of the tire and has less strength.

"With high pressure tires this method is fairly successful, but with balloon tires it could not possibly be satisfactory. Under the new system of repairing, the injured portion of a tire is cut away, then ply by ply the tire is rebuilt with new material — rebuilt just as the tire was originally constructed at the factory.

"Tires repaired by this method retain their balance, the repaired portion is just as flexible as the rest of the tire and wears as long. For a tread repair a reproduction of the tread design is made and applied at the time the repair is cured. After a repair is completed the repaired portion shows the same design as the rest of the tread, and frequently a customer has difficulty in locating the repaired spot.

"In the cure, heat is applied only where it is needed and there is no danger of overcuring any portion of the tread or cord. In connection with tread repairs, electric spot patchers are used. To repair a small tread cut it is not necessary to tear down the injury. All that is necessary to do is clean out the injury, see that moisture is removed, fill the injury with new rubber and cure with a spot patcher from the outside."

Mr. Goldberg went on to say that his repair department is completely outfitted with this very latest equipment. He said that guess work is completely removed in tire repairing and that he can guarantee all his repairs.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Three big photoplay events rolled into one are scheduled for next week's most important film entertainment in this city, and anticipation is at fever heat. Never has the theatre-going public seemed so eager to see and to hear and to appraise the ultra-modern achievement promised by America's foremost motion picture star in her newest film.

Mary Pickford, so long a silent heroine on the screen, has her premiere in the all-dialogue "Coquette" at the Palace theatre beginning next Sunday.

In this production "America's Sweetheart" offers a triply radical advance in her art. She speaks her lines. She plays a witching contemporary flapper role with alluring bobbed hair. She plays an up-to-date Broadway drama in which a great social ordeal vies with the traditional Pickford sweetness and light, and in which significant heart-wrenching realism tests the very soul of the Pickford genius.

With her adaption of the Broadway stage success, "Coquette," as her current vehicle, Mary Pickford signalizes the first entry of an ace film celebrity into the new field of the all-spoken celluloid entertainment. Equipped for this pioneering by talent already demonstrated in a long career of "silent screen" triumphs, and by her early experience on the spoken stage, the star is said to bring with her the gift of the perfect voice for theatre amplification.

"Coquette" is the stage play produced by Jed Harris over a period longer than a year in New York.

You've often wondered what Lloyd Hamilton's voice sounds like. You'll have an opportunity to find out—when the big comedian's first all-talking comedy, "His Big Minute," is on the program at the Palace theatre Sunday.

"His Big Minute" is a western comedy in which Hamilton will be seen as a green and very innocent tenderfoot who wanders into a tough Western frontier town. Advance reports indicate that it is the funniest comedy the popular star has ever made.

Other sound featurettes on the same program include a Pathe News, the world in scene and sound, Grantland Rice's famous sound Sportlight and a Pathe revue, a rare novelty magazine of current events in sound.

Broadway Theatre

With motion picture producers, practically without exception, frantically engaged in the making of talking pictures, it is hard to realize that three years ago the production of a sound picture of feature length was an unheard of enterprise, and that at that time there was just being completed the first picture to include so much as a synchronized musical score. This was "Don Juan," starring John Barrymore, and with its release Warner Bros. signalized the beginning of a new era in the field of amusements.

Somewhat more than a year later the same firm, which was alone pioneering in the new field, first introduced song and dialogue in a picture of feature length when they produced Al Jolson's first film, "The Jazz Singer," and the Vitaphone was definitely launched on a career which was to change the entire aspect of theatre entertainment. Now they have so far perfected the Vitaphone that all their present productions are either all-talking or include a number of sequences of audible dialogue.

The latest to come from this progressive studio is "The Glad Rag Doll" now showing at the Broadway theatre, which stars Dolores Costello, and presents an excellent supporting cast which includes Ralph Graves, Audrey Ferris, Albert Gran, Arthur Rankin, Maude Turner Gordon, Tom Ricketts, Dale Fuller, Claude Gillingwater, Andre Beranger and Lee Moran. The picture was directed by Michael Curtiz, and the story by Harvey Gates was adapted for the screen by C. Graham Baker.

"The Glad Rag Doll" represents the most advanced step in the production of all-talking pictures. The human voice is needed in getting comedy across at its full value, and this it does with conspicuous success in this Dolores Costello comedy-drama.

PACIFIC FARM LABOR WELL ABOVE AVERAGE

WASHINGTON (AP)—A governmental survey comparing farm and factory wages throughout the country disclosed that agricultural labor on the Pacific coast received wages approximately 100 per cent higher than those of the east south central states.

The average wage, value of board and other perquisites received by rural employes on the Pacific coast, says the survey, is $104.98 monthly. The average drops to $90.94 for the mountain states, $88.15 for New England, $85.20 for the middle Atlantic, $78.60 for east north central states, $78.21 for west north central states, $63.47 for west south central, $59.78 for south Atlantic and $55.72 for east south central states.

The survey states that the total average recompense received by farm laborers compares favorably with that received by factory workers but that the practice of stating farm wage figures exclusive of board makes it appear as though a wide difference exists.

The average money wages paid by farmer employers is $46.44, based on the survey, and the average value of board and other perquisites is $30.34 monthly.

GERMAN PAYMENTS SWELL FRENCH IMPORT VOLUME

PARIS (AP)—French alarm over an adverse trade balance is being calmed somewhat by the discovery that the statistics are not exactly what they appear to be.

Some imports, it developed, were German merchandise delivered as reparations. Deducting these, France would have had a favorable trade balance last year of about one per cent, or more than $25,000,000.

The argument is that the German goods go largely toward expanding industrial facilities and would not have been imported if they had not been obtained as reparations.

Farm Horse Comes Back.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The department of commerce has discovered that in the midst of the motor age American farmers bought more horse-drawn vehicles in 1928 than in 1927. The increase was from $8,883,803 to $9,762,100.

Famous Beauty Expert Tells Secret Of Lovely Hands

MRS. PEARL ECKER HUBBELL

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Mrs. Pearl Ecker Hubbell, dean of the National School of Cosmeticians, advises women on keeping their hands exquisitely white and smooth.

She says: "For women in their homes I can think of no better aid in protecting their hands than the use of Lux suds in all cleaning and dishwashing.

"In selecting the best soap for use in manicuring we chose Lux as gentlest to the hands. We use just a few of the delicate Lux flakes to make a bowlful of pure, sparkling suds. Lux suds cleanse so gently and soothe the skin, keep the hands beautifully white and smooth.

"Ordinary soaps may roughen and coarsen and age the hands, make them look prematurely old. Lux is so pure, so gentle, that it never irritates or roughens the skin, never dries up its delicate oils.

"Therefore I can't imagine finer beauty care for the hands of the home-maker than Lux suds in the dishpan."

Mr. Ricketts attended. With several of his classmates the 50th anniversary of graduation was observed.

WEDDING

Prodell-Pohlmann

On Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock a very pretty June wedding took place at St. Andrew's Episcopal church on Central avenue when Miss Mary E. Prodell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Prodell of 112 Smith avenue was united in marriage by the rector, Rev. E. J. Norris, to Joseph Pohlmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Pohlmann of 46 Hudson street, Manchester. The bride was beautifully attired in a chiffon crepe and wore a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and orange blossoms. The bride was attended by two bridesmaids, Miss Edna Prodell, sister of the bride, who was charmingly gowned in blue crepe and wore a picture hat to match, and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and Miss Gertrude Pohlmann, a sister of the groom, who was nattily attired in a yellow crepe gown with a picture hat to correspond, her bouquet consisted of yellow carnations and snapdragons.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Frank Prodell. A brother of the bride, Frank Prodell, acted as best man. After the church ceremony, a wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Smith avenue.

Guests were present from: Boston, Willimantic, Manchester, Stafford Springs, New Haven and Willimantic. Miss Prodell has held a responsible position with the United States Finishing company, while the groom is a plumber at Manchester. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. The newly married couple left late in the evening for a ten-day motor trip and on their return will make their home with the groom's parents at 46 Hudson street, Manchester.

The church was very prettily decorated by the members of the Girls Friendly society of which Miss Prodell was a member. Mr. and Mrs. Pohlmann have a large circle of friends who extend them best wishes for a happy and prosperous married life.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mallon, Mr. and Mrs. James Johnstone and Richard Bundy attended a card party in Bristol Tuesday evening given for the benefit of the Baltic academy. They were the guests of Miss Romelda Riccio.

Frank Bilicki, a student at Fordham university, has returned to his home on Prospect street after completing his school year.

FINED FOR BEATING HIS FELLOW EMPLOYE

Found guilty of a charge of assault, John Coman of Gales Ferry was fined $25 and costs in justice court at Montville Wednesday afternoon. He was charged with severely beating Anthony Cook of No. 27 York avenue, this city, on May 23rd. Cook, as a result of the beating, was a patient at the W W. Backus hospital until this week. The trouble started over a loan of money made by Coman to Cook. Both are employes at the Robert Gair Co., plant in Montville.

Scouts Hiked After Meeting.

Troop 6, Boy Scouts held its weekly meeting in Trinity Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday evening. The meeting was attended by eight scouts and Scoutmaster Ray Brown and assistant, Russell Metzger. After the meeting the scouts went on a short hike and ended in Mohegan park. Here they passed first class Morse signaling, only one passed, James Coughlin. The scouts were glad to receive a new member into the troop, Charles Blake.

Nature School at Gardner Lake

A nature training school under the direction of the co-ordinating council of nature activities of the American Museum of Natural History has opened at Gardner lake and will be in progress there until June 29.

The group of approximately 50 students is enjoying camp life while studying various phases of nature. Bertha Chapman Cady, Ph. D. is the director of the school.

The existence of the school is indicated by signs reading "Nature School," which are to be seen on highways leading towards Gardner lake.

FOUNDERS HOPE TO SAVE SITE OF OLD TOWN CEMETERY OF NORWICH

What steps to take towards locating and preserving the exact site of the old town cemetery of Norwich, established in 1661 two years after the founding of the town, was a subject which engaged much of the attention of the annual meeting of the Society of the Founders of Norwich, which was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Bishop, 159 Broadway, with an attendance of about 30. The site of this first cemetery of the town is adjacent to the plot where now stands the Mason monument, off West Town street and to the rear of the Adams Tavern garage, but the exact boundary lines are a matter to be determined. The size of the cemetery plot was 8 rods by 5½ rods, with a right of way to reach it from West Town street.

Claims were made in the meeting that the cemetery tract had been desecrated in the past by being ploughed over and that tombstones had been taken up to be used in foundation wall for houses, while at the present time, it was claimed, there are building encroachments on the cemetery lot and there is further desecration by running a road around the monument and preparations to build a garage and a gasoline tank.

President Bishop called the meeting to order and the annual reports were given, that of the treasurer, Mrs. Hezekiah Perkins, showing $522.80 on hand, and Mrs. E. E. Rogers, the registrar, showing a membership of about 100 active members and 12 life members, with four deaths during the year.

The officers were re-elected as follows: President, B. P. Bishop; vice president, Charles L. Stewart; secretary, Gilbert S. Raymond; treasurer, Mrs. Hezekiah Perkins; registrar, Mrs. E. E. Rogers; member of board of managers (three years), Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell.

Mayor Lee Roy Robbins and First Selectman William S. Murray were guests of the society and when the discussion on the cemetery site came up, Selectman Murray read the deed by which Lyman Lee conveyed a tract 15 feet square to the Mason Monument association, designating a tract adjacent to the old burying ground. Mr. Murray said he was awaiting a report from Civil Engineer George E. Pitcher, who is engaged in searching the town records in order to locate the lines and boundaries of the old "burying lot", which was set off from the Thomas Post home lot.

Mrs. Rogers gave in detail some of the results of her search of the town records, showing reference to the old burying ground in deeds from 1661 to 1872. Later in the meeting it was voted that she continue her search to locate, if possible, the exact boundaries of the old burying ground.

Mayor Robbins responded to an invitation to speak and gave it as his opinion, that, after the boundaries of the plot had been determined, the way to settle the question to the satisfaction of all would be by digging on the plot to see if any evidence of a cemetery could be discovered.

Mrs. Edith Huntington Wilson, who said that she had taken particular interest in the preservation of the old cemetery plot ever since she returned to make her residence in Norwich Town in 1923, spoke strongly of the need of doing something to prevent further desecration and division of the plot. It was an exquisitely beautiful spot in 1923, she said, but now it was simply horrible, with a road run around the monument and buildings for commercial and residential uses encroaching on the cemetery plot and the monument plot. She declared that there was proof that a person who died of smallpox in 1858 had been buried there by direction of the town authorities because this was town property.

After Mrs. Elizabeth Brewster Davis had called the attention of the meeting to the razing of the old Brewster house in the course of the changes made last year in the layout of the Military highway not far south of the residence of Walter F. Lester and had spoken of the historical significance of the old house, she was appointed chairman of a committee to consider a plan for marking the site of the old house. This, she said, was erected by Benjamin Brewster, son of Elder Brewster, who came over in the Mayflower. Benjamin Brewster was the one from whom the name Brewster's Neck was derived, having received a grant from Uncas of all land between Poquetanuck cove and the river in consideration of his promise to maintain a trading post for the Indians. When the old house was torn down, the initials "B. B." were found marked high up in the chimney, she said, and she thought this site was a spot eminently suitable for marking to preserve its historic record.

The meeting passed a rising vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Bishop and Miss Marion Bishop for their delightful hospitality in entertaining the meeting of the society and serving refreshments for the social part of the evening.

SIX JUDGMENTS AGAINST NEAR-SIGHTED MOTOR DRIVER

Calling the way Frank Mader of Dunham street operated his automobile "an outrageous case of reckless driving," Judge Allyn L. Brown in a superior court decision handed down Wednesday awarded total damages of $11,975 to six persons, three of whom were struck by Mader's machine on Nov. 10, 1928 as they were standing on Norwich avenue, Taftville, waiting to take a trolley car. Those for whom judgment is rendered in suits brought by Attorney Thomas M. Shields are Arthur X Bessette and his wife Agnes, of Taftville; Joseph Desrosiers and his wife Bernadette of Taftville; William Emerson and his wife Anna of Lisbon. All three of the women sued for $10,000 damages and the men for $1,000 each.

Despite the fact that the six people have obtained judgments of nearly $12,000, the question now arises as to whether or not they can be collected. Mader claims that he is insured for between $10,000 and $20,000 and if this fact can be established the judgments will hold good. Mader personally has nothing to pay the judgments or any part thereof. The insurance company in which Mader claims to have the insurance denied that he is insured with them, and refused to defend the action.

If the insurance company fails to pay within a month's time the judgments as given by Judge Brown, Attorney Thomas M. Shields stated that he will bring suit against the insurance company to collect the amount of damages awarded by the court.

Judge Brown is an interesting but brief decision on the case, says.

These six cases, in each of which a default had been entered against the defendant for non appearance, were heard together. The cases in which the women are plaintiffs are for damages for their respective personal injuries sustained through being negligently run down by the defendant's automobile at about noon on November 10, 1928, as they stood near the easterly side of Norwich avenue in Taftville in the town of Norwich, waiting to board an approaching trolley car. In the other three cases the respective husbands of the three women plaintiffs, seek to recover for loss of services and the expense incurred by them respectively for treatment of the injured.

The evidence clearly established an outrageous case of reckless driving by this defendant, who was too near-sighted to operate an automobile with safety, and who bowled over the three women plaintiffs without warning as they stood together in the exercise of all due care upon their part awaiting the approaching trolley. Liability being clear in each case, the sole remaining question is one of damages.

After carefully reviewing the evidence offered it is my conclusion that each plaintiff is entitled to recover of the defendant herein the amount of damages below indicated, with costs; Agnes Bessette, $8,000; Arthur X. Bessette, $800; Bernadette Desrosiers, $1,500; Joseph Desrosiers, $75; Anna Emerson, $1,500; William Emerson, $100.

EXPECT H. R. TAFT TO BE FIRE CHIEF

It is understood that Acting Chief Henry R. Taft will be elected chief of the Norwich fire department at the organization meeting of the court of common council this (Thursday) evening. He will succeed Chief Howard L. Stanton who retires from active service July 1st. Acting Deputy Chief Dennis J. Brennan, it is said, will be named deputy chief to succeed Chief Taft.

METHODIST YOUNG PEOPLE WILL ATTEND INSTITUTE

More than 600 young people are expected to attend the Norwich District Young People's Institute to be held from July 1 to 7 at the Willimantic campground under the auspices of the Norwich District of the Epworth League. An interesting and elaborate programme has been formulated for the institute, which is being primarily held as a leadership training school in religious matters.

Dr. Blaine E. Kirkpatrick, general secretary of the Epworth League, is scheduled to address the assemblage on Friday and there will be other talks during the week. The programme also calls for several study periods each day, including morning watch, Bible studies, problem discussions, missions and Methodist teaching methods with sessions for fellowship, inspiration and fun in the evening. The programme is as follows:

Monday—Get acquainted social with welcome by Rev. Myron E. Genter of Norwich, district superintendent and faculty introductions by the dean, Rev. Joseph S. Pennypacker of Niantic.

Tuesday—Address, "Christian Label or Christian Life," by Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor of the local Congregational church.

Wednesday—Stunt Night by faculty and delegates.

Thursday—Impersonations, monologues, and dramatic readings, by Miss Pauline Mayo of New York. A fireworks display will be a feature.

Friday—Address and question period. The speaker will be Dr. Blaine E. Kirkpatrick, general secretary of the Epworth League, a young people's leader of international reputation.

Saturday—Outdoor service of consecration and communion. Leader and speaker, former Dean M. J. Creeger of Middletown.

The officers of the institute are: Dean, Rev. Joseph S. Pennypacker of Niantic; registrar, Miss Ella Howard of New London; manager, Rev. George Warren Potter of Norwich Town; dean of women, Mrs. John Abbot Redmond of Hingham, Mass.; director of music, Miss Lucille Gray of Syracuse university; and book steward, Miss Marjorie Stephens of Hartford.

Farewell Surprise Party

A surprise party was given Mrs. Paul Brown at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Cruthers of 750 North Main street, Monday night by her relatives and friends. Those present were: Mrs. Carrie Mahoney, Mrs. Leon Ladd, Miss Effie Ladd, Mrs. Astrid Cruthers, Mrs. Paul Swanson, Mrs. Irving Cruthers, Mrs. Edah Cruthers, Mrs. Alice Jondrow, Miss Lillian Sandberg, Mrs. Grace Sanders, Mrs. William Shugrue.

Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

Mrs. Brown was presented a handsome leather suitcase as she and her children, Alys, Albert and Mary Lou sail from New York June 6 on the navy transport Cambal for Panama, C. Z., where Mr. Brown is a chief petty officer on the submarine S-11, which is one of the boats of the Third Division that has been transfered from the sub-base at Groton to the submarine base at Co-Co--Solo, C. Z., for a number of years.

Fourth Birthday Party

Charles Lathrop celebrated his fourth birthday at a party from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lathrop, No. 271 Washington street. Fourteen of his friends were present. Games were played and dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Lathrop. There were pretty decorations, the color scheme being pink and white. The children present were Saxton Sevin, Herbert Willey, Nancy VanTassel, Teddy Gay, Sonny Hull, Doris Wilcox, Hannah Heath, Billy Hopkins, Jimmy Block, Betty and Lucile Block, Calvin, Edwin and John Atchison.

TAFTVILLE

When the members of the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor held their weekly meeting Sunday evening in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church, the devotions were led by Miss Mary Greenhalgh. The speaker was Woodrow Jinj, a Chinese student at Hartford Theological seminary and a friend of the pastor of the church, Rev. William Palmer. His topic which was highly interesting was "The Present Condition of China." At the morning service the anthem after the offertory was "We Beseech Thee," sung by the choir under the direction of the church organist and choir leader, Miss Nellie S. Howie, with the soprano parts sung by Mrs. Elsie K. Pingree.

The members of St. Veronica's society enjoyed a delicious chicken supper at their rooms on Providence street on a recent evening. Sixteen covers were laid. Miss Mary Ward was the chairman of the committee that had charge of the pleasing affair, and Mrs. Berry catered.

It was announced that the annual Children's day program of the Taftville Congregational church school is to be held June 16 instead of June 9 as previously announced.

The Misses Elizabeth and Sadie Jackson of North B street spent the week end with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John Doyle of Sturbridge, Mass.

The members of the Ladies Rifle club of the German Shooting club of Bilasville met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Bernard Krauss of the Jewett City road. The affair was in the nature of a farewell party in honor of Mrs. George Heibel, Jr., who has been president of the club and who is leaving town to make her home in Patterson, N. J. Mrs. Heibel was presented a handsome ostrich leather hand bag by her fellow members. Mrs. Richard Spielvogel is to serve as president for the unexpired term of Mrs. Heibel. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Krauss.

Miss Gertrude McCarthy has returned to her home in East Orange, N. J., after spending a week with Miss Lorraine D. Gladue of Providence street.

Miss Eva Lambert of South A street has as her guest Miss Leona Blanchette of Long Island, N. Y.

ACADEMY ORCHESTRA GIVES FINE CONCERT PROGRAMME

The Academy orchestra in its 24th annual concert Wednesday evening at Slater hall marked the culmination of its year's study under the efficient and careful tutelage of its conductor, Frederic H. Cranston, who for many years has held this responsible position. Assisting the orchestra in its presentation of a well balanced and arranged programme were Richard and Gladys Laubin, whose Indian dance numbers provided a feature for the evening.

The orchestra opened the programme with the rendition of Flag Day (Schramm) followed up by four other numbers, which were all given with true understanding and fine effect. Reginald and Gladys Laubin gracefully presented The Devil Dance with encore and The Ghost Dance, both of which were given in costume. Henry J. LaFontaine accompanying at the piano. The readings were by Miss Gertrude N. Church.

A number on the programme that was rendered with unusually grace and technique was the piano solo, Rondo Brilliant, opus 62, (von Weber), by Miss Eileen Krause, a member of the orchestra, who graciously responded to an encore.

The final group of numbers by the orchestra, four in all, rounded out one of the most interesting programmes that has been presented by it at Slater hall, since the yearly appearances came into vogue. The careful and faithful instruction of Conductor Cranston was brought out in the orchestra's ensemble numbers, which were very well received by the large audience, as were the special numbers.

The programme was as follows:

Flag Day — Schramm
Valse Pathetique — Lake
Adagio Pathetique — Godard
Andante from Surprise Symphony — Hadyn
Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna — V. Suppe

The Devil Dance
Reginald and Gladys Laubin
Mr. Henry LaFontaine at the piano
Miss Gertrude N. Church, Reader
Rondo Brilliant, opus 62 — von Weber
Miss Eileen Krause

The Ghost Dance
Reginald and Gladys Laubin

Spanish Dance No. 1 — Moszkowski
Ballet from Faust — Gounod
Parade of the Wooden Soldiers — Jessel
Blue Danube Waltz — Strauss

The members of the orchestra comprise:

First violins—Ada Raphael, Earle Swan, Josephine Hourigan, Dorothy Stegart, Magdalen Lynch, Margaret P. Coleman, Dorothy Beetham, Sarah G. Gill, Celia Tankel, Margaret Connolly, James N. Casey, Sarah M. Taffel.

Second violins—Frank F. Dodge, Judith E. Oaken, Curtis A. Hedler, Miriam Gordon, Daniel Alexander, Virginia Freeman, Ethel Brown, James C. Casey, Anna Leone, Frank Palowski, Joseph Longo, George Bell.

Violas—Maurice Taylor, Germania Kocay, F. Everett Reed. Clarinet—Sherman H. Barber. Piano—Eileen Krause, Stella S. Glowacki. Organ—H. Dwight Richardson. Trumpets—Shepard B. Palmer, Thomas L. O'Neil, Lawrence Deauville. Trombone—Mr. Louis H. Walden. Tympani—Francis McCarthy. Drum—William Leonard.

POLISH REPUBLICAN CLUB IN MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

At the monthly meeting of the Polish Republican club held Wednesday evening in their clubrooms in Pulaski hall it was voted to conduct a drive for new members, the drive to start immediately. The primary aim of the drive is to enlarge the membership with young Polish men of American birth, residents of the town of Norwich, who are not as yet voters and all those hose intentions toward American citizenship has been shown. After the meeting extended good wishes to the newly elected councilman, J. K. Panek, for success in his new field of endeavor the session adjourned.

NORWICH TOWN

MISS MARY A. WITTER DIES AT JOHNSON HOME, AGE 90

The long and useful life of Miss Mary A. Witter, 90, came to a peaceful close Wednesday morning at 3:15 o'clock, following a brief illness, at the Johnson home, Norwich Town. Miss Witter, who had been as well as usual until a few days ago, died quite suddenly, due to her advanced years. She was next to the youngest of five children born to Mr. and Mrs. Lucas Witter (Miss Downer) and was born in Norwich, March 1st, 1839. Later the family moved to Preston Plains, where she spent her girlhood.

Miss Witter had been an esteemed member of the household at Johnson home for 22 years, having been among the first to be enrolled there. A most quiet person in the home, yet active for her years, she kept busily engaged in making domestic articles, etc. Among her chief interests was her love for birds. She was a member of the United Congregational church for many years, and before locating at Johnson home, with a sister, Mrs. Juliet Ackley, resided on Upper Washington street. Mrs Ackley entered the home with her sister, but she passed away several years ago. Her other sisters were: Jesse Witter, and Mrs. Abby Beckwith. There also was a brother, Lucas. Her only surviving relatives are two nephews: Charles Beckwith, of New York, and Harry Beckwith, of Columbus, Ohio. There is a great-nephew, Harry Beckwith, Jr., a student at Harvard university. During her stay at Johnson home, these nephews have maintained a faithful and loving devotion for her interests and comfort in life. Especially so, was this manifested during her declining years. Patient, kind and appreciative, almost her last words were praises to God, for the devoted care she had received during her long residence at Johnson home.

At Gales Ferry Meeting

Mrs. George W. Potter, of Norwich Town, who has been passing a few days at the Hartland cottage, Niantic, was present Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society (Norwich district) of the New England Southern conference, held at Gales Ferry Methodist church. Mrs. Potter was elected president for Norwich district of the Young Peoples branch of the Woman's Home Missionary society.

Feast Of The Sacred Heart

Friday, the first Friday of June, at the Sacred Heart church, the feast of the Sacred Heart will be observed with Holy Communion at 5:30 and again at 6:30 that morning, followed by the mass at 7 o'clock. Friday evening at 7:30, at this church, there will be special devotions in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus. This will be followed by benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

HOOVER IS FURTHERING HIS LAW ENFORCEMENT PROGRAM

Has Recommended the Appointment of a Joint Committee of the House and Senate to Frame Legislation Transferring the Major Activities of Prohibition Enforcement From the Treasury to the Justice Department—Would Unify the Border Patrols and Bring Together in a Working Group the Customs, Internal Revenue, Coast Guard and Immigration Agencies, Which Now Work Under the Treasury and Labor Departments.

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—President Hoover today took the second step in carrying out his law enforcement observance program recommending to congress the appointment of a joint committee of the house and senate to frame legislation transferring the major activities of prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department.

Coincidentally, his recently created national law enforcement commission in its first hearing—a secret session—heard Secretary Mellon upon whom the major responsibility for the enforcement of the Volstead and other dry laws now rests.

A demand for open hearings by the commission was made in the senate by Senator Hawes, democrat, Missouri, who asserted that secret hearings "will defeat the object of the commission; will destroy confidence in the thoroughness of its work or the impartiality of its conclusion."

Congressional leaders moved swiftly to carry out the recommendations the president submitted in a brief special message, which disclosed a comprehensive program for unification of federal agencies dealing with enforcement of the laws. Senator Jones, republican, Washington, a leader of the drys, offered a resolution authorizing a joint committee of seven, three to be appointed by Vice President Curtis and four by Speaker Longworth.

The resolution was referred to the judiciary committee and Chairman Norris said it would be considered at the regular meeting next Monday. An early favorable report on the resolution is expected.

Administration officials explained the president regarded unification of the enforcement agencies as highly important, and that he had asked congress to name a joint committee at this time so that a program can be made ready for consideration by congress early in the regular session which begins December 2.

An inter-departmental committee has been making a preliminary survey of this question under the direction of James Doran, prohibition commissioner, and it will cooperate with the congressional committee, as will the national law enforcement commission, which in the course of its work will make a study of this whole question.

As administration officers explain it, the transfer of the enforcement machinery to the justice department involves an extensive study of existing laws and regulations as well as of policy in dealing with the coast guard and customs services, which now are integral parts of the treasury and were created early in the life of the republic to deal with the administration and enforcement of the customs laws and regulations.

Whether these units can be administered to better advantage in the treasury or the justice departments is one of the major decisions which must be made in determining upon the whole transfer program. Another important question is where the alcohol permit division of the prohibition unit is to go.

The president's decision to bring about unification of the border patrols is in line with his recognized policy for consolidation of related governmental agencies and activities in the interest of efficiency. His plan would bring together in a working group the customs, internal revenue, coast guard and immigration agents, which now work under the treasury and labor departments.

From such preliminary study as has been made, it has been the thought of some administration officers that the administrative end of prohibition enforcement—control of the field agents—might well be placed in a newly created division of the justice department under direction of a capable organizer and administrator.

There also has been the suggestion that the very large legal division in the enforcement unit might well be transferred into the justice division, which is now charged with the prosecution of dry law cases in the federal courts of the country. The alcohol permit system might go into justice or again it might be transferred to the commerce department since it deals with the business aspects of the question.

Administration officers explained that the president asked congress to act at this time in accord with his ideas of having readily available all of the facts in the case before efforts at enactment of the necessary legislation are made. Much legislation will be necessary to bring about the sort of unification he has in mind.

FRENCH COUNT AMONG 33 MEN HELD AS RUM SYNDICATE

NEW YORK, June 6—(AP)—Thirty-three men, including a French count, were arrested today as operators of a syndicate alleged to have brought millions of dollars worth of liquor into this country.

Maxence De Polignac, the count, was considered the biggest catch of the lot. Agents of the prohibition enforcement department said they had been trying to get him for years.

The arrests were made in a series of raids carried out with all the trappings of stage melodrama. William Calhoun, chief of the under-cover men in this district, picked 40 of his assistants for the work but gave them no instructions except where to report at by "zero hour."

Not one of the raiders knew in advance what he was going to do and so the chance of a leak was minimized. When the agents gathered they were divided into 10 groups, each group being then told to raid a separate place.

One group went to the fashionable Savoy-Plaza hotel in Fifth avenue, where the count, preparing to leave for France tomorrow, was taken. Another made arrests and seizures of records at the alleged headquarters of the syndicate in another Fifth avenue building. Other groups raided sub-offices, warehouses, a trucking concern and rooming houses where the rest of the arrests were made and more than two truckloads of liquor were seized.

The count was held in $25,000 bail, which he furnished, and the others in lesser amounts. After his release the count consented to being photographed by news cameramen. He told reporters that he was foreign agent for Pommerigrenol, French winery, travelling all over the world for them, but asserted that he never had knowingly violated the American laws.

He said he recently had been in Canada to conduct business with the liquor commission and had come here 10 days ago. Seven cases of liquor found in his suite he said were solely for his own use. Possession of revolvers he explained by saying he had bought them for a French game keeper.

June 26 was set for hearing on the charges against the prisoners.

DRIVE AGAINST LIQUOR ON THE CANADIAN BORDER

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—Determined to end rum-running across the Canadian border in the Detroit area, the treasury today ordered a concentration of customs and prohibition agents and coast guardsmen to start an intensive drive against liquor smugglers there.

Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary, said every valiable agent from other sections of the United States would be sent into the area under command of E. R. Norwood, a veteran customs agent, who has been in charge of the territory in northern New York with headquarters at Ogdensburg.

Norwood has been in the government service for 30 years. He succeeds E. A. Young, special agent in charge of the newly organized customs special squad at Detroit, who was transferred to Chicago.

The decision for concentrated effort to break up liquor smuggling from Windsor and other Canadian points was reached today at a conference held in Lowman's office. Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the Coast Guard, J. M. Doran, prohibition commissioner, and Frank Dow, acting customs commissioner, were present.

It was the outcome of reports that large quantities of liquor were being brought into the United States from Canada and the recent investigation in the customs border patrol at Detroit, which resulted in indictment of 22 agents and conviction of 11.

Carey Ferguson resigned as collector of customs at Detroit yesterday. He was not involved in any way in the charges made against the customs agents, Lowman said, and resigned to enter private business.

As soon as the conference adjourned, orders went forth for agents to concentrate at Detroit and the Coast Guard ordered all available small boats from all sections of the country to be set to Lakes Huron, Erie and St. Claire.

DESIGN REORGANIZATION OF DRY ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—A resolution to carry out the recommendation made to congress today by President Hoover for appointment of a select committee to study reorganization of the prohibition enforcement agencies was prepared late today by Senator Jones, republican, Washington, for immediate introduction.

LAVA FROM VESUVIUS CONTINUES TO DIMINISH

NAPLES, June 6—(AP)—Dozens of families returned tentatively to their abandoned houses in the village of Terzigno and the surrounding district this afternoon on publication of reassuring news from the Mount Vesuvius observatory that the flow of lava which the great volcano has been sending forth since Monday has decidedly diminished.

The huge wall of lava halted just outside Terzigno and the inhabitants believe that Saint Gennaro, patron of Naples, intervened to stop it.

Earthshocks accompanied the volcanic explosions this morning but soon died down. Investigation then showed that the lava pools were rapidly congealing.

Troops still are maintained at all strategic points on the belief that the activity of the volcano is fickle and unreliable.

A tabulation of the damage caused by the eruption showed that 50 houses were destroyed, containing 147 habitations occupied by 78 families. One hundred and twenty-five acres of ground were covered with lava, of which about 90 were cultivated in vineyards, and the rest forest.

WOULD INVESTIGATE THE SHIPPING BOARD

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—An investigation into the shipping board by a house committee to learn why the board declined to reduce ocean freight rates on cargo shipped from Boston to the United Kingdom and northern European ports, was asked in a resolution introduced today by Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, republican, Massachusetts.

LOS ANGELES DEPUTY POLICE CHIEF SUSPENDED

LOS ANGELES, June 6—(AP)—Deputy Chief James Lyons, head of the police personnel bureau announced tonight Captain James Bean, veteran head of the homicide detail, had been suspended on charges of "gross neglect in duty growing out of the investigation of the murder of Mrs. Virginia Patty and the escape of William L. CABLED PARAGRAPHS

DUBLIN, June 6—(AP)—Establishment of a consulate-general of the Irish Free State in New York, to supercede the present trade and passport office, was proposed in the Dail tonight by Patrick McGilligan, foreign minister.

BUENOS AIRES, June 6—(AP)—The projected flight from Buenos Aires to Seville, Spain, struck a snag when Diego Arzeno, who with Lieutenant Clandio Mejia purchased the transatlantic plane "Friendship" in which Amelia Earhart flew to Wales, wrote to Roger Balet, backer of the flight, and announced his intention to give up the project.

LONDON, Jun 6—(AP)—The problem of having an official hostess is not one of the present day worries in official circles, even though the new prime minister has no wife. Isabel Macdonald, 26 year old daughter of the new premier who was her father's hostess at 10 Downing street in 1924, is placidly making plans for reoccupancy of the official residence.

MISTRIAL ORDERED IN CASE OF SHERIFF CROWE

ABINGDON, Va., June 6—(AP)—Judge A. C. Buchanan ordered a mistrial today in the case of James E. Crowe, Washington county deputy sheriff, charged with the murder of J. W. Kendrick, after the jury had twice reported inability to agree on a verdict. The jury was discharged after two hours and 13 minutes deliberation and the case continued until the September term of court.

The state charged that Crowe, in company with Deputy Sheriff W. D. Worley and James McReynolds, an Abingdon policeman, fired on an automobile the night of May 6 occupied by Paul Phelps, Sterling Dutton and J. W. Kendrick. One of the bullets fatally wounding Kendrick, a sixteen year old Emory and Henry college student.

The commonwealth contended that there was no reasonable ground for the gun fire, while the defense sought to show that Phelps had once before been convicted of violation of the prohibition law and that the officer had "reasonable ground to believe" that he was transporting liquor at the time of the shooting. The case rested primarily on whether a felony—the transportation of liquor—was being committed at the time and whether the officers had reasonable ground to believe that such was the case.

Under the Virginia law the transportation of whiskey is a felony and officers have the right to shoot, and if necessary with intent to kill, to apprehend a felon.

MURDER SUSPECT TALLMAN DISAPPEARED FROM STEAMER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6—(AP)—Discovery that a life preserver was missing on the steamer Admiral Benson from which Wm. L. Tallman, suspected of slaying Mrs. Virginia Patty in Los Angeles disappeared last night, led police to believe today that the young radio man may have made his way ashore or perished in the attempt.

Despite this clue, however, fifty police were searching the vessel on the theory that Tallman still was aboard hidden in the cargo or engine room.

A theory that the suspect in the Los Angeles closet murder may have been furnished with a woman's clothing by an accomplice and walked ashore when the vessel docked led to a guard being placed at motor stage and train depots.

A broken lock on the door of the cabin in which Tallman had been placed by the Benson's captain on radio orders from Los Angeles police confronted San Francisco officers when they boarded the vessel to take the suspect into custody last night. The lock had been uncrewed and Tallman was nowhere to be found.

Tallman boarded the vessel at San Pedro on the morning Mrs. Patty's body was found hanging in a closet in a Los Angeles apartment. The radio man and Mrs. Patty, wife of Frank Patty, had been on intimate terms for a year, according to information furnished police by friends of the pair. Bloodstained clothing identified as Tallman's was found in the room.

LATERAN RATIFICATIONS TO BE EXCHANGED TODAY

ROME, June 6—(AP)—The Vatican City as a political entity will come into formal recognition tomorrow with the exchange of ratifications of the lateran accords between the Italian government and the Holy See. Premier Mussolini will enter the Vatican for the first time in his life on the same day when it is rumored Pope Pius will make his exit.

Arrangements for the ceremony were concluded today. The brief proceedings, less ceremonious than had been first expected, will take place in the "Hall of Congregations," in the apartments of Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state.

Immediately after the exchange and the drawing up and signature of the process-verbal attesting the exchange the Vatican states and the new frontiers of the Vatican City will be closed by the Swiss guards. The famous bronze doors, which have never been more than half open since the fall of temporal power in 1870, will be flung wide open as a symbol of liberation of the pope from his self-imposed imprisonment.

All services of the new Vatican state are not yet quite ready to function but the delay will be so brief that no trouble is expected.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT CENSUS BILL DEFEATED

WASHINGTON June 6—(AP)—A motion to send the census bill back to committee was defeated in the house today by 253 to 126.

The proposal would have had the effect of defeating the measure, which provides both for a census and reapportionment of the house.

The vote for 273 to 105.

The vote came after the house reconsidered its action in incorporating the alien and disenfranchisement proposals in the bill. A motion to send the bill back to committee also was beaten 253 to 126.

The bill would insure a new allotment of congressional seats among the different states if congress fails to act on the basis of the 1930 census which the measure would provide.

FAVOR INVESTIGATION OF KILLING OF MRS. DE KING

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 6—(AP)—A full and complete investigation of the killing of Mrs. Joseph D. King in a dry raid in Aurora was recommended to the Illinois legislature today by its special committee named to investigate the matter.

New British Labor Cabinet Completed

Ministry to Be Announced Today—Already Work on Unemployment Problem.

LONDON June 6—(AP)—The new labor cabinet is understood to have already been completed and the list of new ministers will be made public tomorrow night. The first meeting of the new cabinet is to be held on Monday and immediately after that Premier Ramsay MacDonald will go to Scotland for a short holiday.

Mr. MacDonald accompanied by two of his colleagues, Philip Snowden and J. H. Thomas, visited the prime minister's official residence, No. 10 Downing street, today.

After the visit, the premier announced the labor government already had started steps to deal with one of its greatest problems.

"We went to Downing street," Mr. MacDonald said, "to set in motion organization work connected with the first real handling of the unemployment problem. Work has already begun."

Two appointments in the new labor cabinet may be considered definite. J. H. Thomas, former minister of colonies in the first labor government, will become lord privy seal, which is a sinecure office leaving him free to deal particularly with the whole problem of unemployment in all its economic bearings. Mr. Thomas is particularly qualified for such an office, having been president of the National Union of Railwaymen since 1910.

The other appointment is that of Lord Justice Sankey as lord chancellor.

It appears probable, though these portfolios are speculative rather than certain, that the other chief offices will be filled as follows: Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, post which he held in the first labor government; Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary, John R. Clynes, home secretary.

Mr. Clynes in the previous labor government was lord privy seal and labor leader in the house of commons. If he becomes home secretary another minister must take the leadership of the house.

Mr. Thomas, who was at first mentioned in connection with the foreign office, admitted today he would take over the task of solving the unemployment problem.

"If I were looking for a sinecure I should not take this appointment," Mr. Thomas said to The London Evening News. "The prime minister and my colleagues feel, however, that unemployment presents the most responsible task that has to be undertaken and I have undertaken it. I am aware of the difficulties but I intend to tackle them in a wholehearted fashion."

Mr. Thomas has a plan for dealing with unemployment which involves railway reorganization, the development and revival of trade, and pensions for aged workers.

The post of George Lansbury, formerly editor of the Daily Herald, the national labor paper and member of the central unemployed body for London, will be first commissioner of works and he will be a member of the committee on unemployment of which Mr. Thomas will be chairman.

It also was confirmed on good authority that Lord Chelmsford is likely to be secretary for India.

SENTIMENT OF SHRINERS FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT

LOS ANGELES, June 6—(AP)—The Imperial council of the Ancient Arabic Orber, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine in annual session here sent a message to President Hoover today expressing the sentiment of the organization on his law enforcement program.

The message follows:

"The imperial council Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles Mystic Shrine for North America now in annual session at Los Angeles, Calif., sends cordial greetings and pledges its hearty support in your splendid program of law enforcement. The six hundred thousand nobles of this order are all devoted citizens, true to their president and loyal to the country's constitution and laws and their cooperation, we trust, may be most helpful to you in your efforts to re-establish a wholesome respect for law and order. (Signed)

JAMES H. PRICE, imperial recorder.

JAIL TERMS AND FINES FOR DRUNKEN AUTO DRIVERS

BRIDGEPORT, June 6—(AP)—A policy of jail terms for drunken automobile drivers, was continued in criminal common pleas court today when Judge Frederick W. Huxford sentenced several such violators to short terms in the county jail.

Harry Nemphius, 43, New York city, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to five days in jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving and operating while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested in Greenwich on April 23 and in the borough court there he was fined a like amount and sentenced to ten days in jail.

A fine of $100 and costs and one day in jail was meted out by the judge to Harry A. Wesley, 26, Stamford, when he offered a plea of guilty to operating while drunk. In the Stamford city court he had been fined $100 and costs and sent to jail for ten days.

Peter Shand, 47, Darien, will spend the next three days in jail for operating while drunk. He was arrested in Darien and fined $100 and costs and sent to jail for ten days.

LONDON EVENING NEWS' VIEWS ON DIPLOMATIC RUM

LONDON, June 6—(AP)—The Evening News today expresses considerable sympathy for other diplomats at Washington because of the position in which they have been placed by the apparent decision of Sir Esme Howard to forego the diplomatic privilege of importing liquors for the British embassy.

The newspaper says "diplomatic immunity has always been a privilege jealously guarded by all nations and if diplomats begin to voluntarily whittle it down in order to placate citizens on grounds of citizens of the country to which they are accredited, there is no saying where the process may end."

The News is disposed to think the situation one calling for action, or perhaps inaction, by the whole diplomatic corps at Washington rather than one in which "an individual minister can play a lone hand." It sympathizes with other diplomats whom it fears will be put by implication into the position of intransigent vets if they do not follow the lead of Sir Esme.

Diamond Bracelet Found In Codfish

Theory is That Bracelet is One Lost Recently Over Side of an Ocean Steamer.

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S., June 6—(AP)—A canny fisherman has just refused an offer of $75 for a bracelet imported duty-free at Point Anconi as part of the personal adornment of a codfish.

The bracelet, set with twelve alleged diamonds, was worn inside the cod, which despite its bejewelled state showed lamentable lack of sophistication and was caught by Homer LeBlanc of Alder Ferry in Point Anconi.

A popular theory is that the bracelet is one lost recently over the side of an ocean steamer in New York harbor. Time and distance have been figured and the claim is made that the cod at the time of its capture would be just about due in Cape Breton waters.

Jewelers have estimated the bracelet's value at from nothing to $6,000. Mr. LeBlanc is holding out in hopes that the more optimistic estimations are right, in which case he says he intends to buy a large schooner and expand his fishing activities.

FREQUENT REPORTS OF THE LOSS OF JEWELRY

NEW YORK, June 6—(AP)—The finding of a bracelet taken from a codfish, caught in Cape Breton, N. S., water today recalled that New York authorities receive frequent reports of the loss of jewelry in the harbor from steamers, usually by persons too vigorous in the salute of the statue of liberty or in greeting relatives and friends ashore.

Officials said the most recent report was the loss of a bracelet valued at several thousand dollars by a woman who waved to her husband as the ship on which she was a passenger was approaching its pier.

Authorities here, however, said they were unable to identify either the bracelet or the fish from the description given by the North Sydney fisherman. Fisherman here—not considered authorities in any factual inquiry—declared there was no record of a cod in New York harbor since their records began.

DRAFTING CONCLUSIONS ON GERMAN REPARATIONS

PARIS, June 6—(AP)—Experts of the reparations conference today found that detail work in drafting the conclusions reached on German reparations after nearly four months of trying efforts has its own difficulties.

They have worked night and day since final agreement was reached on Tuesday to prepare the conference report for signature so that the conference could break up and the delegates start homeward on Saturday.

The ceremony of signature of the report was fixed today for 5 p. m. tomorrow in the tea room of the Hotel George V. The proceedings will be of the simplest kind, with press photographers for the only spectators.

It is probable that only a summary of the document will be published tomorrow and release of the full text reserved for Sunday morning.

The work of condensation has compressed the original draft of 15,000 words into a much smaller compass.

Owen D. Young, Thomas M. Perkins and Thomas W. Lamont, together with the staff of the American delegation cheered up under the prospect of going home. They were guests of Mr. Lamont at luncheon today with American press representatives. Mr. Lamont, Mr. Young and Jeremiah Smith, legal adviser to the delegation, reviewed the vicissitudes of the conference.

BEQUESTS TO PROMOTE MUSICAL EDUCATION

NEW YORK, June 6—(AP)—Four universities and four music colleges were left $100,000 each for the furtherance of musical education in the will of Charles H. Ditson, music publisher, filed today.

The beneficiaries are Harvard, Yale, Columbia and Princeton universities, the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, the Chicago Musical College, the College of Music of Cincinnati and the Ann Arbor School of Music of the University of Michigan.

The money is to be used either to establish chairs of music, musical history or musical aesthetics, to establish scholarships or fellowships in music; or to give public performances of the musical compositions of talented students and graduates.

The will also provided for the distribution of $30,000 among the employes of the Oliver Ditson company of Boston and $16,000 among those of Charles H. Ditson & Company of New York.

Mr. Ditson, who was president of both companies, died May 16 last at his home here.

MAY HAVE BEEN HONEYMOON CRAFT OF THE LINDBERGHS

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 6—(AP)—Coast guards at the Isle of Shoals station reported that a cabin cruiser, believed to be the honeymoon craft of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh had hove to about a mile off shore for several hours today. After a heavy fog had lifted, the craft proceeded east in the direction of Portland, Me.

Besides being similar in design to the Lindbergh boat, the Mousite, the coast guards reported that the name of the craft was covered with canvas. Previous reports from other points along the coast indicated that Lindbergh had used canvas to conceal the identity of his craft.

CAPT. DUNKIN KILLED WHEN HAWSER SLIPPED

GEORGETOWN, S. C., June 6—(AP)—Captain Edward Dunkin, of Jacksonville, Fla., master of the barge Southeast, was killed almost instantly today and James Randall, of Massachusetts, member of the crew was injured by a hawser which slipped from its cleat and struck them. The barge was cruising six miles off the Georgetown bar at the time.

DECREASE IN LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ending June 5, were announced by the Federal Reserve board today as $3,754,000,000, representing a decrease of $4,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

HOUSE PASSED THE CENSUS AND REAPPORTIONMENT BILL

Amendments Which Would Have Excluded Aliens and Disfranchised Citizens Were Stricken Out—Republican Leader Tilson Was Instrumental in Having the Objectionable Amendments Eliminated—The Bill Now Goes Back to the Senate For Agreement to Minor Changes Made by the House.

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—The census bill was passed by the house today after a stormy session featured by successful parliamentary maneuvers of party leaders for elimination of two amendments which they feared had endangered the reapportionment provisions of the legislation.

The bill goes back to the senate for agreement to minor changes made by the house. Passage of the legislation made it almost certain that house representation would be reapportioned among the various states on the basis of the 1930 census provided by the measure.

There has been no re-alotment of seats since 1911, although the constitution specifies that a reapportionment shall be made every ten years.

Consideration of the legislation in the house was marked by a series of the most tense situations that branch has experienced in several sessions. It saw written into the measure and then stricken from it two proposals which would have made large reductions in the representations of industrial and possibly southern states.

The first was to exclude aliens from the count upon which reapportionment is based. The second would have excluded from the count disfranchised citizens and was aimed at the southern states where it has been contended many Negroes were not permitted to vote.

Both proposals were adopted by the house Tuesday and the move by leaders today to strike them from the bill came as a surprise after they had failed yesterday to agree upon a parliamentary method by which this might be accomplished.

The move was made by Representative Tilson of Connecticut the majority leader, in the form of an amendment to strike out the language of the amendments and insert the original text. Points of order lodged against the proposal were overruled

The house then was thrown into a demonstration in favor of the alien proposal as Representative Hoch, republican, Kansas, assailed the leaders for resorting to what he termed "strong arm" tactics and reoffered his proposal to exclude aliens in the form of an amendment to the Tilson change.

The chairman held the Hoch proposal was not permissible under the rules of the house, however, and an appeal from the ruling was defeated by a vote.

The advocates of reapportionment came to the support of the Tilson amendment and it was adopted by a large vote.

Separate votes were demanded on three different proposals and four roll calls were taken before the bill finally was passed.

One caused to be retained in the bill by 189 to 188 vote provisions for a count of the unemployed. Then by a vote of 191 to 179, the house voted to strike the same provisions from another section of the measure, leaving the matter for the conferees to settle.

Another proposal to have all aliens registered was struck out of the measure by a vote of 185 to 130, and a motion to send the bill back to committee was defeated by 223 to 136. The vote on final passage was 272 to 105.

In his ruling on the Hoch amendment which prevented a vote on that proposal, Representative Chindblom, republican, Illinois, who was presiding, coupled the proposition with that of Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts to exclude disfranchised citizens from the court

The ruling prevented the house from coming to a vote a second time on either of the two proposals. Tinkham was in readiness to reoffer his amendment had the Hoch proposal been incorporated in the measure a second time.

Afterward, Tinkham issued a statement saying: "A man cannot protect himself from a foul blow."

The charge of Hoch that the leaders were resorting to "strong arm" tactics brought Tilson to his feet with an expression of resentment, and the chairman ordered the Kansas member to confine his remarks to the matter under discussion.

There were few changes in the bill in its final form from that in which it came from the senate. One of the changes would fix the time for taking the census at May, 1930, instead of November, 1929. Another struck out the civil service requirements contained in the senate bill.

On the final vote of passage there was little semblance of party lines. In general members voted for or against the measure according to whether their state would gain or lose members under a reapportionment of the members. There were mustered for the bill 132 republicans and 73 democrats with 43 republicans and 62 democrats balloting against it

TO OPPOSE INCREASE IN DUTY ON MANGANESE

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—The steel industry will carry on its drive before the senate finance committee in opposition to the increase in the duty of manganese which is being sought by domestic ore producers as a means of building up their industry in the United States.

Through the American Iron and Steel Institute, the steel manufacturers not only will oppose an increase in the present duty of one cent a pound on the metallic content of manganese ore but they will ask for its repeal. They also will seek a reclassification of ferromanganese, a bi-product, so it will take a 25 per cent duty instead of 1 7-8 cents a pound on the metallic manganese content.

The house tariff bill makes no change in existing rates on these materials, southern and western manganese interests having failed in their attempt to obtain a 50 per cent raise in the manganese rate.

ENCOURAGEMENT GIVEN CANADIAN MANUFACTURERS

HALIFAX, N. S., June 6—(AP)—Sir William Clark, British high commissioner to Canada, addressing the annual banquet of the Canadian Manufacturers' association here tonight said the tide of British trade has turned and "we may look forward with confidence to the day when the full blood will come pouring in, carrying our fortunes once more back to the old marks and past them, I hope, to heights yet unattained."

The high commissioner urged co-operation between manufacturers of the British Empire, the avoidance of unnecessary competition, the possibilities of a joint attack on other inlets. Such cooperation is consistent with the modern impulse toward the rationalization of industry, he believes.

PROGRESS MADE BY THE COUNCIL OF THE L. OF N.

MADRID, June 6—(AP)—When the league of nations council, sitting in private session, has completed its examination of the problem of minorities it will begin on June 10 its regular quarterly public session under the presidency of Dr. Adachi of Japan.

Whatever conclusions are reached by the council in its private deliberations on the complicated question of the protection of minority peoples will be considered anew at the public session.

More than thirty questions figure on the agenda of the public session, with the problem of minorities leading in importance for Europe.

The council also will note the results of the negotiations conducted by the German and Polish governments in April.

MRS. ADAMS PLEADED GUILTY TO MANSLAUGHTER

HARTFORD, June 6—(AP)—Mrs. Olive E. Adams, widow of Harry E. Adams, whom she killed with chloroform, this afternoon pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to state prison for a term of one to ten years.

Adams was the weather bureau forecast observer here at the time of his death. His former home was Stoneham, Mass.

WAITING ON WEATHER FOR OCEAN FLIGHTS

OLD ORCHARD, Me., June 6—(AP)—The crews of the American plane Green Flash, and Yellow Bird, which for two weeks have waited here with but one day of weather favorable for a hopoff for Europe, had their hopes raised for a short time today only to learn that conditions were not as good as they thought.

A weather report from Dr. James H. Kimball, of the New York weather bureau, received at mid-afternoon, led Lewis A. Yancey, navigator of the Green Flash, which will set off for Rome, to say that a hopoff would probably be made tomorrow morning. Within a short time, however, Dr. Kimball told the flyer by telephone that he "strongly advises" against the start.

Yancey described the report as the "most favorable" received in the fortnight the planes have been on the beach.

Dr. Kimball's advice against the takeoff was based on a radio message from the steamship Leviathan which told of an area of winds of gale force which the flyers would strike about 1,200 miles off the coast tomorrow night, if they set out at low tide in the morning.

RESENT CHARGE OF FEELING AGAINST THE GERMAN PEOPLE

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—Senator Glenn, republican, Illinois, charged today in the senate that "a feeling against the German people," was back of the attempt to retain the national origin systems of arriving at immigration quotas, and his assertion was denied by Senators Reed, republican, Pennsylvania and Heflin, democrat, Alabama.

Senator Glenn asserted there was "no better class of immigrants than those who have come from Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Norway and southern Ireland."

"I say that back of this whole fight is a feeling against the German people," he shouted.

Senator Heflin said "this is the first time I ever heard it suggested," that there was a feeling against the German people.

"The senator is right," Reed interposed.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

The house passed the combined census—re-apportionment bill.

A final determination of the farm relief problem tomorrow in the senate and the house was seen.

The treasury ordered an intensive drive against liquor smuggling across the Canadian border.

President Hoover recommended that congress appoint a joint committee to draft legislation transferring prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department.

The senate debated national origins and expected to reach a vote tomorrow.

SOLDIERS' PARK BEING PUT IN SHAPE FOR U'SE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 6—A real beauty spot, one that will stand as a fitting memorial to the soldier dead of the town and one where wholesome recreation will be provided for adults and the kiddies, is the plan in mind in the alteration of Soldiers' Memorial park, formerly Windham field. The field borders on Tingley street, between Main and Valley streets for a distance of 700 feet and this is now being put into shape by the street department under direction of Superintendent Edwin O. Sumner. Along this western line of the new park a six-foot concrete sidewalk with two-foot grass plots between the walks and curbing have been built. The concrete gutters are three feet wide and the street 27 feet in width. The street is being filled and will be rolled to be covered with trap rock screenings and oil.

The layout of the field is complete except for the disposition of the three-tenement house owned by Michael Mazzola on the Main street side. The house now stands on the southeast corner and a report on its purchase will be made at the common council meeting next Monday night. The council named Aldermen C. E. Macfarlane and John Reilly with Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton of the park committee to investigate the matter of purchasing this property. It is hoped that the park will be completed by the end of the summer.

G. H. GURLEY NAMED TREAS. OF $12,000 C. OF C. DRIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 6—The team captains for the $12,000 drive which will be staged here beginning next Tuesday for industrial development in the city, met at the chamber of commerce rooms this afternoon with General Chairman Frank P. Fenton, president of the chamber of commerce in charge. George H. Gurley was named as treasurer of the campaign. The drive is directed to furnish financial assistance to the Willimantic Silk, Inc., and the Kobe Silk company, both of which are new concerns located in the Rockville-Willimantic lighting company mills and which have by far surpassed all promises of growth. Still further expansion is contemplated by this silk industry and within a comparatively short time the concern bids fair to become one of the most important manufacturing plants in the city. In view of the unqualified success of the new plant it is expected that the drive will be completed within some 48 hours.

The executive committee of the campaign consists of President Fenton, President James H. Hurley of the Retail Merchants' bureau, H. N. Bullard, Louis H. Arnold, Nelson A. Daniels, John F. Carr, William P. Jordan, Roland B. Jordan, Raymond A. Parker, Joseph B. Riordan, Edwin J. Donnelly, Pierre J. Laramee and John F. Ahearn. The team captains are: Dixon Van-Zandt, Joseph B. Riordan, Benjamin Fisenberg, Albert J. Piche, Stanley J. Sumner, R. G. Remington, Charles W. Hill, John F. Ahern, John C. Frazier and John R. Pickett. These captains with the teams they have selected will meet at a dinner in the Nathan Hale hotel next Monday night when the campaign will be launched.

Elaborate arrangements for a lawn program, including costumed folk dancing by pupils of the Model school and a spring flower show at the Congregational church house, are being made by the Ladies' society of the Congregational church to be staged Wednesday afternoon and evening, June 12. The affair will be public and will commence with the folk dance on the lawn at 3:30 o'clock. A cafeteria supper will be served with a most attractive menu at 5:30 o'clock. Mrs. Robert H. Fenton is chairman of a committee now busily perfecting plans for Willimantic's first spring flower show which will include some 15 classes of flowers, both cultivated and wild. The show is to run during both the afternoon and evening. Blue ribbons for the best prize exhibits will be awarded by Professor Patch of the Connecticut Agricultural college.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Albina Cote

Leaving from the home, 30 Windham street, the funeral of Mrs. Albina Cote was held this morning with a solemn high mass of requiem in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. J. J. Papillon was celebrant; Rev. H. C. elec, deacon and Rev. E. A. Mathieu, sub-deacon. A delegation from the Ladies of St. Anne society escorted the remains of the late member to the sanctuary rails. Bearing the banner were Mrs. Gedeon Cote, Mrs. Victoria Demers and Mrs. Alphonse Chagnon while the canopy bearers were: Mrs. Thomas Lessard, Mrs. Joseph Dumas, Mrs. Uascal Gagnon nd Mrs. Solomon Belangre. The church choir rendered special singing with Mrs. Joseph F. Gaudreau at the organ. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where the committal was conducted by Rev. Father Papillon assisted by Reverends Belec and Mathieu. The bearers were, Archille Dubreuil, Dewey Masse, Albert Piche, William Robarge, Hector Dupre and Leo Piche.

Mrs. Mary L. Lathrop

Services for Mrs. Mary Larrabee Lathrop were held at the home in Windham Center at 3 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. M. R. Plumb of Edgewood, R. I., officiated, assisted by Rev. Edward F. Smiley, pastor of the Windham Congregational church. Burial was in the family plot in the Windham Center cemetery with the following as bearers, H. Clinton Lathrop, DeWitt Lathrop, Everett Bell and Henry Brown. The J. C. Lincoln company had charge of the arrangements.

The Young Women's Bible class of the First Baptist church held its annual meeting in the church vestry Wednesday evening and elected as officers: Mrs. Elizabeth Hawkins, president; Mrs. Charles W. Tryon, vice-president; Miss Amy Potter, secretary; Mrs. George W. Whitford, treasurer; Mrs. William E. Shippee, chairman of membership committee; Miss Inez Paton, chairman social committee; Mrs. Bernard Larkin, chairman sick and relief committee; and Mrs. Byron Hawkins, chairman of devotional committee. Mrs. Charles W. Tryon was chairman of the programme for the evening. Farewell gifts were presented to Mrs. Lillian Larkins and Miss Cecelia England who are to leave the city.

Judge Frank H. Foss granted a continuance until next Saturday in the case of Aime Joly of 63 Jackson street which was taken up in police court this morning. Joly, who was arrested by Officer John A. Lutton Wednesday, failed to appear in court to answer to a charge of reckless driving.

Another continuance was granted in the case of Alphonse Martineau of Bickford Road, charged with non-support of his five minor children. Martineau pleaded guilty and the case was put over until July 8, with the understanding that he will pay $10 weekly for the support of the children, until a definite adjustment of the case is made. At present the five children are making their home with other families, one of them is working and a family is desirous of adopting another. The court imposed sentences in two other cases, one of intoxication and one of simple breach of the peace.

The anniversary of the birth of Nathan Hale, one of the favorite heroes of the Revolutionary war, was noted in his native town of Coventry this evening at the mid-week service of the South Coventry Congregational church with a sermon-address on the subject by Rev. Charles G. Johnson, the pastor. The "Martyr Spy of the Revolution" was born in a little house that still stands in Coventry, on June 6, 1755, or 174 years ago. He sacrificed his life for the liberty of the nation at New York on September 22, 1776. The birthplace of Nathan Hale in Coventry is one of the many historical attractions offered to tourists in this section.

A collision early this morning near the Quality Tire service station on West Main street between a Packard coupe driven by Ralph Hare of Hartford and one of the Parker-Elliott Coal company trucks operated by George C Wilcox of 3 Windham street, resulted in some damage to the pleasure machine. Hare was driving easterly on Main street and trailing two other cars while the truck was about to enter a private driveway near the filling station. Officer Hurley investigated the accident.

The North Windham grammar school will receive a new flag and staff from Francis S. Long Woman's Relief Corps No. 28, according to a vote of the corps taken at its regular meeting Wednesday evening. During the session an invitation was read from Mrs. Maud Deming of Hartford to attend Home day on June 26 at Cromwell, with a request that the corps appoint a committee to take charge of the sale of ice cream. Mrs. Lillian Hersant was named chairman of this committee. The initiation of three new members, Mrs. Anna Slowick, Mrs. Elizabeth Lasnier and Mrs. A. G. Peters took place.

Noting the first anniversary of their wedding, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Desrosiers of West Park street Wednesday evening. Violin solos were played by Mrs. Desrosiers and Welley Crotto. Dancing was enjoyed with Eugene Martin as prompter. Present were: Mr. and Mrs. Seretny, Mr. and Mrs. Julien Lavoie, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Desrosiers, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bonin, Mrs. Anna Burns, the Misses Melia, Sedora and Fabriola Harvey, Josephine and Jennie Seretny, Anna Harvey, Edith O'Bara and May Desrosiers, Arthur Therrien and Welley Crotto.

A handsome gift of a statue of St. Therese of the Little Flower has been presented St. Mary's church in South Coventry by a friend of the parish. Rev. Dennis F. Morgan, pastor, placed the statue in position near the Blessed Virgin altar. The statue is five feet in height and is made of costly material.

COLCHESTER

DOG LAW HAS TEETH IN IT FOR OFFENDING OWNERS

Dog Warden Harold F. Brown and a deputy from the office of the commissioner of domestic animals were scouting about the farming sections of town the past week and as a result they brought into the local justice court five farmers who had not kept their dogs tied up, in compliance with the state quarantine requirements. I. Gitlin, Joseph Plecan, John Nelkin, E. Shadich and Conrad Shivetz were all brought before Justice of the Peace Charles F. Brown and Grand Juror Myron R. Abel. Each was fined $1 and costs, totalling $11.75 apiece. All had been warned to keep their dogs on their own premises and when they continued to disregard the quarantine restrictions, their arrest followed. Dog Warden Brown declared that he is to continue to enforce the quarantine rules to the limit and will make regular trips through the outskirts of the village during the next few weeks. Warden Brown asserts that if the local rabies situation does not grow worse it is probable that the quarantine will be lifted sometime in July.

The W. C. T. U. held a well-attended meeting Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. C. F. Beebe, on Linwood avenue. At the close of the meeting, the hostess served refreshments.

JEWETT CITY

SEC. CHASE GETS INQUIRY ABOUT SHOW FROM PORTO RICO

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, June 6—Some idea of the far-reaching interest which the textile products and style show of the Eastern Conn. Mills association is creating is manifested in a letter received from Porto Rico, Thursday, by Secretary P. W. Chase of Jewett City. The letter was an inquiry as to the type of show to be promoted and the company seeking the information was particularly interested in cottons.

Mr. Chase also reports that there are now four of the member mills of the association entered in the style show and that nine girls will wear garments from the mills which they represent. Several children have also entered.

One exhibitor, a Providence concern, is planning to have a stunt f'yer at Danielson some time during the three-day show who will liberate balloons from an airoplane.

Frederick L. Babcock, editor of Fibre and Fabric and "father" of the association, was in Jewett City Tuesday and Wednesday in the interest of the exhibit. Everyone is agreed that this year's show will exceed the previous successes in every way.

All Stars 8, Holy Names 7

An ultra enthusiastic gallery was at the Ashland park Wednesday evening to see the try-out game between the All Stars and the Holy Name team. Although the H. N.'s tried three men on the mound, neither Liberty, Barney nor Vachon was able to halt the terrific stick onslaught by the All-Stars. The game was won, 8 to 7, by the Stars in the 9th. Warden E. J. Jodoin did the delivering for the whole string, keeping the hits so scattered that there was nothing to it. Joe Gilbert, at the risk of his life, did the umpire work. Two baseball experts witnessing the game, declared the Stars to be true to title. Within two weeks, according to the plans given out today by Managers Barnett and Blake, the big Benedict-Bachelor game will be called on.

MISS BALLOU SOLOIST AT WHEELOCK COMMENCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Ballou attended commencement in Boston, of The Wheelock School of Kindergarten, their daughter, Miss Ruth Ballou, being graduated after a three years' course. The exercises were held in Harvard church, Brookline. Miss Ballou was selected as soloist for the song which is sung at every graduation.

Mrs. Louis T. Angier, of Uncasville, spent Thursday at the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. T. Stewart, who has been ill for some time.

Mrs. G. H. Jennings is ill in bed and is being cared for by Miss Alice Driscoll, R. N.

Mrs. J. B. Palmer has one hundred blossoms of several varieties of iris, making a beautiful display. The roots came from Mrs. E. A. Faunts' garden.

The attendants in years gone by at the Six Church conference will learn with regret of the death of Rev. Henry T. Arnold, in Norwich. During his pastorate in Plainfield, he was the very efficient scribe of the conference, giving the most comprehensive reports of each meeting. He attended these meetings always, after residing in Norwich, until the infirmities of age would not permit.

GALES FERRY

NORWICH DIST. W. H. M. S. MEETS WITH LOCAL CHURCH

The Norwich District Woman's Home Missionary society of the New England Southern conference, assembled Tuesday for the annual meeting at Gales Ferry church. The several auxiliaries of the district sent a large delegation. The morning session, at 10:30, opened with a voluntary improvisation, by the church organist, Mrs. Eugene LaFontaine. The hymn, Watchman Tell us of the Night, preceded the devotions, conducted by Mrs. Myron E. Genter, of Norwich. The district president, Mrs. John C. Gallup, of Moosup, presided, and Mrs. Jerome Greer, corresponding secretary of the conference organization and chairman of the entertaining committee of the local auxiliary, extended a welcome to the delegates.

The roll call and minutes of the annual meeting were read by the recording secretary, Mrs. Charles G. Billings, of Hazardville, and the treasurer, Mrs. E. K. Taft, of Stafford Springs, gave the year's report. Secretaries of the several departments of the district work gave reports and items of business were discussed. A solo, by Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham; the Prayer Perfect (poem by James Whitcomb Riley), preceded the noontide prayer.

One hundred delegates and local people were served dinner by members of the Gales Ferry auxiliary. Grace was said by Rev. William M. Newton, of Mystic.

At the opening of the afternoon session conferences on junior work and financial interests of the district were led by Mrs. O. L. Griswold, of Fairhaven, Mass., conference secretary of junior work, and Mrs. E. K. Taft, district treasurer. There was also time set apart for questions and answers. Mrs. Griswold, who was one of the speakers of the afternoon, presented the work of the junior department. Mrs. Robert Bitgood, of New London, president of the conference society, gave an address on Looking Backward and Thinking Forward on the Jubilee Program.

An invitation to hold the annual meeting next year with the Norwich Town auxiliary was announced. The chairman of the committee on resolutions expressed thanks to the local auxiliary for the day's entertainment.

The annual election resulted as follows: President Emeritus, Mrs. Stephen A. Prentice, New London; president, Mrs. John C. Gallup, Moosup; vice president, Mrs. B. T. Eaton, Stafford Springs; recording secretary, Mrs. Charles G. Billings, Hazardville; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, Gales Ferry; treasurer, Mrs. E. K. Taft, Stafford Springs. Secretaries for the district work were also elected. The closing prayer was by the president emeritus, Mrs. Prentice. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Jerome Greer.

Watches Los Angeles

The navy dirigible Los Angeles was watched with interest by many at the village church, Tuesday, as it turned to the east from its flight up the river, during the noon hour.

Rev. Peter C. Wright, D. D., with Mrs. Wright and son, Harmon, of Yonkers, N. Y., arrived this week to open their summer cottage on the Bluff for the season, before the departure of Dr. Wright on a western trip.

Mrs. Elmer Kidder, of Boise, Idaho, called home by the illness of her father, Charles H. Comstock, who died Saturday morning, will remain for the summer with her mother and sister.

Left For Attleboro

Mrs. O. L. Griswold, of Fairhaven, Mass., secretary of junior work of the New England Southern Conference Woman's Home Missionary society, a speaker at the Norwich district meeting here Tuesday, was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Jerome Greer at the parsonage over Tuesday night. Mrs. Geer, also a conference officer, left with her guest Wednesday morning for Attleboro, Mass., to attend a session of the Providence district W. H. M. S., also a meeting of the New Bedford district the following day, at Taunton, Mass. While away Mrs. Greer will also visit her parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Sears, at Dighton, Mass.

James Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Chalifoux, of Meriden, spent Sunday at Leisure Hour cottage.

Mrs. Edward McQuaid, of Philadelphia, arrived Tuesday for a few weeks' stay in the village.

Cephus Ball, of New London, and Eugene Bragan, of New Haven, were among the out of town attendants at the funeral of their relative, Charles H. Comstock, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Sally Ashton, of Brooklyn, N. Y., opened her cottage on the Bluff recently, for a few days' stay.

CHICAGO "PIT" GOES TO SCHOOL AT NIGHT

CHICAGO, (AP)—The Chicago board of trade has been going to night school.

More than 225 members and employes of firm members have been attending a course of lectures preliminary to launching a securities market at the board.

The purpose of the course is to familiarize members who have dealt only in grain, provisions and cotton with the routine bookkeeping and accounting principles as applied to securities trading in a typical brokerage office.

BETTER SAVE A DOLLAR A WEEK and do it EVERY week, than save more once in a while when the "spirit moves."

Because when you know you're to save one dollar every so often, you'll manage somehow to do it.

Any bank would rather have a thousand people saving a dollar a week than a hundred people "trying" to save ten.

Those people who come as regularly as clockwork are the ones that you can count on to accomplish results.

Get the "once-a-week" habit with a dollar or more. It will do you good.

OVER THE COUNTER

"Traveler's Checks and Deposit Boxes at Windham National Bank."

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Traveler:

There are three essentials to every successful trip and when I say that they are "Proper Funds," "Safety of Home Property" and "Suitable Reservations," I feel sure that you will agree with me. Beautiful scenery, fine weather and a jolly party amount to naught without these three essentials. They are the "Three Must-Haves" of Travel.

To insure Proper Funds stop in at the Windham National Bank before leaving and convert your money into Travelers Checks. They are issued in compact billfolds and in convenient denominations—$10, $20, $50 and $100—and these travelers checks are accepted as the equivalent of cash by hotels, transportation companies and the better shops and restaurants. Their great feature lies in the fact that they are negotiable only when countersigned by the original purchaser whose signature appears on their face. You keep a record of their numbers and in the event you lose your checks just notify the bank and stop payment of them. Yours will remain intact at the bank and you have not lost this first essential, as would be the case should you lose cash. The National Bank offers you Travelers Checks by The National City Bank of New York, American Express, Mellon National Bank and American Bankers Association. The cost of any of these is negligible.

You can then eliminate another source of constant worry by leaving your valuables, large or small, in Safe Deposit Boxes or the Safe Package Department at the bank before your departure. A small rental fee insures their absolute safety from burglary or fire.

If you are to stop in New York city you can now conclude your plans by securing excellent reservations at leading hotels in the metropolis through the bank.

Indeed, these are just a few of the many services offered you through the courtesy of the Windham National Bank. By accepting these there is no longer the necessity of a $20 bill in the shoe or boarding up the windows at home. It is now possible to travel in comfort and safety with all the irksome worries of the old-time journey eliminated.

Devotedly yours,
JANE.

EXPEDITION TO TEST SHORT WAVE AT POLE

MILAN, Italy, (AP)—The Albertini expedition, now on its way toward the North Pole in the whaler Heimen to search for the six lost members of the Nobile expedition, also will make experiments in short wave radio.

A chain of listening-in posts has been set up in Italy and outside this country to study short wave phenomena in relation to the influence of the earth's magnetic field and atmospheric conditions. Directing this chain is Dr. Giovanni Gallarini of this city.

The Heimen is equipped with a long-wave transmitter for communication with neighboring Scandinavian stations, and with a short-wave transmitter for communication with Milan and Rome.

INDIA BUYS MUCH SOAP PRODUCED IN AMERICA

WASHINGTON (AP) — British India emerges from recent commerce department records as the largest foreign buyer of American toilet soap. During February India imported seven times as much soap from the United States as China, the second largest foreign customer.

The figures for laundry soap yield an unusual result. The Philippine Islands imported from the United States in February more than 1,000,000 pounds of this type of soap. This was almost twice as much as imported by Haiti, the second largest purchaser.

NEIGHBORING CAMPS.

If we as residents of this section do not appreciate the many real attractions that exist, the charming lakes, the interesting countryside, and the natural beauty of rivers, ponds, hills and valleys, there have been many occasions when we have found that others do.

"See America First" has been a much used slogan. There was good reason for it and it has been the means of stirring many Americans to give themselves real treats. For the people of this vicinity some such slogan regarding the nearby attractions might well be established.

That the visit of members of the local chamber of commerce to the various camps and summer hotels in the vicinity of Norwich should prove an eye opener indicates that we are not in as close touch with these busy summer places as we should be. They are within such a distance of Norwich as to be an asset to the city. They represent a certain amount of business and a certain line of activity that is worth cultivating. They furnish first hand evidence that there are real recreational opportunities in this region that have a particular appeal to others. Such being the case it will be a mistake not to make the most of them.

New England has been often referred to as a vacation ground, the part of the country to which millions of visitors come every year and where hundreds of millions are spent by these visitors. However large the number of visitors it is possible to entertain more, and in setting forth the attractions there should be no overlooking the appeal which is made by this immediate vicinity. All that is necessary is to take a look at these camps, see the many who are getting full enjoyment there and understand how much is being made of these localities where a few years ago there was little or no activity.

Go in most any direction and it is possible to find one or more summer camps. All of them are not open as yet but throughout July and August they will be the centers of life, and places of healthful recreation, some of which have long since become permanent. What may have been considered commonplace by residents has been discovered by those who are so situated as to appreciate the wooded and open spaces to be found about Norwich.

MACDONALD'S ATTITUDE

Ramsey MacDonald has been called upon to form the new British government and he has agreed to undertake the task. It isn't a new experience, but he stands in the position of being required to provide a government that will satisfy a majority and he is not able to command a majority vote within his own party. He must so guide his efforts that he can get and retain the support of the liberals. That may be easier said than done.

Before he has set himself to the task he has been asked what his attitude is going to be in regard to certain things and he has been reported as saying that the foreign policy of his government is going to be dedicated to disarmament and peace. It is perfectly evident that he has not had time to formulate his policy in detail and it may be some days before he does but he is apparently willing to indicate that he is sympathetic towards international peace and expects to contribute to the cooperation of nations in maintaining it.

One of the statements which he made at the same time cannot fail to arouse much interest in this country for it was his declaration that he intended to enter into the immediate contact with President Hoover for the furtherance of disarmament and peace. It is possible to interpret therefrom the answer to the criticism that was made of the British at the time of the Geneva conference when disarmament, or further limitation of armament, was sought and when the responsibility for the failure to accomplish the desired results was placed upon the British. Evidently it is the intention of Mr. MacDonald to see that nothing of the kind is allowed to take place while he has anything to say about it. It is to be hoped that it actually means as much as it indicates.

DISPOSING OF DEBENTURE.

The conference committee has been wrestling with the debenture plan in the farm relief plan. This was the feature which the senate insisted upon having against the wishes of the president. It was the plan that the house believed it alone had the right to propose, under the claim of being a proposal for revenue.

While the senate has insisted upon it the house has been equally strong in its opposition. It received the senate bill and sent it to conference in the belief that it was the best way to bring about an adjustment. Since getting it, the conference committee has been impressed with the inability of getting anywhere if the debenture plan should be kept in the measure. To insist upon the plan would simply mean that there would be no farm relief legislature and it was chiefly for that that the president called the special session of congress.

After coming to an understanding in regard to the other features of the farm bill the conference committee has decided the debenture plan must go. This will satisfy the house. It should result in an acceptance of the report in the senate, and it will be in accord with the wishes of the president. Though there was no chance of the plan going through the house there are reasons for believing that the president would have vetoed it had it been submitted to him. His statements concerning it justify that view.

Even those in the senate who have insisted upon the debenture plan are not desirous that farm relief should fail. Of the two they should be the more willing to sacrifice the debenture plan, for they know full well that farm relief would have been adopted in the Coolidge administration had there not been such a foolish stand taken in behalf of the equalization fee. The folly of repeating any such mistake at this session should be readily appreciated.

THE OLD TOWN CEMETERY.

Cemeteries are pieces of property which are too often neglected. The older they get the greater the lack of attention unless some provision has been made to guard against that very thing.

During the days when those are alive who had anything to do with the establishment of cemeteries, or while descendants of those buried there reside in the vicinity, some attention is given to the walled in areas. But sooner or later there comes the time when those who are directly concerned are gone. Either they have joined the silent majority or have moved elsewhere and forgotten the burying ground. It may grow up to brush, it may become pasture land, its gravestones may lean and fall. Such is too often the case with the small country cemetery, possibly the burying ground of a few families. Because no provision has been made for it there is no one to see that conditions are any different.

It is not often the case that old cemeteries are so neglected, that they are encroached upon and in danger of desecration, barring the fact that they may stand in the way of some new and important development. Even then they are shown such respect that the remains of those buried there are removed elsewhere with due care and ceremony.

The question raised in regard to the old town cemetery near the Mason monument is a proper one. The Founders of Norwich are to be commended for their efforts to determine the exact boundaries of this burial plot established soon after Norwich was founded, and they have reason to expect the support of other organizations as well as the town itself in seeing that it is properly protected. There should be no thought of anything else.

The mere fact that a cemetery is known to have existed in that locality should be sufficient reason for seeing that adequate allowance is made that the resting place of the dead may be properly respected. That it was established nearly 300 years ago is no more reason for disregarding it in such a locality than there would be if it were only a century old.

GETTING REAPPORTIONMENT.

Those who have been standing in the way of reapportionment have been doing so because they were unwilling to accept what they regarded as the inevitable result of such a reapportionment. They have been conscious of the fact that their states were bound to lose and other states increase. This was because of the readjustment of the population in the course of time. They are desirous of keeping as large a representation in congress as they have and unwilling that others should not receive the increase to which their population entitles them.

The scheme hit upon to serve their purpose is to have the aliens excluded from the population upon which the reapportionment is based. By that it is figured that the big cities and states of the east would experience a considerable loss.

Never before has there been such discrimination made in regard to representation in congress. It is seriously questioned whether it would be constitutional, but the backers of such an idea have been met by the proposal that if such a thing as the exclusion of the aliens from enumeration is going to hold, those Negroes in the country who are denied the right to vote be also excluded from the enumeration.

That wasn't expected by the south. The south in its opposition has received some support from the west, but the south is not going to be satisfied with any such arrangement. It would seriously interfere with its representation in congress. It doesn't permit the Negroes to vote but it insists upon having representatives to cover them. Thus it will be surprising if the move which has been made regarding the Negroes who are not permitted to vote doesn't result in the removal of the provision against the enumeration of the aliens. The southern states laid themselves wide open when they acted against the aliens enumeration and Congressman Tinkham of Massachusetts made the most of it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Cheer up, the old straw hat may suffice yet.

The first rattle in the new car is as nothing compared to the last rattle in the old car.

Somebody is wrong, the Lindberghs cannot have been in all the places they have been reported.

Those who are not familiar with the features of Salmon P. Chase will soon get acquainted with them in handling those new $10,000 bills.

If the expression of the Taxpayers' association regarding the list of extras has its influence at the city meeting there's a good chance to keep the tax rate down. Possibly some cuts can be suggested.

ANESTHETIC

"You're so pretty," Mrs. Mason said.

"But being pretty isn't much," sighed Mary Rose. "There's so many other things I'm always wanting."

"For instance, what?" One of Mrs. Mason's hard, red hands closed over one of Mary Rose's fair ones.

"Oh, clothes, good times, knowing how to do things. To some girls, the days bring school, golf, tennis, sailing, dancing, sunshine. To me, they bring a green-hooded electric light, with a stack of invoices underneath, that never come to an end."

"I used to feel that way about the scrubbing and washing and Pat's dinner pail and the babies," comforted Mrs. Mason, "but I got used to it. It's not so bad after a while."

"But I don't want to get used to things," cried Mary Rose in a voice drenched with hopelessness. "I want them to be different."

"There's heaps of folks with things different that get tired of their lot, too." Mary Rose choked back a sob and trudged wearily to her room.

Next morning, things seemed different. There was a fresh crispness about faces, clothes, voices, even duties in the early daylight hours that disappeared with their passing. At the office, Mary Rose disposed of the first few invoices with a gusto; then the outer door opened and in brisked Annette Kauffman, the manager's daughter wearing a tangerine sport suit.

"Good morning," said Mary Rose, and wished that she had a tangerine sport suit. She heard Annette say to her father in the inner office, "Hello, daddy, how about a little change, old precious?"

"Will twenty do?"

"You don't think a girl could do with $20 when she goes shopping?" Mary Rose thought how much she could do with $20 if she were going shopping.

"Here's a check for fifty," said Kauffman. Annette swept out of the office. Annette, who turned her hand to nothing useful, could command $50 in a twinkling. Mary Rose, who was always turning her hand to something useful, could not command half as much in a whole week.

"What's the use?" thought Mary Rose. All the freshness went out of the morning; the green hooded light blazed in her eyes; the invoices towered menacingly. She covered her face with her hands and began to cry softly. The outer door re-opened. Mary Rose jumped, dabbed awkwardly at her tears, and discovered a tall young man, standing beside her desk.

"Something hurt?" he asked. And the manner of his voice and the manner of his smile made Mary Rose forget about Annette, the tangerine dress, old Kauffman, and the money. Even the pile of invoices and the electric light might have been in Hindustan for all the notice she took of them just then.

The young man was John Warner, a new driver on the parcel post route. He made plain remarks about the weather but they did not sound plain to Mary Rose. Before he left he said, "See here, I don't want to find you crying next time I bring a package." And he did not. Before long he did not wait for the excuse of a package to stop at Kauffman's. He came each evening at closing time and conducted Mary Rose either to supper somewhere or home to Mrs. Mason's.

Mrs. Mason liked John Warner. One Sunday she invited him to be a guest at her own table. And that night Mary Rose whispered to Mrs. Mason, "I'll have something new to show you tomorrow evening."

But on the following evening, when Mary Rose came home, she found the house strangely quiet. Another boarder, passing through the hall, explained.

"Mrs. Mason got sick suddenly. They took her to the hospital. She has to have an operation." At the hospital Mary Rose tremblingly followed the nurse.

"You're a good girl to come." Mrs. Mason's bony hands closed over Mary Rose's fair ones.

"Are you—do you hurt?" Mary Rose's voice was full of awe. The older woman shook her head.

"Let's talk about you. You look so happy. Did you ever get that surprise?" For answer Mary Rose lifted her left hand. "Bless my soul," said the sick woman. Then her eyes wandered vacantly. "Love is like that," she murmured.

"Like what?" asked Mary Rose. Mrs. Mason pointed toward the operating room.

"Like what they give you in there. It takes away all the hurting." Her eyelids drooped drowsily and her lips twisted into a sad smile.

"You'd better go," whispered the nurse. And Mary Rose walked out of the ward and down the hall toward John Warner, who was waiting for her by the entrance door.—Exchange.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Costly Joke

Mr. Editor: Please accept my thanks for your editorial in today's Bulletin and anyone who has not read your editorial should do so.

The city of Norwich gas and electrical department is a joke and a costly joke and one that the owners of the plant will not tolerate.

Why is it that the commissioners sign letters and papers which are apparently written by some one other than themselves and why is it that these men do not appear at city meetings and how much longer are they going to defy the wishes of the owners?

I was interested to observe that the mayor and all other city officials with the exception of the gas and electrical commissioners paid honor to our dead soldiers and sailors on Memorial day. Have the commissioners no respect for either the dead or the living?

Norwich and the Road to Its Natural Park

Mr. Editor: Today more than ever before communities are rated in terms of civic pride. The spirit which actuates the average citizen, very largely determines the character of the development of the city in which he lives and its growth in national esteem.

Size in terms either of population or wealth does not enter the equation. Beloit, Wisconsin and Cleveland, Ohio differ widely in these respects yet each has an international reputation because of its civic pride and its influence upon the character of its development. Litchfield is as favorably, and probably as widely known as Hartford. Norwich is one of the most charming cities in this country. Its designation as "The Rose of New England" has more than national significance.

If because of war or other conditions its civic pride has lapsed somewhat the fact has not been published for it is still known abroad as "The Rose of New England."

Among its many attractions Norwich has a notable and very beautiful park upon which its park commissioners and others have with great devotion and in the face of many handicaps lavished their best thought and energies.

Motorists seeking it have found much difficulty in being directed to, and finding the approaches to it. Many have been discouraged in their search because of the nature, the obscurity, or the condition of the roads leading to it. Some motorists have abandoned the search after viewing the chief approaches believing it incredible that anything worth while could be found at the end of such a road.

Candles hidden under a bushel no doubt burn very well but their light is of no great value to the community. Visitors judge cities largely by the vigilance and concern with which they cherish, husband, and embellish their waterfronts, streets, parks, schools, churches and other public structures and enterprises. Moreover civic pride has at once the privilege and satisfaction of growing upon what it feeds. As a rule beauty and prosperity flow to the community most appreciating and deserving of them. If a city gives evidence of appreciation of its natural and other resources encouragement is thus offered public spirited citizens to contribute toward the furtherance of public enterprises.

The Country Church

Mr. Editor: I, a country minister, felt like singing "Glory, Hallelujah" when I read "Dad" Shaw's letter published in The Bulletin for June 4th concerning the reason for the decadence of the country churches. He underrates his own ability when he says, near the close of his letter, that he hasn't shed any light on the matter; he has; I think far more than the Rev. C. Storek to whose letter he refers. There are two things which I would like to say on this subject: one as an addition to "Dad" Shaw's letter and one in contravention of a popular misconception which was, I think, voiced in that of Rev. Storek.

The first is this. America no longer has a physical frontier to which its young manhood can emigrate and find a place in which to work off its superfluous energy. This is one of the reasons that we, today, are more acutely aware of the unrest of youth than our fathers were. But we still have a great, unconquered spiritual frontier; and the church which is intent on leading its young people out to its conquest need not fear the future. City or country, that makes no difference, any church which will catch the vision of the life and joy and song and courage of religion as presented by Mr. Shaw and add to these the vision of this great, unconquered spiritual realm and present these visions to the youth of America is bound to grow.

Then: as to the idea that the country church is dying out as an institution may I say this; as far as I can see the country churches are no worse off than their city sisters in spite of much which has been said about them. It is true that a larger proportion numerically of the country churches have passed out than of the city ones—anyway in New England—but when the drift of population from country to city is taken into consideration the case is not so plain.

If a young minister wants to do good work, lasting work, victorious work for God let him get out into the country—and the farther out the better. Given the right spirit and the right vision and he can not help but succeed there. Sometimes it may be a bit hard to implant a new vision in the minds of some of the older members of our country churches (at least I have been told so; personally I never found the country people any denser in this than the city folks), but once they catch a glimpse of better things their church invariably starts to take on new life and strength.

The poor quality of some of the ministers in the country is a drawback indeed; but more and more there is growing up a group of men in the ministry who are serving country churches because they wish for nothing else—men who love and believe in and know the country as distinct from the group of "cast-offs" who have thrown the country ministry into disrepute; and those churches which are led by men of this type are usually doing work which compares favorably with that of city churches.

The country church has its problems, yes indeed; but so has the city church; and, even if they are different, they are just as real. Give me the country for I believe in the future of the country church and I know whereof I speak.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 6—The legs of Rep. Louie Ludlow of Indiana are expected by their owner to have much to do with his political future.

With a quarter century of news getting in Washington to his credit, he expects to show even old timers in congress something about covering scattered government departments in the interests of his constituents.

Louie never has calculated his foot mileage in chasing the news, but feels certain it must be 10 miles a day.

Unless they run to chauffeurized motor cars, senators and representatives who do more than write letters to do the Washington business of the voting membership at home have to be good legmen.

Even with motor transportation to and from the government buildings, you have to walk a lot. There are miles on miles of corridors to be traversed, and the monorail shuttle train in the subway that connects the capitol with the senate office building is the only interior transportation system yet installed.

Another "Racer"

Among senators, big, heavy, slow-moving Wesley Jones of Washington is noted for his faithful legwork about government departments on the business of constituents.

He's just as hard-working at that as at his legislative tasks—or at golf. For the Washington senator is a golf devotee.

To the pain and consternation of some of his golfing companions, however, he reverses the usual rule and never lets golf interfere with business. So dawn frequently will find him, even in winter, shivering with his victims as they wait for enough light to tee off.

That habit prompted the victims to pass ironic but unspoken comment on the senator's early bird habits. They pooled resources to present him a miniature tee symbolic of his passion for the game. And to it they attached a miniature candlestick and candle, suggesting possibly that he try starting even before dawn.

The records do not show that many senators fall victim to the Jones enthusiasm for pursuit of the early golf ball.

Mostly, he must fall back on senate attaches, and some of them, like Col. Ed. Halsey, duck his invitations all winter, and only come up for the early morning air in spring and summer.

Other Sports

In pursuit of knowledge as to senatorial sports and exercises, the Bystander has stumbled on a group of bowlers, also very intent on the game. It's to be noted, however, that they take their daily dozen after senate hours, not before breakfast.

There's a big bowling hall not so far from the capitol. There, almost every evening between 5 and 6 o'clock, you'll find the senatorial bowlers going great guns.

There will be Hale of Maine, Dave Rood of Pennsylvania, Sackett of Kentucky, Metcalf of Rhode Island, Couzens of Michigan, Bingham of Connecticut and Capper of Kansas.

There are, you will notice, no democrats in this select group.

YOUR HEALTH

Dirty Restaurants Harbor Disease Germs Unseen by the Naked Eye.

By Henry F. Vaughan, D. P. H., Health Commissioner, Detroit, Mich.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Has it ever occurred to you how many times during the course of the day you may have had contact with germs? We have learned to avoid the fly-infested store and restaurant. We know that flies are closely associated with filth, dirt and disease, and that to be healthy we should keep our homes free of them.

There are other carriers of disease, too small to be seen with the naked eye, found in dirty restaurants, and more especially eating places in which the cooks, waiters and other attendants do not keep their hands clean. Soap and water are not only enemies of dirt and filth, but occupy a prominent forward position in our fight against disease. The germs that cause most of the contagious diseases enter our body through the nose or mouth. Those who suffer from such diseases invariably soil their own hands with the secretions from the nose and mouth, and infection is thus conveyed from the sick to the well through the medium of dirty napkins, knives, forks, cups, plates and drinking glasses.

If all this is true what are we going to do about it? In the first place, as individuals, we can cease patronizing eating places in which the waiters and cooks wear dirty and unlaundered clothing and in which they fail to keep their body and person clean and free from filth. In the second place progressive health officers and restaurant owners are doing much to interest the employes of such establishments in the principles of personal hygiene. Many health departments require that all food handlers have an annual physical examination, but most important of all they are giving talks, lectures and demonstrations to the cooks and waiters themselves, explaining why it is necessary to have clean hands and to use soap and water before serving food.

Dirty dishes may also be a factor in the spread of such diseases as the common cold, influenza and pneumonia. Dishes should first be washed in hot water with plenty of soap or caustic solution so that the food which clings to the dishes can readily be removed. The dishes should then be placed in a second compartment where very hot and clean water can be used to rinse or scald the dishes. The temperature of this rinsing water should be so hot that the hands of the dishwasher cannot be submerged in the water.

A mechanical dishwasher with hot water or steam also obtains good results. Modern health departments are insisting upon the use of extremely hot water for dishwashing, and are routinely recording the temperature used in restaurants so as to insure the patrons that glassware, china and silver have been sterilized.

The cleanliness of a food establishment depends upon two factors; First, the maintenance of a sanitary establishment including the provision of utensils which are kept clean and free from infection; and secondly, upon the clean habits of the employes of such establishments.

The patrons themselves can set a good example by always remembering to wash their own hands in soap and water before sitting down to eat.

Former Norwich Leaders

The Hon. David Ames Wells

(From Norwich Bulletin, Nov. 7, 1898)

The death of the Hon. David Ames Wells, which occurred at his residence, 137 Washington street, about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, removes from Norwich its most distinguished citizen.

David Ames Wells was a native of Springfield, Mass., and was born on June 17, 1828. He was a lineal descendant of Thomas Welles, governor of Connecticut, and on his mother's side of David Ames who built and established the national armory at Springfield. He and his brother, Oliver Wells, were the founders of the well known manufacturing and railroad-building family of Massachusetts.

In 1847 he graduated from Williams college and entered the field of journalism as assistant editor of the Springfield Republican, under the late Samuel Bowles. While connected with the Republican Mr. Wells suggested the idea and was associated in the invention of the folding newspapers and books by machinery. The first machine ever constructed and successfully operated was built at his expense and operated in the office of the Republican under his direction.

In 1849 he left journalism and entered the Lawrence Scientific school of Harvard university, from which he graduated in 1852. He subsequently was appointed an assistant professor in that institution.

Between the years 1857 and 1863 he prepared a series of scientific schoolbooks, one of them being adopted as a textbook at West Point, and also being translated into Chinese by some Chinese missionaries. While at Cambridge in 1849 he commenced the publication of the "Annual Scientific Discovery," which was continued for many years.

Mr. Wells first became prominent in public life in 1864 while residing in Troy, N. Y., by the publication of a pamphlet entitled "Our Burden and Our Strength," demonstrating the financial strength of the federal government and its ability to defray the cost of the war. This pamphlet was reprinted by the Loyal Publication society of New York, and also by the United States government and became the great pamphlet of the war period. It was translated into French and German and largely circulated in this country, and in Europe as well. An edition of it was printed and circulated by the late I. M. Buckingham of this city.

One result of this publication was a conference between President Lincoln and Mr. Wells, at the request of the president, in February, 1865, to decide as to the best means of dealing with the national debt and raising revenue for the payment of the interest.

At the request of the president, congress subsequently created a commission of three persons to inquire into the subject of raising by taxation the revenue needed to supply the wants of the government. Mr. Wells was appointed chairman of the commission. The report made by this commission in 1866 led to the creation for Mr. Wells of a special office, running for four years, as special commissioner of the revenue of the United States.

In this office Mr. Wells effected an entire reconstruction of the internal revenue system of the country. Mr. Wells at this time established for the first time a national bureau of statistics, of which he was placed in charge.

In 1869 he drafted a complete bill for revision of the tariff which passed in the senate but failed in the house of representatives.

On retiring from office in 1870 he was presented with a testimonial by a majority of members of both houses of congress, irrespective of party, headed by Charles Sumner and Allen G. Thurman of the senate and James G. Blaine, James A. Garfield and S. S. Cox. About th same time a committee of merchants and manufacturers of this country presented Mr Wells a bronze statuette representing "Labor."

Of his services as U. S revenue commissioner, general, afterwards president, Garfield said on the floor of the house of representatives: "I do not believe any man appointed by the government in the civil service has done more for this country more work and more valuable work than David A. Wells."

Upon retiring from federal office he was appointed by the governor of New York, chairman of a commission to investigate the state taxation. He submitted two reports in 1873 and 1874, and a draft of a code of law. Both of these were subsequently republished in England and France.

He was afterwards receiver of two roads and the New York and Erie. He was later a member of the national board of railroad arbitration, president of the national board of visitors at West Point, president of the New London County Historical society in 1880, president of the American Social Science league, a vice president of the New England Free Trade league and several other societies.

Mr. Wells was originally a republican, but after the Cincinnati convention of 1872 he voted the democratic ticket. In 1876 he was elected a member of the Cobden club and in 1871 he was made an honorary member of the Royal Statistical society of England. In 1874 he was elected to the French academy to fill the chair made vacant by the death of John Stuart Mill. He was made an M. D. by Berkeley Medical college in 1858; B. S. Harvard 1851; M. A. and L. L. D., by Williams in 1871 and Harvard in 1889. In 1874 Oxford gave him the degree of D. C. L.

In 1889 he was awarded the great gold medal at the French exposition for his contribution to economic literature. He was the author of a number of books on tariff and financial questions. He ran for congress from the third district in this state in 1876 and again in 1890 but was defeated both times in a district strongly republican. He was an opponent of the income tax and emphatically repudiated the Chicago platform of 1896.

Mr. Wells' later years were devoted chiefly to writing on subjects connected with the industry, commerce, finance, shipping railroads, taxation and labor of the country.

Mr. Wells came to Norwich in 1870 and had since then made it his home. Although for some years past he had not taken an active part in municipal affairs he always maintained an interest in civic matters and had the welfare of Norwich deeply at heart. Some years ago he was one of the leading members of the committee to investigate the town accounts and recently he was much interested in the proposed enlargement of the local water system.

The work of David A. Wells in the line of economics and been of such magnitude that it is not easily estimated and due appreciation of it will hardly be rendered in this generation. Mr. Wells has always been a most zealous student and a profound thinker and nearly his entire life has been given to the consideration of the collection and distribution of government revenues.

Mr. Wells has written authoritatively upon the marvels of geology, and has contributed articles to the periodicals upon natural phenomena and interesting geologic formations in Eastern Connecticut and elsewhere. A paper on "Cosheagan Rock at Mohegan" was of particular local interest and was widely quoted.

It possible the attainments of Mr. Wels have been more fully appreciated abroad than in his own country. Certainly he has received most distinguished honors from foreign institutions of learning with medals and testimonials and recognition of the most flattering type.

Mr. Wells is survived by his second wife, who was Miss Dwight of Springfield, and a sister of his first wife, Mary Sandford Dwight, whom he married May 9, 1860. One of the maternal ancestors of the Dwights was the Earl of Chatham. He also leaves by his first wife one son, David Dwight Wells, ex-secretary of the embassy at London and already one of the most successful of the younger American authors and playwrights.

Propose Short Wave Phone

PARIS, (AP)—A project for linking up lonely colonists by radiophone is under examination. If adopted, all colonists living many miles from towns in Morocco and southern Algeria will be supplied with a receiver and a transmitter, working on short waves, and enabling them to keep in constant touch with one another and with local headquarters.

Notice was given that the next visitation day for the lodge at Uncas-on-Thames will be June 18.

OBITUARY.

Rev. Henry Tucker Arnold.

The death of Rev. Henry Tucker Arnold, 85, of 43 Williams street, retired Congregational clergyman, occurred Thursday morning. Rev. Mr. Arnold was born in Providence, R. I., March 31, 1844, and was the son of George W., and Mary Tucker Arnold. He was a graduate of Brown university, class of 1866 and of Andover Theological seminary.

His first pastorate was at Wells, Me., and he subsequently held pastorates at Tiverton, R. I., and Plainfield, this state. Rev. Mr. Arnold retired in 1907 and came to this city to make his residence. He was a member of the Norwich Ministers' association and had supplied at various churches in this section.

At Providence in 1879, he was united in marriage with Amelia V. Leith of that city. Her death occurred about five years ago. Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. O. Chester Johnson of Plainfield, N. J., and two sons, Anthony B. Arnold of Westfield, N. J., and Henry D. Arnold of Maplewood, N. J.

Rev. Mr. Arnold was well known throughout the eastern part of the state. He was a man of scholarly attainments and held the high respect of all who knew him who deeply mourn his passing from earthly life.

Henry M. Betting

Henry M. Betting, 62, of Preston, died in this city Thursday afternoon, having been in failing health since last September. He was born at Poquetanuck December 29, 1866, the son of the late John G. and Margaret Martin Betting. For many years he was registrar of voters in Preston and in 1913 was elected as Preston's representative to the state legislature. He was a member of Uncas lodge, No. 11, I. O. O. F., Palmyra Encampment No. 4, I. O. O. F., and Canton Onoco, No. 3, I. O. O. F., of this city and also was a member of Norwich Grange No. 172, Patrons of Husbandry.

For some years past Mr. Betting had been employed at the Norwich State hospital, where he was particularly interested in the recreational activities, especially the baseball team. He was the last of his immediate family.

Mr. Betting was of a charitable nature and was highly respected by his many friends and acquaintances. His death is deeply mourned by all who knew him.

FUNERALS.

Sullivan assisted with the singing.

The burial was in the family plot at St. Mary's cemetery, and Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May conducted the committal service. The bearers were N. V. Murphy, George H. Dolan, Nicholas Doyle and John Grimley.

HENRY R. TAFT BECOMES CHIEF OF NORWICH FIRE DEPARTMENT

By unanimous vote Henry R. Taft was named permanent chief of the fire department at the organization meeting of the new court of common council Thursday evening. Chief Taft has been acting chief of the department since January 1st when Chief Howard L. Stanton, who retires from office July 1st, was granted a six months leave of absence. The council also unanimously appointed Dennis J. Brennan deputy chief of the department to succeed Chief Taft who has held that appointment for several years.

The meeting was called to order at 8:30 o'clock by Mayor Lee Roy Robbins and City Sheriff Charles H. Raynes escorted the aldermen and councilmen to their seats. Aldermen Maurice B. Looby and Amiel C. Brosofske were presented before the desk and were sworn in by Mayor Robbins. The four new councilmen, Alexander Sharp, Herman R. Bruckner, Joseph K. Panek and Herman Steizner were then sworn in and seated by the sheriff.

Mayor Robbins Addressed Council

Mayor Robbins addressed the council as follows:

Gentlemen of the council!

I congratulate the new members upon their election and I am particularly pleased over the recognition accorded the former services of the two veterans. The advancement to aldermanship is fully merited.

We have work to do. The council of last year set a high mark of achievement. Let us strive to better it. To do so it is essential that the same standard of efficiency now established be maintained throughout the several departments of the city and bettered wherever possible. In addition to this, strict economy must be practiced. By economy I do not mean the substitution of a poor article for a good one because the former is cheaper. However, I caution against the expensive article when the cheaper one will answer all requirements equally well.

If we inculcate efficiency and guard against extravagance even a better record of accomplishment in handling city affairs will be established this year. Your especial efforts should be directed toward a businesslike administration of that particular department over which you are to exert supervision but your advice, counsel, and effort are solicited and expected in solving the problems and sharing the responsibility common to all.

Committee Appointments

After the council had adopted a resolution fixing the rules of order the same as those in force last year, Mayor Robbins announced his committee appointments as follows:

Committee on finance: The mayor, Alderman Zahn, Councilman Sellas.

Committee on public works, Alderman Looby, Councilman Leone, Councilman Sharp.

Committee on fire department, Alderman Brosofske, Councilman Steizner, Councilman Sellas.

Board of police commissioners, Alderman Ortmann, Councilman Brenn, Councilman Sherman.

Amusement committee, Aldermen Zahn, Councilman Bruckner, Councilman Panek.

Auditing committee, Alderman Zahn, Councilman Bruckner, Councilman Panek.

At this point a recess was taken by the council.

Council Makes Appointments

The council reconvened at 2:05 o'clock. Alderman Ortmann nominated Atty. Edmund W. Perkins for corporation counsel. The ballot vote showed 12 ballots cast, all in favor of Atty. Perkins and he was declared elected.

Alderman Brosofske nominated Henry R. Taft for election as chief of the fire department, fire marshal, superintendent of the fire alarm system and building inspector to succeed Chief Howard L. Stanton who retires from office July 1st. The ballot vote showed 12 ballots cast, all in favor of Mr. Taft, and he was declared elected.

HENRY R. TAFT

Alderman Brosofske introduced a resolution appointing Dennis J. Brennan, deputy chief of the fire department for one year, at a salary of $200 in addition to his pay as a captain. The resolution was unanimously adopted. Deputy Chief Brennan has been acting deputy chief of the department since January 1st. His appointment dates from July 1st.

As the council's representative on the board of water commissioners, Alderman Looby nominated Alderman Brosofske and he was elected by ballot, one ballot being cast by the clerk in his favor.

Other department appointments made follow:

Street commissioner, Herbert B. Wightman, renominated by Alderman Looby.

Superintendent of cemeteries, John Kupla, re-election.

The council then elected the following special constables for one year:

Augustus Hoelck, Richard Marks, Patrick J. Connell, Fred. W. Krohn, Irving H. Cruthers, H. S. Metcalf, Terrence Hogan, Fred. P. Shea, John J. McGrath, George McFarland, Stephen Woods, Daniel J. Maher, George E. Elliott, Frank L. Tuttle, John J. Riley, Zillwood K. Prescott, Herbert B. Wightman, Charles A. McIntyre, Ladislaw Suplicki, Charles E. Ellis, John Kukla, John C. Donovan.

Resolutions adopted authorize the city clerk to secure necessary stationery, etc., or the use of the council, refer unfinished business of the previous council to the same committees of the present council and setting the meeting hour for the regular sessions of the council as 8 o'clock standard time, except during the months of June, July, August, September and next May, when the meeting hour will be 7 o'clock standard time.

Another resolution gives the printing of the council journal to the Pulsen Press at $3.50 a page, and the printing of the journal appendix to The Bulletin Co., at the same rate per page.

Just before adjournment Mayor Robbins called the attention of the council to the city meeting which is to take place next Monday night at 8 o'clock, daylight saving time, in the town hall, and urged all members of the council to attend. Adjournment was taken at 9:30 o'clock.

NORWICH AERO CLUB DISCUSSES AIRPORT SITES

The bi-monthly meeting of the Norwich Aero club was held Wednesday evening in the armory with a fair number of members present. The question of available sites for a club airport was discussed, with several of the members making valuable suggestions. Regular business included the designating of a depository for the club's funds. Several new members were referred to the membership committee. The club's progress is considered very encouraging.

Beware of The Three Leaved Plant

The plant whose leaves appear in clusters of three may well give pause to all those who are tramping in the country these warm spring days, says the state department of health. Plant growth is sufficiently advanced to identify the poison ivy by this sign, and those who know themselves to be susceptible to it, or not keen to run the risk of rhus dermatitis (ivy poisoning) should give this plant a wide berth.

When one is known to have come in contact with this plant, especially one who is known to be susceptible, washing hte hands as soon as possible with a good lather of soap is of some benefit since the poisonous sap is not soluble in water and cannot be removed by that alone. When the first symptoms of redness and itching of the skin first appear, sometimes from one to several days later, a physician should be consulted who will treat with either some oxidizing agent which will react by neutralizing the poison, or by some substance which will dissolve the poison and so aid in removing it.

Ladies of Columbus Dance

A very successful June dance was given by Mercier assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, in their assembly rooms on Broadway, Wednesday evening, with an attendance of over 100.

Miss Anne Carroll, chairman, was assisted by the following committee: Julia Ulrick, Catherine Finnigan, Catherine Wager, Helen Desmond, Julia Cook, Mary O'Neil, Elizabeth Mars, Alberta Crawford, Fannie Longo, Helen Barry, Mary Hamill, Madeline Fitzgerald, Agnes Gaffney, Nonie Nagle, Mary Weiller, Anna Brennan and Germaine Rochette. Miss Sarah MacInnes, Elizabeth Hoar and Mrs. Domonic Quinn were in charge of the check rooms. Mrs. Hogan and John Dempsey were in charge of the tickets.

ROAD CONDITIONS IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT

Road conditions and detours in this part of the state made necessary by highway construction, repairs announced by the state highway department, as of June 5th, are as follows:

Route No. 6— Brooklyn-Danielson road in the towns of Brooklyn and Killingly is under construction. Open to traffic.

Route No. 169—Mansfield-Phoenixville road is under construction. This road is impassable to traffic.

Route No. 168—Jonathan-Trumbull road is under construction from route No. 3 to the end of improved road north of Columbia Green and from the end of improved road south of Columbia Green to the end of improved road at Lebanon. Power shovel is at work on an excavation. Culverts are being installed across the road at different points so travellers are warned to use extreme care in passing through.

Brooklyn-Pomfret. An improvement is being made on the Pomfret-Brooklyn road and delay to motorists may be expected where grading operations are being carried on.

Canterbury-Newet road is under construction for two miles south of Canterbury. Open to traffic.

Lisbon, Newent-Canterbury road is under construction for 2 miles north of Newent. Steam shovel is at work. Travel difficult.

WALCOTT WILL APPOINT FOR NAVAL ACADEMY

United States Senator Frederic C. Walcott has been notified by the navy department that he will have the appointment of a midshipman to make to the naval academy in June, 1930, to succeed Ray E. Malpass of Milford, Connecticut, who graduates from the academy at that time.

Senator Walcott has requested the United States civil service commission to hold competitive examinations on Saturday, Oct. 26, 1929, in the United States post office building at 9 a. m. in New Haven, Bridgeport, Hartford, Waterbury, Middletown, New London, Danbury and Stamford. Any young man desiring to take this examination should communicate with the senator, so that he can add their names to the list of those who have already applied.

Candidates are required to be citizens of the United States, and actual residents of Connecticut, and must not be less than 16 years of age nor more than 20 years of age on April 1 of the calendar year in which they enter the academy.

JUDGMENT IS GIVEN IN MONTVILLE WOMAN'S FAVOR

Judgment for $1,573.10 and costs, of which $1,100 is for injuries to her nervous system, is given by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court in favor of Mrs. Louiejune Moran of Montville in a suit against Gertrude V. and George T. Brown of New London. The suit was brought because of an automobile accident on Nov. 5, 1928 at the intersection of the Raymond hill road and the Norwich-New London turnpike.

Judge Brown says in part in his memorandum of decision:

In so far as the damage to the plaintiff's Buick sedan is concerned, counsel for the defendants conceded in argument that upon the evidence it could be properly found to amount to $473.10, the actual cost of the repairs.

Evidence was offered of the hospital expense of plaintiff at the Hartford hospital during the period from Feb. 5, 1929 to March 3, 1929, that she was Dr. Weidman's patient there. The plaintiff cannot recover in this action for the net bill of $61 of Dr. Manwaring and of $135.50 of Dr. Weidman for treatment of injuries resulting from this accident, since as to neither did it appear that the creditor "proposed to look to the plaintiff alone for payment." For these items and for the expense incurred in hiring assistance in the plaintiff's home in consequence of her injuries, evidence of the cost of which was excluded upon the defendant's objection, the plaintiff's husband will have to resort to a separate action for his recovery.

The only serious legal question presented for determination is as to whether the plaintiff can recover herein for the injury to her nervous system which admittedly she sustained in consequence of the accident. The defendants contend that although, as their expert Dr. Wells testified, the plaintiff suffered "an acute psychoneurosis" from the fright caused by this collision from which she had not recovered at the time of trial, April 25, 1929, yet there was no contemporaneous physical injury as to permit her to recover for this element of damage. I am unable to agree with this contention.

While the supreme court of this state has not passed upon the question upon identical facts, it has held that mental suffering may be an element of damage where it is the natural and proximate consequence of a recognized cause of action based upon negligence even though accompanied by no contemporaneous physical injury.

There can be no possible doubt upon the evidence in this case that the collision caused the injury to the plaintiff's nervous system. This affliction of extreme nervousness, inability to keep still, inability to sleep, inability to concentrate or to do any work, extreme fear of riding in an automobile, etc., developed immediately after the accident. All three doctors testified it was the direct result of it. The defendant's car at the impact, going at some 35 miles per hour, crashed into the centerpost of the left side of the plaintiff's car just back of her left shoulder, ripping the post out of position and smashing all of the glass in that side of her car. While the plaintiff almost miraculously escaped any considerable physical injury, she obviously must have been more or less thrown about by the impact and seriously shocked, and in answer to the court's inquiry she testified that her shoulder was lame the next day, though lameness disappeared a day later. Under such circumstances, though it was conceded by the plaintiff that Dr. Wells if then present would testify that the lameness of her shoulder was no part of the cause of her mental or nervous injury, it is my conclusion that under fairer and better view of the authorities above referred to, the plaintiff is entitled to recover for the injuries to her nervous system in this action. I assess this element of her damage at $1,100.

Judgment may be entered for the plaintiff to recover of the defendants the sum of $1,573.10 together with her costs.

CARLEVALE SHOWS AMOUNTS OF STOCK AND SALES

Testifying in the superior court here Thursday afternoon before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury in his suit to collect fire insurance from three companies, Joseph W. Carlevale of 287 Main street told the court that he had had a total of $18,590.32 in stock and fixtures in his barber supply business at 56 Boswell avenue, where there was a fire on April 26, 1928. From this he had sales amounting to $5,502.73 up to the time of the fire. The court session moved slowly as Mr. Carlevale testified in detail to each bill for goods and stock, producing the invoices and the delivery slips in a number of cases. It is predicted that trial of the case may occupy nearly two weeks.

Carlevale bought the business from Joseph Basile on Jan. 14, 1928, and he testified that the amount represented in the purchase of fixtures and stock from Basile was $12,134.05. Subsequently purchases of stock were all on or after Jan 26, 1928.

The defendant insurance companies, which have policies aggregating $15,350, are the Federal Union of Chicago, Homestead Fire of Baltimore, and Victory of Philadelphia.

When trial of the case opened in court, with Attorneys Charles L. Stewart and H. H. Pettis as counsel for Carlevale and Attorneys Morgan and Morse of New Haven for the insurance companies, the latter set up a substitute defense in which they alleged false testimony by Carlevale at a hearing which was held last June. Judge Brown allowed the amended answer to go in after the attorneys had argued the matter.

1. The policy mentioned in the complaint contains the following provision "this entire policy shall be void if the insurer has concealed or misrepresented in writing or otherwise, any material fact or circumstance concerning this insurance of the subject thereof; or in case of any fraud or false swearing by the insured touching any matter relating to this insurance or the subject thereof, whether before or after the loss."

2. At an examination of the insured under oath held in the Wauregan hotel, Norwich, on June 13, 1928, in accordance with the provisions of the policy, the plaintiff (Carlevale) swore falsely to matters relating to this insurance and the subject thereof.

3. The matters to which the plaintiff swore falsely as hereinabove set forth are as follows:

(a) The plaintiff swore falsely that he had not been engaged in the barber supply business prior to the time he engaged in it at 56 Boswell avenue, Norwich, thereby fraudulently concealing the fact that the plaintiff had been engaged in the barber supply business at 465 North Main street, Norwich, in July, 1927, and prior to July, 1927 and that he had taken out insurance of $2,000 on the stock and $1,500 on the fixtures at 465 North Main street, Norwich, and that the policy of insurance which was written on July 1, 1927, was cancelled on August 31, 1927 for overvaluation. Said false statement was made for the purpose of concealing the fact that plaintiff had been in business before and that he had insurance which had been cancelled and for the further purpose of concealing the fact that much of the stock and fixtures insured under the policy which is the subject of the present action, were purchased in 1927 so as to prevent the defendant from checking the value thereof.

(b) The plaintiff swore falsely that he purchased the barber supply business from Joseph Basile on Jan. 14, 1927, for the purpose of concealing that he had purchased said business prior to or in July, 1927, which were the said stock and fixtures which had been formerly insured on July 1, 1927, and which insurance was cancelled on Aug. 31, 1927.

(c) The plaintiff swore falsely that the said Basile had been out of business approximately two years when he bought the stock, further intending to conceal from the defendant the fact that a purchase was made at a time other than Jan. 14, 1928, to conceal the said cancelled insurance and prevent the defendant from checking up on the value of the goods.

(d) The plaintiff swore falsely that he borrowed $2,500 from Frank Minninni, on Jan. 18, 1928, when in truth and in fact he borrowed but $1,000.

(e) The plaintiff swore falsely that he started to sell goods in the barber supply business in the early part of February, 1928, sometime after he got his first insurance, thereby intending to convey to the defendant that the first insurance taken out on stock and fixtures in the barber supply business was the insurance taken out in the companies of the defendants when in truth and in fact he had been selling goods in the barber supply business in July, 1927, and before July, 1927 and up to Nov. 1927.

(f) The plaintiff swore falsely that he never had any experience in the barber supply business, except going to see his brother quite often, who sold barber supplies, when in truth and in fact he had been in the said business in and before July, 1927, for the purpose of concealing from the defendant his knowledge of values in said business.

(g) The plaintiff swore falsely that the federal agent who looked over his stock and fixtures at 56 Boswell avenue for the purpose of determining whether an alcohol permit should be issued to the plaintiff, told the plaintiff that he did not have quite enough machinery to get the permit, thereby attempting to conceal the fact that the permit had been refused because the stock fixtures and machinery were not sufficient to amount to a value of $5,000 and allow the issuance of a permit.

(h) The plaintiff swore falsely that at the price he paid for the essential oils from Basile, he could dispose of the same at a good profit and compete with other manufacturers selling essential oils, when in truth and in fact the prices set forth in the sworn statement as to the amount paid Basile for essential oils were grossly in excess of the value of any essential oils mentioned when sold to barber supply houses as of the dates of said purchases.

(i) The plaintiff swore falsely that he never did any business with Basile, except buying out his barber supply business which he had formerly testified under oath that he had bought on Jan. 14, 1928, when in truth and in fact he had bought out the barber supply business from Basile prior to or in July, 1927, for the purpose of deceiving this defendant and preventing it from checking up on the price paid therefor at the time of the purchase.

(j) The plaintiff swore falsely that he paid Basile for the stock and fixtures purchased from him on Jan. 14 and 20th, 1928, the sum of $11,134.05, when in truth and in fact he paid a very much smaller amount, for the purpose of concealing from the defendant the true cost to him of said merchandise and fixtures their true value.

Attorneys Charles L. Stewart and Henry H. Pettis are counsel for Mr. Carlevale while Attorneys Morgan and Morse of New Haven represent the insurance companies.

George E. Pitcher, civil engineer, was the first witness on the stand, explaining a plan of the place at 56 Boswell avenue, where Carlevale was in business with a large show room and two stock rooms.

He was followed on the stand by Robert J. Young, insurance agent, who placed the policies on the Carlevale stock and fixtures.

When called to the stand Carlevale was questioned about his early history. He said he was born in Italy 38 years ago and came to this country when a boy of 12. He attended a number of schools and was ordained to the Baptist ministry in this city, having charge of work among the Italians. After giving this up he has been conducting an Americanization school for about six years.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall or Liggett Drug Store.

"Pep-up" Sore Feet in 3 min.

A peach of a remedy that guarantees 3 minute relief for your tired, swollen, burning, aching feet is McCulloch's Foot Balm. It's simply wonderful. For instance, James O'Brien, New York policeman, says —"When my feet get tired, swollen, I just rub on McCulloch's Foot Balm and they are 'pepped-up' in 3 minutes."

Thousands of store clerks, letter carriers, waiters, etc., now use cool, soothing McCulloch's Foot Balm for their foot troubles. Its secret is the new, amazing "organic iodine." It is delicately scented, non-greasy and does not stain hose or bed linen. Don't suffer needlessly. The glorious 3 minute relief is guaranteed by your own druggist. Get McCulloch's Foot Balm at all good dealers.

LEGAL TANGLE OVER SALE OF FAIRGROUNDS

A legal tangle has developed over the sale last month of the New London county fairgrounds property to George H. and Francis Gilman at a public auction sale conducted by Gilbert S. Raymond, receiver for the New London County Agricultural society.

The two purchasers have brought suit against the receiver to get back the $2,000 they paid down on their bid of $15,750 above the mortgage and the receiver is asking permission of the superior court to sue the Gilmans to oblige them to complete their purchase.

According to papers served June 1 upon Receiver Raymond by Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton, George H. and Francis Gilman have brought suit against Gilbert S. Raymond, attacking the legality of his appointment as receiver and claiming that he cannot give a clear, marketable title to the property.

The suit by the Gilman's is returnable in September in the superior court and gives the ground of action as follows:

"The defendant herein purporting to act as permanent receiver of the New London County Agricultural society, on the first day of May, 1929, executed and delivered to the plaintiffs a certain instrument in writing, wherein and whereby he agreed to convey by a good and sufficient deed certain premises in the town of Norwich described in said instrument.

"That in consideration therefor, the plaintiffs paid to the defendant the sum of $2,000.

"That at the time of executing said agreement the defendant was not and is not now the duly appointed permanent receiver of the said society in that the said superior court had no jurisdiction to appoint him, and in that the action in which he was supposed to be appointed was collusive and in that said appointment was not made upon full notice and opportunity to be heard to all concerned.

"That on or about May 27 the defendant notified the plaintiffs that he was ready to deliver a deed for the said premises.

"That the plaintiffs were ready, willing and able to make all further payments to perform their agreement, and on May 29, 1929 demanded from the defendant that he convey a clear marketable title to the said premises and that the defendant tendered to the plaintiffs a deed of said premises, which was refused by the plaintiffs for the reasons set forth in paragraph 3 of this complaint.

"That plaintiffs because of the failure of defendant to convey to them a clear, marketable title as ag

AGGIES CLASH WITH ARNOLD AT STORRS TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, June 6—Coach Sumner A. e will send his baseball nine after 8th straight win tomorrow, against ould college after a week of strenuus practice since the last game with ode Island in which the team was iddly off form. The hitting has improved greatly during the past few mes which has been the main reason for its success thus far this season. The Aggies will start the game tomorrow with Kolb on the mound. The eymour boy won his last two starts ainst the Rhode Island team, and his ke should prove an enigma to the w Haventites, of which little is own with the possible exception of defeat by Rhode Island earlier in the ason.

The team will line up for the game in e same manner that it has for the st few games. Ryan will have the inld nick as usual, as his work around e bags has been of the first order ce Yuskevich has broken into the up. The latter has been doing good rk behind the bat, and also has e holding his own with the stick. The old second base combination will seen with Moore and Tombari ortling around the keystone position. e combination has made more doubt plays the current season than have been made by any two men to resent the Aggies on the diamond. row on third has been hitting the ll in great shape for the last few mes, his stick helping materially in the offense.

The outfield will find Haverstock, Goeld and Hooper in left, center and right spectively. Haverstock and Hooper are only two seniors in the regular ineup with the exception of the senior cher, Mullany, and the two former ad leading the team at present with e stick.

Practice has been going on all ough the week, with little letup beore exams. With the spirit and h e shape the Aggies should go ainst the New Hampshire state team Saturday well on the right side of the books.

SINGER KAYOES KID ROY IN THE FIRST ROUND

NEW YORK, June 6—(AP)—Al inger, Bronx featherweight idol, ped back into the hearts of the ne faithful tonight by scoring a ond-fire knockout over Leo "Kid" Roy, Montreal veteran, in the first nd of a feature 10 round match in e McMahon's Coliseum.

Roy went down twice and lasted y 2 minutes 41 seconds of the nd.

The match was Singer's first after ering a surprise knockout himself e hands of Ignacio Fernandez, Philipino gamester, in Madison Square rden, three weeks ago. The Jewish ndstander met the comeback test ery and smothered Roy with his tering attack.

Right from the opening gong Singer ed into the Canadian veteran with alley of left hooks to the body and e rights to the head.

Roy staggered backwards into the ps and went down for the first time n a left hook caught him squarely the chin. He came up gamely at the nt of seven and staggered forward h a right cross to the chin that cked him out senselessly on his ks.

Roy, weighed 129 pounds, Singer 128 1-2.

Pete Nebo, Seminole Indian from rida, outpointed Al Ridgeway, Atlantic City, N. J., lightweight, in a ten round bout. There were no ck-downs. Nebo weighed 130, dgeway 131 1-2.

Al Ros, ragged Spanish middleight, won a bruising 10 round ecision from Ben Jeby, New York, ammer. The pelting was fast and ots throughout. Each weighed 151 s.

ALO INCREASES HIS LEAD IN BUNION DERBY

BUCKEYE, Ariz., June 6—(AP)—Pietro Salo, the dying cop of Passaic, N. J., continued his pace setting the transcontinental bunion derby today, adding a few more precious ours to his elapsed time total by completing the 54.2 mile grind from Buckeye, Ariz.

ELM CITY GIANTS TO BRING FAST CLUB HERE

J. B. Martin will meet the famed Elm City Giants, champions of New England, Sunday afternoon at the J. B. Martin grounds. The game is scheduled to start at 3:15 sharp.

The Elm City Giants will be a team that will leave its impression upon the local fans for some time to come. Little is needed to be said in regard to this visiting team, inasmuch as the team is claimant to the New England championship. Followers of the national pastime have read of the accounts of victories the invading team has piled up in its tour through New England states.

Manager Erlbeck has made plans for a record breaking crowd. The attraction of this aggregation of ball players is the topic of discussion among the fans. It is one of the out-of-the-ordinary games which the manager of the Velvetmen is giving the followers of the game as a real treat. Local fans know the Colored Giants as a fast club and a club that puts up a real good game. It will be remembered that this dusky team played several times in this vicinity and put up mighty fine exhibitions. The team is noted for its comedy aspect which in no way takes away its playing ability.

The Velvetmen have been put through stiff workouts during the week and a confident feeling prevails in the club that they will be on the winning end of the score.

Fisher will be assigned for the mound duty against these duskies and a wonderful battle is in view when these two clubs clash on Sunday. Both lineups will appear in tomorrow's paper.

GIANTS AGAIN PROVE TOO STRONG FOR CARDS

ST. LOUIS, June 6—(AP)—The Giants scored their second straight victory over the Cardinals here tonoy 5 to 4, although the home team held a margin in hits of 11 to 7. The victory gave the New Yorkers a run of five out of six in the west.

Welsh's double, a pass to Ott, and Terry's single, his steal of second and Smith's wild throw in trying to break it up, gave the Giants two in the first. Terry's homer with one on added two more in the third, and the ultimate winning run was sent home in the sixth on Jackson's triple and an infield out.

Bottomley hit a homer in the Cardinal half of the first with Douthit on bases. The Cards made two singles and a double in the ninth, but failed to score, Gelbert being thrown out at third trying to stretch his two-bagger.

CASE FAILS TO PRESENT CHARGES TO GRIFFITH

CHICAGO, June 6—(AP)—The second bubble in the western conference's investigation of proselyting and subsidization of athletes failed to burst today.

After announcing he would go before Major John L. Griffith, conference athletic commissioner, with evidence to prove other big ten schools were equally guilty along with Iowa in recruiting athletes, Everett Case, basketball coach at Frankfort, Indiana, failed to do so.

Instead, he came to Chicago, issued a statement in which he said basketball coaches of Michigan, Wisconsin, Purdue, Indiana and Iowa attempted to recruit players during the recent Indiana state tournament at Indianapolis, and then disappeared. Major Griffith waited in vain for him all day even though he did not have an appointment with him.

It was reported Coach Case desired secrecy and that he would slip into Griffith's office or home and present his story, probably early tomorrow.

Dowell Jrs. Practice Tonight

Coach Jab Burns of the Dowell team, of the Junior Twilight league, has called final practice for his charges for this evening at 6:30 at the Academy campus. The team will be picked at that time as a full attendance of the candidates is requested.

Consider the optimist today.

Yesterday I spilled a few words about the pessimist sc in the natural sequence of things the optimist is next.

I met a friend on the street yesterday and says he, "That piece about the pessimist was Okay. Believe me, Susie, I'm a optimist." And he grinned all over.

Yep, that feller is an optimist of the very optimistic type. In fact he's so optimistic that he is as extreme his way as that pessimistic feller is the other.

He's so optimistic that he'll start out in a pouring rain without an umbrella or rubbers believing the sun will shine before he gets his feet wet.

There's plenty of others like him too. I know another feller who is so optimistic that he will run up some whopping big bills because he buys a treasury balance ticket every week. He hopes to pay the bills out of what he wins.

There's a lotta folks who carry their optimism to such lengths that they are as much a detriment to progress as the pessimist. You've heard these boosters who paint a glowing picture of what is going to be done for the community.

Their optimism carries them along in a rosy haze and they're all pepped up. Then one day they find they have bitten off more than they can comfortably digest and they're mighty sick babies.

That's the extreme optimist. The real wise boy is the fellow who looks on the brightest side of things and then consults the pessimist and in the end strikes a happy medium.

The extreme optimist is likely to be a trifle foolish and the extreme pessimist a trifle conservative. But the boy that takes the middle road is pretty apt to find smooth going and succeed.

It's all right to exclaim over the beauty of the rainbow but don't fall for that legend about the pot of gold. It's all right to go star-gazing now and then but if you hitch your wagon to one of those stars you're going to be taken for one sweet ride.

Keep both feet on the ground, look for the good in the bad things of life, but don't mistake tinsel for gold. In other words use good old common sense and do the best you know how and things won't be so tough.

Say, folks, if them airplanes don't quit flying over Norwich everybody is going to be suffering with suburned tonsils.

WHITE SOX POUND MORRIS HARD TO BEAT RED SOX

BOSTON, June 6—(AP)—The White Sox knocked Ed Morris out of the box in the fourth inning here today and took the second game of the series with the Red Sox 9 to 5. The visitors hit Morris timely and errors by the Hub defense permitted them to pile up a commanding lead.

Shires, after making two doubles and a single, hurt his leg in sliding into second and was relieved by Clancy. Narlesky, Boston lead-off man, connected for a double and a single and brought his string of consecutive hitting up to 14 games.

Adkins was hit freely by the home team but the Red Sox were unable to make their hits count enough to bring a victory. Score:

INDIANS HALT WINNING STREAK OF YANKS AT FIVE

NEW YORK une 6—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians broke the five-game winning streak of the Yankees here today, taking the second game of the series by 9 to 7. The visitors knocked out Pipgras in the second inning, and continued scoring against Thomas and Zachary. Bib Falk drove in four of the Cleveland runs.

Walter Miller, Cleveland ace, was effective in the early innings, yielding only one hit in the first five rounds, but was easy for the Yanks toward the finish. A home run by Tony Lazzeri in the eighth knocked Miller from the box, and Durst greeted Holloway with another blow for all the bases.

The Yankees launched another rally in the ninth, but Ferrell saved the day by fanning Gehrig and forcing Paschal to hit into a double play. Ferrell relieved Holloway with two on and none out. Score:

NEW YORK WOMEN GIVE BOSTON TEAM SOUND DEFEAT

PHILADELPHIA, June 6—(AP)—Led by Miss Moureen Orcutt, eastern champion, New York's women golfers got a flying start today in their quest for the Griscom trophy by defeating Boston's team 11 to 4.

Despite the one-sided team score there was one unexpected upset and three matches went to extra holes.

Miss Helen Hicks, the hard-hitting young lady from New York, was defeated by Mrs. Richard Payson, Boston, 1 up. Mrs. Payson played her youthful rival stroke for stroke and at the end of 17 holes held a 1 up advantage.

Miss Hicks' dive and approach on the 18th were perfect and she was sure of a par 4. Mrs. Payson needed three strokes to reach the green, and the stage was set for an extra hole. However, Mrs. Payson's one and only putt from 20 feet away hung on the lip of the cup for a second and then fell in to halve the hole and win the match.

FIVE ACADEMY PLAYERS PERFORM FOR LAST TIME IN TOMORROW'S GAME

Five members of the Academy baseball team, which closes another successful season against Naugatuck high here tomorrow, will graduate this month. They are: Capt. Jack Marks, Anso Tombari, Amie (Buck) LaCroix, Fred Fagan and Louis Green. The latter is a southpaw pitcher while the others have played the outfield for the most part, with LaCroix and Tombari dividing at second. Each one has turned in a successful year with LaCroix practically certain of leading the team in batting for, with but one game to go, he has hit for .455.

Naugatuck comes here with a good record and is capable of giving the Wildcats a stiff tussle. With Capt. Dick Finley pitching they have turned back some of the leading clubs of the state and topped off their work with a 9 to 8 decision over Hillhouse high of New Haven last week.

The Academy will enter their final game with the strongest lineup possible and the one that should have given Harding a real battle. The Academy has shaken loose from the errors that ruined its chances against Harding and will be out tomorrow to show the fans what might have been. Against Stonington, the locals played a nice game and they are determined to finish the season with another victory. By winning Saturday, the Academy can close the record books with 13 wins and two defeats, which would be one of the best records in the state and the Academy would again rank with the leaders in Connecticut Interscholastic ball.

Then again, the Academy has not been eliminated from the state title chase as yet. Harding, their only conquerors in the state, have still three or four games to go, and any slip on their part would benefit the Academy greatly. The Academy must win from Naugy to cling to their chance of remaining in the state title fight.

Butsy Weigraber has been all primed for action by Coach Brigham. He has not been to the mound now since Memorial day, which by tomorrow will mean a nine-day rest. He should be in prime condition to tackle the westerners. Bud Fontaine will catch with Alec Arico at first, Anso Tombari at second, Chubby Gibbs at short and Hal Cummings at third. Red Fagan in left, Buck LaCroix in center, and Capt. Jack Marks in right field. A big crowd is expected for the grand finale of the season.

ATHLETICS MAKE IT TWO STRAIGHT FROM BROWNS

PHILADELPHIA, June 6—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics made it two straight over the St. Louis Browns today with a barrage of long-distance hits that gained them a 15 to 4 triumph.

Blaeholder was blasted for five runs in the third inning, three of them counting on Simmons' twelfth home run of the season, and left the box in the next round when Foxx smacked the first pitch for his tenth homer.

Earnshaw who started on the mound for the league leaders, was wild and had to be relieved in the fifth.

Simmons, who hit two doubles in addition to his circuit blow, was the batting leader of the fray, driving in a total of six tallies.

Cochrane fatted his batting average with two triples. Score:

POWERMEN STRENGTHEN HOLD BY BEATING VELVETMEN

The Eastern Connecticut Power strengthened their hold on first place by nosing out the J. B. Martin Co. in an industrial league game on the Shelton field in Uncasville last night, the final score being 13 to 11.

The game was full of thrills all the way through and kept the crowd in an uproar.

J. B. Martin after spotting them five runs in the first fought back and was leading 9 to 5 when Dugas came through with a double in the 4th that proved to be the turning point in the game, as they continued their hitting to score five runs before being retired. Martins fought back but could not quite make it. Morosky pitched nice ball striking out 11. Hydum and Dugas led with the willow. The score:

HOME RUN GIVES PHILLIES A VICTORY

CINCINNATI, June 6—(AP)—Thompson's fly to right field which bounded into the bleachers for a home run scoring Benge ahead of him, accounted for the only runs in Philadelphia's 2 to 0 victory over the Reds today. Benge held the Reds to 5 hits and aided his pitching labors by singling just before Thompson hit for the round trip.

THAMESVILLE MARRIED MEN TROUNCE THE BACHELORS

The Married Men of Thamesville and the Single Men met in their first baseball battle of the season Wednesday night at the Sand Sifter diamond with the Benedicts nosing out an 8 to 7 victory. Heavy hitting by Ward, Koslowski, McGuiness and Mulcahey featured. Bendett's fielding was also a feature. Bendett relieved McGuiness in the box in the sixth inning and retired the side on strikes. The two teams will meet again on Monday night at 6.30 o'clock.

REIGH COUNT CAPTURES CORONATION STAKES

EPSOM, Eng., June 6—(AP)—After three disappointing races on English turf, Reigh Count brought joy to his owner, Mrs. John D. Hertz and all America today, by winning the Coronation cup stake in a thrilling finish on picturesque Epsom Downs.

Traveling the mile and a half difficult up and down hill course in 2:36, two-fifths of a second less time than Trigo needed in winning the derby yesterday, the American colt whipped a field of nine of England's choicest veteran racers. A brilliant fighting finish gave the son of Sunreigh a short head victory over Athford brother of the derby winner and bearing the colors of the same owner. William Barnett of Ireland. Plantago finished third.

In striking contrast yesterday's chilly reception of Trigo, a wild burst of cheering greeted the American colt on his return to the unsaddling enclosure led by Trainer Mitchell. Mrs. Hertz was unable to get down from the grandstand in time to lead her horse back to the judge's stand. Always high in cockney favor Reigh Count was even more so today as he finished in front of the fancied British horse, which appeared to be on the point of giving his owner a notable "double".

Sharing honors with the pride of America was Joe Childs, veteran English jockey, who replaced Chick Lang, rider of Reigh Count since he won the Kentucky derby last year. Childs rides for King George.

Reigh Count, which for the first time since invading England did not have to give weight to his opponents, was quoted at 10 to 1; Athford at 9 to 4 and Plantago at 5 to 1. All three of the leading horses carried 129 pounds.

His victory not only gave Mrs. Hertz possession of the gold cup valued at 200 pounds (about $1,000) and the purse of 1,000 pounds (about $5,000) but qualified the American four-year-old for the much more important Ascot gold cup to be run June 20.

YALE COVERS COURSE IN 21 MINUTES IN TIME TRIAL

GALES FERRY, June 6—(AP)—Culminating the first week of practice, Yale's varsity eight went through its first time trial tonight at 6 o'clock, covering the four miles upstream in 21 minutes. Over the last two miles the first boat was paced by the junior varsity.

The Eli first crew left the boathouse in Coach Ed Leader's launch and were carried half a mile above the railroad bridge where they took their positions in the shell which was towed by the launch. The Harvard varsity members watched the start of the time trial from beneath the bridge.

At the end of the first two miles the eight was timed in 10 minutes, 25 seconds. The oarsmen after starting at a comparatively high stroke moderated their pull and then picked up the beat at the finish. It was estimated that the average beat was around 31.

The combination eight and freshman boat went upstream after the varsity left the boathouse, in a series of four minute "runs." On the way back they were put through another "run" which ended off the Ferry with the freshmen almost a length ahead of the "combo" crew.

The seating of the combination boat which is being changed readily, underwent another new arrangement today. Heffern was placed at number six, in place of E. C. Brewster who took Littell's place at number four. S. H. Gillespie, diminutive substitute coxswain, started in the freshman boat in place of Conger who ran the shell in the morning workout.

TIGERS RALLY IN 8TH TO BEAT SENATORS

WASHINGTON, June 6—(AP)—Manager Johnson yanked Pitcher Hadley for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning and Washington apparently put the game on ice, but Detroit hopped on Hadley's successor, Ad Liska, for three runs and the ball game in the eighth. The score was 7 to 5.

WESTERLY

STATE LIBRARY ASS'N. MEETS AT LOCAL LIBRARY

The annual meeting was held in Westerly Thursday, of hte Rhode Island Libray association, in the Public Library building, Broad street. The treasurer of the board of trustees, James M. Pendleton, of Westerly Public library, officially welcomed Thursday morning, delegates who included representatives from all libraries of the state. Miss Adele C. Martin, librarian of Westerly Public library and president of the association, presided. Mr. Pendleton, in his welcome, reviewed the history of the Westerly library and recalled the large gift from Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Wilcox, which he said made it possible for the state librarians to assemble in Westerly for the meeting. The business meeting was held following the address by Mr. Pendleton and the following officers were elected: Mrs. Sara E. Sherman, Elmwood, president; Miss May V. Crenshaw, Newport, first vice president; Miss Florence G. Moulton, Pawtucket High school, corresponding secretary; Miss Grace H. Hall, Woonsocket, recording secretary; Miss Adele C. Martin, Westerly, Lawrence M. Shaw, Providence, and Miss Ruth Green, of the Commercial High school, Providence, members of the executive committee. The association voted upon recommendation of the chairman of the committee on relations with the state board of education, to start a campaign to secure the appropriation of an additional $3,000 by the state legislature for employing a field agent.

The state educational commissioner, Walter E. Ranger, declared that when he took office a number of years ago the appropriation by the legislature for school purposes was between $200,000 and $400,000 annually and today the appropriation is well over a million. Another speaker on the morning program was John Chancellor, readers' advisor at the Free Public library, New Haven, who discussed the subject "Helping Readers With a Purpose." The speakers in the afternoon were Miss Alice Haynes, branch librarian of Newark, N. J., public library, on "Supplementing Books With Museum Objects and Pictures," and Miss Ruth Coombs, of Providence, who gave an interesting report on the meeting of the American Library association held recently in Washington, D. C. Edward H. Dewey, of the department of English of Harvard university, gave the concluding address at 3 o'clock, his subject being, "The Development and Influence of the Psychological Novel."

Luncheon was served at 12:30 at Christ Episcopal church by women members of the church and in the evening the visiting delegates were guests of the local library association at supper on the beach at Misquamicut.

The time following adjournment of the program and supper on the beach was spent on automobile trips to the shore resorts and visiting other places of interest in Westerly and vicinity.

The association, which is 25 years old, met the last time in Providence, on Oct. 26, 1928.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS OPEN CONVENTION

The eastern association of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Thursday evening, began a four-day session at Pawcatuck Seventh-Day Baptist church. The session began with a devotional service at 8 and this is to be followed by informal sessions of various committees today (Friday) and devotional meetings Saturday and Sunday. Speakers will include some of the ablest workers of the church, while delegates will represent the Seventh-Day congregations of New Jersey and eastern New York as well as Rhode Island. Addresses by George B. Utter, president of the Eastern association, and Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of the Pawcatuck church were given Thursday night. The sermon was by Rev. William L. Burdick, of Ashaway. Saturday morning the principal speaker will be Rev. Harold Crandall of New York. Three pastors will speak Saturday afternoon, Rev. Willard Burdick, of Plainfield, N. J., who this summer will become pastor of the Rockville church; Rev. Avah Bond, Plainfield, N. J., and Rev. William L. Burdick, of Ashaway.

Reports of the several business committees, including that on officers for the ensuing year, will be presented Sunday morning. In the evening the final meeting will be held with Rev. Clarion N. Sherwood, of Boston and New York, as speaker. Mr. Sherwood is executive secretary of the national citizens' committee of 1,000 for law enforcement and extension secretary of the International C. E. society. His subject will be "Where Do We Go from Here?"

During the meetings delegates will be entertained at the homes of members of the congregation.

The Friday night prayer meeting will commence at 8 o'clock. The vesper service will be in charge of Rev. William M. Simpson, who will use a stereopticon. Rev. George B. Shaw will have charge of the remainder of the service. About 25 delegates are present from outside New England. The delegates from the churches and the other associations registered are: Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Van Horn, Dunellen, N. J.; Rev. and Mrs L. A Wing, Mrs Lena Crofoot, Berlin, N Y.; Rev. and Mrs. A. J. C. Bond, Dr. Theodore L. Gardiner, Rev. and Mrs W D Burdick, Mrs Alexander W. Vars, Miss Esther Vars, all of Plainfield, N. J.; Rev. George B. Shaw, Salem, W. Va.; Rev Edwin Shaw, Milton, Wis; Rev. and Mrs. Harold R. Crandall, Yonkers, N. Y.; Rev. E. F. Loofboro, Shiloh, N. J.; Miss Maude Ober, Miss Marjorie Burdick, Boston; Rev. H. L. Cottrell, Marlboro, N. J.; Mrs. Benjamin Crandall, Burton Crandall, Harvard university, Boston; Herbert L. Polan, Brookfield, N. Y.

BRADFORD WORKMAN LOSES THUMB AND FINGER

Thomas Coates, of 75 Bowling lane, Bradford, was seriously injured Thursday about 9 a. m., at the plant of the Bradford Dyeing association, when his hand became caught in the machinery. He was brought to Westerly by automobile and taken to the Anderson hospital, where Dr. J. Gordon Anderson found it necessary to amputate the right thumb and index finder.

FIREMEN'S MEMORIAL DAY TO BE OBSERVED SUNDAY

Firemen's Memorial day will be observed Sunday next, by members of Westerly fire department, who will place flowers on the graves of departed members and will hold memorial services in River Bend cemetery. Sunday morning a plant will be placed on the grave of every deceased fireman at the various cemeteries in Westerly, Stonington and Mystic. Rev. Byron U. Hatfield, pastor of the First Baptist church, will offer prayer and Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of Pawcatuck Seventh-Day Baptist church will [illegible] cemetery. The members of the various organizations will form on Union street at 2 o'clock and will march to the cemetery. The fire police will be at the right of the line to be followed by board of engineers, first aid squad, Alert Hook & Ladder company, Cyclones and the Rhode Island Ones. The music will be by Westerly Highland band. The Memorial day committee is headed by George Pendleton, chairman, and Charles O. Wills, clerk.

At the Pawcatuck Fire District meeting this week, sidewalk projects voted referred to the zoning board and district treasurer for their discretionary expenditure included: On the north side of Stillman avenue, form 79 to 105, on the north side of Garden street from Stillman avenue to Thompson street, on the northwest side of Stillman avenue to Arch street, and on both sides of Morton avenue and on Robbins street. Those left over will be given preference next year.

OBITUARY

Miss Elizabeth Schachner

Miss Elizabeth Schachner, for more than fifty years a well known resident of White Rock, died Wednesday night at her home on Main street in that village. She had been in ill health for some time. She was born in Germany, the daughter of George and Angelina Schachner. When a child, she came to this country with her parents, and resided in Fall River, Mass. The family came to Westerly about 50 years ago, and Miss Schachner has since then resided at White Rock. Surviving her are two brothers, George, of Westerly, and Joseph, of Pawcatuck, and a sister, Miss Della Schachner, of White Rock.

FUNERAL

Jeannette Margaret DeCales Roode

Thursday morning at 8:30, the funeral of Jeannette Margaret De Sales Roode was held from her home, 42 Liberty stret. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock, at St. Michael's church, by Rev. J. F. Quinn, with a large number of relatives and friends present, including the pupils of St. Michael's school, where the deceased was a member of the graduating class.

Burial was at St. Michael's new cemetery, where the committal services were also conducted by Fr. Quinn. The bearers were: Thomas Ryan, Daniel Ryan, James Ryan, James Shea, Jerome Shea and Raymond Mullaney. There were six honorary bearers: Lawrence Fyffe, Joseph Crowley, Leon Berube, John Donahue, Joseph O'Connell and Oscar Whitlock.

A miscellaneous shower Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Helen I. Keller, of 67 Granite street, was held, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Flynn, on Lanphear road. Miss Keller, whose marriage with Clarence Bilven, of Mystic, will take place at the church of the Immaculate Conception Wednesday morning, received many beautiful gifts. There were about 30 friends at the party and cards were played during the evening. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Flynn.

Robert Bruckner Camp, No. 5, of Rhode Island and its auxiliary, Tuesday night held a joint social and whist at Vets hall.

Cards were played during the greater part of the evening and a social time followed at which refreshments were served.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Knight, Mrs. Harold Fallon, Mrs. Elizabeth Burdick, John Griffin, John Dingwoodie and Joseph Sasgedolos.

Go On Honorary List

Pawcatuck Fire Co. No. 1 held its June meeting at Liberty street fire station Tuesday night. The resignations of John J. Donohue, James Ryan and John A. Shea were accepted and their names placed on the honorary list, all three having been chosen to the membership of board of engineers of Pawcatuck fire district. Three new members were chosen to the active list of the company. A committee was appointed to arrange for an annual clambake. George T. Lord was chosen secretary in place of John J. Donohue, resigned. Mr. Lord is one of the fire truck drivers and has been in active service over eighteen years.

Returns To Italy

After several months' visit in Westerly, Mr. and Mrs. John Catto, onetime residents, sailed Friday, June 1, from New York for Italy. They expect to return in October, and as understood will remain in the states thereafter. Arriving from Italy last October, Mr. and Mrs. Catto have been visiting their daughters, Mrs. Victor Gervasini, Mrs. Emma Croci, and Mrs. Charles Bianchi in Bradford and Westerly, and Mrs. Paul E. Bottinelle in Grantwood, N. J. Both return to Italy greatly improved in health.

FARM PROBLEM NOT TO BE SOLVED BY CONSOLIDATION

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

"Big Things in a Big Way." That's the slogan of the age.

There seems to be a belief in many quarters that thre is a real virtue in mere bigness.

"It's the biggest bank in the city." "It's the biggest steel mill in the state." "It's the biggest cotton factory in the country." "It's the biggest college on earth." People repeat these and similar remarks about these and other subjects, rolling them under their tongues as if there was satisfaction in the taste of anything big. The bigger, the more savory.

Well, if bigness is what the mob admires, you and I can't help it. So far as that goes, we needn't even resent it—so long as it keeps its barbaric yawp out of our back yards.

To be sure, it may make us smile a little, this assumption that the boulder is worth more than the pearl, because it is bigger. And it may lead some of us to remark that big things can be done in a big way only by big men—who are not as plenty as they might be, unfortunately. We may even be permitted to intimate that, when little fellows try to do big things in a big way, they are apt to produce big failures oftener than anything else.

But, after all, when any particular quirk becomes a national fad there's about as little use opposing it as there is in opposing the east wind. Both nuisances have got to blow themselves out, and the truly philosophic man is he who gets in the lee of some protection and waits till the clouds have rolled by.

Alas sames, this particular John Farmer lacks enough of the genuine philosophic spirit to sit down tamely when they begin brewing this "big-things-in-a-big-way" whoopee for farming and farmers.

It may be all right in big business—though I confess that I haven't noticed any clearly angelic wings sprouting from the shoulder-blades of Big Business. It may be economically efficient in Ford motor factories—though I understand there are other car manufacturers who do creditable jobs. It may be a fine thing in numerous other lines which you and I know little or nothing about. But when they undertake to sell the idea that the man who owns the biggest farm or turns out the biggest crop of wheat or sells the biggest cargoes of eggs is, necessarily, the best farmer on the best farm—then is the time I register a kick!

When it is a question of making fence-nails or flivvers or rayon "silk" stockings, I take a back seat and admit my ignorance. When it is a question of making money—that and nothing more—I also find it seemly to keep my mouth shut.

But, you see, farming isn't devoted to the production of fence-nails or flivvers or rayon "silk." Nor is it, primarily, undertaken with a view to getting rich. Nobody but a very inexperienced or an unduly sanguine man is likely to adopt farming as a means for making money.

The truth is that farming is something more than an industry; something more than a trade; something more than a business—it is a life, a life which rises above mere industy and mere business and mere money-making and has for its ultimate aim and crowning achievement the creation of happy homes for worth while men and women.

The making of such homes for such dwellers is not a factory job, to be done with automatic tools, in carload lots, with discounts for larger orders. It isn't work that can be let out by contract, nor even done by hired help. It is an absolutely individual and perhaps slightly personal matter. Not even the neighbors can help much in it. There may, perhaps, be room for debate as to the comparative values of intensive and extensive farming. But home-making and character-building are one-family jobs—always have been and always will be.

These who seek to make of the farm simply a cheap imitation of the shop or the factory or the department store forget this primary and fundamental difference. Shop, factory, store, these are each but the means used to reach a home outside of shop and factory and store. But the farm is the home, as well as the shop and the factory and the store.

The big ranch, with its thousands of acres in growing crops, its big ranch-house and its rows of barracks for the hired workers, seems to be a favorite subject for the writers of the professedly farm papers to enthuse over. You'd think, to read much of their stuff, that the solution of the farm problem lay in the absorption of small farms into big ones and the eventual extinction of the small farmer.

Some of us see in such an outcome not progress but degeneracy and decay. It is something to be dreaded, not desired. It is a surrender of the higher to the lower. It is a triumph of the gross and material over the fine and spiritual. It is a defiant assertion that the life is not more than meat, and the body is not more than raiment.

Let me tell you the story of the Fogles of Williamsburg, Kansas. They are farmers, father, mother, two sons and two daughters. They have a 90-acre farm, chiefly devoted to the production of milk and eggs, two ordinary farm staples.

Instead of taking their small farm and its commonplace product as merely something to make money with or from, the Fogles unanimously agreed to use it to make a home of. The first essential for that was a house—a home which should be something more than a earneck or a slightly modified barn—a house which should be made to live in, not merely to sleep and eat in.

But how were they to get a modernly equipped house from any possible income from their little place? Where was the money coming from to pay architects and masons and carpenters and plumbers and electricians? To buy materials, etc.?

The Fogles' answer was: "Let's use our own materials, and do the work ourselves."

So for three years they devoted themselves, man and woman, boys and girls, to the building of a house which should fitly enshrine a home. Timber was scarce and costly. But limestone was plentiful, both the clear white, akin to marble, and two stratified shades. So they built the house of stone, using wood only for interior finish. They were neither carpenters nor masons nor architects. But they planned out the house of their dreams, eleven convenient and "homey" rooms, laid the foundations, reared the walls, one stone at a time, securing them with artistically varied colors of cement, built the chimneys, put in the floors and partitions, installed a complete plumbing system and an equally complete electrical plant. Of course they had to buy the cement and the nails and the glazed windows and the heating and lighting fixtures, and some of the lumber. These things cost approximately $7,000. Against that bill stands the completed house, 50 by 34 feet, 30 feet high, with a 10-foot deep cellar dug down to solid rock, worth all of $20,000 in the assessment of realtors. The work is all done, the bills are all paid, and the house is in full occupancy.

That's what one farmer's family did on one 90-acre farm producing just the ordinary crops of such a holding. "I believe," said one of the family, "that we have shown here that the 'dream home' on a farm is not a myth; it is well within the means of any enterprising farmer. Our new home, being built from the proceeds of a small farm, is merely typical of what can be done on other farms. The only part of our house that is proving costly is the high grade of finish and the modern equipment and conveniences. But even the cost, including this equipment, does not place a modern home beyond the reach of ordinary endeavor. We are not masons, nor carpenters, nor architects, but just ordinary farmers.

"While we desired the very best of equipment in the house, and that has been expensive, the rough work is all within the means of every farmer," said Mr. Fogle. He added: "It is true that it sometimes takes several years to learn how to make a living on the farm, but work and good management will do it in the end, every time."

Now a 9,000-acre ranch wouldn't be considered notably big by the boomers of bigness. There are many in the west vastly larger. Yet a single 9,000-acre ranch would make 100 Fogle farms and furnish 100 Fogle families with opportunities to make 100 real homes, such as has been briefly described.

Perhaps there are those who would prefer the big ranch. What is your idea, brother reader?

Which do you think would be best for the community? Which for the country? Which for the men and women engaged in the management of the 9,000 acres?

Don't let's fall into the vulgar error that mere size indicates worth. If that were true, the desert of Sahara would be worth more than the Imperial valley and a ten-ton block of Barre granite worth more than a ten-carat diamond from Kimberley.

And, for the sake of our country and its future, don't let's accept the idea that the farm problem can be or is going to be solved by the absorption of the small farms into big and constantly bigger ones, and the turning of small, individual farmers into mere hired hands on the big estates.

That may be the easy and the popular road. But it leads straight to the City of Destruction.

READING CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. ELIZABETH MAINE

The Reading club met this week at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Maine on Pearl street. After an interesting period spent in reading refreshments were served by the hostess. A social hour followed.

There will be a meeting of Harrison Morton Ward post, American Legion this (Friday) evening.

John Loftus of New London was a business caller Wednesday.

Orlando A. Clark has returned to his home after several days spent at Fishers' Island.

Bernard Davis, Eli Schoonmaker, Alfred Ward and Merton Beebe attended a rehearsal of Rollinson's band in Mystic Tuesday evening.

The Silver Link Sewing society of the Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. Otto Hendrickson Wednesday afternoon. The afternoon was spent in sewing on patchwork after which refreshments were served.

Alden Rathbun has returned to New Haven after a visit with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rathbun.

Men employed on the roads by the town of Groton oiled and sanded the streets in the village Wednesday.

Smith Gildersleeve is confined to his home by illness.

Charter Draped.

Washington council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a meeting in their rooms on Front street Tuesday evening. There were a good attendance of members, also several out of town guests. The charter was draped for 30 days because of the death of a member, Dr. P. T. MacGown. After an interesting meeting a lunch was served by the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Sterne and family of New York have opened their summer cottage on Chesebro avenue for the season.

Busy at Yard.

The boat Ginger, owned by Capt. Philip Rowley of Niantic which has been hauled out on the ways at Rogers' boat yard was launched Wednesday. Repairs and painting on the Northern Light, owned by Camp Mystic, which has been stored at the yard all winter have been completed. The Grace and Ella, owned by Capt. Fred W. Buddington is on the ways for spring overhauling, also the Alice, owned by William Chappelle is at the boat yard for repairs. The Thelma B. owned by Capt. Chris Christensen was repaired and launched several days ago. Other small sailboats and craft are also receiving paint and repairs.

NORWICH MISSIONARY TALKS ON SO. AFRICA

A good delegation from the C. E. society attended the Union service held in Bozrah Congregational church Sunday evening and listened to the interesting address by Rev. Arthur C. Adams of Norwich, a missionary from South Africa. He gave a graphic account of his work there, in a different locality from Rev. Mr. Butler who recently gave an address here. Rev. Adams illustrated his talk with many curios made by the natives.

School Contest

Most of the teachers and pupils of the local schools attended the reading and spelling contest held in Lebanon Center Tuesday afternoon. Those representing the Goshen schools were School No. 9, Alice McGrath, reading and spelling; school No. 10, Helen Kostowich, reading, Mary Varnish, spelling; school No. 12, George Briggs' room, Fannie Werowick, reading, Alice Faulkner, spelling. Ten [illegible] were represented in the contest. The success[illegible] were Fannie Werowick and Alice Faulkner of school No. 12.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Randall entertained Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Hyde and Miss Clara S. Hyde of Lisbon, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Hyde and children, Ellsworth and Myrtice, of Jewett City and Miss Dorothy Davies.

Mrs. E. W. Jones, Edith and Donald Jones were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Abel in Bozrah Sunday afternoon and attended the Union service.

It was an unusual sight to see the big dirigible Los Angeles Tuesday afternoon. It looked to be traveling in a northward direction and was many miles west from this place. The Leviathan of the air looked from here very much like a big whale and had the motion of a boat on the water when there is a ground swell on.

MADE MAY BASKET GIFT TO THEIR SISTER-TEACHERS

The children who have been attending the Saturday religious school conducted by the sisters from St. Joseph's convent, Cliff street and held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holodowsky, presented their teachers a handsome May basket at the last Saturday session. It was filled with all sorts of goodies and beautiful wild flowers, also held a substantial gold piece. The sisters were greatly pleased with the children's thoughtfulness and appreciation.

Thomas Gibbs was recently called to Toronto, Canada because of the serious illness of his daughter, Miss Louise Gibbs.

Mrs. Robert Kinkead of Providence spent the recent holidays with relatives here. Mrs. H. Gibbs and Miss Marion Gibbs, Ralph Gibbs and John Gibbs were visitors at Roger William park Sunday, while motoring home with Mrs. Kinkead.

Miss Alice Buckley of New York was a recent guest of Mrs. F. H. Tracy.

COLUMBIA

The following pupils of the Center school had perfect attendance for May: Margaret Badge, Lois Clarke, Virginia Collins, Carol Lyman, Sylvia Price, Mary Szegda, David Hunt, Westcott Rice, Jasper Woodward and Vincent Mitchell.

Mrs. Junie Squiers and Miss Marie Bargtrede took their first airplane ride Sunday over Hartford and enjoyed it greatly.

Lett[illegible] received by fr[illegible]ds recently from Mrs. Duane Wain, state that they leave Portugal June 16 for their mission field in Angola, Portuguese West Africa. The trip will take them four weeks. Upon their arrival a new house is to be built for them. Rev. and Mrs. Wain are facing their chosen life work with enthusiasm and their friends here wish them God speed.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hutchins took a 300-mile motor trip Saturday last up the Hudson river.

Mrs. Robin Is Sure Welcome Is Crazy

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Could you yourself but truly see
A stranger would before you be.
—Old Mother Nature.

Welcome Robin couldn't get that stranger off his mind. He hadn't intended to go back to that window in Farmer Brown's house, but he couldn't keep away from there. No sooner had he picked up a few worms than he flew straight over to that window to see if the stranger was still there. As he approached the window he discovered the stranger also approaching it from the inside. Evidently he had come back to see if Welcome Robin was around.

Welcome flew at that pane of glass furiously. So did the stranger. They did their utmost to get at each other through that glass. They beat against it with their wings. They pecked at it with their bills. Welcome could never hear the other hit the glass, because he always hit it just when Welcome did.

Mrs. Robin, returning to the nest she was building, discovered Welcome apparently fighting nothing over the window sill of Farmer Brown's house. "What are you doing?" she called sharply.

Welcome paused for breath. The other paused at the same time. "I'm fighting that stranger," replied Welcome.

"What stranger?" asked Mrs. Robin.

"The one I told you was inside Farmer Brown's house," retorted Welcome.

"You're crazy!" declared Mrs. Robin. "You are crazy, Welcome Robin!" "I can look right into that window and there isn't any stranger there."

"You're crazy yourself!" retorted Welcome. "He is right inside here this minute."

"No such thing!" retorted Mrs. Robin. "I tell you, you are crazy! There isn't any stranger and there hasn't been any stranger."

"There is and there has been!" retorted Welcome, and once more began to beat at the window. The stranger on the inside did the same thing. They kept it up until Loth were exhausted. Finally Welcome felt that he had to go off for a little rest. He flew over beside Mrs. Robin.

"Show me that stranger," said Mrs. Robin.

Welcome looked back at the window. The stranger had disappeared. "He isn't there now," said he.

"He hasn't been there," declared

"I'm fighting that stranger," replied Welcome

Mrs. Robin. "You can see for yourself that from here we can look right into that window. There was no Robin inside while you were pecking and beating at that window."

"There was, too!" retorted Welcome. "Don't you suppose I know? I was right there."

Now, of course, you have guessed what had happened. Mrs. Robin was quite right. There was no stranger and there had been no stranger. Welcome Robin had been fighting his own reflection in the glass of that window. The light fell on that window in such a way that, from a certain position, Welcome could see his own reflection from a short distance away; and he could see it when he was on the window sill. But from the place where Mrs. Robin was sitting there was no reflection. So, of course, she didn't see anything. Do you wonder that she thought that Welcome was crazy? She was sure of it when presently Welcome once more flew back to that window and began to fight himself. Yes, sir, she was sure that Welcome Robin was crazy.
